CALL PRESIDENT A CATSPAW IN SUDETEN CRISIS

An Alliance to Rule World Is Result.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—In the wake of jubilation over peace in Europe, political appraisers are devoting moments of calmer reflection to a diagnosis of the Roosevelt foreign policy as manifested during the world shaking week of crisis.

The first reaction of President Roosevelt's more ardent supporters was that he, single-handed, had averted a world war by his personal appeals for peace and thereby had regained all the political ground lost since his reëlection in 1936.

These pretensions, which found no support in the historical record released in the form of a "white paper" by the British foreign office or in Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's speech to the house of commons, have subsided and the White House has remained eloquently silent since the Munich accord, peacefully dismembering Czechoslovakia.

Will Dominate World.

The opinion of senate isolationists, who regarded Mr. Roosevelt's note writing with skepticism, is that he is welcome to all the political capital he can make out of the Munich deal and what seems to be its certain outcome—a four power pact whereby Great Britain, Germany, France, and Italy will dominate Europe, and consequently the world.

Already Mr. Chamberlain and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany have signed an accord, pledging their countries never to go to war with each other. Negotiations are under way to bring France and Italy into the new alliance of power politics.

The senate appraisers believe that once again Mr. Roosevelt permitted himself to be used as a catspaw by Great Britain and once again found himself out on a limb that has been sawed off.

Kennedy Used as Tool.

This belief is based upon the known fact that Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador at London, was in constant communication with the British foreign office on the one hand and with Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the other, during the negotiations between Chamberlain and Hitler. Pressure was brought to bear upon Mr. Kennedy to enlist President Roosevelt's support.

The President's first appeal for a peaceful settlement by negotiation was dispatched Sunday night. Then on Tuesday Prime Minister Chamberlain suggested to Hitler the possibility of settling the Czechoslovak question at an international conference, and persuaded Premier Mussolini of Italy to put pressure on his friend Hitler to issue the invitations.

That afternoon King George VI. granted an audience to Ambassador Kennedy, who must have been told about the conference proposal. A few hours later, on Tuesday night, President Roosevelt dispatched his second note, to Hitler alone, proposing an immediate conference to avert a world war. On Wednesday Hitler issued the invitations.

Roosevelt Terms Spurned.

But the conference was not at all what Mr. Roosevelt had proposed. He suggested that the conference be held in "some neutral spot in Europe"—and Munich certainly could not be called a neutral spot.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested a conference of "all the nations directly interested," which certainly would have included Czechoslovakia, the nation about to be partitioned, and soviet Russia, which was ready to fulfill its mutual assistance engagements with Czechoslovakia if France did likewise. Instead the conference was limited to Germany, Italy, France, and Great Britain.

The senate isolationists declare that England used President Roosevelt and took full advantage of the prestige and moral support of the United States. Whether he was prompted to permit himself to be so used in the hope of receiving credit at home for averting a world war is a question on which the senators are speculating.

Recalls Stimson Dilemma.

But of one thing they are certain. That is that President Roosevelt was left out on a limb, just as Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was

ROOT PITCHES 10 TO 3 VICTORY; CLINCHES TITLE

World Series Opens Wednesday.

City Plans Welcome

A parade from Wrigley field to City hall and an official reception by Mayor Kelly, tomorrow morning will honor the Cubs, newly crowned champions of the National league. The procession, with the team leading, will leave the ball park at 11:30 a. m. The Cubs will arrive from St. Louis late tonight.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—Charley Root, whose fortieth birthday is just around the corner, this afternoon pitched the Cubs to the 1938 National league pennant.

The Cubs, after losing the first game to the Cardinals, 4 to 3, because of an eighth inning home run by Johnny Mize and assorted jitters in their own offense, came from behind to support old Charley's great pitching with a 10 to 3, seventeen hit victory. It was the happiest possible clincher of Chicago's fifteenth National league championship, the fourth to which Root has contributed his strong heart, strong arm and fine intelligence.

The sentimental note would have been stronger for old folks, of course, if Manager Gabby Hartnett had been able to catch. The clinching battery then would be the oldest in the majors—Charley, who joined the Cubs in 1926 and Gabby, who joined up four years earlier. But Gabby couldn't catch. He prowled the dugout nursing two terribly sore fingers, one split in the final game in Chicago Thursday and another jammed in the opener here yesterday.

Bear Root Aloft.

Gabby would have liked to have been in there at the finish for practical as well as emotional reasons. But he was at the head of the group that rushed to the mound and bore Root aloft after the last putout had been accomplished on a pop up to Bill Jurges, who presented the ball to Charley for the trophy room in his California ranch house.

Gabby will be in there next Wednesday to catch Bill Lee or Dizzy Dean in the world series opener against the New York Yankees in Wrigley field. "I'll start that game if they have to wheel me out with my hand in a cast," is the way Gabby feels about that matter.

The Reds Help a Bit.

The Cubs could have won the pennant several hours sooner if they had held a lead Vance Page had until two were out in the seventh inning of the first game. But it was much more thrilling to have the old gentleman win it. After all, Page didn't join the team till last Aug. 4.

Of course, the Cincinnati Reds helped immensely by beating the second place Pirates, 9 to 6, which increased the Cubs' lead to two games with one more to go.

Root's Eighth of Season.

Root in accomplishing his eighth 1938 victory, his 183d for the Cubs, yielded only eight hits, the first and last of which were scratches. The first was a double credited to Terry

Convict Crabb of Perjury in Bride Slaying

Pekin, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—A Circuit court jury tonight found James W. Crabb, son of a Delavan, Ill., banker, guilty of perjury. The penalty is one to fourteen years in the penitentiary. Crabb's attorneys said they would ask a new trial, and Judge Henry Ingram deferred sentence. Crabb's $17,500 bond was continued and he walked from the courtroom.

The perjury charge against Crabb, who is 22 years old, grew out of stories he told of the slaying of his bride, Betty Collison Crabb, 19, last March 1.

Bride Slain After Party.

Crabb and his bride of five weeks returned home intoxicated from a party, and she went to bed after a noisy scene, during which his father, Willis Crabb, called police.

A short time later, while the elder Crabb was talking from a window to the police, Betty was shot to death. At the inquest young Crabb said she shot herself. When he stepped from the witness stand he was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Manslaughter Jury Disagrees.

Then Crabb made a statement that his wife was slain while they grappled for a revolver. He was tried last May on a charge of manslaughter, but the jury disagreed and was discharged. The perjury trial began two weeks ago.

The jury began its deliberations at 2:35 p. m. today and announced the verdict at 6 p. m.

Crabb listened to the verdict without show of emotion. He glanced at his father, who was seated with his stepmother, Mrs. Catherine Crabb. Neither said anything. Crabb's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Crabb, the elder Crabb's divorced wife, wept silently.

CHAMBERLAIN LOSES UMBRELLA; DOWNING STREET IN AN UPROAR

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—While Germany's army marched forward in "peaceful conquest" of Sudetenland, Prime Minister Chamberlain's servants today searched his 10 Downing street residence from cellar to garret for his umbrella.

The umbrella, which accompanied Chamberlain on his three historic flights to Germany, eventually was found by the prime minister's chauffeur under a rug in his automobile.

Britain's "peacemaker" had left it there last night during the confusion of the public celebration which greeted his return from Munich.

Mints Ordered to Begin Coining Jefferson Nickels

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, announced today the mints at Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco had been instructed to begin coinage of the new Jefferson nickel. She advised coin collectors that the only places the new nickels will be available at first are the banks of the country. It is expected distribution to the banks will not begin until November.

'Sunshine' Browning Gives Birth to Second Child

Dunn, N. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A second child was born today to Mrs. Clarence B. Hood, the former Dorothy [Sunshine] Browning, heiress to the estate of the late Edward W. [Daddy] Browning, millionaire New York realtor. The child, a 10 pound girl, was born at the Hoods' modest bungalow home here. Their first child, Patricia Lane, celebrated her second birthday last July 21.

Reach Accord to Settle North Shore Strike

The way was cleared yesterday for resumption of service by the North Shore railroad, which has been shut down since Aug. 16 by a strike. Representatives of the road and of striking union employés signed a tentative agreement under which the men are to return to work. If no hitch develops, trains probably will be running over the rusted North Shore tracks within a week.

Members of the union, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés, will consider the agreement and vote on its acceptance today. One union meeting will be held in Waukegan in the afternoon and another in Milwaukee in the evening.

Judge's Approval Next Step.

If they give their consent, the matter will be presented to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for his approval. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the company, said he would draw up a specific contract for court action.

With these preliminaries out of the way, the road will call men back to work as fast as they can be used. However, the road's officers said that several days would be required to test equipment and make other necessary arrangements.

Offer Sliding Scale Contract.

The nature of the agreement was not disclosed. Federal Conciliators Robert M. Pilkington and Harry E. Scheck said terms would not be made public until the union vote is taken.

It was understood, however, that the workers would have to accept a contract calling for a sliding scale of wages to be governed by receipts of the road. Col. Sprague had ordered a 15 per cent wage cut in August and this precipitated the strike.

In all, some 1,300 employés were thrown out of work by the strike.

Warsaw Gets 300 Sq. Miles Along Border

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The government announced today that Czechoslovakia had capitulated fully to Poland's ultimatum demanding cession of the Teschen district in Silesia. The city of Teschen will be delivered to Poland by 2 p. m. tomorrow [7 a. m. central standard time].

Czechoslovakia accepted the Polish demands and delivered her answer a few minutes before expiration of a deadline which Warsaw had set. Previously, Prague had asked and obtained an hour's extension of the deadline of noon today [5 a. m., central standard time] for gratification of the demands set forth in a Polish note of Sept. 30.

The Polish government had threatened invasion of the area she claimed, and which Czechoslovakia had held since 1919. After the world war when both Czechoslovakia and Poland emerged as independent states they agreed to negotiate a boundary. Disorders caused the failure of a plebiscite attempt, however. Poland since has charged Czechoslovakia with treachery because Czech troops occupied a part of the territory in 1919 while Poland was at war with Russia.

Poland to Get 300 Square Miles.

As a result of the capitulation, Poland will receive within the next ten days an area of about 300 square miles with a population of about 100,000 Poles. The Teschen and Freistadt districts will be evacuated by Oct. 10.

Questions concerning delimitation of further territories and a plebiscite are to be settled by agreement between the two governments, it was announced.

A further settlement, it was said, included the release of Poles in the Czechoslovak army, and of Polish political prisoners from Czechoslovak jails.

Poles Cheer Victory.

Crowds poured into the streets of all Polish towns to cheer, wave flags, and demonstrate their joy.

Continuous celebrations took place all over the country, but were most enthusiastic in villages and towns adjoining the Czechoslovak border. In Polish Teschen, where the Olsa river has divided the town between Poland and Czechoslovakia for twenty years, all white and red cloth in the shops was purchased.

Every one wanted to have a Polish flag for tomorrow, when Polish troops will start across the bridge to occupy the Czechoslovak part of the town. Barricades erected by the Czechoslovaks on the bridge already had been

SUDETENS HAIL NAZI ARMY; HURL FLOWERS AT IT

Occupation Goes Off Without a Hitch.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION IN SUDETENLAND, Oct. 1.—With flying banners and bands playing gay marches, 30,000 German soldiers entered the Bohemian forest over a 40 mile front at 2 o'clock this afternoon. They were greeted with shouts of delight by the Sudeten people, who had decorated their houses with garlands and evergreens and erected triumphal arches to welcome the German troops. The soldiers were pelted with autumn flowers thrown by the residents.

The advance of these troops marked the beginning of the occupation of the first border zone of Sudetenland, which was handed over to Reichsfuehrer Hitler under the four power Munich agreement signed by Great Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. Three other border zones are to be occupied by the Germans by Oct. 10. Plebiscites then will be held in other areas of Sudetenland to determine their disposition.

Henlein Named Commissioner.

Tonight word was received from Berlin that Hitler had named Konrad Henlein, the "little fuehrer" of the Sudeten Germans, as reichscommissioner for Sudeten territory, effective tomorrow.

Hitler's decree entrusts Henlein with political, governmental, economic, and cultural "reconstruction" of Sudetenland as soon as the military administration ends following the occupation. The decree provides that Czech legislation will remain in effect throughout Sudetenland "so long as it does not contravene the spirit of occupation of these territories by the German reich."

Before midnight tonight the German forces had penetrated deeply into the Boehmerwald mountains and had reached the goal ordered by the German high command and agreed upon by the Czech-German military commission in Berlin—the valley of the Moldau. The Czech forces are just across the Moldau river, about a mile away. They offered no opposition to the German advance. Not a shot was fired.

A Poor Region.

The Bohemian forest plays an important part in German literature. Schiller picked it as the setting for his famous play, "The Robbers." It is a poor region of tiny villages and narrow deep woods between dark mountain-side forests above the Danube and the Inn rivers.

It is not far from here—on the Austrian side of the border—that Reichsfuehrer Hitler was born and dreamed of a resurrected German empire without knowing that he would be the man to make this dream a reality.

On the German side of the frontier roads leading to Czechoslovakia had been repaired and broadened in recent weeks to prepare for this day. Over these roads lumbered armored cars and trucks full of soldiers, the signal corps and the engineer corps. Alpine regiments forged ahead with heavily loaded mules.

Clear Away Czech Barricades.

When the army entered Czech territory the only ones who had to work hard were the engineers. They had to clear away the barricades and tank traps the Czechs had erected in recent weeks. The Czechs had cemented heavy iron rails firmly into the ground across side roads to hold up possible invaders.

The entire region was placed under strict military control by the Germans. Foreign correspondents who traveled with the army of occupation were warned that they must not stray away from independent observation under penalty of arrest.

The foreign group under German guidance crossed into Czechoslovakia at Sarau and witnessed the enthusiasm of the burly and ruddy cheeked mountain folk, who believe that now their country will become as prosperous as the mythical rich Germany which so few of them really know but of which they and their forebears have dreamed for centuries.

Only one incident was reported. This occurred in Neuhof, where a

Czech lieutenant and ten men barricated themselves in a house and announced that they preferred to die rather than to surrender. The Germans hope that by tomorrow it will be possible to convince them of the futility of their gesture and thus avoid bloodshed.

The troops now hold a forty mile line stretching from the Tafelberg hills to Friedberg. They are billeted in villages or are bivouacing with big camp fires blazing on the bank of the Moldau river. German soldiers' songs are echoing over the countryside, with the Sudetan villagers listening eagerly to their new countrymen.

The Germans encountered one serious difficulty. They found the roads in such condition that it was advisable to send part of the troops back into Germany. As THE TRIBUNE correspondent was slowly motoring up the road from Passau to Freyung, she suddenly was confronted by a tangle of motor vehicles laboriously maneuvering in the dark.

Storm Sweeps Area.

A steady drizzle of rain which started late in the afternoon had turned into a northwestern storm and the area was blanketed in a thick fog. The road, after countless heavy vehicles had rolled over it all day, turned into a stream of mud. On one side it was flanked by a deep ditch, while the other side fell off steeply far down into the valley.

Orders had been issued that no lights were to be shown on any vehicles. The trucks, tractors, and field guns that were being moved into the newly conquered territory suddenly met a caravan of similar units returning to Germany. It taxed the skill of the drivers to the utmost, because the road was barely wide enough to allow two trucks to pass abreast.

The German troops advanced in five columns, slowly and carefully at first, because it was still feared that the Czechs might offer last minute resistance. They were reassured, however, when Czech officers, waving white flags, stepped forward and announced that their forces had withdrawn and that the way was open for the German advance. Until the end of the occupation, the Czech-German military experts plan to keep a no man's land a few miles between the advancing Germans and the retreating Czechs.

Prepare to Occupy Eger Area.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MITTERTEICH, on the Czechoslovak-German Border, Oct. 1.—With flowers in their button holes, their caps at jaunty angles, and their steel helmets packed away, the gray clad soldiers of Nazi Germany reached Mitterteich from Regensburg late this afternoon to prepare for the occupation of Egerland, in the Sudeten area, next week.

A group of American correspondents drove from Regensburg toward the Czech border with an American flag on the hood of their car. German infantrymen marched along the road, singing gaily, with field kitchens and anti-aircraft guns following. In every little village along the route were soldiers ready to fall into line. Since last Thursday the soldiers had been quartered in the villages, waiting for orders.

In Mitterteich the troops settled for the evening. In this small town's only tavern, the White Lamb, they happily drank beer and played cards while waiting for the order to march across the border.

Await Troops Impatiently.

The American correspondents motored on, crossing the border at Wies. In Eger, which has been evacuated by the Czechs, anxiety still reigns. The Nazi Free Corps [volunteers] controls the city. The Sudeten German inhabitants said "we have only one wish—that the German troops get here soon."

Shortly after the correspondents left Eger to return to Germany their car was stopped by two men in civilian clothes, with rifles slung over their shoulders and badges of the Sudeten Free Corps on their arms. They were chasing a Czech, who, they claimed, had fired into a group of children this morning. They demanded a ride. Shortly before the car reached the German border they got out and disappeared into the woods to continue their manhunt.

Shortly after midnight tonight German troops are scheduled to cross the border into Czechoslovakia from Saxony. They will occupy zone two, around Zinnwald.

Refugees Return Home.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KLINGENTHAL, Saxony, on the Czech-German Border, Oct. 1.—Since the agreement was signed for German troops to occupy part of Sudetenland, many of the 200,000 Sudetans who fled to Germany have been streaming back toward the border on foot, on bicycles, in buses and in automobiles. Thousands pack the little villages on the German side of the border.

The population of eastern Germany had been preparing to follow the German troops across the border as a Sunday sightseeing excursion. The army chiefs put an end to this hope by ordering all but Sudeten refugees to stay out of the occupied area.

"Only Sudeten refugees, the usual border trafic, and persons who can produce certificates of trustworthiness of the local police offices are allowed to cross the border," the order said.

It is reported that the retreating Czech army blew up three bridges spanning the river Lausur near Grundgeorgenthal. German reports said the explosions "wounded a number of Sudetens who were not warned beforehand and badly damaged houses in the vicinity."

The killing of three Sudetens by Czech soldiers was reported from Olbersdorf, on the Moravian-Silesian frontier. It was stated that when Sudeten refugees returned to this "liberated area" Czech soldiers attacked them.

Hitler Greets Sudeten Women in Berlin

Arriving in Berlin from Munich yesterday Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler warmly greeted a group of women of newly acquired Sudeten region wearing clothing characteristic of their home territory. The chancellor received one of the greatest ovations of his career.

GERMAN AND FRENCH JOIN IN PEACE FETES AS FEAR OF WAR ENDS

PETITE-ROSELLE, France, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The strained atmosphere along the French-German frontier which accompanied the recent war threat gave way today to a spirit of international comradship.

In the Forbach mining region German and French miners gathered on their respective sides of the border. They discussed news of the four power Munich accord which settled the Czechoslovak-German dispute.

They shouted "Long Live Peace!" On each side buildings were decorated with national flags. At one mining center French employers donated hundreds of bottles of wine to miners for a celebration. The miners shared it with workers on the German side of the frontier.

BATHURST, Gambia, West Africa, Oct. 1.—[U. P.]—A depot ship and an airplane were sent out today to search the South Atlantic for a German Lufthansa seaplane. The plane was several hours overdue on a flight from Brazil to this British colony. It was last heard from when it reported its position eighty miles off the African coast.

Beck Addresses Throng.

This afternoon a huge massmeeting was held in Pilsudski square in Warsaw. Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck told the throng: "It is not our nature to harm any one. But justice and right must be respected. An important problem has been settled today."

The crowd then marched to the residence of Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, "strong man" of Poland, who said: "The same joy that you feel and manifest also fills my heart." He finished with the shout: "Long live Poland," a cry which was taken up by the crowd filling all the streets surrounding his home.

WINDSOR 'NEVER LOST HOPE FOR PEACE,' AID SAYS

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor "never lost hope" during Europe's war crisis, the duke's equerry said tonight in a message published in the Sunday Dispatch. The newspaper said the statement was received in response to an invitation to the duke at Cap D'Antibes, France, to send "a message to the people of Britain at their time of rejoicing after the days of crisis."

"His royal highness does not feel inclined to make a statement, but you can well imagine how relieved he feels," the duke's equerry replied. "You may be sure he has been following the course of events with the closest possible attention and anxiety.

"His royal highness has never lost hope as he had an unqualified confidence in the prime minister [Chamberlain] although there seemed but slender hope of success."

HUNGARY DISPLEASED BY MUNICH ACCORD; TO DEAL WITH PRAGUE

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Premier Bela Imredi today expressed dissatisfaction with the Munich accord. The Hungarian cabinet decided to demand that Czechoslovakia "start without delay" minority negotiations with Hungary.

"Hungary persists in demanding the righ of self determination and equal treatment of all nationalities in Czechoslovakia," Imred said in a broadcast.

He did not, however, disclose how Hungary intended to accomplish its demands. He appealed to the nation to be united and "ready for every eventuality."

[The Munich accord provided that Britain, France, Germany, and Italy should meet within three months to settle the question of Hungarian and Polish minorities in Czechoslovakia, if no agreement were reached before.]

Government officials said Hungary could not present an ultimatum to the Czechs as Poland did because Jugo-Slavia and Rumania were prepared to invade Hungary were she to attack Czechoslovakia.

HITLER IS GIVEN WILD OVATION BY BERLIN CROWDS

Cheered as Conqueror on Return from Munich.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Church bells pealed throughout Germany today as Reichsfuehrer Hitler returned to Berlin from Munich, where the four power conference signed the agreement giving him Sudetenland. As a result of the Munich pact, Nazi Germany proudly boasts it now will have 80,000,000 inhabitants. It was reported tonight that Hitler would make a triumphal entry into Czechoslovakia at Eger Monday.

Berlin greeted its leader with enthusiasm. Hundreds of thousands of people cheered him wildly. The Fuehrer stood on a balcony of the chancellery to receive the ovation. Hitler told Nazi leaders the greatest day of his life was Thursday in Munich, when with Premier Mussolini, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, and Premier Edouard Daladier he secured "the liberation of a new territory without war" and prepared a "new European peace."

Called Test Case.

The solution of the Sudeten German problem was a test case, the Hamburger Fremdenblatt said.

"In Munich a territorial revision was prepared through the peaceful coöperation of the leading European powers," the paper declared. "This means much for the future.

This was a hint that Germany intends to continue to work "by peaceful negotiations" until the last vestiges of the Versailles treaty have been eliminated. The question of colonies already is being moved into the foreground.

"That a powerful nation of 80,000,000 people living together in one compact zone should find the thought of being deprived of its colonial mission is unbearable will be understood in England," the Fremdenblatt continued. "The system of consultation which Hitler and Chamberlain agreed upon in Munich will make it possible to come closer to new goals."

"New Start for Europe."

The paper described the Munich pact as a "new start for Europe." It expressed jubilation because, it said, the policy of the other powers of encircling Germany, as evidenced in the military alliances between Moscow, Paris, and Prague, is finished.

"The ring is broken because any kind of military alliance for Prague is incompatible with the neutrality that is to be given to the remaining rump state of Czechoslovakia through the international guarantee," the paper said.

Neighborly relations between Germany and the new Czechoslovak state, "the borders of which will be known in a few weeks," are possible only if "Prague completely changes her foreign policy and breaks with soviet Russia in fact and in spirit."

It added that "England is not giving her promise to guarantee the Czech border with the intention of allowing errors like those of Benes [President Eduard Benes] to draw her into all kinds of complications."

British Troops and Planes Battle Palestine Arabs

JERUSALEM, Oct. 1.—(AP)—British troops, planes, and police today fought a big concentration of Arabs in the Ramallah district, north of Jerusalem. Forty Arab casualties were reported.

MAESTRO TOSCANINI CANNOT LEAVE ITALY; COPS TAKE PASSPORT

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 2 [Sunday].—[U. P.]—Arturo Toscanini, conductor, cannot leave Italy because his passport has been withdrawn by Milan police, it was learned from a reliable source today. Police took Toscanini's passport four or five days ago. He is a subject of Italy, his native country, and cannot leave unless the passport is restored.

Arturo Toscanini.

The action was taken because of the maestro's anti-Fascist attitude expressed abroad, it was reported. He was alleged to have been even more outspoken lately in his attacks on Fascism. Toscanini's difficulties with the Fascists started in the early days of Premier Mussolini's rule. In 1926, announcing that he would not mix politics and music, the maestro withdrew from La Scala theater in Milan.

Toscanini came to Milan to say farewell to his daughter, Countess Castelbarco, before returning to the United States. It was understood he was still in Milan. He can move about freely within Italy.

JAPAN CHEERS HITLER ON TO NEW CONQUESTS

TOKIO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Japan's war minister, Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, tonight telegraphed Reischfuehrer Hitler "profound felicitations on the brilliant success achieved by Germany in the Czechoslovak issue."

The message was considered further evidence of Japan's desire for close relations with Germany, with which she is bound by the German-Italian-Japanese anti-communist pact.

"We pray that your country will make further development in its national fortunes and expect that the friendship between the two armies and the two countries, which are bound closely by the anti-communist principle, will be strengthened further," Gen. Itagaki said.

COL. M'CORMICK REFUTES CHARGE OF SEN. MINTON

Attributes Mud Slinging to Tribune Exposures.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in a radio address yesterday replied to the series of attacks upon him and this newspaper by Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.]. The address was broadcast at 1 p. m. over the red network of the National Broadcasting company.

Finding the charges of the senator without basis of fact, Col. McCormick asserted the real cause of Minton's mud slinging lay in THE TRIBUNE's increasingly successful exposure of the alliance of crime and politics in Indiana.

The text of Col. McCormick's speech follows:

"Some months ago Sherman Minton, the GPU senator from Indiana, began attacking THE TRIBUNE in the senate and in radio broadcasts. The burden of his complaint was:

"First, that THE TRIBUNE was promoting a bill to permit newspaper censorship of radio.

"Second, that THE TRIBUNE was opposing a bill he had introduced to create a new form of criminal libel.

"Third, that THE TRIBUNE was a great beneficiary of the second class postal law.

Here Are the Facts,

"The facts are:

"That THE TRIBUNE never, at any time, either editorially or otherwise, proposed a newspaper censorship of radio.

"That while many newspapers attacked the senator's bill THE TRIBUNE did not.

"That THE TRIBUNE is not a beneficiary of the second class postal law. Only four per cent of its circulation is transported by second class post. Less than one per cent of THE TRIBUNE expenses are found in its postal bills, so that if the second class postage rate were to be doubled the cost to THE TRIBUNE would be infinitesimal.

"THE TRIBUNE has repeatedly stated its position in the matter. Its last editorial said:

"'The newspapers and magazines of this country are not entitled to, and of course should not receive any subsidy, open or concealed, from the government. A subsidized press is not a free press. The postal charges should fully compensate the government for the costs of the services rendered.

Political Talking Point.

"'In Washington there is a disposition to leave the rates as they are and thus give the politicians a talking point. They can accuse newspaper and magazine publishers of themselves imposing a deficit on the government while denouncing the unbalanced budget. Rather than give the politicians this opportunity to sling mud, we would prefer to have the second class privilege abolished.

"'We could find other means of distributing the papers now sent through the mails, and by doing so we would avoid a good deal of burocratic meddling and might save money besides.

"'The repeal of the second class law might work needless injury to smaller and weaker publications. It is only fair to them, and, indeed, to all concerned, that the facts regarding the costs of second class mail and the revenues from it be ascertained. An honest accounting would put an end to the subsidy, if there is one, and to the mud slinging.'

Exposure Basis of Attacks.

"The alleged reasons for Senator Minton's bitter public attacks on THE TRIBUNE having been found without basis, it is necessary to look for the real cause. This is readily found in THE TRIBUNE's continuous and increasingly successful exposure of the alliance of crime and politics in Indiana.

"In our exposure of the alliance of crime and politics in Indiana we went, of course, to the records.

"In his reply to our charges Senator Minton avoided the issue and tried to change the subject by attacking THE TRIBUNE. In so doing, of course, he did not go to the records, because there are no records to go to. He picked up and rebroadcast the vaporings of some ex-newspaper men who, having been driven from their profession because of unreliability and other defects of character, have sought a parasite existence upon the profession by abusing it.

"A man who calls in a gang of perjurers to attest his signature need not complain if he is suspected of forgery.

Not in Charge in 1911.

"In particular, he recites a number of alleged episodes in the circulation department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in the year 1911, twenty-seven years ago.

"It is well known to all newspaper men in Chicago—for that matter in the country—that in 1911 I was not editor, publisher, nor business manager of THE TRIBUNE.

"The first two positions were then held under contract by James Keeley, a newspaper man of twenty years' experience, and then in the prime of life. The latter was held by William H. Field, another competent and experienced newspaper man.

"I had not been brought up in the newspaper. It was not contemplated by any one that I ever would enter the newspaper. The events which led to my entering it three years later were not in sight.

"I was in fact beginning the practice of law.

Drew Employés Pension Plan.

"The only service I can find that I rendered THE TRIBUNE in that year was in drawing up THE TRIBUNE'S pension plan for its superannuated employés. When I consider the many people who were enabled to end their days in financial comfort, through my efforts, I am glad to have the year recalled to memory.

"So, easily, does Senator Minton's labored assault fall to the ground. If I were considering only myself I would leave it there. In fact I might gain some glory by permitting the picture of a gang of ruffians to stand out against the organization of home owning, family men who now distribute THE TRIBUNE under my direction.

"But that would leave the accusation to stand against the names of two men who are now dead and cannot speak for themselves. It was against dead men, and knowingly against dead man, that Senator GPU Minton cast his poisoned arrows of falsehood.

Delivery Basis Changed.

"The facts, as I have ascertained them to be, were that until 1911 THE TRIBUNE was sold by subscription and delivered exclusively to the homes. In 1911 Mr. Keeley decided to add sales on the streets, and to reduce the retail price of the paper from two cents to one cent a copy.

"As THE TRIBUNE had no organization to perform this function, one had to be improvised. We were not in the Roosevelt depression then. Employment was high, and the organization had to be made up of such men as presented themselves.

"The street sales were extremely successful and the organization had to be expanded rapidly. Among the newcomers there were undesirables. There were brawlers and there were embezzlers. As fast as these men were caught they were discharged . . . and when upon Mr. Keeley's leaving THE TRIBUNE to assume the proprietary editorship of the Record-Herald in 1914, I found, when I was called to executive position in THE TRIBUNE, a skillful, conscientious organization.

Relates Hoary Falsehoods.

"In his efforts to discredit THE TRIBUNE Mr. Minton retails some hoary falsehoods about Mr. Annenberg, the circulation manager.

"Mr. Annenberg, having left THE TRIBUNE at the time I assumed complete responsibility for it, does not properly belong in this controversy. But since he has been dragged in and has no forum in which to defend himself, I will say that the senator's statements were without basis in fact and in particular, that Mr. Annenberg did not ever shoot, or shoot at, an officer or employé of a competing newspaper.

"If Mr. Annenberg and Mr. Field had wished to indulge in any dishonest practices, they did not have to confine themselves to the small change of newspaper circulation.

"Mr. Patterson and I went to the war in the spring of 1917 and left our reputations and our property in the hands of these men, and of Mr. Edward S. Beck, the managing editor. Nobody could guess how long we might be gone, whether either of us or both of us would come back, or whether we would be in condition to resume affairs if we did.

Pays Tribute to Associates.

"If ever an opportunity for dishonesty was presented to any men, that was the time. They responded by conducting the enterprise with a zeal, an efficiency, and a success to which I am glad to have an opportunity to pay a public tribute.

"Mr. Field is dead. Mr. Annenberg left here twelve years ago and still remains my valued friend. The only thing about him that I do not approve is that he is an ardent New Dealer. He is also a close friend of President Roosevelt, and places store upon a photograph of the President autographed in affectionate terms.

"The story of the murder of Alfred Lingle is well known to all newspaper readers of Chicago, as far as it is known outside of the circle of the murderers.

"On June 9, 1930, Alfred Lingle was shot and killed in the pedestrian subway passing under Michigan avenue at Randolph street. The killer dropped the pistol and fled. It was a typical gangland murder, and performed in such a way as to indicate that it meant to inspire terror as well as kill the victim.

A Threat from Gangland.

"We were confronted by a threat from gangland—at that time, during prohibition, at the height of its power and at a time when the alliance of crime and politics was as close in Illinois as it is today in Indiana.

"We are prone to think of gangland as we do of communism, as something that cannot happen here. It had happened here to us. We were faced with the alternative of running away from it or fighting it. We chose the latter, as we have chosen to fight New Deal-communism.

"Alfred Lingle was one of the police reporters of THE TRIBUNE, whose duty it was to report on the conduct of the police and the criminals against whom they were pitted. As such he was one of the intelligence department of the public in its war on crime and crime's alliance.

"In the efforts to solve the murder every possible motive for murder was explored and none was found. Lingle's personal friends were reputable. No charge of any kind was ever placed against him with THE TRIBUNE or elsewhere.

"THE TRIBUNE and two other newspapers posted rewards for the arrest and conviction of his slayer.

"State's Attorney Swanson assigned Detective Pat Roche to the case. THE TRIBUNE furnished Attorney Charles Rathbun and Reporter John Boettiger to assist Roche.

"After an investigation covering seven months, one of the most thrilling as well as intellectual in the whole history of crime, these men arrested Leo Brothers. He was identified by eight people; tried before a judge and jury; convicted and sent to prison. Brothers, a professional murderer, has never to my knowledge divulged the name of the person who paid him for the crime.

"In the absence of any facts whatsoever, people have speculated on the cause of the crime, and their conjectures naturally followed the course they would have pursued if they had been in Lingle's place.

The Possible Motives.

"If, in his place, they had found some evidence against gangsters and were about to present it to the authorities, they think Lingle was killed for that.

"If, in his place, having acquired such evidence, they would have used it to blackmail, they think that.

"The story I have told so briefly is recounted brilliantly and in great detail in a book, "Jake Lingle, or Chicago on the Spot," by John Boettiger, published by E. P. Dutton.

"In an effort to injure THE TRIBUNE, Senator Minton has called the son-in-law of the President [Boettiger] a liar. For the same purpose he intimated that a friend of the President was a murderer.

"THE TRIBUNE printed these attacks. If Senator Minton's bill had become law it could not have done so. It is better to print falsehoods and refute them than to let them be whispered around.

Quotes from Jefferson.

As Jefferson once said:

"'We are not afraid to tolerate any error so long as reason is left free to combat it,' which may be expressed in another way, in a language better known to the alliance of crime and politics:

"The senator asks if Al Capone was at one time on THE TRIBUNE'S pay roll. Al Capone never was on THE TRIBUNE's pay roll.

"Lingle dead—Brothers in the penitentiary—years passed—and a new criminal, Dillinger, appears upon the scene. His lawyer was Louis Piquette, who was the lawyer of Leo Brothers, the murderer of Lingle. It may well be that when we have solved the mystery of Dillinger we will be able to solve the mystery of Lingle.

"As I said in a previous broadcast, Dillinger, after having twice been allowed to escape from the Indiana jails, and never having been arrested in that state, was shot down and killed from behind, when unarmed, by Indiana state police and federal agents, so that the secret of his immunity from Indiana law would not be disclosed. If there was any way that I could extract the truth from these men I would do so, but I have no such power. The man who has this power is Senator Minton. As a boss of the Indiana state machine he can obtain the truth from the state policemen. As a member of the United States senate he can obtain it, if necessary by subpena, from the federal agents.

"When he has done this and bared the truth as to why Dillinger was silenced, he will absolve himself of suspicion of complicity."

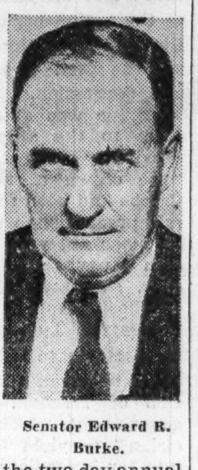
SENATOR E. R. BURKE TO SPEAK THURSDAY ON LABOR RELATIONS



Senator Edward R. Burke.

United States Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska is to be the speaker at a luncheon of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce next Thursday noon in the Stevens hotel. Mr. Burke's subject will be "Labor Relations at Home and Abroad." It is expected that a large and representative group of Chicago business men will be present.

The luncheon, with Senator Burke as speaker, will be the outstanding feature of the two day annual meeting of the state's chamber of commerce, Wednesday and Thursday.

Senator Burke's address is expected to reflect his observations on the status of labor in Europe as well as to comment on the Wagner act and the current administration of the National Labor Relations board.

FORMER FOLLIES GIRL'S PLEA FOR ALIMONY DENIED

Judge Robert C. O'Connell of the Superior court yesterday refused to grant Mrs. Dorothea Joy Brown, a former Follies beauty, temporary alimony while she is appealing a decision denying her separate maintenance from Howard M. Brown.

On July 17, Judge John J. Lupe dismissed the separate maintenance suit. Judge O'Connell held that if he allowed alimony he would be reversing Judge Lupe's order.

Boy Hurled from Light Pole by Shock; Fractures Skull

Joseph Palazzo, 15 years old, 852 North Christiana avenue, was critically injured last evening when he climbed a light pole near his home and touched a high voltage wire. The shock caused him to lose his balance and he fell, striking his skull and fracturing it. Policemen took the boy to the Franklin boulevard hospital.

BRITISH CABINET SHAKEN; NAVAL CHIEF RESIGNS

Says He Distrusts Policy of Chamberlain.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alfred Duff Cooper.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, resigned from the British cabinet today in protest against Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's foreign policy. Duff Cooper said he distrusted this policy.

It was the most important of several discordant voices in the chorus of praise while Chamberlain was resting and preparing for a visit to Premier Mussolini — supposedly in the next week or so—to have a new try at settlement of Mediterranean questions, through the Anglo-Italian treaty negotiated last spring if possible.

Chorus of Criticism Grows.

As political leaders begin to get their breath back after the sudden shock of relief at finding there is no war this week-end, blasts against Chamberlain are beginning to come from all sides. But the resignation of Duff Cooper, one of the staunchest of Tories, is a real blow to Chamberlain.

Conservative criticism is based on the idea that Chamberlain in the four power Munich accord, sacrificed British interests rather than on any alleged betrayal of the Czechs.

In his letter announcing his resignation, Duff Cooper said:

"It is extremely painful to me in the moment of your great triumph to strike a discordant note. For reasons with which you are acquainted and which I propose to explain to the house of commons in due course, I profoundly distrust the foreign policy which the government is pursuing and seems likely to pursue.

Resignation Is Accepted.

"Feeling as I do, I have considered that loyalty and honor demand I should offer you my resignation. I do so with profound regret because I have been so proud to hold my present office, the one I have envied beyond all others in the state."

He ended with an expression of gratitude for Chamberlain's confidence, kindness, and patience.

Chamberlain replied that he received the resignation "with great personal regret," and added:

"But knowing you are sincerely convinced that the foreign policy of the present government is mistaken, I agree with you in thinking that it would not be proper for you to remain a member of the government."

He concluded with thanks and an assurance that there will be "no breach in our personal relations."

Await Assault in Commons.

Duff Cooper called on King George VI. of Great Britain this afternoon to confirm his resignation. On Monday he is expected to lead an assault on Chamberlain's policies in the house of commons.

The debate there is expected to last at least three days, though it is considered most unlikely that anybody could succeed in getting a vote of censure—a formal expression of disapproval—against Chamberlain now.

Even as Chamberlain was receiving an unprecedented personal ovation last night, however, critics began to appear and several newspapers today expressed fears he will find that Hitler had sold him a gold brick.

Denies "Peace for Generation."

Harold G. Nicolson, national labor member of parliament, took a shot at the premier, charging the cabinet had not approved his agreement.

"We have not achieved peace for a generation," he said. "We have achieved it for only six months."

Chamberlain, he said, was "ill advised" by the so-called "inner cabinet," consisting of Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary; Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir Samuel Hoare, home minister. They were the only cabinet members in constant consultation with Chamberlain during the difficult moments.

Nicolson called attention to the fact that Chamberlain disregarded the official diplomatic adviser, Sir Robert Vansittart, in favor of Sir Horace Wilson, industrial adviser to the foreign office, though Vansittart was "consistently right in all he has said."

"It was mobilization of the British fleet which at the eleventh hour threatened to break the Rome-Berlin axis," Nicolson said. "It was at this moment, had the prime minister realized it, that we held all the cards in our hands. Had the prime minister exploited his advantage he would have obtained peace with honor. He did not, however, understand the psychology of Germany and Italy and surrendered to them at the very moment when surrender was the least necessary."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the liberal group in parliament, warned that "if war has been averted, peace has not yet been established." In a speech last night he said "immense injury has been done to the cause of peace and security."

Sir Norman Angell told a meeting the Munich pact was a "disgraceful surrender."

Sees British Star Fading.

Duff Cooper is objecting from a totally different viewpoint. He and many other Tories feel Chamberlain has abdicated Britain's place as the dominant country in Europe and that this will mean further concessions and further surrenders until Germany is undisputed master.

Other ministers mentioned as dubious about Chamberlain's policies and who might decide to follow Duff Cooper's lead are Earl De La Warr, lord privy seal; Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, and W. S. Morrison, minister of agriculture and fisheries.

If the Tory opposition proves to be serious, Chamberlain probably will call a general election at once in an effort to cash in on his popularity before it wanes, so the Conservative party will be installed for five years more. Five local elections, in which four government seats are involved, will be held this fall. They probably will be relied upon as a barometer.

Defiance of Czechs Fades as Poland, Too, Wins Demand

PRAGUE, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The capital of the Czechs and the Slovaks suddenly lost all militant fervor today as the nation began lopping off frontier zones on the north, the south, and the west. It was a city of gloom and depression.

Prague was quiet, in sharp contrast to the angry demonstrations previously against what was called "the crown of thorns" which the Czechs had been forced to accept. Air raid precautions were called off.

It was not wise to speak in a foreign language on the streets, however, so strong was the feeling of Czechoslovaks that they had been "betrayed" by their foreign friends.

Begin to Leave Teschen.

Czechoslovak troops began evacuation of Teschen, Silesia, after the government "took this painful decision" to yield to Poland's ultimatum for immediate cession of part of that northern border zone. That area, rich in coal and minerals, is the home of a Polish minority of 100,000.

An official communique explaining the cession of Teschen said the cabinet, after detailed deliberations, was "constrained by circumstances resulting from the decision at Munich" to accept Poland's ultimatum of Friday.

Political Leaders Agree.

"The government took this painful decision in full accord with responsible persons of the political parties," the communique added. "It took it conscious of the fact that any other decision would have provoked new and painful complications."

[A Polish communique issued in Warsaw said Teschen was to be occupied by Polish troops by 2 p. m. (7 a. m. central standard time) today.]

The government decided to create a mixed commission to settle the problems raised by yielding Teschen to Poland. Amputation of that territory was a particularly heavy sacrifice, since it involved cutting railway communications between Germany and Slovakia.

Creates Frontiers Committee.

The government decided also to create a special committee to deal with financial and juridical matters arising from the creation of new frontiers.

Even when the Teschen decision was made, Czechoslovakia was fulfilling her reluctant promise to the four powers represented in the Munich conference by withdrawing proud fighting men from the area of Krumau in the southwest. That is "zone No. 1" under the plan for the progressive Czech evacuation of Sudetenland. Germany's steel helmeted soldiers began their occupation today.

In Egerland, westernmost tip of the Sudetenland area, Czechoslovak troops and police also began their peaceful retreat. They left that area, a hot spot of Sudeten German agitation in the recent minority dispute, in the hands of a hastily organized Sudeten local government.

Reports Reign of Terror.

An employé of the official Czechoslovak tourist office tonight reported Sudeten Free Corps members had started a reign of terror in the Karlsbad region of western Czechoslovakia, which has been ceded to Germany. He said the Sudetens had gained control of the famous spa and that fleeing Czechoslovaks are being fired on by machine guns mounted on Carlsbad buildings. East of Carlsbad Sudeten Free Corps men were reported to have derailed a train carrying refugees from Sudetenland.

KING BORIS MARKS 20 YEAR RULE BY FREEING PRISONERS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 1.—(AP)—King Boris III. of Bulgaria issued an amnesty today. It marks the 20th anniversary of his rule, which began Oct. 3, 1918.

In government circles it was said that Damyan Velgheff, former head of the Bulgarian Military academy, might receive amnesty. Velgheff was sentenced to death in 1936. He was charged with instigating a republican movement and with a plot aiming at the king's assassination. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The amnesty affects particularly old and sick prisoners. Included also are some political prisoners condemned under the state defense law who have a record of good behavior or who have abandoned communism.

Ask Parents Not to Fret Over Pupils' Transfers

Officials of the board of education said yesterday that parents should not be concerned over the transfer of their children to other schools if the family moves. A new system of records gives all the necessary information for placing a new pupil in his proper group, it was explained. It was expected that many transfers will be made tomorrow because of Oct. 1 moving.

2 Liners Collide in Fog; Fireman Killed in Bunk

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 1.—(AP)—One man was killed when the Alaska Steamship company liners Yukon and Columbia collided in a heavy fog off Jefferson point on the west shore of Puget sound today. John Keeley, fireman on the Yukon, was crushed to death in his bunk. Capt. C. A. Glasscock of the Yukon put his passengers in lifeboats until it was determined the vessel was not taking water.

EXPECT FRANCE TO SCRAP SOVIET AND POLISH PACTS

Believe Paris Will Line Up with Berlin and Rome.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The newspaper Le Temps tonight indicated that France will seek accords with Germany and Italy and allow its alliances with Poland and soviet Russia to lapse.

"It is evident," Le Temps said, "that the changes in the European situation brought about by the Munich accord will necessitate revision of a number of doctrines which have been accepted hitherto. Notably it eliminates much of the practical value of the French-Polish alliance and the French-soviet mutual assistance pact."

Would Let Nazis Push Ahead.

It is believed that Le Temps reflects Foreign Secretary Georges Bonnet's idea for reorganization of Europe. It means that France would abandon its traditional policy of encircling alliances around Germany and would not attempt to resist further German territorial expansion not aimed directly against France.

Ultimately, it is realized, Germany's expansion will bring her into conflict with Russia, but Frenchmen who share the point of view expressed by Le Temps are beginning to believe, like many Englishmen, that a war between Germany and Russia would not menace France's security, even if Germany won.

These theorists argue that if France makes it quite clear she is not going to oppose Germany's "Drang Nach Osten" [Drive toward the east], the passage in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," which declares that Germany must annihilate France as a European power before turning toward the east will no longer be true and that France will have no reason to fear Germany.

Expect More Border Changes.

Whether Premier Edouard Daladier and the French general staf belong to this school is not known, but it is considered significant that a newspaper as important as Le Temps should raise the question at this moment.

If this tendency develops there is no question that most of the post-war frontier of Europe will come in for considerable revising. Rumania and Jugo-Slavia obviously figure among the early victims, but some observers believe Poland is most menaced. Judging by the bitterness of even such decorous organs as Le Temps, it is believed that if Hitler demands the return of the Polish corridor, the French will just stand by.

Colonies are quite another matter, of course, and the papers here are trying to pretend they do not know that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain has given Hitler important encouragements on this score.

Spain a Stumbling Block.

Before any territorial changes can be discussed it is considered here that the Spanish question will have to be settled. It is expected that the next meeting of the Big Four—Germany, England, France, and Italy—if there is one, will be devoted to putting an end to the Spanish civil war and installing some compromise régime, such as a liberal monarchy.

A vast crowd of Parisians turned out again to cheer Daladier and the peace he helped secure at Munich when the premier, at the head of a delegation of French and allies—except Czech—war veterans marched up the Champs Elysées to rekindle the eternal flame at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

British, French, American, Belgian, and Italian flags were carried by the delegation. Buildings on the Champs Elysées hung out the French and British flags left over from the recent visit of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain. The newspaper Le Jour went one better by hanging out the Italian flag also.

Why Not Swastika?

Some disgruntled Frenchmen in the crowd asked:

"Why not the Swastika?"

Part of the crowd staged an anti-Semitic demonstration in front of the Socialist newspaper Le Populaire, shouting "Hang the Jews!"

The army started returning requisitioned cars and cattle to their owners today. It was even reported that a few reservists returned to their homes, but the public was warned that demobilization will be carried out by slow stages as the international situation improves.

MUNICH ACCORD DIDN'T SETTLE ALL, ITALY SAYS

Fascists Expect Trouble Over Spanish War.

ROME, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Spain's civil war is the next problem to be settled, in the Italian Fascist view, before Europe can rest easily.

Italy is not wholly optimistic over the future. Without mentioning the Spanish war, Virginio Gayda, a newspaper editor who often echoes the opinions of Premier Mussolini, wrote today in Il Giornale d'Italia:

"There still are too many open and significant problems, too many still obscure currents, too many residues of political and moral injustice, both ancient and recent, which counsel Italy as well as Germany to exercise the greatest reserve in appraising the present European situation."

Italy Not Optimistic.

At another point Gayda's editorial, commenting on optimism elsewhere in Europe as a result of the Munich accord on Czechoslovakia, said Italy "does not share in this optimism or in its airy construction.

"The Czechoslovak situation was only one point settled for the peace of central Europe. "It's effect was exhausted in itself."

Several persons in position to know the feeling in official circles cautioned against expecting an early settlement of the Spanish war and problems depending more or less closely on its outcome.

For Italians, these problems are:

FIRST—To put into effect the agreement between Italy and Britain for maintenance of the status quo in the Mediterranean.

SECOND—To restore good relations between Italy and France.

Expect Slow Progress.

Political circles expressed hope that further negotiations by two, three, or all four of the Munich pact powers [Italy, Germany, Britain, and France] might result from their accord on dismemberment of Czechoslovakia. It was said such developments probably would be slow, however.

One Fascist with official connections said his private view is that two courses seemed to be open to Mussolini. These, he said, are to withdraw Italian legionnaires from Spain, or to pour in so many new fighters that the war soon would be won for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel chief.

The general impression in Rome was that settlement of the Spanish question would require recognition of Franco as a belligerent and the exclusion of soviet Russia's influence from the Spanish sector of the Mediterranean.

Mussolini has been represented as unfavorable toward any deal between London and Berlin. The agreement between Reichfuehrer Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to settle questions between Germany and Britain without resort to war therefore was regarded with a certain coolness by some Italians.

U. OF I. ENROLLS 13,760, SETTING AN ALL TIME RECORD

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Enrolment in the University of Illinois hit an all time high today when 13,760 students were listed in preliminary totals. This was an increase of 173 over last year.

The campus here has 12,618 students, a gain of 161, and the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, located in Chicago, have 1,142 students, a gain of twelve.

The greatest increase in enrollment is shown in the college of engineering, which has 156 more students than a year ago.

CALL ROOSEVELT BRITISH CATSPAW IN CZECH CRISIS

4 Power Alliance to Rule World Is the Result.

thrown over by the British in 1932. Mr. Stimson relied upon the coöperation of Great Britain when, invoking the Kellogg-Briand peace pact, he denounced Japan's aggression in Manchuria. But the British remained coldly aloof.

Throughout his administration President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have pursued a course of internationalism, proposing common or "parallel" action by the United States, Great Britain, France, and the other democracies against aggressor nations.

In 1935 Roosevelt sought to coöperate with the league of nations in the application of economic sanctions against Italy during the Ethiopian conquest. He went beyond the powers granted by the neutrality act and attempted by government threat and coercion to stop shipments of oil to Italy.

Denounced by Mussolini.

Mussolini denounced the attempted interference with legal shipments of oil as an "unfriendly act," and Mr. Roosevelt was well out on a limb. Then Great Britain sawed it off, preventing the league of nations from placing an embargo on oil shipments because British oil companies were doing a nice business in that commodity.

In 1937 President Roosevelt was ready to coöperate with the league of nations in an effort to stop Japan's invasion of China. Speaking at Chicago, on Oct. 5, he anticipated the league's action on the next day, denouncing Japan as the aggressor by proposing concerted international action to "quarantine" aggressor nations.

In February of this year the British sawed off this limb. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden resigned and Prime Minister Chamberlain began dealing directly with the dictators whom Mr. Roosevelt had proposed to "quarantine."

Taunted on Scrambled Policy.

Ignoring the taunts of such isolationists as Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] who demanded to know what constitutes the foreign policy of the United States, the President went right on with his program for a supernavy paralleling the naval construction of Great Britain. This led to fears in congress that he still wanted to police the world.

Senator Borah, dean of the senate and its foreign relations committee, refused to comment for publication on President Roosevelt's part in the European war crisis, but made an appeal for Hungary's rights in the Czechoslovakian settlement.

"In this hour of readjustment of boundaries, justice should be done to Hungary," Senator Borah said. "No greater injustice was done to any nation by the so-called peace treaties than to Hungary. It is within the power of the 'big four' to right this great wrong to a great people.

Step Toward Lasting Peace.

"The German people were permitted to come together, the Polish people are being permitted to come together, and it would be a long step toward permanent peace in Europe and an outstanding act of statesmanship if the Hungarian people were permitted to come together.

"If they are not permitted to do so, Munich will more and more be regarded as the handiwork of fear and selfishness rather than that of justice and peace."

With the last vestige of the Versailles treaty—the territorial clauses—gone and the league of nations about to be supplanted by the power politics of a quadruple alliance, senate foreign relations authorities believe the "Big Four" will turn from political questions, such as boundary disputes, to the question of economic appeasement—of themselves.

3 GRADE SCHOOL BOYS ADMIT AUTO THEFTS SALE OF PARTS FOR GAS

It wasn't their automobile, so the three grammar school boys didn't care when it ran out of gas. They just drove into a filling station and bartered a spare tire, a spotlight, a windshield wiper, a seat cushion, or some other part for gasoline.

Then off they would go, taking their pals for a joy ride. Eventually there would be nothing left on the car but the wheels and the motor. When this happened they would abandon it and steal another car, or lacking the opportunity, a bicycle.

That was the story told yesterday to Policemen Edward Shumacher, William Hugaro, and Harry Larson by the boys: Robert J. Tobin, 17 years old, 5315 Warwick street; Robert Frycek, 16, of 3528 North Kildare avenue, and Richard Susralski, 16, of 3514 North Lowell avenue. They are students in the Haugen elementary school. Tobin was placed on probation June 7 for tampering with a car. They were arrested Friday.

U. S. ASKS POLES TO SHUN FORCE IN CZECHS ROW

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull disclosed today that the United States had urged Poland to shun force in its dispute with Czechoslovakia.

Hull said Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle at Warsaw had been instructed yesterday to express to the Polish government President Roosevelt's hope that Poland would make a contribution to the cause of peace by refraining from the use of force.

Dispatches reported the same request was made at Warsaw by the envoys of Great Britain, France, and Germany.

In response to questions, Mr. Hull told his press conference that President Roosevelt had sent no message direct to the president of Poland. He said the instruction to Ambassador Biddle was a suggestion that the envoy advise restraint in the course of any conversation he might have with the foreign office.

RUSSIAN DUKE IS SERIOUSLY ILL; MAY CUT OFF LEG

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the throne of the Russian czars since the assassination of Nicholas II., is dangerously ill in the American hospital here.

His physician, Dr. Laurence S. Fuller, an American, is consulting Prof. Leriche, a famous French arteries specialist, whether to amputate the grand duke's right leg.

Grand Duke Cyril, who was 62 years old yesterday, became ill with arteriosclerosis last week. He had been in failing health since shortly after attending the wedding of his daughter, the Grand Duchess Kira to Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, son of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THE THOUGHTS OF YOUTH

By CALEB

IS THERE, in all the world of interests round about us, anything so engaging as the mind of a boy or a girl?

I remember, when my own son was a lad of five walking with me of a quiet Sunday afternoon past the Book Building, in Detroit, how he suddenly transfixed me with this question: "Dad, how long would one of our days seem to an ant?"

There was a poser! A thought that, with all my own so-called claims to imagination, I had never conceived. But for long hours after I had given the boy that perfunctory answer most ignorant fathers serve to inquiring offspring, the concept intrigued me. . . . How long would one of our days seem to an ant? Youthwise, he had left out, of course, the fact that ants have no equivalent for our own awareness of the passing of time. Or have they? But here was a new approach to the prosaic world of humans and of ants; a fresh reading of the old evidence . . . "How long," I wondered. "A thousand hours? A million years? Some day I want to know!"

Meantime, I see our streets and cars and buses alive again with young minds returning to the race's ancient quest for knowledge. Gaily-colored books under arms; gay, aggressive faces on shoulders that hide gay, undissuaded hearts. How valiant and unconcerned they look! How untroubled about the dark years and strange destinies that lie ahead! How compact of courage and mirth and certainty!

"A boy's will," runs one of Longfellow's loveliest ballads, "is the wind's will, and the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts." There's a line, my wise ones, that should be set in letters of gold and hung on the walls of every home, and over the desk of every instructor in every school in every land! For it is the unconsidering thoughts of today's youth that parents, educators, speakers, writers, trainers and leaders must mould, sympathetically but surely, into the considered deeds of tomorrow's manhood and womanhood. And what gloriously perilous material is this they work with—to what equally glorious and perilous ends!

Youth-thought is the most wonderful, plastic, precious, unpredictable, and fraught with startling potentials, of any substance through which the race can or will work out its ultimate salvation. The knowledge of this should take our breath away for caution; should square our lightest statement or commitment to these young minds with truth; should acid-test every formula of education against authority, and not hearsay. At our best, we shall not be able to give these growing new spirits safety from besetment, or the antidotes to defeat. But let us at least give them what we can of the Flame from the Torch—and spare them all we permissibly can of its ashes.

ROBERT K. HENRY QUITS WISCONSIN GOVERNOR RACE

Urges His Supporters to Vote for Heil.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Robert K. Henry, champion of a coalition movement to overthrow the La Follette control of Wisconsin's government withdrew tonight as Democratic nominee for governor. His retirement will leave the race for governor to Julius P. Heil, Republican nominee, Gov. Philip La Follette, candidate on the Progressive ticket, and a Democrat to be chosen by the Democratic state committee at Madison Tuesday.

Robert K. Henry.
[Tribune Photo.]

In a statement Henry urged support of Heil. He said: "The only way in which this state can be rid of the political adventurers grouped about the La Follette brothers is for the majority opposed to this self-seeking dynasty to unite their strength behind one candidate."

Action Comes as Surprise.

Henry's withdrawal is expected to strengthen greatly the probability of Heil's election. The possibility of Henry dropping out of the race for governor had been discussed since his nomination in the primary of Sept. 20, but the announcement came as a surprise when made tonight. The withdrawal was the sacrifice of a chance to become governor of Wisconsin which generally was rated at least equal to that of the other two leading candidates.

Henry's personal vote in the primary was greater than that of either Heil or La Follette. Like the other candidates for state office of the coalition movement, he ran in both Republican and Democratic primaries. He lost the Republican nomination to Heil, but outdistanced Jerome Fox for the Democratic. Fox was the New Deal machine candidate and had the indorsement of the state convention.

Committee May Name Fox.

It is probable that Fox will be the choice of the state committee when it meets to fill the vacancies on the ticket. In addition to the vacancy made by Henry's unexpected action, it also must name candidates for lieutenant governor and state treasurer. Walter S. Goodland and John M. Smith, coalition candidates for these two offices, were nominated by both Republican and Democratic parties and have announced their intentions to run as Republicans.

The coalition movement was started by a bipartisan group to unite opposition to the La Follette Progressives. It was based on the fact that the La Follettes always have won minority victories through the division of their opposition.

Opposed by leaders of both parties, the coalition forces showed such strength in the primary that four of their five candidates were nominated, two by both parties. Henry's total vote was around 134,000. Heil and La Follette each received a little more than 124,000.

Campaign Picture Changes.

Until Henry withdrew from the picture tonight the fall election presented the old picture that always was favorable to the radicals. Anything like an equal division of votes between Heil and Henry almost insured La Follette's election. There is a complete change of the situation with Henry out of the field. The bulk of his vote is almost certain to go to the Republican candidate.

While Henry's withdrawal puts the burden of designating a candidate on the state committee, it also relieves the Democratic state machine of facing a difficult situation in the platform convention Tuesday. Henry's high vote made him the undisputed Democratic leader, while the state machine is committed chiefly to the task of trying to reëlect F. Ryan Ducy on a New Deal platform.

Henry has indorsed the Republican state platform and the other nominees have never been identified with the New Deal. The committee will now name three of the five candidates which will strengthen their chance for an indorsement of Duffy and the national administration.

Henry Good Vote Getter.

Henry has been elected state treasurer on the Democratic ticket three times, being defeated finally by the personal comeback of "Uncle Sol" Levitan, a Progressive veteran. He is a banker, a native of Jefferson, Wis., and has been one of the strongest vote getters in the Democratic lists.

Henry's action is considered a blow to Duffy's chances for reëlection. The Democratic senator received a relatively small vote in the primary.

Democrats conceded Duffy's hope of reëlection was in going along with a strong state ticket and Henry was known to be as good a vote getter as the Democrats could round up. Senator Duffy was among the first to pledge his support to the state ticket after Henry was nominated in the primary.

STILES REFUTES LUCAS' CLAIM THAT HE VOTED FOR ALL WPA BILLS

Chairman A. K. Stiles of the Republican state central committee yesterday issued a statement attacking the veracity of Scott W. Lucas, Democratic nominee for United States senator.

A. K. Stiles.

He charged that Lucas said recently in a speech at Effingham, that as a member of congress he voted for every bill appropriating funds for the Works Progress administration. Stiles cited the Congressional Record to show that in both 1937 and 1938 the senatorial candidate voted against WPA bills.

"A candidate for the 'second highest office in the land'," said Stiles, "should not indulge in misrepresentation. He should be a man of unimpeachable integrity and veracity."

WOMEN'S APPAREL STORE ROBBED.

Morris Sack, owner of a woman's apparel store at 5338 Lawrence avenue, reported to police yesterday that thieves stole $1,280 worth of merchandise over Friday night.

AXMEN THROW DICE GAME FOR LOSS WHILE RAZING 9 HANDBOOKS

State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders found nine handbooks and one dice game in operation yesterday. The raiders, who make certain that furnishings and gambling equipment are not fit for use again, brought their wrecking score to 301 horse parlors.

The handbook raids were at 747 North Wolcott avenue, 766 Milwaukee avenue, 2030 Milwaukee avenue, 3126 North Ashland avenue, 5031 Indiana avenue, 904 Irving Park road, 4718 Lincoln avenue, 1516 West 47th street, and 3 North 1st avenue, Maywood. The dice game was found at 5053¼ Indiana avenue.

The raiders found many places closed. This was taken as an indication that the prosecutor's seven weeks campaign—with axes—had caused most of the handbook men to go on a vacation. The raiding, however, is to continue, it was announced.

36 Young Schoolgirls to Stage Playlets for G. O. P.

Thirty-six girls from the Lucy Flower High school, not old enough to vote, but eager politicians, offered their services yesterday to the Republican central committee. Their plan is to write and present plays with a special appeal to working men and women.

Mrs. Zerieta Peace, head of the women's labor division in the state campaign, who has successfully organized play groups in the labor movement, will train the girls.

STERLING HIGH JUDGING TEAMS WIN 2 TITLES

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Sterling High school won two state championships, one in judging milk and one in identifying meats, in judging contests held today for vocational agricultural students and 4-H club members at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. The Sterling team of Whiteside county also won the meat identification contest last year.

Class A rating in judging poultry went to teams from Bureau, Dekalb, and Shelby counties. In judging crops, teams from Piatt, Fayette, Madison, and Kane counties won class A rating.

These seven teams will return to the college of agriculture Saturday, Nov. 5, for a final contest to select state championship teams to represent Illinois in the national 4-H club crops and poultry judging contest to be held in connection with the international live stock exposition in Chicago this fall.

WIFE SLAIN WITH RIFLE; HUSBAND CALLS IT SUICIDE

He and Little Daughter Tell Different Stories.

Shot through the heart with an army rifle, Mrs. Marguerite Matter, mother of three children, was instantly killed late last night in the bedroom of her home at 4233 DuBois boulevard, in the Congress Park section of Brookfield. She was 37 years old, and comely.

Police were unable to determine early today, after an investigation of four hours, whether she had shot herself. They are holding her husband, James K. Matter, 47, an unemployed industrial engineer, who prior to six months ago earned $900 a month, as a material witness. Both Matter and his daughter, Martha, 12, insisted that Mrs. Matter had killed herself following a quarrel.

Police found her fully clothed and dead on a twin bed, amongst a scattering of toys which she had been arranging for her two little sons, James Jr., 4, and Robert, 2.

Husband Tells of Quarrel.

The events leading up to the shooting were related to Police Chief Thomas Mahoney by Matter, his daughter, and Dr. T. C. McDougal, 702 West Burlington avenue, La Grange, who was the first called to the scene.

Matter, according to his story, has been in pain for several months since he fractured his left heel bone. He has used morphine, he said, to ease the pain. Yesterday he sent his wife to Dr. McDougal to get some of the drug. She returned empty handed, the physician refusing a prescription.

Mrs. Matter berated him, Matter said, for wanting the drug. Angry, he went out and bought a bottle of gin. He drank until his brain became fuzzy, he said. Meantime, he and his wife quarreled.

Cleans His Army Rifle.

"After a while I got out my Springfield army rifle," he related. "I cleaned it. I wanted to keep it to give as a souvenir to my sons to remember me as a war veteran. The gun was always loaded, and I put it on my twin bed. My wife picked it up and toyed with it. Then she leaned on it, and while doing so it went off.'

The story of Martha, the daughter, differed somewhat. She told of her parents' quarrel. Her father told her, she said, that her mother was crazy. She also overheard him threaten her mother, she added.

"I saw dad go into the closet and get out the gun, and I saw him load it," she told Chief Mahoney. "He put the gun on the bed. Mother grabbed it suddenly, and shot herself."

Matter denied ever threatening his wife. He said they had quarreled occasionally over fifteen years. He insisted the gun was already loaded.

Chief Mahoney measured Mrs. Matter's arm length and the length of the rifle. He said her reach was almost ten inches short of the trigger. The chief said there were no powder burns. The bullet penetrated the heart then ranged downward and backward.

Matter, a gray haired man, will be asked to reënact the shooting today. Martha will also be questioned again. Dr. McDougal was summoned by Matter after the shooting, and notified police. He is the family physician.

Bullet Attack

Bullet holes in a window of Ald. Frank E. Konkowski's office. The fusillade, the second in eight days, was fired early yesterday.

Ald. Frank E. Konkowski of the 26th ward told Racine avenue police yesterday he did not know why any one would fire a half dozen bullets through the front windows of his office at 1030 West Chicago avenue. Some one driving by shot a number of holes in the alderman's window early yesterday morning. Eight nights previously the same kind of an occurrence was reported. Police said that a number of the aldermen's constituents were disappointed when their names did not appear high on the recent civil service eligibility list for appointment to the police department.

JAPANESE BOMB MISSION SCHOOL; PERIL AMERICANS

Damage to U.S. Lutherans' Property Is $40,000.

SINYANG, China, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The American United Lutheran mission's school for girls in this town on the Peiping-Hankow railway was damaged and two Chinese caretakers were wounded fatally Wednesday when Japanese war planes dropped twelve bombs in the school's compound. The damage to property was estimated at $40,000.

Sinyang is the objective of a Japanese drive through South Honan province.. The invaders seek to cut the railway here in their effort to take Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, more than 100 miles south.

Planes Make Repeated Attacks.

Members of the Lutheran mission who were in residences near the bombed compound and who escaped injury included Miss Christine Johnson of Chicago. Others are: Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hovik of Northfield, Minn.; Reidan Dahlin of Fargo, N. D.; Miss Aajoth Foskark of Dwight, N. D., and Hans Nesse of St. Paul, Minn.

Operating in advance of land units, Japanese airplanes continually are bombing the Peiking-Hankow railroad north of Hankow. In two weeks they have half destroyed a half dozen once prosperous towns and cities, including Sinyang.

Despite the violence of the bombings, however, the Chinese forces near Sinyang appeared to be among the best equipped, especially in motorized units, of any facing the Japanese.

Food supply and medical relief services have been well organized, further strengthening the morale of the defense soldiers.

Japs Seize Yangtze.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Japanese troops, advancing up the north bank of the Yangtze river with more than 100 war planes bombing and strafing Chinese forces ahead of them, reported today they had captured Hsiangshan, ninety miles below Hankow.

They said they found bodies of 1,800 Chinese dead left on the battlefield. There was severe fighting on all other fronts, but no major changes in the positions of the battling forces.

The Chinese reported two important victories south of the Yangtze river. In the Teian sector, where the Japanese are attempting to move on Nanchang, Chinese dispatches said the Japanese were thrown back after a forty-eight hour battle, losing upward of 1,000 men.

The second Chinese victory was reported west of Juichang, ninety-five miles southwest of Hankow. Military advices said 1,200 Japanese were killed and many prisoners taken in a crushing setback to the invaders near the border of Hupeh province.

Reports of troop laden Japanese transports off Shanghai and Tsingtao revived speculation that Japan would launch a South China campaign centering on Canton.

Incoming steamers from Tsingtao, Shantung province port, estimated twenty transports were off Tsingtao and thirty-five more off Shanghai. It was estimated there were 35,000 soldiers on the ships.

LOYALISTS TO BEGIN RELEASE OF FOREIGN FIGHTERS THIS WEEK

HENDAYE, France.—[At the Spanish Frontier.]—Oct. 1.—(AP)—Spanish government spokesmen said today that the organization to evacuate foreign volunteers probably would begin its work next week. A league of nations supervisory committee is expected to arrive then. There were reports today of air raids by both sides in the Spanish civil war, as parliament met in Barcelona. It approved Premier Juan Negrin's decision to evacuate foreigners fighting with the loyalists. In Geneva a special league committee met to appoint a board of neutral supervisors.

AN ASTROLOGER MAKES WALTER SEE STARS; HELD

She did look at the stars and they did say that George Walter, 52 years old, was going to die by suicide. Mrs. Katherine Sill, 44, who practices astrology at 3028 North Halsted street, admitted this yesterday before Judge Eugene J. Holland in the Municipal court. But, she said emphatically, she did not advise Walter to commit suicide and she did not sell him pills with which to do it. The pills were just to make him sleep, she added.

Walter declared that Mrs. Sill charged him $10 a séance and that she charged him $20 for the sleeping pills. After he swallowed them he became unconscious and was taken to a hospital for emergency treatment, he continued. Judge Holland put the case over to Oct. 6 in the Women's court and said he would ask the state department of registration and education to investigate it.

CIVILIANS TO AID IN ARMY TEST OF AIR RAID DEFENSE

1,200 Volunteers to Man Warning Network.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—More than 1,200 civilian volunteers in eastern North Carolina will aid the army during the next two weeks in America's first spectacular test of an elaborate air raid warning network.

War department plans for the defense of New York and other coastal cities depend on the speed and accuracy of the civilians in identifying and reporting hostile planes.

London, Paris, Berlin, and other European cities already have set up warning systems to detect surprise attacks by bombers.

70 Planes to Attack.

Belief that the increasing range of warplanes involves a future peril to the United States brought orders for the largest air defense exercises yet devised by the army.

The plan of the war games, which begin tomorrow, is simple. Seventy bombardment and attack planes will start from Langley field, Va., on mock day and night raids of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Encircling Fort Bragg will be 300 or more warning stations, manned by volunteers. When the planes are sighted, reports on their identity, number, type, altitude, and direction will be telephoned to headquarters at Fort Bragg.

Waiting there will be nearly 60 defending pursuit planes and a large proportion of the army's modern anti-aircraft guns, reinforced by searchlights and mechanical spotting and aiming apparatus, and manned by some 2,500 ground troops.

Exercises to Test System.

With sufficient warning, plane pilots and gun crews are confident they could beat off such a raid in wartime. The exercises will determine what may be expected from the warning system.

For the two week tests, warning stations equipped with telephones have been set up throughout eastern North Carolina, one to every eight square miles. Four civilians man each station.

At Fort Bragg the course of the attackers may be plotted on maps studded with an electric light for each station. The lights will flash as hostile planes are reported.

Winchester Banker Dies in County Assessor's Office

Winchester, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Harvey Green, 65 years old, Winchester banker, died from a heart attack yesterday in the assessor's office in the Scott county courthouse here.

Reherse Air Defense

(Story in adjoining column.)

United States army privates test powerful night glasses and automatic range finder which will be used during air raid defense experiment in North Carolina during the next two weeks. This small unit controls giant searchlight with which "enemy" planes will be flooded for anti-aircraft fire.

Outposts such as this will be used in the experiment. A network of phone wires connects these outposts with headquarters and with searchlight and air defense gun crews.

SUPT. JOHNSON FACES OPERATION ON GALL BLADDER

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools, has been advised that he may have to undergo a gall bladder operation soon.

Dr. Johnson entered St. Joseph's hospital on Thursday. It was suspected he was suffering from an intestinal ailment. Examinations showed, however, that his physical condition was good except for the gall bladder trouble.

"It is not certain that I shall have the operation," the superintendent said. "It depends on further examinations. I am leaving it up to Dr. Laurence E. Hines whether surgery is necessary. Meanwhile I am resting at home, as he told me to do."

HAMMOND POLICE SEIZE LAST OF 5 PRISON BREAKERS

Walter Brown, 26 years old, one of five life term convicts who escaped from the Menard prison last Sunday, was captured yesterday by detectives at Hammond, Ind. The other four prisoners had been seized Wednesday in southern Illinois.

Walter Brown.

Brown was recognized by Sergt. Clarence Telovo as he walked through a crowded business district dressed in railroad switchman's clothing. Capt. Sandor Singer and eight detectives, who were working on another case, surrounded him with pistols ready. Brown, who was unarmed, did not resist.

"I stole these clothes from a caboose," Brown said. "I've been hitchhiking and walking through country fields to keep clear of police. I wanted to go to California."

Brown had $4 in his pocket. He denied that it was given to him by four relatives and friends who on Friday were held to the grand jury on charges of harboring him in Bloomington. He was turned over to Illinois prison authorities.

A NATURALIST PROVES IT'S SAFE TO PICK UP A SKUNK BY ITS TAIL

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Craig Phillips, a youthful naturalist, believed it was safe to pick a skunk up by the tail. His theory was that skunks are dangerous only when they can arch their tails over their backs. Last night Phillips saw a mother skunk and her brood strolling single file along a road and he grabbed two of them by their tails. He proved the truth of his theory, but when he turned them loose the skunks raised their tails and got even with him.

FIREMEN BATTLE BLAZE STARTED BY POT OF WAX

Firemen battled for more than an hour yesterday to subdue a rapidly spreading fire in the plant of the Bi-wax corporation, makers of insulating supplies at 1017 South Kolmar avenue. The blaze started when a kettle of wax boiled over. Four employés who were in the building fled. Chief Deputy Fire Marshal Joseph A. Mackey estimated the damage at $20,000. He and his men feared for a time that the flames would spread to the Elliott Paint and Varnish company factory at 4525 Fifth avenue. That building, however, was unharmed.

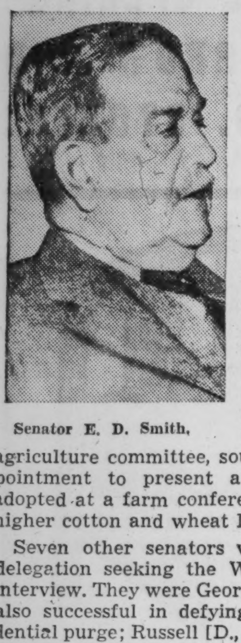
ROOSEVELT AID TRIES TO SOOTHE COTTON ED'S IRE

Senator Denied Hearing with President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The White House ate crow today to appease the wrath of unpurged Senator Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith [D., S. C.].



Senator E. D. Smith.

The senator made a hot protest yesterday when he was denied an audience by President Roosevelt. Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, sought the appointment to present a resolution, adopted at a farm conference, urging higher cotton and wheat loans.

Seven other senators were in the delegation seeking the White House interview. They were George [D., Ga.], also successful in defying the presidential purge; Russell [D., Ga.], Harrison [D., Miss.], Clark [D., Mo.], Thomas [D., Okla.], Bilbo [D., Miss.], and Reynolds [D., N. C.].

Smith Roars Defiance.

When they were denied an audience Senator Smith roared: "Perhaps this isn't a democracy." In an impromptu speech at the farm conference he said five preceding Presidents had never denied him an audience.

Today, as the President was preparing to leave for his family home at Hyde Park, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early expressed regret that a heavy schedule of callers made it physically impossible for the President to see the delegation yesterday.

At 12:40 p. m. yesterday, Senator Smith advised the White House that he had assembled at the Capitol various senators, congressmen and farm representatives and that they wanted immediately an appointment with the President to confer with him on cotton prices, Early said. The President at that time was in conference with F. F. Hill, newly appointed governor of the Farm Credit administration.

When that conference was over the President had Secretary of State Hull for a luncheon conference, Early continued. Secretary Hull remained and went with the President from the luncheon in his office to the cabinet room for the Friday cabinet meeting.

After the cabinet meeting the President had three individual members of the cabinet at conferences with him, Early stated. Senator Smith's request was the only one for an immediate conference. It was not possible, Early explained, to give it to him without further notice.

Early said that Smith could not have been received without interrupting the cabinet meeting. He insisted that any senator, regardless of his position toward the administration, also would have been turned away.

Senator Warns Wallace.

Senator Smith warned Secretary Wallace tonight that the administration's farm program would be "seriously jeojardized" unless the government met demands for more cotton aid.

Smith wrote his warning to Wallace after lesser agriculture department officials had refused the demands of a farm conference group for an increase in government loans on cotton and wheat.

"We aren't going to solve this by standing around and raising our eyebrows," Smith stormed at Harry Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture and Jesse W. Tapp of the AAA.

"I hope you don't think the department of agriculture is against the farmer," Brown interjected.

"I sometimes do," the senator shot back.

Smith said he would call the senate agriculture committee together in December to work out "a real farm program" for presentation to the new congress in January.

During the meeting with Brown and Tapp he exclaimed:

"What's the use of talking to people we have got to get down on bended knee to, who are not even elected by the people, when they ought to come on bended knee to us!"

Motion Picture Stars on Honeymoon

[Associated Press Photo.]

Benita Hume and Ronald Colman, who were married in Santa Barbara, Cal., Friday night, as they appeared at an opera opening in Los Angeles.

Both Are English

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 1.—[U. P.]—Ronald Colman, whom Hollywood regarded mistakenly for years as its most eligible bachelor, started in characteristic secrecy today on a honeymoon with Benita Hume, his second wife.

They were married last night by a police judge at Santa Barbara.

He is 47, English born, and perhaps Hollywood's oldest actor still playing swashbuckling, romantic rôles. His latest film, still to be released nationally, casts him as François Villon, the vagabond poet of France. Miss Hume, brown eyed, London born, and about to celebrate her thirty-second birthday, has appeared in a long series of movies, but seldom in the news.

SLEUTH HUNTS MANIAC ON OWN AND SLAYS HIM

Policeman, 43, Is Given Hero Award.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

A crazed ex-convict was at large on Chicago's west side. Alone and on his own initiative a police detective went from his station to hunt the mad gunman.

Harold Haight.

The detective was Harold Haight, 43 years old, a policeman of some fifteen years' experience, the father of a daughter 23 years old. The ex-convict was a burglar. A squad of three policemen from Fillmore street station had captured him at 1322 Tripp avenue. Two of the squad took him to their automobile while the third remained behind to question people living in the building.

No sooner had the prisoner been put in the car than he seized upon a split second opportunity to make his break. Swiftly he drew an automatic pistol from his hip pocket.

Too Dangerous to Defy.

The policemen had no choice. One glance at his twisted lips and blazing eyes convinced them that he would stop at nothing.

The gun he carried was conveniently small. He had concealed it in his pocket between two folded handkerchiefs so there was almost no bulge. It had not been found when he was searched. A criminal learns such tricks in prison.

The burglar disarmed the two policemen and drove away in the squad car, leaving them standing in the street. Detective Haight was in the station when his downcast comrades returned.

He heard the story they told Capt. Louis Klatzco and he was present when it was learned that the squad car had been found at Tripp avenue and Roosevelt road.

He Plays a Hunch.

Without telling any one what he intended to do he got into his own automobile and drove to an alley north of Roosevelt road between Keeler and Kildare avenues, a block from where the car was found. Later he described it as just a lucky hunch.

Just as he started to drive in the alley he saw his man dodge across from one side to the other nearly a block away, running toward Roosevelt road.

Haight recognized him from the description supplied by the two policemen. He speeded up his car west of Kildare avenue, turning south to Roosevelt road and east to Keeler avenue. Then he parked on the north side of Roosevelt road at a point where he expected the fugitive to appear again.

But at this moment an eastbound street car rumbled by. The man dashed from a doorway across the street and boarded it. Immediately the detective started out in pursuit. Haight passed the street car and gained nearly a block before he stopped at Roosevelt and Pulaski roads.

Then when the car reached the intersection he mounted the rear platform and walked quietly to where the man was sitting.

Toting Two Guns, at Least.

One slip—one scream of alarm and the life of an innocent passenger in the crowded street car might have been forfeit. A man who would hold up a police squad was no one to trifle with. Only one pistol had been found in the squad car. That meant that the man had the other police revolver besides his own weapon.

Motioning the other passengers to be quiet, he seized the fugitive by the collar and holding his revolver ready walked him to the back of the car. The prisoner began to squirm and struggle, but Haight pushed him down the steps to the street. A crowd gathered. There was no time to search him.

Haight kept his gun at the man's back and started to walk with him to the station two blocks away. But as they neared Grenshaw street, the prisoner suddenly jerked away, whipped out a pistol and wheeled around. This was his last act in defiance of the law. Detective Haight shot him down.

From his finger prints he was identified as Alex Rossi, alias Edward Jones and Eddie Spier. He died a few days later at the Bridewell hospital.

Former Insane Patient.

His record showed that he had served time in the penitentiary for burglary and in 1934 and 1935 was an inmate at the Menard hospital for insane convicts. Proceeds from many recent burglaries were found in his west side flat.

Detective Haight has been awarded the Tribune hero award for July. Probably nothing that can be said here expresses the reasons as clearly as Capt. Klatzco's report to Commissioner James P. Allman on that incident of July 13:

"Detective Haight left the station alone, knowing that he was to encounter a dangerous and armed criminal. He paid close attention to his duty and reached a high point of efficiency in carrying it out. In approaching this potential murderer he displayed outstanding bravery."

Each month THE TRIBUNE awards $100 to the city or park policeman or the fireman performing the deed of greatest courage in that period.

Haight has been a policeman in Chicago since 1927. Before that he was a policeman in Palatine and chief of the Park Ridge police. He and his family live at 4240 North Menard avenue.

This wasn't the first time that Haight ended the career of a dangerous outlaw. He shot and killed one of two men who tried to hold him up at the rear of his home in January, 1937. The robber was a paroled convict, who had served eight years in Joliet penitentiary.

YOUTH ADMITS TAKING PART IN SLAYING OF WOMAN IN HOLDUP

Alton, Ill., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Chief of Police Paul Smith said tonight Carl Edmond Trail, 18 years old, of Eldorado, Ill., had confessed participation in the attempted holdup at Harrisburg last night in which Mrs. Nora Burns, 60, was fatally wounded.

Trail was arrested at a hospital here, where he sought treatment for a wound suffered when one of his companions opened fire on Sam Burns, operator of the filling station, and his wife, the police chief announced. Burns was seriously wounded.

Smith asserted Trail named his two companions, but said he did not know "who did the shooting." The youth told of meeting two other boys in a pool hall last night, where they planned the holdup.

Trail was quoted by the sherif as saying he fled to the car when a bullet struck him in the right arm and his companions took him to his home. Smith said Trail's father and two brothers brought him to the hospital.

Vows Spirits Never Again Can Pick a Wife for Him

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Leaving aside the question of where marriages are made, Victor B. Prano said today in a divorce petition that the spirits didn't do so well with his. Prano said that after his first wife died, Victoria Prano, whom he described as a practicing medium, told him she had instructions from wife No. 1 to take care of him. A little later, he said, she relayed spirit instructions that he was to marry her. Then, said Prano, he gave her all his money and the finance company took back his automobile and she refused to live with him.

ONLY ONE-THIRD OF ILLINOIS PLEAS GRANTED BY PWA

Other States Fare Better, Figures Show.

Only one-third of Illinois' application for funds from the Public Works administration have been granted since the government inaugurated its gigantic pump priming program last June.

This was shown yesterday when regional PWA officials issued figures comparing applications and allotments in region No. 2, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Ohio. The deadline for applications expired at midnight Friday.

768 Applications Filed.

Total number of applications from Illinois municipalities, including 77 in a last minute rush before the deadline, was 768. Requests for grants aggregated $73,353,328, and for loans, $12,695,074. To date only 255 allotments, with grants totaling $37,912,744 and loans of $1,987,000 have been made. Several others, including one for 45 per cent of the cost of the city's proposed 31 million dollar subway, still are pending.

Other states in the district have fared better, according to official figures. Indiana made 257 applications and received 218 allotments, with grants and loans totaling $24,115,089.

Figures for the other states show that allotments were made for approximately 68 per cent of the applications from Ohio and Wisconsin and for 59 per cent of Michigan's. West Virginia fared worse than Illinois, with only 27 per cent of its applications fulfilled.

How Other States Fared.

The number of applications and total funds granted each state in the district besides Illinois and Indiana follow:

	Applications.	Allotments.	Total funds [Loan and grants].
Ohio	758	515	$50,284,661
Michigan	391	231	24,972,743
Wisconsin	357	243	19,567,561
West Virginia	112	48	9,038,499

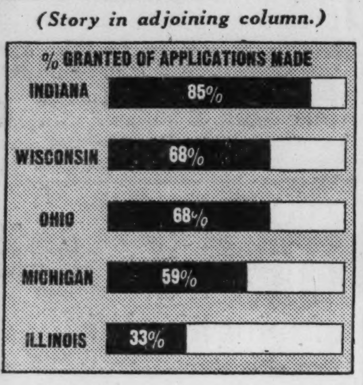
Projects for which money has been granted must be started by Jan. 1 and substantially completed by June 30, 1940. D. R. Kennicott, regional PWA director, reported that work is already under way on 214 projects in the region. Of these, 57 are in Illinois, 56 in Ohio, 37 in Michigan, 32 in Wisconsin, 30 in Indiana, and 2 in West Virginia.

MARKSMEN PROVE THEY'RE GOOD.

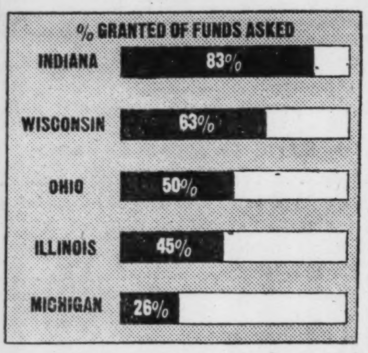
SAN ROSE, Cal.—[U. P.]—Two students in the scientific police course at the San Jose State college demonstrated that they were already qualified as marksmen when they took an afternoon off and shot down fifty jackrabbits with pistols.

PWA Slights Illinois

(Story in adjoining column.)



Illinois ranks below four neighboring central western states in percentage of applications granted by Public Works administration. Both graphs are based on applications so far acted upon.



In the proportion of money granted to the amounts asked Illinois ranks slightly higher.

PASS DEADLINE FOR PAYING 2D TAX INSTALMENT

The deadline for payment of the second instalment of 1937 real estate taxes passed yesterday. But there was no large crowd of taxpayers in the office of County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer as there had been on previous penalty dates.

The office remained open until 4 p. m. Payments in the mail will still be accepted without penalty if they were postmarked before midnight last night. The penalty for payments made after the deadline is one per cent per month. Lindheimer said more collections are being received through the mail this year than in the past and more property owners are paying in advance of the deadline.

Total real estate collections up to Friday night, exclusive of mail payments not yet tabulated, were $88,465,410 on a levy of $140,849,570. Railroad tax payments were $4,670,408 on a levy of $10,607,127 and the personal property collections were $32,757,822 against a levy of $58,493,386. Payments yesterday totaled $4,179,031.

MAX EITEL'S HOME ROBBED.

Max Eitel, one of the owners of the Old Heidelberg inn at 14 West Randolp street, reported to the police yesterday that burglars had broken into his home at 433 Wellington avenue and carried away jewelry valued at $900.

DEWEY MAPPING VIGOROUS DRIVE FOR GOVERNOR

Republicans Confident of Defeating Lehman.

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for governor, mapped plans today for a vigorous state-wide campaign at the head of a ticket which party leaders regard as the strongest in two decades. Confident of victory over Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, his Democratic opponent, Dewey is preparing to carry the fight to the public in a swing throughout the state.

The immediate tasks are selection of a campaign manager, establishment of headquarters and arrangement of details of campaign financing. These are to be worked out early next week.

Two Plans Considered.

Two plans, it is understood, are being considered for a militant drive in upstate districts. One calls for the personal appearance of Dewey in each of the seven judicial districts north of Westchester county, a move which would bring all leaders in each district together to work out arrangements for the rally.

The other calls for only one or two personal appearances upstate and concentration on radio broadcasts as a campaign medium. Dewey himself, however, is belived to favor the first plan and to be decided upon at least one swing through the state.

Meanwhile Republican leaders returning from the convention at Saratoga Springs, where the selection of Mr. Dewey brought thunderous acclaim, were of the opinion that the youthful racket buster would lead Republicans into office throughout the entire state on election day.

Representative Bruce Barton, keynoter at the convention, hailed the ticket selected as one of the most attractive ever offered to the voters.

"The slate headed by Tom Dewey has youth, new names and fresh faces," said he. "The ticket represents a new vitality that I feel the people of New York state will support.

"When the people upstate get to know District Attorney Dewey as we do in Manhattan, I am confident the Republican party's entire ticket will defeat the one headed by Gov. Lehman."

Representative Hamilton Fish expressed similar views and William H. Murray, Republican state chairman, declared there was more enthusiasm for the ticket throughout the state than has been evident in many years.

Hopes Rise for 1940.

Charles H. Griffith, Westchester county leader, predicted that with Dewey as standard bearer "we will win, and the victory in New York this year will be a clear indication of what can be expected nationally in 1940."

While there was little talk of 1940 at the convention there was considerable speculation in some quarters of District Attorney Dewey's possibilities as the spearhead of a Republican drive for the presidency on the heels of a sweeping victory in the key state of New York.

Dewey showed little concern over Gov. Lehman's decision to seek reelection as he returned to his office yesterday and plunged into his work as district attorney. He described the issues in the campaign as larger and more important than the personalities of the candidates and said he approached it with enthusiasm and eagerness to do a big job.

He made it clear, however, that his campaign would in no way conflict with the conduct of the district attorney's office.

Coal Company Watchman Found Slain in Mystery

Anthony Panozzo, 64 years old, was found shot to death yesterday in the yard of the Rily Coal company, 9368 Evans avenue, where he was a night watchman. His revolver was found in a coal pile. Burnside police said he may have been slain by coal thieves. Panozzo also had apparently been slugged by his assailants. He lived at 9926 South State street.

LOESCH TO LEAD EHLER DRIVE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Committee to Represent 1,200,000 Persons.

Frank J. Loesch yesterday accepted the chairmanship of the campaign committee for Theodore F. Ehler, Republican nominee for county judge. When completed, the committee will include 100 representatives of civic, patriotic, religious, and educational organizations having a combined membership of 1,200,000.

The Loesch appointment was announced by Harry S. Ditchburne, Ehler manager, as the first step in a crusade for honest elections.

Good Government Crusader.

"Loesch," read Ditchburne's statement, "is not only Chicago's but America's number one crusader for good government. Under his fearless and unyielding leadership, vote thieves and election scoundrels will be chased out of Cook county as he has driven out other crooks and racketeers during his most useful and glorious career."

Among more than seventy persons who already have accepted membership on the Loesch committee are: Otis F. Glenn, William E. Helander, George E. Q. Johnson, Edgar A. Jonas, Charles E. Lounsbury, Arthur C. Lueder, Charles J. Mueller, Frank C. Rathje, James P. Ringley, Mrs. Harriett M. Robertson, E. J. Schnackenberg, David L. Shillinglaw, the Rev. John Thompson, and Benjamin Wham.

The announcement included an expression of appreciation by former Judge Ehler.

Pledges to Rout Politics.

"The people of our county," it read, "are deeply indebted to Mr. Loesch for his many contributions to our welfare and I am personally grateful to him for his leadership in my behalf.

"I have promised Mr. Loesch, as I have pledged to the voters of Cook county, that I will divorce the election machinery from all political domination and influence by appointing to the election board three of our foremost citizens whose characters and reputations are above reproach.

"To guarantee my faithful performance of this promise, I shall name the three election commissioners before the day of election, Nov. 8, in order that the voters may also feel confidence in the future conduct of the election machinery."

Pamphlet Attacks Jarecki.

A formal attack on Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Ehler's Democratic opponent for county judge, is made in a pamphlet written by Mrs. Robertson, a member of the Loesch committee. It was released yesterday.

"What Really Happened in the Primary Election," is the title.

"The primary election of April 12, 1938," Mrs. Robertson writes, "was fundamentally the most lawless and corrupt election that the Women's Civic council has ever experienced in Chicago."

She charges the primary election was corrupt because the election laws were not enforced by Judge Jarecki and because of alleged misuse and manipulation of the election machinery by Judge Jarecki for the "benefit of his own renomination."

McKay and Aids Surrender

M'KAY RELEASED AFTER POSTING A BOND OF $2,500

Alexander J. McKay, who resigned as chairman of the Chicago election board Friday after his indictment by the federal grand jury, surrendered on the charge yesterday. He was finger printed in the United States marshal's office, posted bond, and was released.

With McKay at the courthouse were J. H. McCaughey, 2970 Sheridan road, and J. B. Nystrom, 434 Diversey parkway, both his former employés. The three were named in true bills charging them with making false reports on Public Works administration work done by McKay's now defunct construction company for the sanitary district.

The men surrendered to Chief Deputy Marshal Joseph Tobin and made bonds of $2,500 each.

Former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch, chief defense counsel, declared he would ask for a hearing not later than December, and that they would plead not guilty. The government charges that on its monthly reports, the McKay concern listed bills for labor and materials as paid which actually had not been paid.

RYAN AND MIODUSKI NAMED DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES IN 13TH

John G. Ryan and Adam S. Mioduski were chosen as the Democratic candidates for the state house of representatives from the 13th senatorial district yesterday. They were picked to fill vacancies by the Democratic senatorial committee, which met at the home of Committeeman James F. Riley, 1339 East 75th street.

Ryan, now a member of the house, was declared defeated for renomination in the April primaries, having trailed Mioduski. Subsequently Representative William W. Powers, who had led both men, died. Then Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of the Circuit court ruled that, because Republicans had participated in the Democratic primary in the district, no Democratic nominations had been made legally. Thus two vacancies were created.

Ryan received Nash-Kelly support in the primary fight; Mioduski was backed by the Horner-Courtney faction, so the committee action yesterday represented a harmony move. They will fight it out this fall with the Republican nominees, Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg and William C. Henry. Three of the four will be elected.

PIRACY ON THE AIR WAVES.

To advance its political propaganda, the La Follette machine in Wisconsin is trying to seize the property and destroy the business of radio station WMAQ in Chicago. Station WHA at the University of Wisconsin, controled by the La Follettes, has applied to the federal communications commission for WMAQ's wave length, time on air, and power. WMAQ is owned and operated by the National Broadcasting company, which obtained it by purchase from the original user.

A distinctly pro-La Follette statement of the case is made by the national committee on education in radio, which in its bulletin says:

"This is the major step in a long planned program to give the state of Wisconsin adequate facilities with which to serve its citizens day or night. The application is certain to arouse historic legal controversy which may be decided ultimately by the Supreme court.

"The controversy centers around the question of which is more in the public interest—a commercial station admittedly putting on good programs and serving a large audience, or a state owned station supported by public taxation and dedicated exclusively to the service of citizens of the state."

It is not without significance that seven of the nine members of the committee making this statement are on the pay roll of state, local, or federal educational institutions. Politicians control their bread and butter.

The last phrase in the statement quoted gives away their case. Station WHA is not "dedicated exclusively to the service of the citizens of the state." They pay for it, but it is dedicated exclusively to advancement of the political fortunes of the La Follette machine.

In political campaigns it renders lip service to the mandate of political impartiality laid down by the communications commission—to this extent: Rival candidates are given time on the air equivalent to the time used by La Follette candidates.

But political campaigns are not waged about candidates alone. They are waged on ideas. Consistently, in campaign season and out, the station is used to promulgate the social and political ideas of the La Follettes and to extol legislation that they support. To critics of such propaganda the station offers no adequate time for reply.

State owned radio does not mean freedom of expression for the citizens. It means a monopoly of this form of communication by the political group in power. This has been demonstrated in Germany, Italy, and Russia, and it is such a monopoly that politicians of the La Follette stripe are seeking in the United States.

The La Follette machine bases its attempted thievery on a legalistic point, but it is thievery none the less. Radio stations operate on wave bands assigned them by the communications commission, on licenses which must be renewed every six months.

The law considers radio wave bands public property, to be distributed by the government in the public interest. In numerous instances this public interest has been interpreted as the interest of politicians or their friends.

The wave band assigned to the original operators of WMAQ was of no value until they spent many thousands of dollars building a broadcasting station to use that band. The station itself was useless until they had spent hundreds of thousands more to employ talent and provide programs which attracted listeners.

When the original owners came to sell the station to the National Broadcasting company these investments were taken into account. That company did not buy the wave band. It could not be sold. It repaid the original investors for the money they had spent in making the wave band useful to the public.

Now, by legalistic tactics, the La Follettes are seeking to convert that investment to their own profit by political trading. The confiscation may be legal, but they are no better than footpads.

UNFAIRNESS PERSISTS.

The National Labor Relations board is still proceeding illegally, a high United States court has found. The latest decision is from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The Union Pacific Stages, Inc., had dismissed two bus drivers. The labor relations board found that the firing of the drivers was a discrimination for the purpose of discouraging membership in the union by employés generally. The board had asked the court to compel the company to reemploy the discharged men.

The courts in these cases are required by the statute to accept the facts as found by the administrative official, provided the facts are supported by evidence. The court at Portland found that the labor board had relied not upon concrete evidence, but upon what the labor relations board calls "background," and in arriving at its conclusions had "developed this perspective in a novel method." The court also found that the board "invariably disregarded the testimony of company officials even when corroborated by other evidence."

The national labor relations act is a measure which imposes many obligations upon employers and none on employés. The courts have respected the wishes of congress in legalizing such a one-sided arrangement. But the court at Portland and other high courts elsewhere have insisted that the board must be fair in its conduct of hearings. As the Supreme court said in the Kansas City stockyards case:

"If these multiplying agencies deemed to be necessary in our complex society are to serve the purposes for which they are created and endowed with vast powers, they must accredit themselves by acting in accordance with the cherished judicial tradition embodying the basic concepts of fair play."

The national labor relations act was a bad law and its enforcement would have caused trouble with the fairest commission to enforce it. A bad act administered by the kind of men now in charge would make a wholly impossible situation if it were not for the fact that there are conscientious men still on the bench who insist that even an employer is entitled to a full and impartial hearing before being condemned.

TIME TO START WORK.

The automobile section of THE TRIBUNE carries today a map and story by Hal Foust describing a system of elevated highways, five in number, that would serve every section of Chicago.

The Chicago Motor club, which has been testing sentiment on the subject, finds nearly unanimous backing of these projects. Literally hundreds of civic and motorists' organizations in Chicago and suburban areas have gone on record, acknowledging the advantages of driving safety and relief from trafic congestion that would accrue from construction of the highway serving their district.

The only difference of opinion exists on the west side, where organized groups are backing the Congress street highway. Even here sentiment for an improved trafic outlet is unanimous. The difference is on details.

The motor club estimates the cost of the five elevated highway projects at $55,000,000. With construction spread over a ten year period, the annual cost could be met out of current revenue contributed by Chicago motorists, without resort to bond issues. The motorists of this city pay $33,000,000 a year in federal and state gasoline taxes and state and city license fees. One-sixth of this sum would finance the elevated highway projects over a reasonable construction period.

The five highway plan has the essential merit of benefiting every part of the city. It should be adopted as a unit to forestall obstruction based on sectional jealousies. The merits of elevated highways are too well known to need restatement. There is no reasonable objection to starting construction immediately.

Since some one of the projects must be started first, that in Avondale avenue, serving the northwest sector of the city, recommends itself. Every one living northwesterly from the loop wants it. Therefore it should not be delayed while the merits of the various west side roads are being canvassed.

WHAT IS A SAFE LOAD?

The average man no doubt is aware of the fact that business is being heavily taxed. He probably does not know that the taxes are frequently so heavy as to confiscate nearly all of the earnings of the men who make the wheels go around. It is as bad as that.

To take a concrete example, George L. Hartford and his brother John manage and own a large part of the stock of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. Of the money accruing to George in 1937, the brothers said in a recently published statement, the government was paid 82 per cent. Of the amount accruing to John the government tax was 83 per cent. In the event of death, the statement said, inheritance taxes would take two-thirds of the accrued earnings. That means, the statement said, that 6 cents on the dollar is all that is left to motivate these men to remain in business. If they make any money the government sooner or later gets nearly all of it.

To have prosperity in the United States we must have corporations and men like the Hartford brothers trying to make or distribute new things or make or distribute old things in better ways. There is always a chance that a fresh investment in a new business or an increased investment in an old business will turn out disastrously. When the tax is so great that the government will hog the profits if there are any, without sharing the losses, new commitments are not made. And when new business commitments are not made we have depression.

If any group of men should be aware of the effect of the inequalities and downright screwiness of the prevailing tax system it is the accountants. They audit the books and make out the tax returns. The Institute of Accountants has just published a report on federal taxation after consulting certified public accountants throughout. The report demands that the undistributed profits tax be abolished in its entirety. Although it was modified at the last session, the skeleton of it remains to haunt business. The report calls for the equalizing of tax burdens between various classes of businesses. More especially it urges the "creation of a qualified nonpartisan commission to determine a permanent policy of federal taxation to 'stimulate business'."

The nonpartisan commission to study how much of a tax load industry can bear is especially commendable. No one before has tried to find out the maximum burden that can be piled on business without crushing it. Taxation has been established by a mixture of envy, hatred, and communism. It will be a difficult task indeed to discover what the maximum safe load is. We only know now that the tax load at present is too great and that it causes business stagnation and unemployment.

SIAM'S ROAD TO REFORM

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BANGKOK, Siam.—Since Phya Pahol Bolabayuha Sena became premier of Siam when King Prajadhipok quit the throne six years ago, it has become the fashion to praise the advances which Siam has made. Phya Pahol [whose name is pronounced Pe-ah Pa-hon] certainly has cleaned up quite a few corners of the kingdom, including the public service, and he has made over the financial system, but for all that Siam remains a backward country.

Siam's chief need is roads. If the country were opened up it would be richer and development would be better balanced. But, while the government is spending money on building new industries, such as paper pulp and sugar mills, and there is discussion of aid for the cotton growers and possible establishment of textile plants, all this development is proceeding under government guidance and all of it is around Bangkok. That is where the population is, but it is not where the products are, and the situation is being created by the few roads which exist in southern Siam, none of which are quality highways.

From Kedah, in the Federated Malay States, you cross into Siam, going from a land of metal telegraph poles and smooth, easy riding roads to a place where there are wooden poles eaten by white ants, where the roads are poor and the bridges just hanging together. Methods of travel outside the railroads do not exist on any scale.

This roadless condition is the result of a deliberate policy. The railroad administration, under the rule of the kings of Siam, has kept communications down, and the result is that transport is reduced to what an elephant can carry over tortuous and difficult tracks; what sampans can freight along rivers and canals, and what men and women can bear on their heads.

The outcome of this is that exchange of goods in the modern sense of the word does not exist in great portions of Siam. Through great stretches of the country the peasant is reduced to barter for his immediate needs. He cannot hope to get his produce to a market where he can sell it for money. That fact shows how far Siam must go before she is able to exploit—at anything approaching full capacity—her undoubted reserves of raw materials.

Another interesting feature of life in this part of the world is that the government is striving to create a sense of nationality in the people. Siamese are people who do not feel strongly on the subject of their country; hence the government has been demanding the jungle dwellers shall hoist flags over their houses at the festival of the Siamese new year. Meetings are held and the new "national spirit" is explained to the jungle people. In their isolation they do not quite know what it is all about. The older ones shake their heads and say, "The old king did not bother us with things like this."

Strengthening the state is the Buddhist church. Intrenched behind its centuries of tradition, Buddhism has consecrated 17,000 temples; gives work to 140,000 priests in this country of 14,000,000 people.

Every boy from 12 to 14 years of age goes into a temple; it is the correct thing to do here. There he is taught some of the precepts of Buddha; he learns to beat out calls on the drums [the equivalent of telegraphy in our culture]; he learns to read a little and write his name. Then he goes back to being a coolie until he is 20 years old, when the police or the army claim him for another two years, after which he can earn his living any way he likes. It will be a meager living.

The religion of the Siamese will not permit him to kill anything. Not one of these people will slay a snake, and there are many cobras and hamadryads gliding about, bearing threat of imminent death. The Siamese may breed pigs, but when the time comes for killing them he will get a Chinaman to do it for him. The animal will come back as meat. It doesn't seem likely that people with these ideas about death would be very formidable on the battlefield.

But whether Siam is a valuable ally militarily, there is no doubt about her strategic position. Placed midway between the territory of Burma and French Indo-China, and with a long finger pointing down at the Malay States, on the tip of which Britain has built mighty Singapore base, Siam has value to such a country as Japan. And she is being wooed by the Japanese.

What was behind the story of the Kra canal, which was to cut this narrow isthmus and link the Indian ocean and the Gulf of Siam, thus eliminating the Singapore crossroads, remains uncertain. In the first flush of their new régime Siamese may have thought it possible. Many of them accepted the cry Japan raised of "Asia for the Asians." They accept it today. But the cold logic of the French and British squelched the scheme. Today the canal plan is dead. It may spring to life again at the proper time.

In accepting the heart warming overtures of Japan the Siamese have been influenced by the same desire that moved President Cardenas in the matter of Mexican oil. Only here it is tin that is at the bottom of the tangle. The Pahol government would like to check foreign developments in the tin mining industry. The government gets a good deal out of this industry, but it could get more. Most of the operations are under control of British, Chinese, and Australians. As in Mexico, there are drawbacks; the Siamese have knowledge of the profits, but they lack the technical knowledge, the skill needed to take out ore.

So there is under consideration the establishment of a school of mines at Haad Yai, where young Siamese might be trained to replace the foreign experts. There is an island off the coast of Siam which is known to be rich in tin. The government looks ahead to the time when its young engineers might start their working careers exploiting the riches of this island. Today no leases will be granted touching it, though a quota of tin production is allotted to the island and is sold to foreign firms. In the meantime the money raised this way is used to help pay for the army.

Japanese influence is to be seen in the fact that Siam is having cruisers built in Nipponese yards. The Japanese price is around half the cost of a European shipyard. Few Siamese are able to judge the quality of these ships—they will have to discover that when they are delivered. However, the China war has caused Japanese stock to slump. There is a fellow feeling for the Chinese and an uncertainty about the quality of a country which will treat them as the Japanese have.

Stories about the way the new régime has cleaned up corruption have been widely publicized. They cause cynical foreigners to shrug their shoulders. Most of them hold corruption is as great as ever, flourishing without check in parts of the land. At the same time the foreign community complains the government is cracking down on it. The residence tax for foreigners used to be 30 ticals a year. Today it is 100 ticals and there is talk of making it 200. The extraterritorial rights foreigners used to enjoy have disappeared and everything they use comes in with high duties attached. Already there is longing reference to the "good old days" before Siam set out on what has been called the road to reform.

COLD VACCINES APPEAR TO BE HELPFUL.

THE chief weakness in our attitude toward the common cold is that we regard it as trivial—just one of those things that must be endured occasionally. When we evaluate the final results, however, we are surprised to find how many trailers have hooked on to the ailment engine—sinus infection, middle ear disease, bronchitis, kidney irritation, even pneumonia. The affliction is world-wide—that is, wherever people are gathered together so that the virus [the causative factor] can be spread from individual to individual and bacteria can seed themselves on the fertile, inflamed mucous surfaces thus prepared.

Beginning in September, our autumn colds reach their peak in October. We will encounter a brief respite during November and the early part of December, but with the rush of Christmas shopping, with crowded stores, theaters, and churches, some member of every household will become incapacitated.

The usual types of bacteria [pus producing], which exist most of the time in our nasal passages, are unable to start a cold. They are swept away by the discharges. But let congestion come—the result of a virus invasion—and these microbes will disport themselves with glee. Then half a dozen varieties at least—in friendly rivalry—will establish themselves and manufacture toxins which are responsible for fever, aching bones, painful muscles, loss of appetite, and weakness.

The feasibility of combating this universal scourge with a vaccine depends upon extracting the teeth of the germs complicating the situation. In addition to preparations that can be injected into or beneath the skin, several types have been produced which may be taken by mouth in capsule form.

Each year the question is asked by innumerable correspondents, "Would you advise me to take cold 'shots'?" Some personal experience with a number of office workers would lead to an affirmative answer. While protection is not 100, perhaps not 75 per cent, nevertheless, in a large group of persons, the evidence is strong that not only is there a reduction in the number of seizures but in their duration. It appears that the vaccine is more powerful if given between the layers of the skin. A local area of reddening should follow each injection, which may be administered at intervals of three days. Many advocate four doses in September or October, followed by two additional in January.

The experience of L. A. Nelson for the last six years is of interest. He has employed the intradermal vaccine since 1932 and, in all, 399 patients have been so treated. Each gave a positive history of frequently recurring attacks. For the entire period, 84 out of the 399 reported definite colds. The remainder had none. In other words, nearly 79 per cent were free from even a single episode.

In a large mercantile concern where nearly 1,000 employés used vaccine by mouth [capsules] the total loss of time from work was reduced nearly 30 per cent. In the figures cited it was emphasized that those who used the dried, killed organisms regularly suffered the least. Many men and women in the series—who previously had an average of one per month—dropped to two or three for the entire winter.

We know enough about colds to urge the preservation of the body's reserve through avoiding overexposure, fatigue, and filling the alimentary tract with unneeded food. Rest, too, plays an important part. Whether we have used vaccines or not, if a cold appears the first rule is to go to bed, keep warm, drink plenty of water, lemonade, and orange juice, etc., and employ a light diet. Remain at home until the danger of complications has passed.

MAY BE TOO COLD.

C. W. writes: Do you think it possible to develop cramps after drinking milk? My 5 year old boy insists this happens to him.

REPLY.

It probably isn't the milk itself which causes the cramps. It may be too cold or he may swallow it too rapidly. Warm the fluid and have him take it slowly.

R. W. writes: Do you have printed materials on the change of life?

REPLY.

Yes. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for leaflet and booklet.

From Across the Sea

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Britain's 2,750,000 dogs now have their own highway code. It has been drawn up by the National Safety First association and the National Canine Defense league in a joint campaign to reduce the number of "jay walking" dogs in London and other cities by educating their owners.

No accurate statistics are available of dog casualties on the roads, but the number killed and injured every year runs into the thousands. Most of these casualties, according to Charles Johns, Canine league secretary, arise because owners do not know how to control their dogs.

The new "safety first" training code, which is to be printed on the back of every dog license issued in Britain, sets out the following five point program for owners:

1. Train your dog to come to heel instantly when bidden and to remain there.

2. Never turn a dog out for exercise alone.

3. Whenever possible give free exercise in the quiet byways, the park or recreation ground, or in open country. Use the busy highways as little as possible and when there keep the dog under control.

4. On highways where there is no footpath, always walk on the right hand side, facing oncoming trafic, and keeping your dog on your right.

5. Never call a dog from the opposite side of the road when trafic is approaching.

A special section applying to auto owners states: "Motorists should not allow an undisciplined dog to interfere with the driver. If not in the care of a reliable passenger the dog should be tethered by two leads, one on each side of the car, in such a way as to prevent either his interference with the driver or his jumping or falling out of the car."

Motorists are reminded that they must report accidents to the police within twenty-four hours.

The new code is not only intended as a safeguard for dogs. "It may save many human lives also," says Secretary Johns, "by reducing the number of road accidents caused by motorists swerving to avoid undisciplined dogs."

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

RIGHT OF INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My very old mother has made her will, naming me as executor. She now owns no real estate except a lot in a cemetery near Chicago, her possessions being merely a very small savings account held jointly with myself, a few household goods, and her personal jewelry and clothes. She has no debts.

1. Would it be proper for me to be her executor when she wishes me to be one of several beneficiaries, each to receive certain articles?

2. Does the cemetery lot pass on automatically to her three grown children?

C. L. T.

1. Yes.

2. They would inherit in absence of a will. The effect of the will depends on its wording.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VALIDITY OF LEASE.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I have a lease [two year lease]. Our landlord gave us a lease in October, 1937. It is dated until October, 1939. He died last November and the [1] trustee of the estate [2] says that our lease is no good because the owner is dead and they want to raise our rent.

3. Is our lease good until 1939 as signed or [4] can they put us out or raise our rent?

5. Can the trustee raise our rent because he is unable so far to find the lease which the owner held?

6. There is a slight mistake in our lease. It says we must pay $324 in monthly payments of $27 each month instead of $324 for two years. It should be twice $324, which would be $648. The trustee told me that this mistake would render the lease void.

7. Would this mistake be enough to cancel our lease?

8. On account of sickness I am unable to afford an attorney.

J. O.

1. Ordinarily probate assets would not be in the hands of a trustee so soon after the death. We assume that you mean an executor.

2. We would disagree with him. We see no reason why the lease should not remain binding as an obligation against the estate.

3. Yes, as we understand the facts.

4. No.

5. No, assuming that you are able to prove the contract by your copy.

6. As we understand it, this mistake would seem to operate in your favor if it has any effect at all. We cannot advise to advantage as to an irregular instrument without having the instrument itself before us.

7. Probably not.

8. We see no necessity for you to consult an attorney at the present time. It is the landlord's next move. If you tell him that you intend to insist on your rights we doubt if he will bring court proceedings to put you out.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I inherited some money last January. The will went through Probate court shortly after. Please tell me the usual procedure in collecting such an inheritance.

T. T.

Make sure the executor has your name and address. Presumably the money will come to you automatically. It ordinarily is not necessary for probate heirs to be separately represented by counsel.

A HINT TO BUILDERS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Nearly every Sunday I read in THE TRIBUNE where homes are being remodeled into apartments or new apartments being built, but no one takes into consideration the thousands of business women who live alone in Chicago. Usually the smallest apartment is three rooms and the price prohibitive.

Why doesn't some real estate firm get wise to itself and put up some buildings for business women only, eliminating children and dogs? A nice living room, good sized; dressing room, bath, and Pullman kitchenette would answer the purpose, and make the price not over $30.

Such buildings would pay for themselves in constant occupancy. A quiet location and convenience of transportation should be taken into consideration.

THE EMBALMERS' DEMANDS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—As president of the Embalmers, Funeral Directors, and Apprentices' union I wish to correct any misunderstanding which may have arisen as a result of letters in the Voice of the People regarding the picketing of undertakers.

This union, a recognized affiliate of the American Federation of Labor composed of embalmers and apprentices, asks an adjustment of working conditions and wages to the following basis:

The embalmer is not to be kept on duty over 102 hours a week. Wage requirements range from $15 to $45 per week.

Picketing remains the only peaceful means of informing the public of the status of individual undertakers who refuse to bargain with the union. To those who have had or will have the misfortune of being confronted with pickets the union offers its sincere regrets.

HORRORS ON THE RADIO.

Hines Hospital, Chicago, Sept. 28.—Regarding horror programs on the radio: I am the mother of an 8 year old boy, eager and active and alive, but after watching his eyes, his unwholesome absorption in several of these "Shoot to kill!" and "Get 'em alive!" programs, I've forbidden him to listen to almost every program listed for children. I know children and their reactions, and certainly I know my boy, and I felt positively ill upon realizing his state of mind and emotions after listening to two or three of these so-called "adventure programs." And I know of one radio executive who will not let his own two boys listen to more than one program on the air for children, and that is not a "horror" production.

STODDARD KING.

BULLDOZED AND BULLIED.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—I know a man fired this week because he "criticized" WPA rules. Now you've said an awful lot against WPA workers and lazy ones, but Mister, there are thousands who are slave driven, bulldozed, bullied, and even threatened on projects by autocratic "favorites" who never managed even one person before. Won't you be kind enough to write an editorial on us poor victims of such tyranny?

ONE OF THEM.

STREET TORN UP; BLOCKADED.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—I read with interest Oscar E. Hewitt's statement concerning WPA improvement projects in Chicago.

Permit me to explain why: My mother [widowed] owns a seven flat building in the 3500 block on West Palmer street, on which she is paying all taxes, keeping the building in good condition, and struggling to maintain. She will have one vacant flat on Oct. 1 because of the bad judgment of the commissioner of public works.

Palmer street has been completely torn up on both north and south sides, and the 3500 block has been blockaded during the day for weeks, making it impossible for prospective tenants to drive down the street and make inquiries about apartments. Would it not have been wise to tear up this street before or after the renting season?

The loss of rental from this apartment will not increase the property value of the building if my mother is unable to meet taxes, interest, and expenses on the building and it is taken away from her. She has no other income to use.

This complaint is not of one disgruntled person but of every property owner and motorist on the street. Is the government going to reimburse us for the lost rental so we can continue to pay taxes and the government can continue the projects or are we to join the WPA workers?

MRS. J. R. JENKINS.

A WAY TO SAVE LIVES.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—"Improve Chicago for Chicagoans; don't elevate the highways for suburbanites." This bloodthirsty view was expressed today by a contributor to this column. A great majority of Chicago's 1,000 deaths per year would be eliminated by elevated highways, to say nothing of thousands of lesser accidents.

Moreover, the elevated highways would be used by ten Chicagoans to one suburbanite. These highways will be paid for by the gasoline and motor taxes; that is, by the users of the roads.

The elevated highway is certain to come because of humanitarian and economic factors, and the contributor's complaint is about as logical as that of the ferry boat captain's against the Brooklyn bridge.

WHO WAS JOHN WONDERLY?

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28. — Will you please publish the following question, as there is an interesting railroad story in connection with the name. "Who was John Wonderly, and why was his name on the cab of his locomotive above the engine number?"

Or you might print just "Who was John Wonderly?" and see if any of your readers remember the name.

HOURS FOR DOMESTIC HELP.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Can a plan be worked out for an eight hour day for domestics so that the poor, the medium class, and the rich can all have night and day service? As it is we who take a job in a home put in fifteen hours and girls taking care of children put in more hours with disturbed sleep.

UNCLE SAM'S BILL FOR GOVERNMENT IS $250 A SECOND

Total Cost to Nation Nears 17 Billion a Year.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The last few years have seen a striking development in the two certainties of life—death and taxes. While the measured swinging of the scythe of death has been slackened, the tax collector's digging has been accelerated.

The cost of government—federal, state, and local—mounted from 8 billion 918 million dollars in 1923 to 16 billion 900 million dollars in 1937. This represents a per capita increase of more than $50, or from $79.96 to $130.76.

The federal government accounted for almost half of the total spent. The 1937 fiscal year expenditures totaled 8 billion 131 million dollars.

$250 Spent Every Second.

This means that the government spent about $250 a second, day and night, throughout the fiscal year. The expenditures were $15,000 a minute and $21,000,000 a day.

Today the rate of expenditure is even greater. With the addition of the 5½ billion dollar pump priming fund, the rate of expenditure has risen above $16,000 a minute and will go far higher when the program gets under full steam.

Under the present rate of spending, the total wages earned in 150 years in a city of 150,000 population would support the federal government only one year. It would take 42 cents of every dollar spent in retail purchases in the United States last year to pay the costs of all governments.

Where It Comes From.

Citizens may well ask where the money comes from. Administration spokesmen have attempted, through subtle arguments, to create the impression that only the rich pay taxes.

The fallacy of this is shown by the fact that if every dollar of income of persons receiving more than $5,000 a year were to be confiscated the sum would pay the cost of the numerous governments for only half a year.

The taxes are paid by the sweat of labor and fall heaviest upon the poor. Taxes are concealed in every purchase—in food, clothing, luxuries, rent, heat, light, and all the rest.

Business Heavily Taxed.

Under the present administration taxes have fallen heavily on business. Many firms pay more in taxes than they pay to stockholders in dividends. The American Federation of Investors reported in a survey of 150 business concerns in 1937 that taxes averaged $2.62 per share of common stock while dividends averaged $1.95.

The full burden of taxation has not yet fallen on the taxpayers because much of the administration's programs have been carried on with borrowed money, for which the government will have to dig into taxpayers' pockets in the future.

From 1931 to 1938, and largely under the present administration, the government spent 23 billion 777 million dollars more than it received. The state and local governments followed the national example and increased their expenditures through borrowed money.

Table Shows Spending.

In 1937 the indebtedness of all classes of governments was 55 billion 579 million dollars, or $429.99 per capita. In 1913 the national indebtedness was 5 billion 571 million dollars, or $59.28 per capita. Governmental expenditures, in hundred millions of dollars, in the fiscal years from 1928 to 1937 are shown in the following table:

Year.	Federal.	State.	Local.	Total.
1928	2,894	1,774	6,409	11,077
1929	3,046	1,943	6,720	11,709
1930	3,237	2,170	6,630	12,037
1931	3,640	2,298	6,541	12,479
1932	4,712	2,257	6,448	13,417
1933	4,732	2,067	5,433	12,232
1934	6,784	2,044	5,621	14,449
1935	6,844	2,230	5,857	14,931
1936	8,576	2,433	6,038	17,047
1937	8,131	......	......	16,900

The immediate cost to taxpayers, in millions of dollars, is shown below:

Year.	Federal.	State.	Local.	Total.
1928	4,194	1,507	4,641	9,342
1929	3,328	1,612	4,819	9,759
1930	3,468	1,780	5,018	10,266
1931	2,717	1,778	4,805	9,300
1932	1,789	1,642	4,716	8,147
1933	1,786	1,505	4,210	7,501
1934	2,892	1,721	4,160	8,773
1935	3,546	1,886	4,299	9,731
1936	3,847	2,296	4,355	10,498
1937	5,029	......	......	12,300

Of the $130.76 spent by the governments for every man, woman, and child in the country, the per capita contribution was $95, or $380 for a family of four.

Bites Into Income.

This collection takes a large bite out of the national income, as shown in the following table:

1929	$81,128	12.0
1930	68,302	15.0
1931	53,822	17.3
1932	40,014	20.4
1933	42,256	17.8
1934	50,052	17.5
1935	55,186	17.6
1936	63,466	16.5
1937	69,817	*17.6

*Preliminary estimates.

The proportionate bite into corporations under the present administration has leaped even greater. In 1926 out of a net income of 9 billion 382 million dollars, all corporations paid taxes of 3 billion 108 million dollars, leaving net earnings of 6 billion 774 million dollars.

In 1935 the net income fell to 5 billion 37 million dollars, but corporations paid taxes of 3 billion 363 million dollars. Net earnings dropped to 1 billion 674 million dollars.

HOLD SUSPENDED POLICEMAN FOR WOUNDING MAN

On orders of Police Commissioner Allman, Policeman Charles Maloney was charged yesterday with assault with intent to murder. This action followed his suspension from the force for shooting a man early yesterday. He was held at the Summerdale station.

Charles Maloney. TRIBUNE Photo.]

The victim was Archie Rosenthal, 4719 North St. Louis avenue, a clerk. He said Maloney tried to pick a quarrel with him when he entered a drug store at 4800 Broadway. To avoid trouble, Rosenthal said, he ran to catch a street car. Maloney fired three shots. One struck Rosenthal in the ankle. Several witnesses said the policeman was intoxicated.

Maloney was on military furlough. He is a member of the Police post drum and bugle corps and had just returned from the American Legion convention in Los Angeles. In his fourteen years of service he two has received creditable mentions. He lives at 3749 Kenmore avenue.

Maloney said he thought Rosenthal was a robber and fired into the air when the clerk ran down the street.

TIPSY NUDIST PRANCES RIGHT OUT OF WIFE'S LIFE BY COURT DECREE

It wasn't so bad that her husband came home intoxicated four or five times a week, Mrs. Frieda Grossgut told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. But it was too much when he insisted on prancing around in the nude, she said. Judge O'Connell granted her a divorce from Paul Grossgut, a brewery employé. Mrs. Grossgut lives at 3713 Wesley avenue, Berwyn.

CHIMP-KIDNAPER LASSOED AND ZOO BABY RECOVERED

New Orleans, La., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—A kidnaper was subdued here this morning and a lot of monkey business in the Audubon park zoo was ended. Lassoed and helpless, Mrs. Luizette, a powerful female chimpanzee, was forced to surrender the child she stole three days ago.

The child, a son of Mrs. Coco, Mrs. Luizette's cage mate, was near death from thirst and starvation. He had taken no food—or drink—since his birth Wednesday.

Frank Neelis, zoo superintendent, said he would attempt to save the life of the infant by feeding him from a bottle. He does not believe the baby would be safe with his mother after three days with the kidnaper.

Quarrels with Wife; Sleeps in Garage; Dies of Burns

After a quarrel with his wife early yesterday, William Jacobsen, 63 years old, went into the garage behind his home, 1652 North Claremont avenue, to sleep. While sleeping, a cigaret ignited his clothing. In the afternoon he died of his burns in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

HARRY JENNINGS, CHICAGO BANDIT, SEEKING PAROLE

Harry Jennings, a Chicago bandit, was sentenced to serve from 10 years to life in Joliet penitentiary for armed robbery on July 14, 1922. Three years later the state legislature changed the punishment for this crime to one year to life.

Jennings studied law in prison, and filed suit for a parole in 1929, contending he had this right under the new law. He was upheld by the late Judge Joseph David, but the Illinois Supreme court reversed him. It was considered a test case at the time.

Meanwhile Jennings had been confined to a federal prison. Upon his release in 1932, he was brought back to Joliet, where he has now spent thirteen years and 4 months under his original sentence. The parole board disclosed yesterday that Jennings' application for parole is among those of 413 other convicts which will be considered at hearings beginning tomorrow.

MAYOR KELLY'S REGIME CALLED BEST IN HISTORY

Citizens' Group Defends Added Expenses.

Chicago today has the best city government in its history. Taxpayers are getting full value for every dollar spent for municipal services such as street maintenance, garbage collection, police, fire and health protection. Increased expenditures in 1938 are the result of a restoration of facilities and salaries to a pre-depression standard.

These are the conclusions of a report by the Citizens' Committee on Public Information, a nonpartisan civic organization, which was turned over to Mayor Kelly yesterday. The committee consists of 100 representative Chicagoans. It was created several months ago to stimulate Chicago business and encourage a wider public interest in city affairs.

Study Answers Critics.

Mayor Kelly asked that the study be made after various groups and individuals had attacked the administration for increased expenditures. It was alleged that no noticeable increase in efficiency had resulted.

Chicago's municipal government has a plant representing an investment of more than 134 million dollars, it was explained.

Chicago's per capita cost of government is $53.57, the report stated. This is the lowest rate among thirteen large cities, including New York, $91.78; Detroit, $74.64; Los Angeles, $71.25; Cleveland, $65.85, and Pittsburgh, $63.62.

Its per capita net indebtedness is $122.95, as compared with a $171.52 average for fourteen cities with a population of more than 500,000. Of these cities nine had a larger per capita debt than Chicago in 1936, the latest figures available.

"Important is the fact that Chicago during the last five years has been progressively reducing its bonded indebtedness, thus diminishing the burden on taxpayers," the committee reported. "Since Dec. 31, 1931, the city has cut its debt by the amazing figure of $34,825,000. Interest alone on such an amount would lay a heavy burden on taxpayers."

The committee compared governmental costs here with those of New York, using 1938 appropriations in both instances. Results are as follows:

	New York.	Chicago.
Population	7,428,135	3,632,701
Appropriations for all funds and departments	$667,787,431	$196,250,332
Police department	59,070,662	18,163,594
Fire department..	29,368,584	8,270,840
Health department	5,528,234	2,705,230

"The conclusion is inescapable that the cost of government in Chicago is proportionately lower than in New York," the committee asserted. "Compared with all other large cities, Chicago stands in the front rank for economical administration of governmental affairs and in the high caliber of its public service."

Improving Physical Plant.

In considering the various services, the report had this to say of the depression's effect upon the city and its recovery:

"A comparison of the condition of Chicago's physical plant—its streets, alleys, buildings, bridges, sewers, parks, and playgrounds—in the lean years of the depression with the condition of the plant today shows steady improvement in the last few years. . . .

"To insure the performance of needed services and to restore salaries to normal levels, the city's expenditures were increased this year. But when the service of 1933 is compared with the service now, taxpayers know that the increase was necessary. Previously the plant was deteriorating. Now it is being improved."

The activities of the department of public works, headed by Oscar E. Hewitt, received the committee's praise. The annual average of asphalt resurfacing for the years 1933 to 1937 has been approximately four times the average of any other administration since 1912, it was found. Moreover, the report stated, seven times as much concrete and brick street work has been done under Mayor Kelly as under previous administrations.

The operation of the water department and the securing of federal aid for the construction of a filtration plant for the south side were also commended. Refuse collections, which increased from 1,820,000 cubic yards in 1933 to 2,492,000 last year, likewise received praise.

The police department is one of the finest in the nation, the report stated, and Chicago has ceased to be the crime center of America. The fire department, with a per capita cost of operation 33 per cent less than that of New York, has reduced fire losses from nearly $15,000,000 in 1926 to approximately $6,000,000 last year.

"Chicago's health department is a model for the nation, with the result that the city is the most healthful large city in America," the committee reported. "It has the lowest infant mortality rate of any city and figures for all diseases show the effectiveness of its operation.

Extol Law Department.

"Another city activity which has won national recognition since 1935 is Chicago's law department. Under Barnet Hodes it has become one of the most efficient and progressive municipal legal departments in the United States."

In conclusion, the committee had this to say in general comment on the present city administration:

"Businesslike administration has featured the government of Chicago—in its financial policies and in service rendered. Chicago, the commercial capital of the middle west, has enjoyed during the last five years an administration that has shown itself especially responsive to the city's commercial welfare. Mayor Kelly has shown that he is eager to give Chicago the best kind of municipal government."

Chicago Government Costs Low

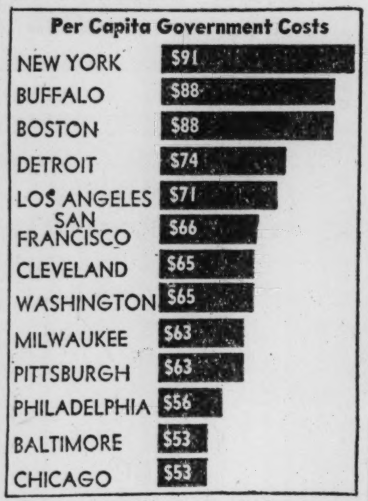
While New York's population of 7,428,135 is approximately twice that of Chicago (3,632,701), city appropriations of the eastern metropolis ($667,787,431) are more than three times as large as Chicago's ($196,250,332).



In per capita costs of government Chicago ranks at the bottom of this group of large cities.

CITY TO HAIL AIR WEEK TOMORROW WITH SKY PARADE

A sky parade over Chicago and other key cities tomorrow will feature the observance of National Air Travel week. Nine multiengined transports, carrying civic and business leaders, will join in the mass flight here. It will be the first ride for some of the 130 passengers who have been invited for the demonstration.

Starting yesterday State street and neighborhood department stores and offices prominently displayed air travel exhibits. Service and luncheon clubs plan programs this week outlining the progress made by the nation's twenty-one airlines during the last decade.

A marathon air journey of 26,000 miles will bring Mrs. Alice R. Hager, author, here tonight. She will receive a beauty treatment at the Chicago airport before continuing her eight day tour of sixty-seven cities on a TWA airliner.

4 Charged with Burglary After Baring Hidden Loot

Four young men who led police to caches where jewelry, radios, and bicycles valued at more than $1,000 were recovered were charged with burglary yesterday. They are George Exner, 18 years old, 3324 Maypole avenue; Fred Weiner, 18, of 2429 Division street; Casimir Szerlong, 16, who gave no address, and Henry Wolfelschneider, 17, of 1936 North Spaulding avenue. They will be arraigned in the Automobile court tomorrow, because Wolfelschneider was also charged with stealing a car.

CHILD KILLED BY TRUCK.

Petersburg, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Hopper, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hopper, living one and one-half miles south of Winslow, was struck and killed by a truck last night on state highway No. 64, one mile south of Winslow.

A ROCKEFELLER IN U. OF C.; FAMILY GAVE IT 70 MILLION

David Rockefeller, youngest son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., has become the first member of his family to register at the University of Chicago, which his grandfather founded. Mr. Rockefeller arrived Thursday from New York.

David Rockefeller.

He said yesterday that he plans to obtain a degree of doctor of philosophy in economics. After being graduated from Harvard university in 1936, he took graduate work there for a year, and then spent another year at the London School of Economics in England. He has no definite plans after completing his course.

Mr. Rockefeller's grandfather gave $35,000,000 to the university during his lifetime. Since his death the Rockefeller board, under the direction of David's father, has more than doubled the amount. John D. Sr. only visited the university twice, in 1896 and in 1901. John D. Jr. was a member of the board of trustees for thirteen years.

COURT ENJOINS C. I. O. FROM BARRING LOYAL WORKMEN IN STRIKE

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—District Judge Otho S. Thomas of Rock Rapids today restrained C. I. O. packing house workers from interfering with local employés of the Swift & Co. packing plant. Peaceful picketing by ten men is permitted by the court order.

E. F. Kaderabek, general manager, and R. H. Matt, office manager, testified that pickets had prevented them from entering the plant since a strike started Thursday. One hundred and fifty C. I. O. members were defendants in the injunction suit. The strike began over the C. I. O. charge that the company refused to recognize a union grievance committee.

Pickets today prevented movement of a carload of meat from the company's plant. It was believed the injunction may prevent the strike from spreading to Sioux City plants of the Armour and Cudahy companies.

Holcomb Gets Permanent Rank of Major General

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the marine corps, who has been holding the temporary rank of major general, was given that permanent rank today, being promoted from his regular grade of brigadier general.

Miss Natalie Fuller Wed to Richard M. Howland

Huntington, N. Y., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Miss Natalie Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Seymour Keyes Fuller, was married here this afternoon in the First Presbyterian church to Richard Moulton Howland, son of Prof. George Carter Howland of the of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Howland. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward W. Humeston.

Honor C. I. Herron Tonight for Serving Orphan Home

A testimonial dinner in honor of Charles I. Herron will be held in the Stevens hotel tonight. The dinner will recall the services of Mr. Herron of 832 Argyle avenue during the 30 years he has been a director of the Marks Nathan Jewish Orphan home at Albany avenue and 16th street. He was president for the last 25 years.

Seized Trying to Cash Fake Check at Exchange

Neal Greer, 29 years old, was captured yesterday by Policeman Raymond Burch shortly after he attempted to cash a worthless $79 pay check in the currency exchange at 6257 Cottage Grove avenue. Greer fled when the manager, Belding Thorpe, suspecting the check, drew a revolver and ordered him to surrender. Greer said he was a civil engineer, unable to find work.

STOMACH TROUBLE
- is dangerous
especially in men and women over 40 years of age

A recent medical survey shows that almost 50% of men in this age group and almost 40% of women with stomach trouble had peptic ulcer, gall-bladder disease or cancer of the stomach, pancreas or intestine.

These conditions cannot be determined by symptoms alone. A sensitive stomach with no disease present may react the same as where a very serious condition exists. For this reason it is highly important that every stomach disorder be traced to its source and corrective treatment started without delay. For all symptoms if allowed to persist may be followed by dangerous organic changes.

The X-ray studies pictured above show five different conditions responsible for stomach distress. Three indicate serious diseases, two indicate no disease, yet symptoms in all five were practically the same. Symptoms that should receive early medical attention are: dyspepsia or indigestion, belching sour material, nausea, vomiting and abdominal pains.

Do not try to cure your stomach trouble with patent medicines, or self imposed diet. While they may afford temporary relief they may also actually jeopardize your chances of recovery through delay in the diagnosis of some malignant disease. Proper treatment cannot be instituted until the exact cause is revealed. An X-ray examination of the stomach, gall-bladder and intestinal tract is necessary to obtain the earliest and most positive diagnosis of a stomach disorder. Modern medicine recognizes this fact, but patients often fail to receive such examination on account of their excessive cost elsewhere.

These adequate medical services are not expensive procedures at a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE. For the past five and one-half years X-ray examinations as well as other modern medical facilities have been made available to all income groups within their ability to pay. And what is more important, a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE is a complete and fully responsible service. It was organized by Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, outstanding pioneer in providing low cost medical care to the people of Chicago for the past eighteen years. His medical associates are men of long experience and training with special knowledge in the different fields of medicine. If you are ill come to this well equipped responsible medical organization and let its well trained physicians determine the cause and prescribe proper treatment. SILENCE, SECRECY AND SUSPICION IS THE CODE OF WPA Find Everybody Spies on Everybody Else.

[This is the twenty-second in a series of articles on the Works Progress administration. Today's article deals with the system of spying that has developed a code of silence, secrecy, suspicion, and fear in the WPA ranks.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

A catechism of fear for the three million Americans who depend upon the federal Works Progress administration for their livelihood:

Q.—As a WPA worker do you fear for your job? A.—Yes.

Q.—Whom do you fear? A.—My fellow workers and my foreman.

Q.—And whom does your foreman fear? A.—The project supervisor.

Q.—And the supervisor? A.—He is afraid of the superintendent. The superintendent is afraid of the Mart.

Q.—What is "the Mart"? A.—It is the Chicago Merchandise Mart where the offices of state and district administrators are situated.

Big Bosses Fear Washington.

Q.—Are the administrators afraid of any one? A.—Yes, they fear "Washington" and the politicians. They don't trust the men under them. They fear publicity and one another.

Q.—What is the result of all this? A.—You don't dare say what you think to the man beside you or to outsiders. Every one spies on everybody else. No matter how you are treated you don't dare report it. And the higher ups don't want to hear it; they don't encourage the practice of informing on bosses. You might inform on one of them some time.

This catechism differs vastly from the one issued in 1936 with the blessing of Harry Hopkins, national administrator. By way of contrast, here is a question and its answer, taken from page 21 of the Hopkins handbook:

Q.—What if I think the project I am working on is a waste of money; can I complain about it? A.—Yes. All projects are selected by local officials, and as a local citizen you should be interested not only in the efficiency, but in the use the project will be to your community.

Good Way to Lose Job.

But no WPA worker in his right mind would follow this stirring advice. Very soon after he had done his duty as a citizen he would be a jobless citizen. And WPA would be closed to him forever.

This might not have been true a year or so ago, when WPA was considered a temporary thing at best. But now that the new assurance has come—assurance that politics will keep WPA alive from now on—jobs suddenly have become precious, especially to the bosses and straw bosses. New and harsh methods are being applied.

Under the code of silence, secrecy, and fear that has grown up in the WPA men are subjected to such conditions as are found in dictator countries. The man next to you may be the foreman's secret agent; the man next to him may be the superintendent's secret agent.

Foremen have received summary orders from superintendents to fire men they thought were getting along all right. In some cases these orders have come from even higher. In each case some reason was given for the dismissal, but the foreman were not fooled. It meant that the GPU had scored again.

Precedent Set by Hopkins.

The precedent for silence about WPA matters came from on high. On June 20, 1936, Administrator Hopkins forbade state administrators to testify in state courts about WPA matters. He also forbade them to give out information, documents, or copies of them except in line with official business.

For a time the Chicago Relief administration had difficulty in prosecuting cheaters who were found to be receiving direct relief and drawing WPA pay at the same time. The WPA refused to supply the needed evidence in court. This was corrected, however, when Charles E. Miner became state administrator. The CRA now gets full coöperation of the WPA in these cases, it reports.

Newpaper men have learned that it is of almost no use to question supervisors and foremen out on the project. All information must come from the Mart; sometimes from very high in the Mart.

And these project officials swiftly become belligerently suspicious of persons who stare too long at the crews. Speak to one of the men and the foreman will bear down upon you.

No Talking to Workers.

"What's that? What's that?" he will inquire. "I can answer any questions that need to be answered around here."

And when you are gone he will question the other workers as to what you really had said, and what the man you spoke to replied.

When a Tribune photographer attempted to photograph WPA workers at the great Chicago airport project—a public place—a foreman stopped him and took him to a superintendent, from whom he was to ask permission. While the permission was being refused an emissary of the superintendent hurried from gang to gang spreading the alarm. The photographer left the airport practically under guard.

On the following day permission was sought from Carl P. Morgan, executive assistant to Harold K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA administrator. Mr. Morgan was not at all evasive.

"The WPA does not regiment people," he said. "And we won't let you take pictures showing us doing it."

Threaten to Smash Camera.

And when the pictures finally were taken the men were in a hostile mood. There were shouts of "Smash the camera . . . throw 'em out . . . give 'em the works!"

After that, long range cameras known as Big Berthas were used on WPA pictures for the safety of the photographers. The day after the airport incident a photographer for a paper friendly to the administration innocently approached the project. He was tossed out on general principles.

High officials of the WPA rarely are so blunt in refusing information as was Mr. Morgan. The usual method is delay—until the information is no longer of value. But, blunt or suave, the reasons are always the same:

Silence. Secrecy. Fear.

SOCIAL COUNCIL SEEKS DISTRICT HEALTH CENTERS

Outlines Welfare Plan in Letter to Bundesen.

The establishment of neighborhood public health centers throughout the city was urged yesterday by the Council of Social Agencies in a letter to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

The plan, developed jointly by the health department and the health division of the social service group, calls for the coördination of existing disease prevention and health education activities of the board in from 12 to 18 district stations. The activities at present include infant welfare, dental examinations, tuberculosis prevention, and general health education.

Indorsed by 48 Agencies.

Alexander Ropchan, executive secretary of the council's health division, said that the plan, modeled after New York and Boston systems, has the indorsement of 48 agencies, including the Chicago Medical and Dental societies, American Red Cross, Chicago Woman's club, Chicago Church federation, and other civic, medical, social, church, and hospital organizations.

"The district health center plan," said Ropchan, "does not propose to set up dispensaries for the treatment of medical and surgical conditions nor does it propose expansion of public health services. It merely provides for more effective, more economical health work by districting and decentralizing health services."

Suggests a Beginning.

The council, which represents 200 Chicago social agencies, recommended that the board of health begin by setting up one demonstration center in 1939 to develop experience. It suggested a rent free building near Provident hospital for this purpose, setting the maximum cost at $50,000 a year.

The letter pointed out that substantial financial aid could be obtained from the Julius Rosenwald fund, the United States Public Health service, and the Works Progress administration.

Dr. Bundesen could not be reached for comment. Ropchan said that when the plan was first proposed Dr. Bundesen asked that the council obtain public understanding and support for it.

INDIANA CRASH KILLS RESIDENT OF OAK PARK

Ralph Mordue, 40 years old, of 300 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, was killed instantly early yesterday when his car and another collided on U. S. route 6, south of La Porte, Ind. Orie Zook of 1312 South 8th street, Goshen, Ind., was the driver of the other car. He was unhurt.

Gaston Pina, 18 years old, 708 Grand avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when he swerved his motorcycle into a motor truck at Grand avenue and Des Plaines street. He died last night in the North Avenue hospital. The truck driver was Harry Ruben, 24, of 2744 Division street.

Edward Hornek, 52 years old, of North Park street, Westmont, a molder, was killed early today by an automobile while he was walking on Ogden avenue, about a mile west of Westmont, in Du Page county. The driver was Frank McCanos, 30, of Sugar Grove, Kane county.

John Campbell, 30 years old, colored, 4546 State street, was killed early today when he was run over by two automobiles whose drivers failed to stop. He was walking across State street at 46th street when he was knocked down and run over by one car, then run over by a car following.

A Kane county coroner's jury yesterday held accidental the two deaths Friday night in a highway collision three miles west of Elgin. Victims were Jack H. Collingbourne, 27, son of A. B. Collingbourne, Elgin manufacturer, and C. W. Wilkins, 50, of Evansville, Ind. Their automobile collided with a moving van driven by Duane Pursel of Moorepark, Mich., who was unhurt. John O'Malley of Elgin, who was with the two victims, was in a critical condition in an Elgin hospital.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 604 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 464 were killed in Chicago, where in the same period 14,710 were injured.

Conway Tearle, 60, Veteran Stage and Film Actor, Dies

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Conway Tearle, 60 years old, veteran stage and screen actor, died of a heart ailment tonight. A star on the London and New York stage long before entering motion pictures in 1914, Tearle had held his own in leading rôles until the advent of sound production. He was born in New York May 17, 1878. His first wife was the late Josephine Park. His second, Mrs. Menges Corwin-Hill. His widow is Adele Rowland, former musical comedy star.

Sidewipes Truck

John Fettis, 39 years old, 5467 Dorchester avenue, was slightly injured last night when his automobile sidewiped a trailer-truck in front of 2742 Madison street. Fettis received first aid at the County hospital and was then taken home. His automobile was completely wrecked in the smashup. The truck driver, Floyd White, 40 years old, 3154 Van Buren street, was jarred by the crash, but not hurt. The accident temporarily delayed trafic in Madison street.

PETER C. DINGS, 69, RETIRED OIL MAN, DIES; HIT BY CAR

Peter C. Dings, 69 years old, retired oil operator and banker, died yesterday in Henrotin hospital of injuries incurred on Sept. 21 when he was struck by an automobile at Michigan avenue and Oak street.

Peter C. Dings.

Mr. Dings, who lived at the Drake hotel, retired last year from the vice presidency of the Champlain Oil Products company of Montreal, Canada. Previously he had been treasurer of the Illinois Light and Power corporation, an officer of the North American Light and Power company, president of the Oklahoma Bankers' association, and an operator in the oil fields of the southwest.

His wife, Mrs. Gertrude Dings, died of a heart attack on Sept. 2 at their summer home near Traverse City, Mich.

Funeral services for Mr. Dings will be held at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Graceland cemetery chapel. He is survived by a daughter, Dorothy, who is the wife of Carl J. Kohler, son of former Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin.

BIG MOVING DAY REFLECTS GOOD FALL BUSINESS

Yesterday was moving day, and a big one. Opinions varied on just how big, however. Some moving companies reported a bigger Oct. 1 peak than any in several years. Others figured it at less than last May 1.

Leonard Downie, manager of the Chicago Real Estate board, had an explanation for it. He said that the renting business was slack until after Sept. 15, but that a last minute rush developed "in the last week with the scale of rents holding to a high level." Whether the exceptional peak will carry the fall volume above last year is still uncertain, Downie said. But fewer families seem to be doubling up, and, he added, there appears to be more business confidence.

Zigzag Driver Crashes; Gets Ten Days in Jail

When Detective David Coghlan saw a car zigzagging along Maypole avenue early yesterday he followed. Presently the machine crashed against a fire hydrant and Coghlan arrested John Pape, 20 years old, 816 South May street, a printer. Pape was arraigned later before Judge Eugene J. Holland in Boys' court and sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell for reckless driving.

HUSBAND KILLS SUFFERING WIFE AT HER REQUEST

Hewlett, N. Y., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Harry Johnson, 65 years old, a retired gasoline distributor, told Nassau county authorities tonight that he had killed his cancer afflicted wife at her own request to end her sufferings.

Harry Johnson.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

His wife, Mrs. Jennie A. Johnson, 67 years old, was found dead in a blanket sealed bedroom on the second floor of their three story brick home. A 150 foot length of garden hose attached to a gas main in the cellar had carried fumes to the death chamber.

The couple, known to neighbors and friends as unusually devoted, had been married forty years.

Wife Watches Preparations.

Johnson said his wife had undergone a stomach cancer operation about two years ago and that the physician, Dr. John Erdmann, a New York cancer specialist, told him that the case was incurable.

Johnson, an uncle of Nassau County Judge Cortland Johnson, said his wife watched him while he brought the hose into the room and sealed the windows and doors with water-soaked blankets and towels.

These preparations made, he said he told his wife: "Go to sleep, darling. You'll be all right now."

Then he kissed her good-by, went to the cellar, and turned on the gas.

Ponders Decision Two Weeks.

The husband told detectives it took him two weeks to make the decision.

"My wife had been in terrible agony for a long time," he said. "She had been unable to take food for three days. It was worse than death. I could stand it no longer. No man could."

Before making the final arrangements, Johnson said, he sent his wife's nurse and the family maid for a walk after breakfast. An hour later, when the nurse returned, she found Mrs. Johnson dead.

Johnson was booked on a charge of first degree murder.

BEGIN NEW DRIVE TOMORROW FOR SAFETY TESTING

Only 40,534 of 117,000 automobiles and trucks designated for testing at city safety lanes in September had received stickers up to Friday, Deputy Vehicle Commissioner Edward J. Gorman said yesterday. Police tomorrow will begin a drive on delinquent motorists to force them to visit the lanes. The number of arrests will be increased from 100 a day to about 600.

Since July 1, Gorman said, 231,663 cars and trucks have received approval stickers. Nearly 247,000 vehicles have passed through the ten lanes. About 15,000 of these were rejected and never returned. Vehicles to be tested in October according to city license number are: less than 35 horse power, 300,001 to 400,000; more than 35 horse power, 9,001 to 12,000; light trucks, 24,001 to 32,000; heavy trucks, 18,001 to 24,000.

3 BANDITS ROB CLEANER OF $500.

Meyer Cohn, 26 years old, 3206 Ainslie street, manager of the Oriole Cleaners, Inc., 735 North Paulaski road, was robbed of $500 in receipts yesterday by three bandits in the store.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Lillie L. Hawley.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillie L. Hawley will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Church of the Redeemer, 1420 East 56th street. Mrs. Hawley died Thursday at the age of 81 after a long illness. She lived in the Del Prado hotel and was the widow of Henry S. Hawley, who for many years was in the railroad supply business in Chicago. She was active in civic and club work until an injury confined her to her apartment several years ago. Mrs. Hawley had lived in Chicago since 1871. Surviving are two sons, Robert D. and Philip F. Hawley, and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Kirkland and Mrs. Frank F. Wormwood.

Dr. James H. Roth.

Dr. James H. Roth of 5306 West 23d street, Cicero, a practicing physician in Chicago and its suburbs for more than forty years, died early yesterday following an apoplectic stroke in his home. He was 68 years old. Dr. Roth was born in Chicago and received his medical education at Rush Medical school, where he was graduated in 1896. His widow, Rose, survives.

Harry W. Finnell.

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Harry W. Finnell, 57 years old, a vice president of the Phelps Dodge Copper Products corporation, died today after a short illness. Before joining the Phelps Dodge copper interests ten years ago, Mr. Finnell had been sales manager of the Fairbanks Morse company of Chicago.

Aurelia Coccia.

ARMY AND NAVY OFFICERS CHEER MOSELEY STAND

Attack by Woodring Is Branded False.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Although their lips are sealed by traditions of the services, army and navy officers today rejoiced over the blast Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley delivered against the administration on his retirement from active service at Atlanta, Ga., yesterday.

The more abundant life program of the administration, with its wasteful experimentation, has found little sympathy among men highly trained for their tasks who received far less in the way of compensation than the idea men of the administration.

Praised for Warning.

Throughout army and navy circles, Gen. Moseley, who is held in high esteem, was praised for his forthright warning that "increased government responsibility and resultant federal paternalism will inevitably become dictatorship." Moseley added that he considered the nation to be suffering from a lack of outstanding leadership and criticized administration policies.

Officers whispered that if they could they would like to add to Moseley's statement. However, tradition binds them to keep their partisan views to themselves while they are on active service.

Officers Condemn Woodring.

At the same time officers privately condemned Secretary of War Woodring, who branded flagrantly disloyal the warning Moseley passed on to his country as his last act of forty-three years of service. Woodring charged that Moseley's views grew out of his disappointment at not being made chief of staf.

Officers of both services called the secretary's statements untrue and unjust. It was pointed out that a retired officer is considered to have the same privilege of free speech as a private citizen.

The reference to Moseley's slighted ambition was labeled a canard. It was recalled that Moseley was not eligible for the position of chief of staf at the last appointment.

At the time Gen. Malin Craig was appointed Moseley was too old for the post because his retirement was scheduled before he could complete the term of duty.

LOTTERY RING SUSPECT FIGHTS TAX INDICTMENT

Attorneys for Abraham Zimmerman, 37 years old, reputed head of a nation-wide lottery ring, will appear tomorrow before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to argue a demurrer to his indictment for evading income tax payments of $65,000 for 1929, 1930, and 1931. Government agents allege that Zimmerman had a gross income of $411,916 for the three years from a national lottery. Zimmerman, who is said to live near Trenton, N. J., is at liberty on $20,000 bond pending trial.

Lake County's Drowning Toll for Year Is Lower

Ten Chicagoans and five other persons drowned during the summer in Lake county, according to a report yesterday by Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner. Of the fifteen, four lost their lives in Lake Michigan and eleven in the smaller lakes. This was the second lowest annual toll in the last ten years, Dr. Taylor said. The lowest toll in the period was twelve lives in 1933. Twenty-four persons drowned in the county last year.

Missouri Synod Lutherans Hold Massmeeting Today

A mass meeting of members of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod churches of Chicago and vicinity will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in the International amphitheater. Dr. Walter A. Meier of the Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, Mo., will be the principal speaker.

'Clothes Horse' Quits

Kay Francis, whose movie contract expired yesterday as result of her objection to being used, as she said, chiefly to wear beautiful attire.

Claudette Colbert, who received a role that Miss Francis wanted when dispute started.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 1.—[U.P.]—Kay Francis, dark-eyed movie star, stepped out of pictures perhaps forever today to climax a dispute that started a year ago when Claudette Colbert was awarded a rôle that Miss Francis wanted.

Miss Francis completed her $5,250 a week contract with Warner Brothers, the studio that offended her by giving the part to Miss Colbert, and did not sign another.

It was indicated that there may not be another contract, despite two offers from rival studios. Miss Francis started preparations for her forthcoming marriage to Erick Barnekow, wealthy broker and aviation enthusiast. For at least six months after the wedding she will not consider film offers, she indicated.

The trouble between Miss Francis and Warner Brothers studio concerned the starring part in the picture "Tovarich." It was the rôle of a Russian noblewoman working as a maid in Paris. Miss Francis, while denying any hint of rivalry with Miss Colbert, announced that she was through being Warner Brothers' "clothes horse."

FLEE STENCH BOMB IN MOVIE.

Scores of patrons in the Madlin theater, 1910 Madison street, were forced to leave last night when a stench bomb was exploded. Elmer Menesch, owner of the theater, told police he had no labor or other troubles.

NYA OPENS DRIVE TO FIND JOBS FOR 4,164 STUDENTS

A sixty-day job hunt by 4,164 Chicago work students of the National Youth administration began yesterday. William J. Campbell, Illinois NYA director, said that 14,000 employers will be contacted by the organization in an effort to find at least 2,000 jobs.

The main function of the job hunt, Campbell said, will be to acquaint employers with the special training of the work students for various types of jobs. A series of meetings and radio talks, supplementing the personal interviews of the job applicants and NYA agents, will begin tomorrow. The students' ages range from 18 to 25.

HIT BY STREET CAR; DIES.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sweet, 44 years old, 6711 Evans avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Thursday when she was struck by a street car at 43d street and Wentworth avenue.

FOUR OF U. OF C. FACULTY GIVEN EMERITUS RANK

Four of the faculty of the University of Chicago will become emeriti tomorrow when the autumn quarter opens. They are Harvey Carr, professor of experimental psychology and chairman of the department; Henri C. E. David, associate professor of French literature; Chester N. Gould, associate professor of Germanic and Scandinavian literature, and Harry A. Millis, professor and chairman of the department of economics.

Prof. Millis, who has been appointed by President Roosevelt as a member of a three man fact finding board in the railway labor dispute, will continue his duties under a special appointment. He joined the university faculty in 1916. Dr. Carr has been with the university since 1908, Prof. David since 1902, and Dr. Gould since 1907.

Jewish College to Hold Fall Convocation Today

The opening convocation of the College of Jewish studies will be held this afternoon in Bialik hall of the college, 220 South State street. Leo L. Honor, director of the board of Jewish education; Samuel A. Goldsmith, head of Chicago Jewish charities, and Louis M. Cahn, president of the Jewish board of education, will be faculty, students, and alumni of the principal speakers.

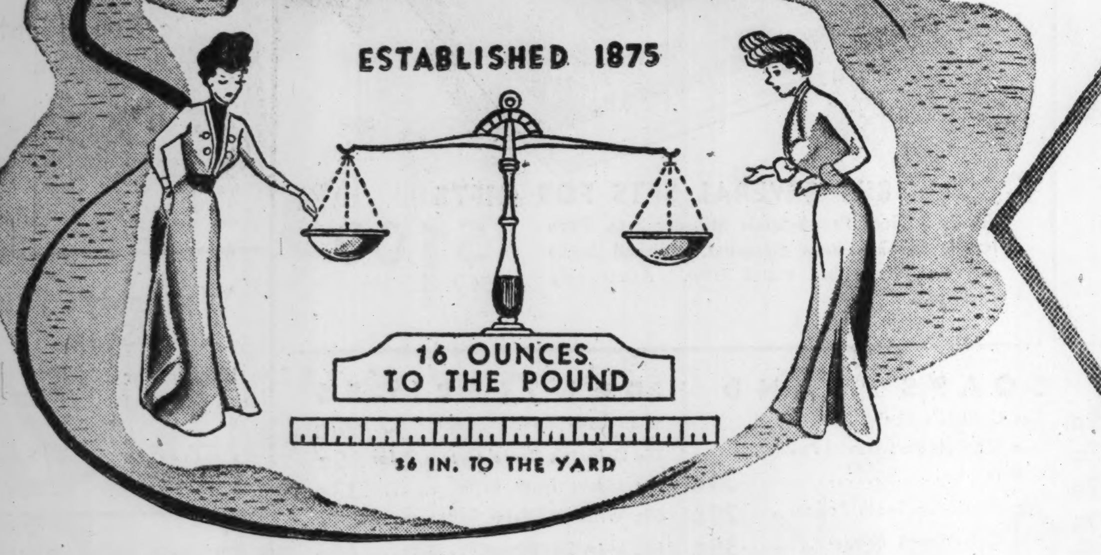
63rd Anniversary SALE



THIS WAS OUR TRADE-MARK IN 1875 . . .

. . . GUARANTEEING A FULL MEASURE OF STYLE, QUALITY AND VALUE. THIS PRINCIPLE HAS GUIDED OUR BUSINESS FOR 63 YEARS AND WILL CONTINUE TO BE OUR POLICY.

● Good News! The Fair's 63rd Anniversary Sale is here! An event that is far more than a sale. It is an expression of sincere thanks to the people of Chicagoland for the way they have helped us build this great business. And . . . by offering the season's outstanding values in this celebration sale we feel that we are presenting tangible evidence of our good will toward you. Weeks of intense preparation and the co-operation of manufacturers with whom we do a great yearly business enable us to offer these values. Every item passed our rigid tests . . . so you are assured the same high quality and style-rightness as always. It's OUR Birthday, but the presents are for YOU!

CUBS REPEAT 1935 DRIVE IN CLIMB TO FLAG

OHIO BEATS INDIANA; MICHIGAN, NOTRE DAME, N. U. WIN

SEXTON PASSES TO SCOTT FOR 6 TO 0 VICTORY

Hoosier Power Goes to Waste.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 1.—A lumbering Ohio State machine finally snapped out of its lethargy after three quarters today to drive 70 yards for the touchdown which whipped Indiana, 6 to 0, in the opening Western conference game.

This march was founded primarily on three passes by Jim Sexton, sophomore quarter back. Don Scott, sophomore left half back, raced the final ten yards when he grabbed a pass from between Indiana's Paul Graham and Jim Logan to fall squarely on the goal line.

Sophomore Charles Maag, giant 6 feet 3 inch center, then dropped back and place kicked the point, but Ohio State, convicted of holding, was forced to try again from Indiana's 17 yard line. This time Maag's placement was short and thus the Buckeyes, through the remaining thrilling minutes of the fourth quarter, were vulnerable to the Hoosiers' desperate assaults that twice penetrated Buckeye territory.

A Thrilling Finish.

Throughout these surcharged minutes a near capacity throng of 67,397, thousands of whom cheered Indiana's brilliant, futile sorties, waited, scarcely believing that Ohio State, so completely outplayed, could maintain its margin.

Ohio State began its victory march on the first play of the fourth quarter. Ten minutes remained after the Buckeyes scored. Time enough, it seemed, for the Hoosiers, who had completely dominated the game except for the preceding five minutes, to win. But a penalty for holding crushed Indiana's first drive as Joe Nicholson, brightest light in the Hoosier back field, raced to Ohio State's 22 yard line for a first down. The penalty set Indiana back to its 46 yard stripe.

Graham punted and, on the subsequent fourth down Indiana received Sexton's return kick to begin again from the Hoosier 18 yard line. On the next play Nicholson shot a pass to Harold Zimmer, who flashed down the east sideline to Indiana's 46 yard line before he was tossed out of bounds. Then followed the final spectacular play in Indiana's bid for triumph.

It's Nicholson Again.

Nicholson again dropped back to pass, ran far to his right, and then whirled and threw down field to Archie Harris, giant colored left end. At top speed Harris went through the secondary, beyond the last Buckeye defenders, Tom Welbaum and Jim Strausbaugh, and raced under the ball coming over his head. The ball struck his outstretched hands, bounced in the air, was juggled once by Harris and then slipped to the ground.

Indiana continued vainly in the remaining two minutes with Nicholson passing or running after faking passes. A penalty on Ohio State for defensive holding which also gave the Hoosiers a first down kept the fire alive, but at last a long pass by Nicholson was intercepted by Sexton on Ohio State's 25 yard line. In the last 60 seconds the Buckeyes safely stalled to keep possession of the ball.

Indiana compiled sixteen first downs to Ohio State's six. The Hoosiers gained 144 yards from Manager Gabby Hartnett (front center) leads cheering in clubhouse as Cubs celebrate victory in second game of double-header with Cardinals in St. Louis yesterday which clinched National league pennant for Chicago. The Cubs are sure the fire which carried them to flag in desperate finish with Pirates will take them successfully through world series with Yankees. The series opens Wednesday in Wrigley field.

81 NOTRE DAME PLAYERS CRUSH KANSAS, 52 TO 0

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 1.—Eighty-one eager young men ganged upon a sturdy but weary little band from the University of Kansas today to start Notre Dame off on its 51st football season with a 52 to 0 victory. A record opening day crowd of 45,000 sat enthralled under a beaming autumn sun as green shirted warriors trooped in and out of the lineup to pile up eight touchdowns and four extra points.

By this total, the largest it has scored since Drake and Haskell were overwhelmed in 1932, Notre Dame indicated its readiness to tackle the difficult schedule that lies ahead, although Kansas was surprisingly inept. The Jayhawkers apparently had spent themselves defeating Texas a week ago.

Notre Dame blocked and tackled its way to victory with the finest early season exhibition of fundamental thoroughness seen in the eight year old stadium. Behind this blocking, a score of backs gave finished performances in open field running.

Tonelli Starts Scoring.

Mario Tonelli, first team full back, started the scoring in the first period with a six yard sprint around end. Early in the second quarter, Ben Sheridan, second team left half back, followed Right Half Back Paul Morrison's 48 yard run with a 36 yard dash for a touchdown wide around left end. Quarter Back Bill Hofer added the extra point. Full Back Ed Simonich cracked over Kansas' right guard for the third touchdown. Bob Saggau, Notre Dame's sophomore find, drop kicked the extra point to make the score 20 to 0 at the half.

Lou Zontini, first team right half back, cut back outside Kansas' right tackle for twenty yards and the fourth touchdown shortly after the start of the third period. A forward pass, Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown, left end, which Brown gathered in with a curcus catch on the goal line, netted thirty yards and another touchdown. Sheridan and his second string teammates returned to the game for the ensuing kickoff which Notre Dame recovered on the 17 yard line and Sheridan went over from the 13 yard line on a cut back inside Kansas' left tackle two plays later.

Saggau, who fulfilled all advance notices, swung wide around Kansas' left end on the third play of the fourth quarter and behind flawless in-

Northwestern combined powerful running with deceptive forward passing to defeat Kansas State's football team, 21 to 0, in Dyche stadium yesterday before an opening day crowd of 35,000.

The Wildcats scored all their touchdowns through the air after their hard hitting backs had advanced the ball into scoring territory by off tackle smashes and end runs. Three complete teams were used by Northwestern with the regulars producing two touchdowns and the reserves the third.

Jack Ryan, stocky junior left half back, threw two of the touchdown passes, one in the first quarter to George McGurn and the second to Bernie Jefferson in the third period. Paul Soper, a sophomore half back, celebrated his varsity debut by rifling a fifteen yard pass to Bob Daly for the third score in the fourth quarter.

Hackney Leads Visitors.

Kansas State, which presented a sturdy defense except against passes, twice succeeded in getting within Northwestern's 20 yard line. Elmer Hackney, hard hitting full back, proved the most effective ball carrier, gaining fifty-six yards in nineteen attempts. In the fourth quarter, George Whitlock, sophomore half back, gained twenty-five yards in four attempts to pace a drive which surged to the 10 yard line, the high water mark of the visitors' advance.

Northwestern's first string team displayed a smooth attack with Ryan, George McGurn, and Jefferson carrying the brunt of the ball carrying. Dick Richards, quarter back, the lone sophomore in the starting lineup, turned in a capable performance from the blocking position.

Make 17 First Downs.

Northwestern made 17 first downs to 10 for Kansas State and piled up 230 yards from scrimmage to 122. The Wildcats completed six out of thirteen passes for 112 yards while State completed three out of fourteen for 44 yards. Northwestern intercepted three passes and Kansas State intercepted one.

Northwestern's first touchdown came as a result of a ninety-one yard march in the first quarter. Blanke's quick kick rolled dead on the Wildcats' 14 yard line, and on the first play Northwestern was set back five yards for offside. In three plunges, McGurn moved the ball to the Purple 29 yard line.

Jefferson, on a fake punt, passed to Richards for thirteen yards and Ryan picked up eight around right end. McGurn hit center for nine yards and another first down on State's 47 yard line. Jefferson continued the march

MICHIGAN ENDS MICHIGAN STATE REIGN, 14 TO 0

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 1.—The best looking football team that has come out of Michigan in five years today defeated Michigan State, 14 to 0, in a game that attracted the season's record crowd of 82,500.

The Wolverines scored in the second quarter after a forward pass from Fred Trosko to Vincent Valek had been completed on State's 24 yard line on the last play of the opening period. Another pass, this time from Paul Kromer, a sophomore, to Valek, gave Michigan a first down on the ten. Ed Phillips, full back, shot through left guard on a spinner play to the 3 yard line. Kromer was stopped at left tackle, but plunged over right guard for a touchdown on the following play.

With Kromer, one of three former Kiski preparatory school boys in the Wolverines' lineup, holding the ball, Valek place-kicked the extra point and State's four year reign of superiority was over.

March Seventy-seven Yards.

Michigan's second touchdown climaxed a seventy-seven yard march in which the team never relinquished possession of the ball. Wallace Hook, senior full back, found a big hole at his left guard and broke away behind

Cubs Merry in Quiet Way Over Clincher

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—The Cubs' clubhouse after the game that clinched the pennant was a merry spot early this evening, though the exuberance did not take the form of rough housing or violent celebration. The boys had counted on the pennant after the way they knocked off the Pirates three straight earlier in the week and perhaps had worked off most of their hilarity in that momentous series.

Manager Hartnett, who had been a pretty grumpy gent as the pennant drive went on, except for his brief bubbling over his homer which broke up the game with the Pirates last Wednesday, was the Gabby of old. He was radiant, but rather short of words. Mostly he just went around hollering "Boy, O boy, O, boy," over and over again.

No Curfew, Boys.

Hartnett did alter the slogan, however, to tell the lads that the curfew would not ring tonight, and then warned the boys of the nearness of the world series and admonished the fellows not to fall off any high bridges.

The radio announcers and the swarming photographers had their way in the clubhouse. To help out the latter Gabby shaved the hairy bat boy, Vito La Porta, who had announced he never would be shorn until the Cubs won the pennant.

There was only one solemn note in the celebration. Just as the pennant was clinched Rookie Kirby Higbe received word to rush to his father's home in Columbia, S. C. The message said his father was dying. Kirby sat at one side weeping.

Gabby said after the celebration calmed down a bit that he hadn't decided on his starting pitcher for the first game of the world series.

Bill Lee May Start.

Bill Lee, whose twenty-two victories and many iron man relief performances were the main factor in sustaining a team that has only two .300 hitters, Stan Hack and Carl Reynolds, may get the call, although there is some indication that Dizzy Dean may be assigned if strategy warants. This will depend somewhat on the starter named by Joe McCarthy of the Yankees. Reynolds lifted himself over .300 today.

Charley Grimm was here to broadcast the game, but did not go to the clubhouse after the contest. He sent his felicitations to Gabby and the bunch, however.

The team will leave for Chicago tomorrow after the final game.

1938—Charles L. Hartnett.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1. — Veteran baseball fans tonight were hailing the Cubs' pennant drive as comparable to the rise of the 1914 Boston Braves from the cellar to the National league championship and the 21 game winning streak that brought the Chicago club the 1935 flag.

In all winning streaks, luck and determination are the main factors and, of course, the Cubs had both as they fought their way to the 1938 title after being nine games out of first place at one time this season.

During this brilliant surge that enabled them to outdistance the Pittsburgh Pirates just one day before the regular season closes the Cubs won 21 of 25 games, including a ten game string that came to an end this afternoon when Johnny Mize hit the home run that beat the new champions in the first game of a double-header with the Cardinals.

New Broom Starts Well.

The way the Cubs started out under the Hartnett banner after Gabby's appointment the evening of July 20, indicated that the new broom might sweep the Cubs into pennant assurance six weeks earlier than the actual clinching. The Cubs won five of the first six games played under Hartnett management.

Between the afternoon game on July 27 and the Dodgers-Cubs night game in Brooklyn, the Cubs were in second place, 4½ games behind the Pirates. That night Clay Bryant was beating the Dodgers, 2 to 0, in the ninth. There was a blowup in the ninth, however, and the Dodgers won out, 3 to 2.

Psychologically, that one upset defeat under the Flatbush lights, proved to be four defeats. The Cubs, who previously had lost only one game to the miserable Phillies, went from Brooklyn to Philadelphia, dropped two games the next day by one run and lost another in the first game of a double-header the following day. In the second game they won to halt a four game losing streak, but still were in pretty much of a daze. Manager Hartnett, second guessing the three Philly losses, doped it out that one long fly out, properly placed in each of the Philadelphia losses, would have won all three of the tragedies.

Hartnett's Thumb Broken.

The semi-coma produced by the Philadelphia disaster hung on more or less until, on Aug. 15, the lads apparently had regained their pepper. Then, in the first inning of a Cub-Cardinal game in Wrigley field, Manager Hartnett's right thumb was fractured by a foul tip from Ducky Medwick's bat. It was announced that Catcher Hartnett would be out for a month. The Cubs lost, 8 to 4, went 6½ games behind the Pirates, and most Chicago partisans gave up pennant hopes right then and there.

With Gabby on the bench, things got no better fast. On Aug. 20 the Cubs committed six errors, four in support of Dizzy Dean's last start prior to his big comeback in the opener of this week's series with the Pirates. The Pirates won the game on Aug. 20, 5 to 2, to chalk up the only defeat of the season charged to Dean's record.

That night the Cubs were nine

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 1.—Illinois combined speed in the back field with aggressiveness in the line to overwhelm De Paul, 44 to 7, this afternoon in Memorial stadium. On defense, the rugged Illini forwards, smashing through on nearly every play, caught De Paul's ball carriers flat-footed and they hurried the passers and kickers to the point of desperation. On offense, those same forwards provided a splendidly effective screen for the operations of Don Elting, Jay Wardley, Bob Wehrli, John Thistlewood, George Rettinger, Ralph Bennett, and other fast stepping backs.

The Illini ball carriers showed considerable coolness and cleverness in using their blockers for every inch of ground they were worth. They also displayed great speed in outrunning enemy tacklers once they found an opening.

De Paul Scores on Pass.

De Paul made its one good attack in the second quarter, when Illinois was leading, 12 to 0. A series of passes advanced the ball from the Blue Demons' 35 yard line to the Illinois' 34. Here Bill Corrigan threw to Tom O'Brien, who caught the ball on the 30 yard line and picked his way through a broken field for a touchdown. That was the beginning and end of the De Paul offensive.

The strength of the Illinois line is shown by the fact that De Paul's net yardage on running plays was minus twenty. Illinois netted 295 yards in this way. De Paul completed ten of twenty-three passes for a gain of ninety-eight yards, while Illinois was throwing six and completing two for a seventeen yard gain.

The Illini were forced to punt only twice during the entire game. It was probably just as well, for they averaged only twenty-nine yards on these. They showed further kicking weakness in repeated failure to cash in on the point after touchdown. They went through the entire first half without making a punt.

They Hang on to Ball.

A point that cheered up the Illinois followers was that their team didn't fumble during the entire game. The boys had made six fumbles against Ohio university on the preceding Saturday and five of those were recovered by the opposition.

Illinois made a ninety-six yard march to its first touchdown after Norris of De Paul had punted out of bounds on the 4 yard line. With Rettinger, Elting and Wehrli making long gains, the Illini advanced to the De Paul 43 yard line. Then Elting went wide to the left, cut in behind excellent blocking and ran for a touchdown.

A few minutes later, Elting returned a punt to the De Paul 43 yard line. Elting and Rettinger drove to a first down on the 18 yard line. After three plays netted only four yards, Rettinger fired a pass to Castelo, who was pulled down on the 5 yard line. On the third play thereafter, Brewer hit center for a touchdown.

Illinois then sent in an entirely new team. After De Paul had made its advance to a touchdown as described above, the Illini returned the kickoff to the 34 yard line and moved down the field to another touchdown, Wardley and Thistlewood doing the most spectacular work. Thistlewood made the scoring run—a dash of eight yards around his right end. That made the score 18 to 7 and there it remained until the half ended.

Ilinois Marches Again.

Early in the third quarter, De Paul punted out on its 40 yard line and Illinois began to march again. Wehrli, Elting, and Rettinger ripped the line and ran the ends for substantial gains until the ball was a foot from the goal. Then Brewer plunged for the touchdown. Rettinger place kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later, Elting returned a punt to the De Paul 33 yard line. Wehrli broke through tackle and ran to the 4 yard line. Two plays later, Rettinger hit center for a touchdown. Soon after the next kickoff, Wardley intercepted Norris' pass and ran forty yards to the goal.

Illinois began its advance to the final touchdown after Lenich had intercepted O'Brien's pass and returned to the De Paul 41 yard line. Thistlewood made thirteen at center and Pezzoli battered his way to the De Paul 8 yard line. Wardley hit center for four and Bennett went around his left end for a touchdown. Hodges place kicked the extra point.

Maroon, Bradley Elevens Battle to Scoreless Tie

Running smack into an alert, aggressive football team from Bradley Tech of Peoria, Chicago's Maroons had to be content with a scoreless tie in their opener at Stagg field yesterday. Indeed, it was Chicago, not Bradley, which welcomed the final gun, for the Maroons, after dominating the early play, were hard pressed in the final quarter, when the Peorians opened up with a drive which failed on the 14 yard line.

A crowd of 14,000, most of them school children guests of the university, saw Chicago's sophomore line give a fairly good account of itself, and Bradley's veteran forwards make two fine goal line stands. Bradley held once when the Maroons got to the 2 yard line, and again a few minutes later when the heavy Chicago backs battered to within 6 inches of a touchdown.

The first and third quarters were fairly even. The second was dominated by the Maroons and the fourth by the Peorians, who hold the Illinois College conference championship. Chicago had thirteen first downs to Bradley's ten and 233 yards gained to Bradley's 173.

Tech Intercepts a Pass.

The opening Maroon drive, paced by Morton Goodstein, 216 pound full back, was halted at midfield when Theus, Bradley's quarter back, intercepted a pass from Lew Hamity, Maroon captain. A few minutes later Littleford, sophomore left end for Chicago, got away a bad punt and Bradley had the ball on the Maroon 35 yard line. Bradley's attack was halted when Valorz intercepted a pass by Molnar, Tech's full back. Following another weak kick by Chicago, Bradley got as far as the Maroon 25 yard line, where passes failed.

At this point Chicago started a march. With Goodstein contributing thirty-four yards in five plunges, the Maroons worked down to Bradley's 30 yard line, where Hamity passed to Littleford for a twenty yard gain as the quarter ended.

Bradley's line rallied to repulse both thrusts. Hamity faded back and passed to Howard, another sophomore end, on the 2 yard line. When Hamity drove for the goal Chicago was offside and Bradley chose to take the ball on downs. Two punt exchanges, with Olson of Bradley having the better of the kicking, found the Maroons with the ball at exact midfield. A flat pass, Hamity to Sherman, netted eleven yards. Then, on a series of mousetrap plays, with Goodstein and Hamity bowling through the holes, the Maroons marched to Tech's 4 yard mark. Here Bradley's line made its greatest stand, repulsing the last of four smashes on the 6 inch line.

Neither team got inside the other's 30 yard line during the third quarter, one Chicago advance blowing up when Davenport fumbled and Molnar recovered for Bradley on Tech's 38 yard line.

The final period opened with a twenty-five yard dash by Theus of Bradley which placed the Maroons on the defensive. Back for a pass, Theus couldn't find a receiver, and ran down the sidelines to the Maroon 29 yard line. Chicago checked that drive, and, starting from its own 28 yard mark, marched to Bradley's 39 on a series of plunges by Goodstein and Valorz. Here Goodstein fumbled, and Gross recovered for Bradley.

Goodstein Is the Star.

From that play on Bradley played inspired ball, and had Chicago back on its heels. Ted Panish and Henry Camp, Tech half backs, alternated at sweeping the ends for sharp gains, and running from pass formation. After making first down on the Maroon 45 yard line, Panish raced around right end for fifteen yards, and Camp ran ten. This drive was halted on Chicago's 14 yard line when Camp fumbled, Howard recovering for Chicago. Within three minutes Bradley was back at the Maroon 19 yard line, with Panish and Theus carrying the ball. This surge was checked when Plunkett intercepted a pass by Theus.

The best performance of the day was turned in by Goodstein, who in past years had been a blocker. Goodstein made eighty-three yards on running plays in twenty-one attempts. Theus of Bradley made fifty-five yards, Panish of Bradley, forty-six yards, and Hamity of Chicago, thirty-six yards.

FOXX BLASTS TWO HOMERS; RED SOX BEAT YANKS, 9-2

Boston, Mass., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx hit his 49th and 50th home runs of the season to lead the Red Sox to a 9 to 2 triumph over the champion New York Yankees today. Jim Bagby limited the Yanks to four hits for his fifteenth victory of the season.

fine interference to his 35 yard line. Capt. Fred Janke of Michigan was injured on the play and removed from the game.

Norman Purucker, whose puntng was a highlight of the game, slipped inside right tackle, cut back, and raced 15 yards to midfield. Trosko, on a reverse, made it a first down on State's 15 yard line. After two plunges had collapsed at the scrimmage line Hook bolted off his left tackle and scooted to the 2 yard line, where he was forced out of bounds by Don Rossi, Spartan quarter back. Kromer crashed through right guard for the Wolverines' second touchdown. Valek's attempted place kick was blocked, but Kromer picked up the ball and ran across the goal line for the extra point.

While State was a constant threat because of the forward passing combination of Pingel and Nelson, Michigan was the better team all the way. Its blocking was sharper and its tackling more effective. The line, led by Capt. Janke at tackle, was individually and collectively superior to State's. The Wolverine backs were faster afoot and more alert on defense, especially against passes, than were the boys from East Lansing.

Michigan a Title Contender.

The all around play of Fritz Crisler's first Michigan team was a ringing salute to Big Ten conference opponents. The Wolverines again are a factor to be reckoned with in estimated potential champions.

This was no weakling Michigan disposed of today. It was equally as strong a team as the one that whipped the Wolverines, 19 to 14, a year ago. The Spartans have one of the country's greatest forward passers in John Pingel. He whips the ball like Sammy Baugh. He threw ten forward passes in the first half, seven of which were completed. One was intercepted. His passing was handicapped somewhat in the second half by the impotency of State's running game. It was apparent early in the third quarter that the Spartans would have to rely on aerials for victory.

Michigan's marked dominance of play was reflected in the statistics, as State held an edge only in its aerial attack. Michigan outgained State, 12 to 10, on first downs, and 184 yards to 40 yards in rushing. State, however, outgained the Wolverines in passing, 146 yards to 46 yards, completing 12 of 24 passes for five of its first downs.

Quick Kicks Stop Wolverines.

Two quick kicks in the first period put Michigan back in its own territory, but State failed to cross the 50 yard line on the strength of Purucker's punt exchanges. Michigan got the game's first first down midway in the period on an eight yard plunge by Purucker and a plunge by Phillips to the Michigan 35 yard line. Another first down followed immediately, but State held and Purucker kicked to the State 20 yard line.

State opened its passing attack then and earned a first down on its 38 yard line, but another of Pingel's passes was intercepted by Trosko on his 42 yard line and he returned the ball five yards to set the stage for Michigan's first score as the quarter ended.

State got across midfield for the first time more than half way through the second period. Starting from its 24 yard line, a shovel pass from Pingel to Nelson, a pass, Pingel to Szas, a five yard gain at tackle by Pingel, and another pass, Pingel to Nelson, took the ball to State's 49 yard line.

Across the 50 yard line on plunges, the State drive was halted when Trosko knocked down Pingel's fourth down pass.

State Bogs Down.

Tom Harmon gave State an opening early in the third quarter when he fumbled on the State 38 after the finest running play of the day—a dash off tackle from his own 41 yard mark. Three plays later, however, Harmon recovered Gene Ciolek's fumble on the State 42 yard line.

State started from its 6 yard line midway in the period to make its most serious bid. Ed Pearce took the ball to his 17 yard line on a Statue of Liberty play and Ciolek then passed to Dave Diehl on the 26 yard line. Diehl ran the ball to Michigan's 34 yard line before he was stopped by Harmon. The drive was stopped, however, when Trosko threw Pearce for an eight yard loss and Ciolek's pass was intercepted by Kromer on Michigan's 23 yard line and run back to the 35 yard line. State's passing attack, which had begun to click at intervals, bogged down under the rushes of Michigan's Capt. Janke.

Michigan again held under State pressure starting the fourth quarter and its touchdown drive featured the period.

PURDUE DEFEATS BUTLER, 21 TO 6; LONG RUNS HELP

Brown Goes 50 Yards and Brock 28 to Score.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special]—Purdue university, with Jack Brown and Lou Brock supplying the scoring punch, whipped Butler, 21 to 6, today before 18,000.

Purdue started to roll two minutes before the end of the first quarter after Brown, Mike Byelene, and Tony Ippolito, first string Boilermaker backs, had come into the game. Byelene went from the Butler 29 to the 7, from where Brown went across. Ted Hennis' kick for the extra point was good.

Combination Clicks Again.

The same combination went to work again in the second quarter after Frank Welton's weak kick had been downed on the Purdue 40 yard line. Ippolito ran to midfield and on the next play Brown cut through tackle and raced fifty yards to a touchdown. Nesbitt kicked the extra point.

Purdue struck again immediately after the second half kickoff, Brock going over in exactly two plays. He took the kickoff on his 8, ran to the Butler 28 yard line, then to the touchdown behind Purdue's fine blocking.

Butler Scores on Pass.

Butler scored its touchdown in the final quarter after Bill Connor and Tom Harding had supplemented Frank Welton's fine running with a successful passing attack. Harding fired the thirteen yard touchdown pass to Sylvo Costantino, reserve back who was open in the end zone.

ROOT CLINCHES FLAG FOR CUBS; YANKEES NEXT!

Divide in Double-Header with Cardinals.

Moore, the first batsman, when an easy fly dropped for a double as Joe Marty charged into Carl Reynolds just as he prepared to make the catch. Joe Medwick sent Moore home with the tying run with a single.

A single and a triple were good for two runs and a 3 to 1 lead in the Cardinal second and concluded the St. Louis scoring.

Wasted singles by Medwick and Mize after two were out in the third lifted the hit total against Root to six. After the third not a Cardinal got on base until Johnny Mize singled with one out in the sixth and promptly went down with Don Gutteridge in a double play.

Bordagaray Beats Out Bunt.

The eighth and final hit off Root was a bunt which Pinch Batter Frenchy Bordagaray beat out with two out in the ninth. Charley probably didn't begrudge Frenchy his little moment, for if he can deliver a pinch hit tomorrow he will tie the National league record for pinch hitting.

Root did not walk a man, hit none, and cast no wild pitches. If it hadn't been for Marty's misadventure on the first batsman of the game, a most upsetting episode, Charley was in the proper fettle to pitch a one or two hitter.

Before passing on to Capt. Bill Herman and some of the awakened sluggers who took care of the attack, we'd like to mention that Root has done more than his share toward the pennant drive which was crowned with success today.

The drive of 21 victories in 25 games which put the Cubs over was launched by this same Mr. Root on Sept. 4. On that date Charley had a 1 to 0 victory in hand when Ival Goodman socked a homer to tie the score. Root spat a couple of squirts of tobacco juice and kept on working. He won the game in the eleventh on Augie Galan's homer. It is an unhappy fact that Augie wasn't present at the triumph today. He's in Chicago nursing an injured knee.

Won Wednesday's Thriller.

Root lost the last decision dropped by Chicago before the first game today, a 4 to 1 defeat in Brooklyn on Sept. 18, but he was the winning pitcher in that big hysteria fiesta at dusk in Wrigley field last Wednesday when Gabby socked that homer with the score tied, two strikes called, and the umpires ready to call the game a tie as soon as Gabby finished his time at bat.

And now for today's victory offense. The hero was Cap Herman, though he had plenty of associates who suddenly recovered the use of the wood.

The Cubs, as you have been told, were trailing, 3 to 1, at the end of two innings. And from where we were sitting, they looked pretty pale around the gills as they made only one hit off Clyde Shoun in the first three sessions.

In the fourth they put together four in a row but made only one run to fall short of a tie, the failure at this juncture being due to some terrible base running.

Revive in Fifth.

His first two trips to the plate Herman grounded out and walked. With one out in the fifth he opened his four hit rampage with a triple on which he scored on the second of Frankie Demaree's three whizzing singles. Carl Reynolds later in the inning knocked out Shoun with a double, but there was no more scoring and the Cubs had to be content with a tie for the time being.

Fiddler Bill McGee, who stood the Cubs on their heads yesterday in a relief rôle to protect the Cardinal tie, replaced Shoun. McGee accomplished two strikeouts in halting the Cubs in the sixth.

Then came the pennant winning seventh. Here's the detail:

Herman opened with a single to right and reached second when Padgett kicked the ball. Demaree bunted to McGee and beat it out for a single as Herman reached third. Cavarretta batted for Marty and singled over second, scoring Herman with the winning run. Reynolds bunted to Mize, who threw past Stu Martin, Demaree getting home easily and Cavarretta sliding home with a desperate lunge that knocked him out for a brief spell after he had got around Owen and had crawled back to tag the plate. Reynolds got to third on the error. O'Dea bounced out to Mize and Collins was given an intentional pass. Jurges put on the squeeze play, Reynolds scoring on the bunt. Root flied to Medwick.

French Pitches Today.

The Cubs ripped off three more runs in the eighth at the expense of Lon Warneke. This superfluous splurge included doubles by Hack and O'Dea, singles by Herman and Reynolds, an error by Owen, and a wild pitch by Warneke.

If the Cubs lose behind Larry French against Paul Dean in the season windup tomorrow, they will tie the all-time low for a major league pennant winner in a full season, with 89 victories. The Cardinals won in 1926 with 89 victories and 65 losses. The Cubs tonight have 89 victories.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs scored shortly after the day's arduous endeavors began. Hack opened the first game with a single to center. Herman grounded to Brown, who stepped on second too late to force Hack, but got the ball to Mize at first in time to retire Herman. Demaree lined a single to right, scoring Hack. Marty, in the game because of the left handed pitching of Bob Weiland, tapped into a double play, Gutteridge to S. Martin to Mize.

Reynolds opened the second with a single to center, but ran to third on Garbark's liner to Padgett and was an easy double play victim, Padgett to Mize. After Collins had singled to left, Jurges was called out on strikes.

Cubs Take Lead.

Both Weiland and Page were effective in the third and fourth innings, but the Cubs broke through to take the lead after two were out in the fifth. After Garbark had been retired on a grounder to S. Martin, Collins walked. Jurges flied to Moore, but Page singled to right. Hack walked, filling the bases, whereupon Herman shot a single to right, scoring Collins and Page and putting Hack on third. Demaree fouled to Brown.

And here's the way the Cubs concluded their offensive in the sixth: Marty singled to right and was forced by Reynolds, Weiland to Brown. Marty stepped on Brown's foot, spiking him so severely that he had to leave the game. Garbark hit into a double play which was started by Mize, who made a fine stop.

With one down in the seventh Moore singled, paused while S. Martin supplied the second out with a fly to Demaree. Padgett then drove a double off the wall in right center, scoring Moore with the tying run. Padgett reached third on Page's wild pitch. Medwick struck out.

Page's satisfaction at having struck out Medwick to end the seventh inning lasted only while he watched Hack, Herman, and Demaree supply infield outs in the first of the eighth.

At the start of the home eighth Mize whanged his victory homer. When Myers lined a double to left, Page was assisted to the dugout and Russell rushed in for a fine though futile job of relieving. He induced Gutteridge to fly to Reynolds, handed Owen an intentional pass, struck out Weiland, walked Moore to load the bases, and struck out S. Martin.

SECOND GAME

Hack was walked by Clyde Shoun to get the second contest under way, went to second while Gutteridge tossed out Herman, and scored when Demaree lined a single to right center. Marty then bounced into a double play, Gutteridge to S. Martin to Mize.

The clownish business at the start of the Cardinal offensive would have blown a less courageous man than Charley Root right out of the arena. Moore lifted a high fly to left. Reynolds was about to make the catch well in his own territory when Marty charged into him. The ball dropped for a double. S. Martin flied to Demaree and Padgett popped to Jurges, but Medwick singled to left, scoring Moore with the tying run. Mize popped to Herman.

The Cubs looked pretty sick when the Cards took a 3 to 1 lead in the second inning. Gutteridge opened with a single and scored on Myers' triple to left center. Myers ran in after Marty caught Owen's fly. The next two men were easy.

Fuzzy Base Running.

Inept base running held the Cubs to one run in the fourth, though they made four hits. With one down, Reynolds singled and went to third on Garbark's single to right. Collins singled sharply to right, scoring Reynolds, but, though Padgett had the ball by the time Garbark reached second, the rookie catcher disregarded the coaches and plowed on toward third. Gutteridge was waiting for him with the ball when he arrived in the vicinity of third. Jurges singled to center, but Root forced Jurges.

The Cubs made only one run in the fifth on a triple, a single, and a double, but it was enough to tie the score and had a tremendous soothing effect. With one down, Herman tripled to left center and scored on Demaree's single. Marty flied to Moore, but Reynolds doubled to right, Demaree stopping at third. McGee replaced Shoun and O'Dea, replacing Garbark, popped to Mize.

Pick on Warneke.

The next productive inning was the pennant winning seventh. In the eighth the Cubs added three runs off Lon Warneke just for the records. Hack doubled and scored on Herman's single, Herman reaching second when Padgett's throw got away from Owen. Demaree and Cavarretta supplied outs, but a single by Reynolds and a two base wild pitch and a double by O'Dea brought the scoring to three runs for the inning.

Let's Just Think About Ol' Charley's Game

games out of first place. They had lost 11 more than the Pirates, an added disadvantage mathematically.

The standings that night:

Pittsburgh	66	40	.623
New York	63	48	.568
Cincinnati	61	49	.555
Chicago	59	51	.536

Things looked up somewhat on Aug. 21 when Lee and Carleton beat the Pirates, 6 to 4 and 6 to 1, in a double-header. But the Chicagoans still were seven games out of first place and the next day went eight games back when the Pirates won, 4 to 2. The Cubs dropped back into fourth place.

A Bad Day—Then More of Them.

Aug. 23 was another disappointing day. Against the Giants French and Russell gave up six runs to the Giants before the second putout was accomplished. Root went in and pitched a 26 putout shutout, but the Giants won, 6 to 2. The Pirates didn't play, so the Cubs were 8½ games back.

Aug. 24 the Cubs beat the Giants, 6 to 1, but the Pirates also won, so the Cubs remained 8½ games out of the lead.

On the last day of August the Cubs had a chance to go into second place, but Lee, then Bryant, blew up in the ninth and the Bees won, 6 to 4.

On the morning of Sept. 1, the Cubs were seven games out of first place. The standings then were:

Pittsburgh	73	48	.603
New York	67	55	.549
Cincinnati	68	56	.548
Chicago	67	56	.545

The Cubs started September by beating the Bees, 4 to 2. This put them in a second place tie with the Reds as the Giants toppled from second to fourth. But the Cubs were 7½ games back of the Pirates.

Two More in the Red.

Things looked dark indeed when the Cubs dropped two to the Reds, 6 to 0 and 7 to 5, and sank back to fourth place. The standings then were:

Pittsburgh	74	50	.597
Cincinnati	70	56	.556
New York	67	57	.540
Cubs	68	58	.539

Seven games back.

On Sept. 4 the Cubs won the game that most of the Cubs figure put them on the pennant road. Charley Root was winning, 1 to 0, when Ival Goodman knocked a ninth inning homer to tie the score. Root kept right on battling, and in the eleventh Augie Galan won the game, 2 to 1, with a homer.

On Labor day, Sept. 5, the Cubs beat the Pirates in Pittsburgh, 3 to 0, behind Lee and 4 to 3 behind Bryant. The Cubs were five games back, but had two teams to pass. The Reds were in second place, a game ahead of the Cubs.

In St. Louis on Sept. 7, 8, and 9, the Cubs beat the Cardinals 7 to 1, 7 to 4, and 4 to 2 to run up a six game winning streak and moved up 3½ games behind the Pirates.

Gabby Hits a Homer.

Trying for their seventh straight on Sept. 10 against the Reds in Wrigley field the Cubs took a terrible licking from the Cincinnatians, 9 to 1. That night the standings were:

Pittsburgh	77	53	.592
Chicago	74	59	.556
Cincinnati	74	59	.556

On Sept. 11 the Cubs went back to second place when Lee shut out the Reds, 2 to 0. On Sept. 12, traveling to Boston for the last invasion of the east, Hartnett announced he would go back into the lineup, even though his busted thumb still was a bit sore. On Sept. 13 Gabby did go behind the plate in the Boston opener, but the Cubs made only four hits and lost, 5 to 2.

On Sept. 14 Gabby knocked a homer with the bases full, his first hit in more than a month and the Cubs won, 6 to 3. The Giants beat the Pirates that day in both ends of a double-header, so the Cubs gained a game and a half and the standings that night were:

Chicago	76	60	.559
Cincinnati	75	61	.551
New York	75	61	.551

On Sept. 15 the Cubs were idle and the Pirates beat the Giants. So the Pirates increased their lead to 3 games.

Beat Giants Twice.

Sept. 16 the Pirates split with the Bees while the Cubs again were idle on account of a phony Giant postponement, but the next day Lee beat the Giants in the first game of a rainy double-header, 4 to 0, and in the second game Bryant was the victor, 4 to 2. This cut the Pirate lead to 2½ games.

The Cubs on Sunday, Sept. 18, again played in the rain and lost the first game of a double-header in Brooklyn which started at 3 o'clock, 4 to 1, the last loss before they launched their pennant victory streak. The second game was to end after five innings. French early enjoyed and lost a 1 to 0 lead, then he blew a 3 to 1 lead on a two run homer by Sington. In the latter half of the fifth and final inning the Dodgers loaded the bases with none out. Jack Russell went in, got the side out and the game ended a 3 to 3 tie. A double-header scheduled for Brooklyn the next day was washed out forever, and the Cubs moved down to Philadelphia. Their scheduled double-header Sept. 20 was rained out, but on Sept. 21 Lee beat the Phils, 4 to 0, and Bryant trimmed them, 2 to 1.

Gain 1½ More Games.

On Sept. 22 the Cubs stayed over in Philadelphia and came behind in spectacular fashion to win two games, 3 to 2 in the first game on Galan's eighth inning homer and 7 to 6 on Collins' ninth inning double with the bases full in the second game. The Pirates lost a 12 inning game to Cincinati that day and the Cubs gained a game and a half to move up to within two games of the Pirates.

On Sept. 24 and 25 the Cubs beat the Cards, 9 to 3 and 7 to 2, but the Pirates beat Cincinnati both days and the Cubs remained two games back. On Sept. 26 the Cubs beat the Cards, 6 to 3 and gained a half game on the Pirates, and were a game and a half back of the Pirates.

The Cubs' 2 to 1, 6 to 5, and 10 to 1 victories over the Pirates on Sept. 27, 28, and 29 and the doings here are of too recent memory in the minds of you fans to need any reviewing here.

WHITE SOX AND BROWNS DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER

Whitehead Wins, 6-3, but Boyles Loses, 4-0.

Johnny Whitehead chalked up his tenth victory of the season as the White Sox defeated the Browns in the first game of a double-header in Comiskey park yesterday, 6 to 3. Harry Boyles, rookie right hander, pitched the second game and lost, 4 to 0, although errors figured in most of the St. Louis runs.

Boyles held the Browns to two hits in the game, which was halted by darkness at the end of five innings.

Russell Van Atta was the second game pitcher and was credited with his fourth victory. Jim Walkup and Bill Cox were the Browns' pitchers in the first game, the former pitching seven innings and being charged with his twelfth defeat of the season.

Season Closes Today.

The two teams will close the season today with a double-header. Thornton Lee, seeking his fourteenth victory, and Johnny Rigney, after his ninth, will do the Chicago pitching, while Buck Newsom, trying for his twentieth victory, and Howard Mills, will be the Browns' hurlers.

Boyles retired the first nine men in order before the storm broke. A fluke double, a single, three bases on balls, and errors by Schlueter and Berger, resulted in the four Browns' runs in the fourth.

Whitehead walked Gryska and Sullivan in the second inning of the first game and the former crossed the plate on a fielder's choice and Walkup's single. Two more Browns scored in the second on four hits, which included a double by McQuinn, Malzera's single, Grace's single, and a double by Gryska.

Sox Get Two More.

The Sox tied it up in the fourth when Steinbacher pulled up at second on Mazzera's error, and Radcliff, Appling, Rosenthal, and Tresh followed with singles. They took the lead in the fifth on Steinbacher's single and Connors' double.

Two more Sox runs came in the seventh on Clift's error on Owen's roller, a pass to Connors, and Radcliff's double.

Reds Sink Pirate Craft with 9-6 Shot

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds aided in the final elimination of Pittsburgh from the National league race by battering five pitchers for 17 hits in a 9 to 6 victory today.

The Pirates played and fought like a sandlot team. After overcoming a four run deficit with a five run rally in the fourth inning, the defense collapsed with their pitching and the Reds, led by Ernie Lombardi and Billy Myers, turned the game into a rout.

Big Jim Weaver, who replaced Bucky Walters in the Pirate fourth, yielded only two hits the rest of the way.

Rizzo was the goat of the Pirate collapse. In the third inning he misjudged Frank McCormick's easy fly and it fell for a double and an ultimate run. In the fourth he fumbled another of McCormick's drives, letting in the tying run and paving the way for another that put the Reds ahead.

Hard pressed for pitchers, Manager Pie Traynor started with Red Lucas, but he lasted only until the second inning, when Bob Klinger came in with two on and nobody out. Klinger failed to retire a man, and was followed by Cy Blanton. Mace Brown and Bill Swift also were brought in before it was over, with Brown being charged with the loss.

Jot It Down: Those American League Yankees Hit That Ball

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Yankees can hit. That's a simple sentence, but in those four words there is dynamite for their opposition. The Yanks not only hit, but have a fondness for a big proportion of home runs. The seven other American league teams have seen the dynamite touched off repeatedly during the last three seasons. The Giants felt the blast in the world series in 1936 and again in 1937. Now the Cubs will feel the reverberation in the fall series which opens next Wednesday afternoon.

A declaration that the Cubs apparently are outclassed might arouse the fighting spirit of the adherents who stuck with them through thick and thin since last April. But there is no way of eluding the fact that when it comes to bat wielding the Chicago entry is just about the weakest the National league has sent into the world series since the day the jack rabbit ball was introduced.

The Yanks have power from stem to stern of their batting order and this power includes not only the ability to hit in the pinches, but ability to loft a ball over the ramparts. An opposing pitcher never can look forward to a breathing spell. He might get rid of Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig or Bill Dicky, but there always is another menace. If the Yanks go through a game without at least one homer it is news.

If a Cub enthusiast feels it might be well to get himself disillusioned before the series starts he has only to consult a few statistics on the season. The respective outfields tell a great story. There isn't one member of the Cub fly chasing trio which probably will have to play because of the injury to Augie Galan, with an impressive batting average. Two of the Yankee outfielders — Di Maggio and Tom Henrich—have driven in more runs than are accounted for by four Cubs playing in the same department.

Power Must Come from Outfield.

It's a long established theory in baseball that a team's power must come from the outfield. The Yankees don't stop there. They have similar power in their infield. It is hardly necessary to mention that First Baseman Gehrig is likely to hit a homer at any moment. The other infielders, Joe Gordon, Frankie Crosetti, and Red Rolfe, have collected quite a few of the round trippers during the season. For an additional complication there is Bill Dickey who can slap a homer with less effort than most of the Cubs put into a single.

The Yankees don't have to stop hitting even if some of the regulars are absent. In Myril Hoag and Jake Powell they have outfield reserves good enough to play all the time on any big league team. They have a handy extra infielder in Bill Knickerbocker. They have a couple of fellows with sufficient strength to fill Dickey's place without any noticeable team let down. Should an emergency arise the Cubs have practically nothing in the way of hitters. If they could hit they wouldn't have been on the bench during the season.

Listens to Cub-Cardinal Broadcast; Collapses, Dies

Charles Campinose, 43 years old, 2146 Race avenue, died in his home last night from a heart attack. He and his wife, Mrs. Florence Campinose, had been listening to a broadcast of the baseball game between the Cubs and the Cardinals which clinched the pennant for the Chicago team when he collapsed.

GALA RECEPTION IS PLANNED FOR VICTORIOUS CUBS

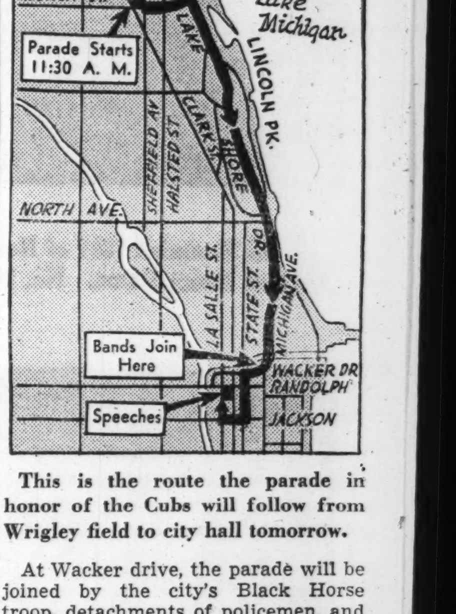
They'll Ride in Parade in Loop Tomorrow.

Chicago's conquering Cubs will be officially welcomed home tomorrow with all the pomp befitting the new champions of the National league. Details of the official reception were announced last night by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, secretary of Mayor Kelly's new century committee.

Because of the late hour of the Cubs arrival from St. Louis tonight, Chicago's public welcome was deferred until tomorrow morning. At 11:30 a. m. members of the new century committee and the ten members of an aldermanic committee, headed by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, will go to Wrigley field with an escort of automobiles to pick up the players.

Parade to City Hall.

Accompanied by a police escort, the procession will go east in Addison street to Lake Shore drive, and thence south, through Lincoln park, then down Michigan avenue to Wacker drive.



This is the route the parade in honor of the Cubs will follow from Wrigley field to city hall tomorrow.

At Wacker drive, the parade will be joined by the city's Black Horse troop, detachments of policemen, and firemen on foot, mounted policemen, and the Chicago police band.

The line of march from Wacker drive will be down State street, decorated with flags and bunting by the State street council. At Jackson boulevard the automobiles will turn west to La Salle street, and then north to the city hall.

Players to Get Scrolls.

There the new century committee will have a grandstand erected. The street will be roped off from Randolph to Washington streets.

Mayor Kelly will head the reception committee. Beside him on the stand will be other city officials, the executive committee of the new century committee, Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, Charley Grimm, former manager, and other sportsmen. Mayor Kelly will introduce each player and present him with a parchment scroll, an appointment as ambassador of good will.

IT'S CUBS' TURN TO WIN PENNANT EVERY 3 YEARS

The Chicago Cubs, by winning the 1938 National league championship in St. Louis yesterday, kept alive one of the strangest sequences in baseball—that of winning the pennant every three years.

They started the sequence in 1929, won again in 1932, repeated in 1935, and now have come through again.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the American league champion New York Yankees, was at the cubs' helm in 1929. Charlie Grimm pulled them through three years later after succeeding Rogers Hornsby in August of that year. It was Grimm again in 1935. And this season it was Manager-Catcher Gabby Hartnett, who replaced Grimm in July.

BOX SEAT SUPPLY DWINDLES; WILL GRANDSTAND DO?

Thousands of applications for world series tickets still were being received in the Cubs' offices in the Wrigley building last night. The deadline for applications was 6 o'clock and it was announced that the mailman's final trips indicated the supply of box seats would be exhausted.

However, the last minute applicants desiring box seats probably will be accommodated with grandstand locations, Bill Veeck Jr. of the Cubs' staf said. The difference between the $19.80 charge for box seats and $16.50 for grandstand tickets will be mailed with the seats.

MICHIGAN CITY LOSES.

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Michigan City High school football team lost its conference opener this afternoon, 6 to 0, to Goshen.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 1.—Minnesota's Gophers today wrote off a debt dating back twelve months by defeating Nebraska's Cornhuskers, 16 to 7, in the battle of Big Ten and Big Six champions at Memorial stadium. A crowd of 46,000 saw the Western conference title holders travel through sixty minutes of football in which there never was any doubt as to their superiority.

By their victory this afternoon the Minnesotans thus adjusted the matter of their 14 to 9 defeat by Nebraska at Lincoln last October and ran their advantage in the series between the two to fifteen victories against three losses and two ties. The Gophers' margin today might have been much more satisfying had it not been for a third quarter larceny committed by Jack Dodd of the Nebraska back field. The theft occurred when Minnesota apparently was about to add a third touchdown to those it had accumulated in each of the first two quarters.

With the ball on Nebraska's 9 yard line, Half Back Larry Buhler attempted a wide end run, but was detained by three Nebraskans. One was Dodd, who filched the ball from Buhler, then dashed eighty-five yards for the only Nebraska touchdown.

Score in Seven Plays.

The Minnesotans played rudimentary football, giving their first demonstration by scoring the opening touchdown on seven plays in less than four minutes, with Wilbur Moore taking the ball over. Midway through the second quarter, ten more plays were climaxed by another score, this one made by George Franck, making his varsity debut. Following the Dodd ball theft, the scoring was concluded when Win Pederson, Minnesota tackle, tossed Dodd for a safety after the latter had recovered one of his mates' fumbles behind the line.

Nebraska today bore out earlier suspicions that they have not the same material which last year defeated the Gophers. The Huskers made only four first downs to Minnesota's fifteen, and trailed the Gophers in net yardage gained, 20 to 313. The Huskers, forced to the air, completed only four out of twelve passes attempted. Three others were intercepted. Minnesota elected only four tosses and connected on two.

Plenty of Backs.

Minnesota today proved that it is who was injured in the Washington game and is still in the hospital. Other Big Ten backs also should give ready for the conference title defense it will open here against Purdue next Saturday. Their rivals would do well to pay heed to Moore, the hard running Buhler and Marty Christiansen, and young Franck. To this quartet will be added Harold Van Every, triple threat performer, a thought or two to George [Butch] Nash, alert end.

A topped kickoff by Pfeiff of Nebraska at the start of the game gave Minnesota the ball on its own 45 yard line, whence Nash brought it from his own 35 yard mark. From that point the Gophers pounded the Nebraska line.

Buhler bucked off tackle for two yards, then Moore dashed off the Huskies' left end for twenty-seven. Buhler then tried the opposite Nebraska end for seven yards, and Christiansen went through the Nebraska left tackle for a first down on the 14. A reverse, Moore to Buhler, added three more, and, after Christiansen had picked up a yard off his right tackle, Moore cut back through the Nebraska right tackle for a touchdown. Bell then added the extra point with a place kick.

Franck Scores 2d Touchdown.

Nebraska, in its first offensive chance, sent Dodd around right end on the first play for ten yards, but a pass was incomplete, and Plock was spilled for a five yard loss. After the Huskers' punt, Moore got thirteen yards on a cutback, but a bad pass from center found Franck recovering on his own 22 yard line. After an exchange of punts, the Gophers got the ball on the Nebraska 47 yard line.

Ten plays covered the remaining forty-seven yards. These were topped off by a seven yard smash off left tackle by Franck for the second Gopher touchdown. He then dropped back to hold the ball for Faust's successful placement for the extra point.

Wisconsin Rams Marquette Line for 27 to 0 Triumph

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—Wisconsin's Badgers reeled off a touchdown serial today to mark the inaugural of their annual campaign. Before a crowd of 27,876, they paraded up and down the turf of old Camp Randall to administer a 27 to 0 beating to Marquette's Hilltoppers and at the same time heighten the hope that the Badgers will be influential members in the Western conference title race.

What the Badgers might have accomplished if turned loose for a Roman holiday can only be guessed at. With thoughts of tougher foes in the future, the regulars were used sparingly. They started and remained long enough to record a touchdown early in the second quarter. They were back in action long enough to register a second touchdown in third period. Two other goal crossings came later as the result of performances by a stream of shock troops pouring from the bench.

Practice Forward Passes.

Getting a break on a fumble, the regulars smashed in good old-fashioned style to their first touchdown. The procedure was similar in scoring the second touchdown, which came about after Bill Schmitz carried a punt from midfield to the 13 yard line. The assortment of shock troops acted much the same in their scoring jobs, one coming after a Marquette fumble and the other after a badly aimed punt.

The Badgers tossed just enough forward passes to enjoy a little practice. Of ten thrown, they made only two for a total gain of twenty-two yards. Outclassed on the ground, Marquette went into the air eighteen times to complete five passes and lose the same number through interception. Two of the successful passes, along with a sprint from punt formation by Johnny Maltsch, who also did the throwing, came late in the game to carry the Hilltoppers to Wisconsin's 8 yard line, their closest approach of the day. They were stopped when a pass was intercepted.

Error Helps Wisconsin.

On the last play of the opening period Marquette completed a pass for a first down on its 30 yard line, but soon committed the blunder that paved the touchdown trail for the Badgers. On the second play in the second period Leysenaar fumbled and Hovland recovered for Wisconsin on the Hilltoppers' 30 yard mark. Schmitz reeled off four yards and, on an end around assault, Gile registered a first down on the 17 yard line. Weiss smashed left tackle for eight yards. Schmitz went wide around end, but netted only a yard. Weiss barged through the line for first down on the 5 yard line. Bellin went the remainder of the way through center and Hovland kicked the extra point, giving the Badgers a 7 to 0 lead.

As soon as the Wisconsin regulars had crossed the goal line, an entire new team entered the argument. A few busy moments followed for the newcomers. Leysenaar brought the kickoff back to his 32 yard line. N. Woods sailed a long pass to Leysenaar, who dashed to Wisconsin's 26 yard line. Three more passes were attempted, the third being intercepted by Gage on Wisconsin's 20. Gage then fumbled as he was about to punt and Busler fell on the ball on the Badgers' 5 yard line. He also fumbled and Holloway recovered for the Badgers, who immediately moved out of trouble on Gage's punt from behind his goal line.

Another March Starts.

The Badgers' third quarter touchdown began to take form with a brilliant, weaving sprint by Schmitz, who took a punt in midfield and wormed his way up to Marquette's 13 yard line, where Burke dumped him. The Hilltoppers predicament was complicated by a five yard offside penalty. Weiss crashed left tackle for five yards and Bellin went through to the 3 yard line for a first down. Weiss then charged through center for the touchdown. Hovland missed the try for the extra point.

Another Costly Mistake.

Only a minute of the third period remained when Marquette erred again, the blunder leading to a goal crossing act as the final quarter got under way. The error was a fumble, which Moeller captured for the Badgers on the Marquette 9 yard line. Gradisnik ran wide around his left end to the 2 yard line. On the first play of the last quarter, Paskvan dove into a hole at left tackle for the third touchdown. Hartman place kicked the extra point, which made the score 20 to 0.

The shock troops scored Wisconsin's fourth touchdown halfway through the fourth period, Tennant crossing the goal after a sixteen yard dash. Hartman added the point with a place kick.

SCHALK CONFERS TODAY ON PILOT'S JOB WITH BROWNS

Ray Schalk, manager of the Indianapolis American association club, will confer with President Donald Barnes and General Manager William De Witt of the St. Louis Browns today. Schalk is being sought as manager of the American league team during 1939.

Schalk, once one of baseball's greatest catchers as a member of the Chicago White Sox, was manager of the Buffalo Bisons of the International league for six seasons. He became manager of the Indianapolis Indians last year.

Pirates Silent; Have to Return Money of Fans

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The news from St. Louis that the Cubs clinched the pennant hit the Pittsburgh Pirates between the eyes tonight.

Outside of President William E. Benswanger, no one on the team, once considered a sureshot for the National league pennant, had anything to say.

"I'm bitterly disappointed, of course," said Benswanger, while getting ready to return to Pittsburgh and refund all the money sent in for seats in Forbes field. "But I'm satisfied that the Pirates went down fighting."

While Benswanger reported that he had not yet offered Manager Harold Traynor a 1939 contract, he said the job was Pie's if he wanted it.

COLUMBIA RUNS OVER YALE, 27-14; LUCKMAN STARS

Senior Half Back Thrills 35,000 Eli Fans.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Passing, running, and punting with as much skill as the historic Yale bowl ever has seen, Sid Luckman paced Columbia's eleven to a smashing 27 to 14 triumph over Yale today before 35,000.

Backed by a sturdy, dogged team which blocked for him furiously, the Lions' senior half back scored one touchdown and set up three others as Columbia tallied once in the first period, twice in the second, and once in the fourth.

Columbia played with only three substitutions and in the last period wearily held a horde of eager Yale reserves at bay.

Luckman put the ball in play on Yale's 40 yard line after running back a kick fourteen yards in the first period. With Luckman slashing at the tackles and bombing the secondary with short flat passes, Columbia went to the 3 yard line. There Luckman crashed over right tackle for the score.

Yale scored when Bill John blocked a kick on the Columbia 16 yard line and galloped over in the same period. Humphrey added the point and Yale took the lead for the only time.

In the second period, after one march was halted on the Yale 3 yard line, Luckman's return of a punt, a pass, and two running plays put the ball on the 13. Radvilas went around to score in absurdly easy fashion. A little later, with the ball on the Yale 35 yard line, Luckman passed over the goal line to Frank Stulgaitis.

In the fourth quarter Luckman ran from the Yale 40 yard line back to his own 37, eluded a tackler, and passed to Art Radvilas on the Yale 10 yard line. Another pass, Luckman to Gerhard Seidel, put the ball on the 3 yard line, and the latter smashed over for the final touchdown. Line-ups:

COLUMBIA [27].		YALE [14].

CORNELL, 15; COLGATE, 6.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Cornell's football team opened its season with a 15 to 6 victory over Colgate today as Brud Holland, end, and Ken Brown, reserve full back, reeled off touchdown runs of fifty-seven and fifty-three yards, respectively.

Cornell, getting an automatic safety by blocking Walt Davids' punt in the end zone in the first three minutes of play, put the two touchdowns together in the space of six plays midway in the second period. Colgate came back three plays later to score on two aerial thrusts that covered seventy yards, with Don Wemple, right end, taking a thirty yard pass from Hal Lube and racing the remaining twenty-five yards.

PRINCETON, 39; WILLIAMS, 0.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Princeton sounded a sharp warning to its future football foes today with a 39 to 0 victory over the Williams college eleven in Palmer stadium.

Princeton piled up eleven first downs to six for the Purple, and gained 394 yards by rushing as compared with 69.

A Williams fumble and a fifteen yard penalty for interfering with a punt receiver opened the way for Princeton's first touchdown, seven minutes after the opening kickoff, Jack Daniel, on end-around pass from Harry Dixon ,scored off right tackle from the 12 yard line.

PENN, 34; LAFAYETTE, 6.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania's football team made a brilliant start today by swamping Lafayette, 34 to 6.

A crowd of 40,000 saw Penn march 71 yards to a touchdown after receiving the opening kickoff and then score four more times in the last three periods.

Lafayette, undefeated last year, was completely outclassed except late in the third period when a thirty-six yard forward pass, Bill Toohey to Trevor Howell, put the ball on the Penn 1 foot line. Marsh, a sub back, plunged over in the first play of the last period.

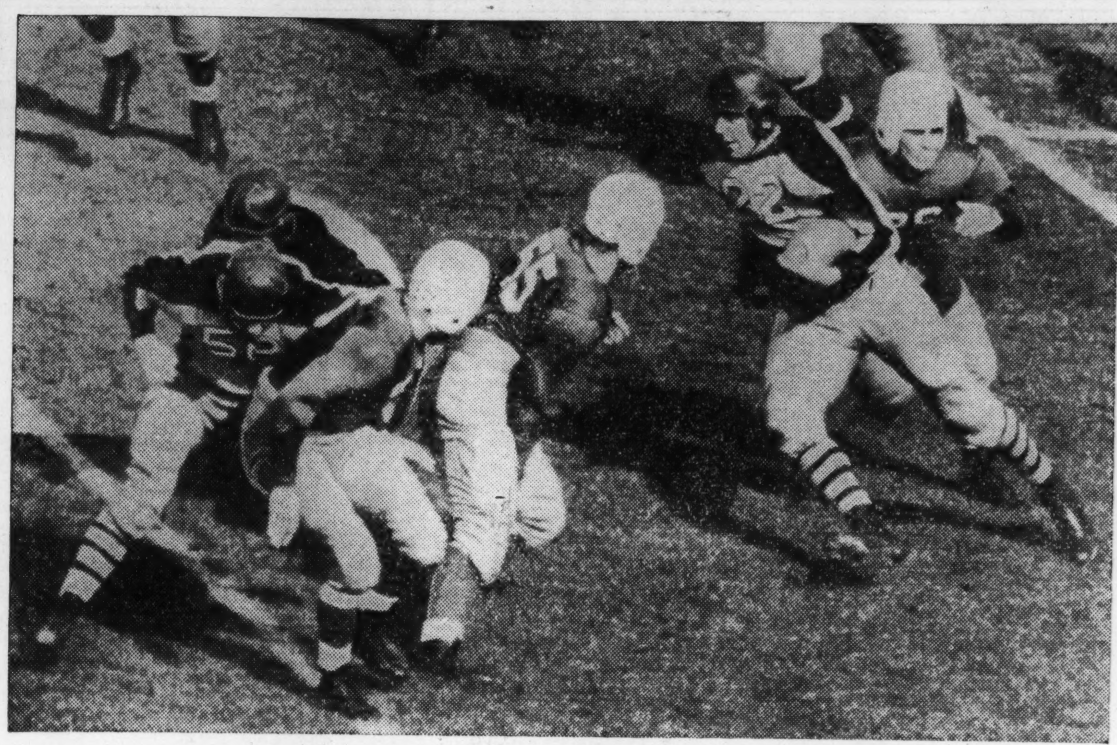
DARTMOUTH WINS, 51-0.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—With the varsity playing only a few minutes, at the start of the game, Dartmouth defeated the St. Lawrence eleven, 51 to 0, today. Dartmouth's starting back field, which included Colby Howe, Bob MacLeod, and Bill Hutchinson, scored in five plays, each of the trio turning a twenty yard run or better.

Columbia Turns Back Old Eli



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Radivlas (No. 22) of Columbia gains five yards early in the contest with Yale in New Haven yesterday. Ready to meet him is Yale's right guard, Capt. Platt (No. 55). Columbia upset Yale, 27 to 14.

Northwestern Jolts Kansas State, 21 to 0

After McGurn was stopped, Ryan passed to McGurn and he ran the fifteen yards for the touchdown. With McGurn holding the ball, Ryan kicked the extra point.

Fumble Away Chance.

Shortly after the next kickoff, the Wildcats threatened when Ryan rifled a forty-eight yard pass to Ted Grefe, who was downed on States' 2 yard line. On the next play, McGurn fumbled and State recovered in the end zone for a touchback.

Kansas State had two scoring opportunities in the second quarter. The first threat came shortly after the period opened with Northwestern's second team on the field. Soper kicked out of bounds on State's 47 yard line and on the first play Seelye passed to Fagler for a first down on the Purple 32 yard line. After State backs had picked up two yards in three plays, Seelye's fourth down pass was incomplete.

Near the close of the half, the visitors had another opportunity when Fagler raced around Northwestern's right end for twelve yards to the 32 yard line. Hackney fumbled on a line plunge and Grefe recovered for Northwestern on the 25 yard line only to have the ball revert to the visitors when Briggs recovered McGurn's fumble on the 15 yard line.

A series of penalties for too many substitutions and three incompleted passes set State back to Northwestern's 36 yard line, where the Wildcats took the ball when Sick's pass fell incomplete.

The Wildcats produced their second score late in the third quarter after a forty-two yard march. Ryan and Jefferson alternated in advancing the ball to State's 17 yard line, where Ryan passed to Jefferson, who ran five yards to the goal. McGurn kicked the extra point.

Northwestern's second team produced a touchdown early in the final period. Soukup intercepted Seelye's pass and returned twelve yards to midfield. Soper went around right end for eighteen yards and Soukup added twelve yards at the other flank. On the next play Soper passed over the center to Daly for the score. Laskay kicked the extra point.

State made its best scoring bid following the next kickoff. Starting on its 35 yard line and with Whitlock, Blanke, and Hackney alternating, the Kansans drove to Northwestern's 13 yard line where the ball was lost on downs.

PERRY CRUSHES BELL, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3; ENTERS FINALS

At 8:30 o'clock last night Berkeley Bell, the aging Texan, stepped out on the tennis court in the Chicago arena in an effort to wreck the perfect machine that is Frederick J. Perry. An hour later, he shuffled off, his spirits crushed, for Perry had crushed him in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

Perry will meet Bruce Barnes of White Plains, N. Y., at 8 o'clock tonight for the championship, which is worth $450. Barnes defeated Richard Skeen, Hollywood, Cal., 4-6, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4.

Doubles finalists tonight will be Perry and Vincent Richards and Barnes and Bell.

Pair of 60 Yard Marches Rout Crimson.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The best Brown football team in six years overcame Harvard's well drilled forces, 20 to 13, today before 25,000.

Brown appeared dangerous everywhere on the gridiron. The veteran Irving Hall twice climaxed sixty yard marches by scoring from inside Harvard's 5 yard line. The other Brown score came when Johnny O'Leary intercepted the second of the ten passes launched by the Crimson on his 20 yard line and lateraled to John McLaughry. The latter dashed seventy-five yards into the Harvard end zone.

After being outplayed in the first period, Harvard sent Torbie MacDonald and Frank Foley into action and the latter counted the first Crimson points by sprinting seventy-three yards inside his right tackle. Harvard was trailing, 20 to 6, with only eight minutes left when Bob Burnett completed a forty-seven yard scoring pass to Capt. Bobby Green.

ARMY CRUSHES V. P. I.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Army defeated Virginia Polytechnic institute, 39 to 0, in a one sided contest today. The southerners were never dangerous. Army played without the services of either Capt. Jim Schwenck or Art Frontczak, heavy duty men of their backfield.

The cadets scored four of their six touchdowns in the opening period with some sensational running and forward passing feats.

E. R. Burch, Hialeah Race Track Official, Dies

Miami, Fla., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Edward R. Burch, 59, general manager, secretary and treasurer of Hialeah Park race track, died today of a heart attack. He was a native of Paynesville, Ky., and the body will be sent there for burial.

WHITE OWL

THE METALLIC NOSE KNOWS

Scientists use a sensitive osmoscope to measure odor . . . to record its intensity and lasting power. Ten popular brands of 5¢ cigars were tested by this machine. White Owl was easier on the breath than all the others. After 30 minutes, all trace of tobacco odor disappeared from the breath of White Owl smokers.

Smokers' Test Showed Vintage Tobacco was EASIER ON YOUR BREATH

WHITE OWLS are definitely easier on your breath—scientific tests proved it. And there's a good reason why, too. Every White Owl always has a Vintage-quality filler. Nature—not artificial factory processing—made this tobacco exceptionally mild, mellow.

We maintain a vast crop-inspection system—the only known organization of its kind—to locate Vintage tobacco. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobaccos into at least seven grades—and use only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades for the filler of our Vintage WHITE OWL cigars.

Have you tried a White Owl lately? It's refreshing to find a cigar that tastes so good—that's so mild . . . and to have it approved by the ladies, too. Light up a Vintage cigar . . . taste the difference.

PORTER'S MITE WINS FUTURITY; EARNS $57,045

War Admiral Captures Gold Cup.

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Not in half a century has a Pacific slope colt won the Belmont Futurity but it happened today when W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite, the world's record holder, scored by a nose in the world's richest juvenile race. The time for the six and one-half furlongs was 1:16 4-5. Basil James was in the saddle of the 6 to 1 shot, to earn the $57,045 which went to the winner.

Porter's Mite will go west by train tomorrow, leaving a record equaled not even by Proctor Knott, that other far western thoroughbred which, in 1888, in the inaugural running of the futurity, defeated Salvator, considered unbeatable. George D. Widener's Eight Thirty today finished second. He earned $7,400.

War Admiral Takes Gold Cup.

The finish left every one in doubt until the judges could examine the photographs. A poor third was Third Degree, while Johnstown, the favorite, was fourth.

In the co-feature, the Jocky Club Gold Cup, War Admiral led from end to end of the two miles.

Following the finish David F. Woods, a director of the Maryland Jocky club, stated on behalf of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, that a match race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit is in prospect at Pimlico next November. It probably will be next week before a definite announcement is made.

War Admiral by Three Lengths.

War Admiral was held at 1 to 12 to take the $7,000 Gold Cup race. He finished three lengths ahead of Ogden Phipps' Magic Hour. Walter M. Jeffords' Jolly Tar, another son of Man O'War, was third.

Unselfish and Mr. Blaze Win at Hawthorne

Unselfish, a colt valued at just $3,250 and claimed for that sum earlier in the racing year, climaxed a brilliant week at Howthorne yesterday afternoon by racing to an easy four length victory in the $3,190 Hawthorne handicap.

Unselfish's triumph, his first in a stake event, was his third in six days for his present owner, Mrs. George Emick of Kansas City. Few thoroughbreds win three races in a single week but Unselfish won an allowance race on Monday, a handicap on Wednesday and a stake on Saturday for total earnings of $4,055.

Sharing honors with Unselfish was J. Norris' Mr. Blaze, which raced to a half length victory in the $3,090 Speed handicap.

The two features were witnessed by a crowd of 15,000. Both stake winners were held at 6 to 1 in the betting.

Unselfish Takes Early Lead.

Unselfish took command in the Howthorne handicap soon after the start. Jocky Ken McCombs took the 3 year old to the front, with Cardinalis, Her Reigh, and Chance Ray providing the most contention. When Cardinalis quit badly only Chance Ray moved up to menace Unselfish.

This threat was not serious, for McCombs let Unselfish out a notch and they drew out down the stretch to win easily. Chance Ray was second and another length and a half back came Uneasy, with Visigoth, the favorite, fourth.

Unselfish raced the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 2-5 over a fast track. He paid $14.80 to win, and earned $2,255 for Mrs. Emick.

Mr. Blaze was harder pressed to win in the six furlong Speed handicap. W. Leishman, astride the Norris sprinter, had him well placed from the start, with first Mad Money, and then Dora May, leading the way.

Mr. Blaze by One-Half Length.

Mr. Blaze was only half a length back of Dora May as they set out for home. He moved up under a hard drive to dispose of the filly. Then came a challenge by Woodsaw, and Mr. Blaze managed to hold him safe by a half length. Dora May held third, with Mad Money fourth.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:12. Mr. Blaze paid $14.60 for his second stake victory of the Hawthorne meeting. Previously he had captured the sprint handicap at the same route. Yesterday's triumph netted owner Norris $2,155.

Margaret P. O'Connell of 921 25th avenue, Bellwood, won the $500 Hawthorne rating contest yesterday with six winners and a second in the first seven races. Miss O'Connell is a sophomore at Trinity High school in River Forest. She missed only the fifth race when Shining Heels was out of the money. Two other contestants picked six winners but had no seconds.

Betting for the afternoon was somewhat lower than on previous Saturdays, a total of $396,882 going through the mutuel machines.

WASHINGTON HAS STAR HALF BACK; DRAKE LOSES, 25-13

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Bill Ferfecky, senior half back, threw three touchdown passes and then, for variety, caught one himself as Washington university upset a highly favored Drake university eleven today, 25 to 13, in a Missouri Valley conference game.

Ferfecky had Half Back Jack Warner as his receiver in Washington's merry game of catch. Full Back Dick Yore threw the pass Ferfecky caught for the Bears' final score.

Pug Manders, Drake full back, carried the ball in power drives for both Drake's touchdowns in the third quarter.

LAKE FOREST RACES THROUGH AUGUSTANA, 36-6

Scores Touchdowns in Every Quarter.

Lake Forest college defeated Augustana, 36 to 6, yesterday in the first home game of the season for Lake Forest. Lake Forest scored one touchdown in each of the first, second, and third quarters and three in the fourth.

The first was made by Martinov on two plunges after a pass, Fogarty to Grear, had put the ball on the 20 yard line. Hein scored the second on a fake spinner after two attempts at the center of the line had failed.

Passes Bring Touchdown.

In the third quarter, two passes from Fogarty to Hildebrand made it 18 to 0. McAllister gained seventy yards in two series of downs for the fourth touchdown. Parmelee scored the fifth on a ten yard pass from W. Harlan, and W. Harlan plunged through for the final points after a forty yard march late in the fourth quarter.

Augustana made its touchdown in the fourth quarter, Tangorra scoring on a line plunge.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE WINS.

Fairfield, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—With the score 12 to 7 against it and only twenty seconds remaining in the last period, Illinois college worked a forward-lateral pass from Lambert to Decenso to Peabody for a touchdown to win over Parsons, 13 to 12. Lambert failed to kick the extra point. Kalteaux in the back field and Capt. Gail McWard starred for Illinois.

MACOMB WINS, 20-0.

Macomb, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Macomb Teachers of Macomb defeated Iowa Wesleyan, 20 to 0, today. After a scoreless first half, Scotty Sampson ran sixty-eight yards to Wesleyan's 2 yard line. Capt. Bob Kraushaar went off tackle for a touchdown and kicked goal. Stevenson dashed off tackle for twenty-eight yards to the 4 yard line and on the next play went through center for the second touchdown. The third score after a forward pass, Sampson to Lambert to the 1 yard line, where Stevenson again went over for a touchdown.

MONMOUTH BEATS CARTHAGE.

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Monmouth recovered a fumbled punt on the Carthage 7 yard line and drove to a 6 to 0 victory today. Carthage received the kickoff and marched down the field to Monmouth's 12 yard line, where a place kick was missed. Sapp punted one and Plunkett recovered Geiger's fumble. Kauzlarich scored on third down. Although Carthage made repeated drives they all bogged down shortly past midfield.

WHEATON WINS, 13 TO 7.

Wheaton college defeated Elmhurst in Wheaton yesterday, 13 to 7. Wheaton came from behind in the second half scoring once in third quarter when Half Back Patterson passed to Capt. Gavin from the Elmhurst 7 yard line. Hayes carried the ball from Elmhurst's 24 yard line to the 1 foot line and Patterson plunged through center for Wheaton's second score. Wheaton made seventeen first downs to Elmhurst's seven.

CARROLL, 7; NORTH CENTRAL, 0.

Waukesha, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Carroll handed North Central college its first defeat of the season today, 7 to 0. Perrin climaxed a sixty yard drive in the fourth quarter to plunge over for a touchdown from the 1 yard line. Higgins kicked the extra point. Carroll intercepted a North Central pass on its own goal line as the gun ended the game.

KNOX BEATS RIPON.

Ripon, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Knox college defeated Ripon, 7 to 0, in a Midwest conference game today. Quarter Back Christiansen scored the only touchdown running around right end from the 2 yard line after a sustained Knox drive brought the ball down from Ripon's 37 yard line. McGrew place kicked the extra point.

DE KALB, 7; CHARLESTON, 0.

De Kalb, Ill., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—De Kalb Teachers opened its football season today by defeating Charleston Teachers, 7 to 0. Willard Rezik, diminutive Brookfield senior, made a run of thirty-six yards for the winning touchdown. Curtis Larson, captain of De Kalb, place kicked for the extra point. Charleston threatened throughout the final quarter but De Kalb prevented three serious threats from materializing into scores.

DUBUQUE, 25; NORMAL, 14.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—University of Dubuque showed unexpected strength this afternoon to defeat Illinois Normal, 25 to 14.

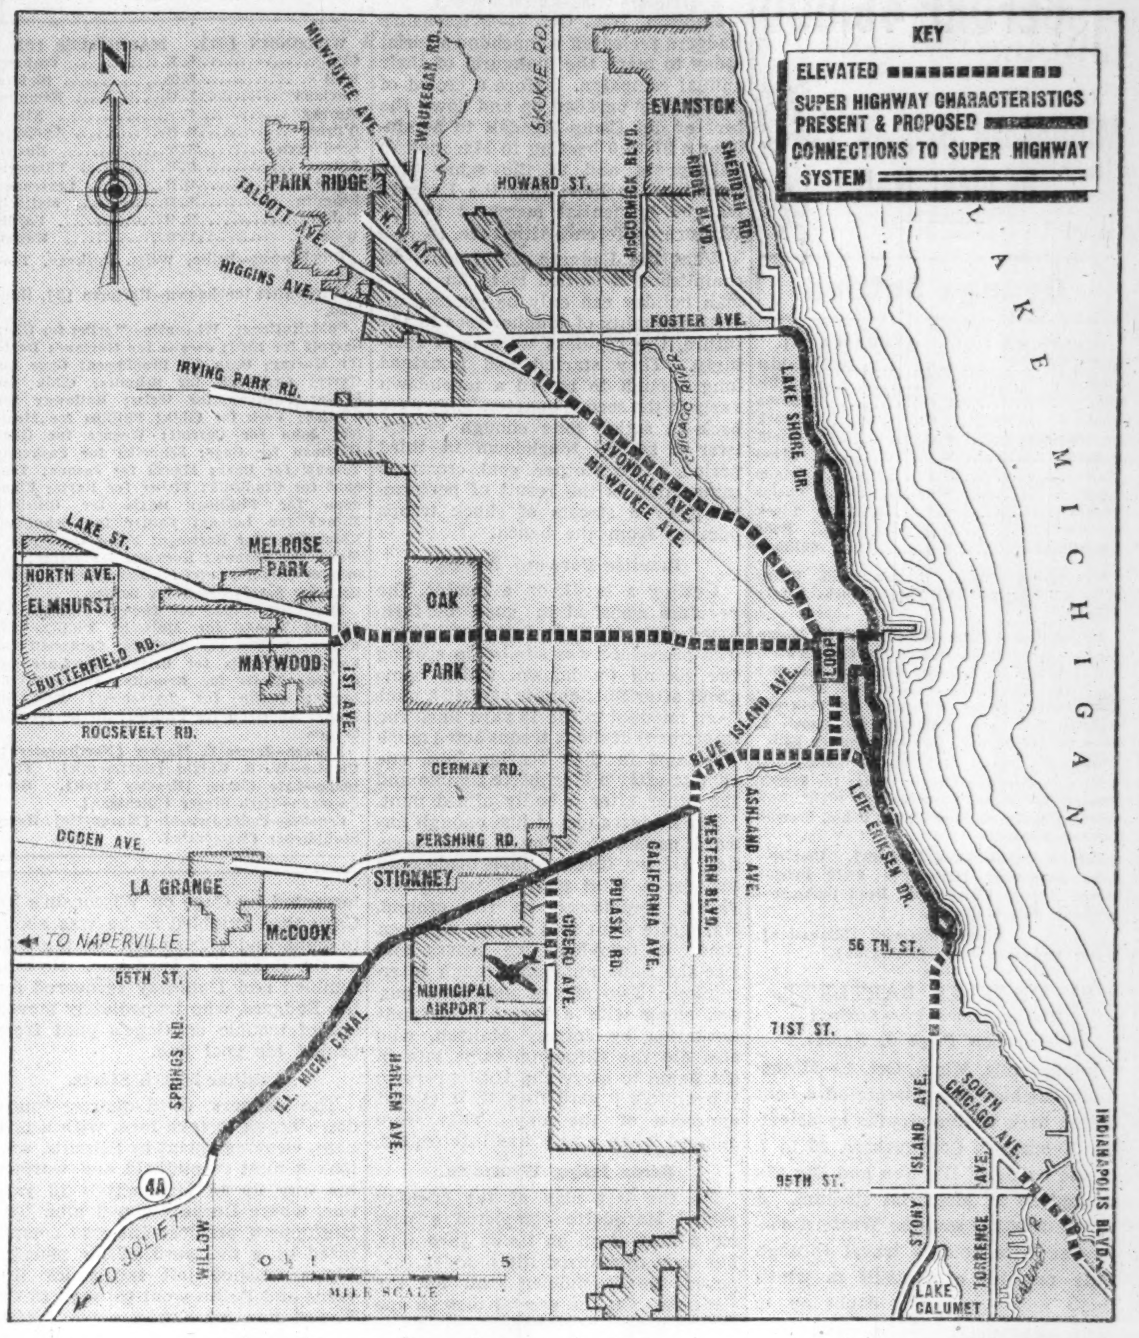
MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

A Chicago Elevated Highway System



This map locates 41 miles of elevated highways which have been indorsed by neighborhood and suburban civic and political leaders in the last two weeks. The Chicago Motor club estimates total cost as $55,000,000. The club also reckons that the system would prevent 130 deaths and 4,500 personal injuries annually.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

LIKED DRIVING LESSONS.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Only six months ago I bought a car and learned how to drive.

Of course, I am still learning, and many points are still obscure to me. In yesterday's SUNDAY TRIBUNE I read the driver's quiz and got a kick out of it.

It is very instructive and I wish you would keep it up every Sunday, or possibly every day, so it would help me and many other motorists to know rules and good manners in good driving.

N. ANTONELLI.

AGAINST OAK PARK COPS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—I want to relate an incident that happened to me last night in Oak Park so that other motorists may benefit. While driving along at 30 miles per hour I was stopped by a squad and was informed I was doing 45. Now I am a cab driver and know all the speed regulations and when I go to any suburb I take extra caution to try to obey the trafic laws for I know that if I violate any of them and not being a resident of that suburb I am licked before I start. I was able to talk my way out of this only after a lot of pleading and so on. And if my guess is right I think it was more of a shakedown than anything else. After relating my experience to some of my fellow cab drivers I learned they had the same thing happen to them. Now I think things have come to a fine state of affairs when a man cannot make an honest living without being hounded. If it keeps up I will quit my job and go on relief, as much as I hate relief.

A. H.

DEFENDS IOWA COP.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—In answer to "K. M." of Sunday, Sept. 18, headed "Iowa Cop Picks on Chicagoan."

Wyoming, Ia., is no village, but a busy little city whose main street extends for several blocks on the main highway. There are no curves or turns to slow down the fast driver. Consequently speed at this point is very dangerous.

I came through there on Labor day and perhaps like "K. M." at too great a speed for town driving. A motorcycle patrolman was parked out in the open in front of a gas station. He followed and stopped me. In the most polite manner he reprimanded and cautioned me, then wished me a slower and safe ride home to Chicago. This officer had every right to arrest me, for upon entering the city limits there is a large sign warning motorists to slow down because streets are patroled. My hat is off to the city fathers of Wyoming, Ia., for having such a gentleman on their police force.

GEORGE W. DEGEN.

NEW BRIDGE TO CANADA WILL OPEN SATURDAY

A new $3,250,000 international bridge across the St. Clair river, between Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ontario, will be dedicated and opened to trafic next Saturday. Dedicatory addresses will be made by Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and Prime Minister Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario.

This bridge will open a new route from Chicago to eastern Canadian points for those motorists who want to bypass Detroit congestion. The mileage will be approximately the same. The motoring distance between northern Michigan and eastern Canada will be reduced. Port Huron is 57 miles north of Detroit.

Special Speed Limits Enforced on U.S. 12

The Michigan highway commission advised yesterday that special speed limits are being enforced on U. S. 12, the lake shore highway, where construction is under way between Stevensville and Sawyer, Mich., south of Benton Harbor. These zones are posted at 45 miles an hour or at 20 miles an hour.

41 MILES OF ELEVATED ROADS URGED FOR CITY

BY HAL FOUST.

Indorsements of neighborhood and suburban civic and local improvements organizations in the last two weeks call for the construction of forty-one miles of elevated highway in Chicago to serve all sections of the city. The Chicago Motor club estimated the total cost at $55,000,000, which is within means of existing revenue for a ten year construction program.

One branch of this life saving highway system would extend northwest from the loop. Civic and political leaders of this northwest corner of the city petitioned for the improvement with an argument that it would save them six miles and thirty-six minutes of driving on round trips to the loop. North shore and northwestern suburbs asked for this elevated for the same reasons. Civic associations along the lake front indorsed the proposal to relieve Lake Shore drive from congestion due to trafic from the northwest.

From Loop to Maywood.

A west side branch of this system would extend from the loop to perhaps Maywood, connecting with a fan of state highways so as to serve suburbs of Cook and Du Page counties as well as cities of the Fox river valley from Oswego to Dundee.

On the west side was encountered the only opposition in Chicagoland to elevated highways. It came from organized proponents of a $24,000,000 Congress street parkway, who opposed any improvement for the west side other than this "neighborhood rehabilitation project." Some west siders and a vast majority of west suburbanites approved elevateds.

To the southwest an elevated structure would use Cermak road and Blue Island avenue from the outer drive to Western avenue, where it would connect with a depressed highway on the banks of the Illinois and Chicago canal to the Willow Springs road. A stub in Cicero avenue would serve the Chicago airport. In 39th and 55th streets would be connections to western suburbs. A modernization of Archer avenue would extend from the depressed highway at the Willow Springs road to Joliet.

Forms Terminal for U. S. 66.

The southwest elevated would form a Chicago terminal via Joliet for U. S. 66, the main Chicago to St. Louis highway. It would form a Chicago terminal via Naperville and a 55th street superhighway for U. S. 34, another transcontinental route.

This southwest route was indorsed by the executive committee of the Chicago Motor club's south area council. This council consists of seventy-eight local clubs on the south side. The route also was indorsed by a meeting of twenty-five civic and political leaders of suburbs at a luncheon in Joliet.

For the southeast gateway to Chicago, for the heavy trafic rounding the foot of Lake Michigan, this south area council indorsed elevated highways as designed by Dr. Miller McClintock of Yale university in his 1933 survey for Chicago.

Link Outer Drive to Indiana.

One section would extend from Indianapolis boulevard at the Indiana-Illinois state line and north and northwest across railroad tracks and across the Calumet river to South Chicago avenue at Commercial avenue. A second section would begin in the parkway of Stony Island avenue at 72d street and extend north to 67th street, and thence on the west and north borders of Jackson park to meet the outer drive at 56th street. With Stony Island and South Chicago avenues these elevateds would link the outer drive to Indiana.

"This forty-one mile superhighway system," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, "annually would prevent 130 deaths and 4,500 personal injuries in Chicago's trafic toll.

"The system would accommodate 450,000,000 vehicle miles of travel annually. The travel would be at twice the speed of congested surface streets and with only 2 per cent of the risk of driving typical Chicago streets. Drivers and passengers, at a rate of 1.7 persons per car, would save 61,700,000 hours now lost yearly in crowded surface streets.

Gasoline Tax $1,110,000.

"The 3 cent tax on the gasoline that would be consumed on this system would amount to $1,110,000 a year. If time is to be evaluated, at say $1 an hour per person, the elevated roads would be worth $61,700,000 a year to Chicagoans, but this is as difficult to evaluate as the saving of 130 lives and 4,500 limbs each year.

"The construction, spread over ten years, would cost $5,500,000 a year. Chicago trafic pays $15,000,000 a year on the 3 cent state gasoline tax, $8,000,000 a year for state license plates, and $5,000,000 a year for city licenses, and $5,000,000 a year on the 1 cent federal gas tax, a total of $33,000,000 a year. We can hope for only a small portion of this $33,000,000 for elevated highway construction. It will take only a small portion."

NEWS AND VIEWS

Chicago's annual automobile show this year will contain many new ideas in salesmanship and in the presentation of the new cars, S. L. Davis, chairman of the executive show committee, stated yesterday. The show is to be held in the International Amphitheater Nov. 12 to 19. This will be Chicago's thirty-ninth annual show.

"We are sparing no expense in our ambition to keep Chicago in the foreground as the leading automobile show center of America," Davis said. "We are drawing on outstanding studios and other sources for decorative treatment and materials to provide a setting that will be breathtaking.

"John Ross Reed, co-producer of a 'Wings of a Century' has been engaged to present an original spectacle entitled "An Age of Wheel Prints." This is to be presented each afternoon and evening. Other features of the show will include a "Used Car Show," "Hall of Science" and the "Automobile Book of the Year'."

Serving with Davis, who recently was elected president of the Hupp Motor Car company, on the executive committee are: Harry T. Hollingshead, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, and Nash distributor; V. C. P. Dreiske, Cadillac-La Salle; M. J. Lanahan, Dodge-Plymouth; and J. J. Bright, Ford-Lincoln.

An improved overdrive, which is said to give the equivalent of five speeds forward, is available at moderate extra cost in the 1939 De Sotos, J. B. Wagstaff, general sales manager of the De Soto division of the Chrysler corporation, stated yesterday. The new overdrive is effective at 25 miles an hour where formerly it was usable only at speeds in excess of 35 miles an hour, he said.

W. R. Bamford, director of service of Dodge Brothers corporation, announced yesterday that the company's service plaque has been presented to James F. Goodwin, head of the Goodwin agency, 5725 Broadway. The award is made for outstanding service to company dealers, he said.

terference broke into the open to run fifty-one yards for the seventh touchdown. Saggau was the dominating factor in a fifty-four yard march with which the third team ended the scoring, carrying the ball to the 6 yard line with a twenty-three yard sprint. Milton Piepul, third string full back, cracked inside Kansas' right tackle for the last six yards and the touchdown.

Sitko Comes Through.

Until the final minutes of the game when the last of Notre Dame's triumphant 81 were in the game, Kansas was held completely in check. It passed the middle of the field only once in the first three periods, Center Charles Warren recovering Tonelli's fumble on Notre Dame's 46 yard line. A pass, Miller to Right Half Back Richard Amerine, gained twelve yards to the 34 yard line, but here the drive ended when Steve Sitko, Notre Dame's quarter back, intercepted Miller's pass on the next play.

During the afternoon Irish partisans found a successor to Andy Puplis, Notre Dame quarter back last year, and Chuck Sweeney, right end.

The quarter back is Steve Sitko, a third string man last year. Sitko, a junior from Fort Wayne, Ind., met every requirement of generalship, but he was most impressive as a leader.

J. Kelly, a junior from Rutherford, N. J., succeeded to Sweeney's old post and with Earl Brown indicated that Notre Dame again will be flanked by outstanding performers. The left half laurels were divided between Stevenson and Sheridan and Saggau.

The total of eighty-one players used breaks all previous Notre Dame records. Joe Thesing, second string full back, was the only Notre Dame casualty. He suffered a broken nose when hit by a flying cleat.

The statistics follow:

	Notre Dame.	Kansas.
First downs	17	9
First downs from rushing	15	3
First downs from forward passes	2	5
First downs from penalties	0	1

CORNELL COLLEGE BEATS COLUMBIA IN 2D HALF, 26-0

Mount Vernon, Ia., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—A last half scoring drive gave Cornell college a 26 to 0 victory over Columbia college today. With all its threats wiped out by fumbles and intercepted passes during the first half, Cornell opened the second half with a reserve team which soon began scoring. The last touchdown was made as the final gun sounded.

Jack Paul received a pass from Tornquist for the first touchdown, then Tornquist broke away for fifty-three yards for the second. Purkey, third string quarter back, bucked over late in the game for the third touchdown, and on the last play Tornquist went around his left end for the final points.

Iowa State Teachers Defeat Grinnell, 10-0

Cedar Falls, Ia., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Iowa State Teachers opened their 1938 football season today with a 10 to 0 victory over Grinnell college. Cliff Shirks, a substitute, kicked a field goal from the 15 yard line in the third quarter and the Teachers drove through the Pioneers for a touchdown in the fourth period.

400 DOGS BID FOR RIBBONS IN SHOW RING TODAY

More than 400 of the finest show dogs from midwestern kennels will compete for ribbons and 102 trophies today in the sixth annual Northbrook Kennel club show, to be held at the Onwentsia Country club in Lake Forest. Judging will start at 10 o'clock this morning. The judging of individual breeds will continue all day, with the best dogs in the six variety groups to be selected shortly after 6:30 o'clock tonight. The final event of the day will be the selection of the best dog in the show by Dr. T. D. Buck, Rochester, N. Y.

Puppies and novice dogs being judged for the first time, as well as veteran champions of the show ring, will be on exhibition when they are not being judged.

Culver Touchdowns in 2d Period Beat Calumet, 13-0

Culver, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy opened its season with a 13 to 0 victory over Calumet High of Chicago today. All of the scoring came in the second quarter, with Capt. Maxson, Culver full back, figuring prominently in both. He scored the first on a one yard plunge and intercepted a Calumet forward pass and ran to the Calumet 10 yard line, from where Firestone drove over. Calumet's only threat came near the end of the game after a forward-lateral had put the ball on the Cadets' 10 yard line.

Concordia Teachers Beat Morton Junior, 19 to 0

Concordia Teachers' college football team yesterday defeated Morton Junior college, 19 to 0, in River Forest. Two of Concordia's touchdowns were made on passes from Kahling to Vick Krause. John Socha accounted for the other score, Kahling converting for the extra point.

KICK GOES TRUE, AND OKLAHOMA BEATS RICE, 7-6

Raphael Boudreau Makes Good Once Again.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Raphael Boudreau, who never has missed a try for point in three years of college play, delivered the goods again today and Oklahoma's Sooners upset Rice institute, 7 to 6, before 18,000. Boudreau trotted out just before half time and kicked the winning point after Substitute Howard McCarty had spun across from the 18 yard line for the touchdown.

Doug Sullivan, understudy to 226 pound Ernie Lain, was the spark behind Rice's second period score. On the first play after replacing Lain, he passed sixteen yards to Hugo Stevens. Sullivan moved on down to Oklahoma's 15 yard line, and on five successive downs finally went over for the score. Full Back Jake Schuehle was wide on his conversion attempt.

T. C. U. BEATS ARKANSAS.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Superb passing by David O'Brien and superior line play gave Texas Christian university a 21 to 14 victory over Arkansas in the Southwest conference's opening game of the season today. Texas Christian was not as closely pressed as the score would indicate and it totaled fifteen first downs to Arkansas' four. Passes accounted for both Arkansas touchdowns and two of the three scored by T. C. U.

GEORGIA TECH WINS.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Georgia Tech opened its football season with a 19 to 0 victory over Mercer university before 10,000 today. Georgia Tech, playing a warm up game before meeting Notre Dame next Saturday, scored once in each of the last three periods.

L. S. U. WHIPS TEXAS, 20-0.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A University of Texas eleven which amazed 17,000 spectators today by outplaying Louisiana State in the first half collapsed completely to let the powerful Tigers win, 20 to 0. Deceptive grond play and aerial skill baffled the Texans in the final half, the Louisiana eleven scoring twice in the third and adding another in the fourth period.

ALABAMA BEATS HOWARD.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Alabama beat Howard, 34 to 0, today in a display of power and versatility before 8,000 fans. Alvin Davis, 185 pound full back, raced fifty-six yards for the longest touchdown run and he scored another on a line buck.

TULANE, 0; AUBURN, 0.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A scoreless tie for the third straight year was the story of the annual football duel between Auburn and Tulane today. Only by presenting a lineup improved over its weak play of the opening game last week, when Clemson won, 13 to 10, was Tulane able to hold Auburn to the traditional tie.

DePauw Overwhelms Evansville Eleven, 41-0

Green Castle, Ind., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—De Pauw university defeated Evansville college, 41 to 0, today. It was Evansville's tenth consecutive shut out and De Pauw's second Indiana conference victory of the season. De Pauw scored in every quarter and every man on the squad of thirty-five was used.

Ohio Conquers Indiana, 6 to 0, in Last Period

scrimmage to sixty-three, and completed seven passes in twenty-four attempts for 121 yards. Ohio State completed five passes for seventy-four yards.

Believe This If You Can.

The peak of Indiana's attack was reached in the third period. Believe this if you can! In the fifteen minutes of the third period Ohio State had the ball for only four plays. Indiana made six first downs, Ohio State none.

Indiana received the kickoff to start the second half and drove from its 36 yard line to Ohio State's 26, only to falter when assessed five yards for offside. The drive ended with Ed Clasen's short kick sailing into the end zone for a touchback.

Ohio State kicked on second down, and from their own 31 yard line the Hoosiers advanced again to Ohio State's 10 yard line only to have the last play, a pass from Nicholson to Frank Petrick, recalled for holding. Resuming, Indiana marched to Ohio State's 32 yard line before Ohio State held, and Harold Hursh kicked out of bounds to the Buckeyes' 2 yard line.

Mike Kabealo kicked out from the end zone. It was the third time the Buckeyes had possession of the ball in the period. Three plays later, Kabealo intercepted Vincent Oliver's pass. Kabealo's run after interception, a brilliant open field sprint, gained 36 yards and he reached Indiana's 49 yard line.

Then, on the fourth Ohio State play of the quarter, Strausbaugh's pass was intercepted by Indiana's Bill Tipmore, substitute for Graham at full back, on Indiana's 36 yard line. On the last play of the third period Oliver quick kicked for Indiana to Ohio State's 30 yard line.

An Unexpected Surge.

Thus the Buckeye surge to victory was entirely unexpected. Its conception perhaps was made possible by Indiana's use of second flight men, who were inserted into the game to give the regulars a rest. Ohio State made eleven yards on the first play, when Welbaum took the ball on the hoary statue of liberty play and slipped around Ed Rucinski at right end. Sexton and Scott picked up nine yards and then Sexton's first pass was grabbed by Scott for a first down on Indiana's 31 yard line. Forrest Fordham again circled right end for seven yards on a reverse and Sexton threw over center to Welbaum for a first down on Indiana's 21 yard line.

Indiana sent in its varsity linemen, but the Buckeyes, with goal in sight and spurred by the niagra of sound from the stands, could not be stopped. Welbaum went wide around the left flank of Indiana's six man line for six yards. Then he hammered right guard for a yard. Sexton faked a pass from his position and plowed into the line for two yards. On fourth down, Welbaum dove over center for a first down on Indiana's 10 yard line.

And then the Touchdown.

After a Hoosier time out, Sexton then took the ball, and his bullet pass was caught at the goal line by Scott for the touchdown. With the exception of this march, Indiana's linemen completely outplayed their opponents.

Lawrence Eleven Upsets Coe, 6-2, on Forward Pass

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Lawrence college scored an upset with a 6 to 2 victory over Coe today. A fifty-four yard pass, Buesing to Crawford, scored for Lawrence in the second quarter.

STANFORD ELEVEN CRUSHED, 22 TO 0, BY SANTA CLARA

Losers Are Halted Twice Within 5 Yard Line.

Palo Alto, Cal., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Santa Clara, champion of the Sugar bowl the last two years, opened its 1938 bid for national football recognition today with a stunning 22 to 0 victory over Stanford. Some 50,000 watched in amazement as Santa Clara completely routed what was heralded as one of Stanford's best teams in recent years. It was Santa Clara's third successive victory over its neighbor.

Santa Clara scored a first period touchdown after a sixty-seven yard drive; pushed over another in the second quarter after returning an intercepted pass fifty yards to the 8 yard mark, and ended a march of sixty-one yards in the third period behind the Stanford's goal.

Stanford, in the third period, twice lost the ball near the Santa Clara goal. One rally halted on the 1 yard mark and the other on the 3 yard mark. Lineup:

U. S. C. WINS, 7-0.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Showing improvement over their play of last week, Southern California defeated a stubborn Oregon State eleven, 7 to 0, today before 30,000 fans.

The Beavers could not gain and punted to Troy's 19 yard line. From this point Southern California smashed eighty-one yards without losing the ball. Day finally cracked through center from the 1 foot line and Phil Gaspar came into the game to add the extra point.

CALIFORNIA WINS.

Pullman, Wash., Oct. 1.—[U. P.]—University of California's Golden Bears smothered Washington State college, 27 to 3, today and established themselves as outstanding contenders for the Pacific Coast conference football championship.

The Cougars scored their three points a few minutes after the opening whistle. Quarterback Joe Angelo kicked a field goal from the Bear 19, then the Bears turned on the power to score three touchdowns in quick order. Vic Bottari, left half back for the Bears, was the star.

IDAHO TIES WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 1.—(AP)—With two smashing comebacks, the University of Idaho amazed 20,000 spectators by holding the University of Washington Huskies to a 12 to 12 tie in their annual nonconference football battle here today. Two minutes before the end of the game Ray Smith scampered seventeen yards on an end around play to score the tying touchdown. Harold Roise missed the extra point.

OREGON, 14; U. C. L. A., 12.

Eugene, Ore., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Oregon lined up with the contenders for the Coast conference football title today by defeating the University of California at Los Angeles, 14 to 12.

Bears Invade Philadelphia to Play Eagles

Week's Games

TODAY.

Chicago Bears in Philadelphia.
Detroit in Cleveland.
Chicago Cardinals in Brooklyn.

TOMORROW.

Pittsburgh in New York [night].

Detroit's Lions and the Chicago Bears, the only National Football league teams to survive the first three weeks of championship competition without being beaten or tied, will see action this week. Four league games are scheduled.

The Bears, victorious over the Chicago Cardinals and the Green Bay Packers, will invade Philadelphia today to battle the Eagles. Detroit, idle since it vanquished Pittsburgh in the opening league game of the season, will meet the Rams in Cleveland and the Cardinals and the Dodgers will clash in Brooklyn in two other games today.

Giants Face Pittsburgh.

The New York Giants will open their home season Monday night by meeting Pittsburgh at the Polo grounds. This game, originally scheduled for Oct. 30, was moved up so that the Pirates could break a heavy October schedule with an open date. The Pirates bounced back to beat Brooklyn after losing their first three starts, and figure to be tough customers from now on. The Giants, after winning their first game in Pittsburgh handily, ran into a surprise last week and were beaten by the Eagles, 14 to 10. Thus, the Giant-Pirate return engagement is likely to be a struggle.

Bears Must Improve.

The Bears, not very impressive in winning stands against the Cards and Packers, must improve if they expect to beat the Eagles, who are on the upswing. The Lions, reported to be staggering with strength, should take the Rams in stride.

The Cardinals pack plenty of power, despite their stumbling start, and Brooklyn is likely to catch them on the rebound.

Pitt Unleashes Power to Whip Temple, 28 to 6

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—With an awesome display of that power for which it is famous, Pittsburgh ran rough shod over Temple before 41,728 spectators in Temple stadium today, winning 28 to 6.

The Panther varsity uncovered its so-called dream back field and, for Temple, it resembled a nightmare much more than a mere dream. Three times the first stringers had possession of the ball and three times they swept to touchdowns. They saw action for only the first and third quarters and used only four simple plays.

Only once during the game did the Panthers throw a forward pass. Pitt riddled the Temple defense without an aerial attack. The way that back field of Dick Cassiano, Curley Stebbins, John Chickerneo and Marshall Goldberg performed had to be seen to be believed. Pitt scored in every period but the second. Temple's only score came in the last quarter with Lukac going over.

NAVY BEATS V. M. I.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The Navy, scoring two touchdowns on passes from Lem Cooke to Capt. Pete Pwell and Lou Burke, the ends, within six minutes of the start of the game, and touchdowns in the third and final quarters, won from Virginia Military institute today, 26 to 0.

BONDS ADVANCE AGAIN IN HEAVY WEEK-END TRADE

Prices Rise with End of European Crisis.

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The bond market made a little history today with a further sharp rebound in prices on the largest Saturday trading volume since last November. Investment circles believed it was the biggest rising market for a short session in two years or more.

Relief over ending of the European war crisis continued to express itself in a rapid upbidding for bonds of all classes. Transactions totaled $4,959,200, compared with $3,882,000 the previous Saturday.

Foreign Loans Prominent.

Foreign dollar loans again were prominent in the rise. Jugo-Slavia bank 7s pushed up 10½ points, Czech 8s of '52 were up 6¼, Poland 7s rose 5½, German 5½s gained 2¾, and German 7s were up 3 points.

In the domestic corporate division gains ranged from 1 to more than 8 points over a wide front. Nickel Plate 6s, which slumped about 10 points on Friday, came back 8⅜ points. The company announced after the close yesterday that the time for deposit of the notes in a plan for a three-year extension of maturity had been advanced to Oct. 11. The notes matured today.

Gains Held at Close.

Generally, full gains were held to the close in spite of active profit selling by traders who got aboard in the first stage of the peace rally on Wednesday.

International Telephone 5s closed at 58, up 3; Great Northern 4s of '46 at 90½, up 1½; Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s at 118½, up 1½; Union Pacific 3½s at 93, up 4½; Studebaker 6s at 80½, up 1; Nickel Plate 4½s at 34, up 1½; Pennsylvania general 4½s of '65 at 96⅞, up 1⅜.

U. S. government expanded recent gains by 1-32d to 8-32ds of a point.

CHICAGO STOCKS AT HIGHEST LEVEL IN THREE WEEKS

Chicago stocks yesterday moved up to their highest level in more than three weeks. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks closed at 11.07, up 0.18 for the day and 1.13 for the week. It was the highest close since Sept. 8.

Great Lakes Dredge advanced 1¼ to 21½, a new 1938 high. Hupp Motors, most active stock with 1,850 shares traded, was ⅜ higher at 1⅝. Marshall Field advanced ⅝ to 12⅝, and Middle West moved up ¾ to close at 6⅜. Zenith Radio finished ⅝ higher at 21½. Commonwealth Edison was up ¼ at 25⅝ and Merchants and Manufacturers A rose the same amount to 5¼.

Of the 86 issues traded, 56 moved up, 10 were lower and 20 closed unchanged. The turnover of 27,000 shares compared with 22,000 on the preceding Saturday. For the week the volume was 171,000 shares against 128,900 in the preceding week and 193,000 in the corresponding 1937 week. One hundred of the 160 issues traded in the week closed higher, 34 declined and 26 were unchanged.

Tung Oil.

We have received a large number of letters recently on the question of investments in tung tree plantations. Perhaps you have been approached by salesmen for companies developing lands for tung tree cultivation.

The tung tree is a comparative newcomer to American agriculture and its promotion is new in investment fields. Tung oil, or "China tree" oil, as it is sometimes called, is made from the fruit, or nuts, grown on tung trees.

In the last few years tung plantations have reached commercial proportions in several southern states. The oil is used principally in making paints, varnishes and linoleums. It has been imported from China at an annual cost of about 12 million dollars.

Tung oil has been boosted by its sponsors as the "coming" industry of the south. Many extravagant claims for its future have been made by salesmen for some of the development companies. We have seen literature put out by some tung plantation companies predicting annual returns approaching 100 per cent on the original investment. We fail to see why any one who holds such a good thing as this would be so anxious to sell it as the promoters obviously are.

Sales contracts of these promotions usually provide for sale of an acre or so of land in the plantation. The development company then agrees to cultivate the trees and harvest and sell the crop for the investor.

There are several factors making this a particularly risky type of investment for the average small investor—the ones on whom the promoters are concentrating their sales efforts. The first risk is entering a business about which you know nothing. The second is buying land unseen and only on the description and promises of the seller.

A third big risk in this type of venture is letting some one else handle your property after you have bought it. His selfish interests may or may not coincide with yours.

There may be a big future for the tung oil industry in this country. That, however, is not conclusive evidence that you, as an investor, will share greatly in the profits. Citrus fruit growing also is a very large industry in the United States. But many investors in citrus orchard promotions figuratively, and in some cases actually, lost their shirts but a few years ago.

PROFIT OF ROYAL TYPEWRITER IN YEAR $1,526,172

Teck Hughes Gold Mines Profit Declines.

The Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., yesterday reported net profit of $1,526,172 for the fiscal year ended July 31. This was equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to $4.70 a common share. Although no accurate comparison was available, because the fiscal year was changed to end July 31 instead of Dec. 31, the earnings were less than for the seven months to July 31, 1937. They were also less than in the year to Dec. 31, 1936.

In the seven months to July 31, 1937, Royal's profit was $1,707,816, or $5.78 a share. In the year 1936 the company earned $2,627,774, or $8.80 a share. About 30 per cent of the sales volume is in foreign markets.

Tech Hughes Shows Loss.

Lower fiscal year profits were shown by Tech Hughes Gold Mines, Ltd. Net income in the year ending Aug. 31 slipped to $1,604,523 from $2,203,390 the previous year.

A net loss of $148,685 for the quarter ended July 31 was reported by Continental Motors. This compared with a loss of $29,693 in the preceding three months and a profit of $53,463 in the July, 1937, quarter. Unfilled orders on the company's books on July 31 totaled $1,920,296.

Consolidated statement of Associated Gas and Electric corporation for the twelve months ended Aug. 31 showed a net operating income of $35,003,510, compared with $36,201,243 in the preceding twelve months.

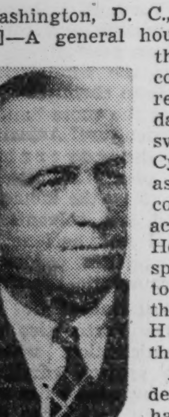
HOUSE CLEANING HITS OFFICE OF U. S. CONTROLER

Upham Takes Diggs' Job in Shakeup.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—A general house cleaning of the office of the controler of currency began today with the swearing in of Cyril B. Upham as first deputy controler and acting controler. He has been a special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.



Marshall R. Diggs, ousted, writes bitter letter to Morgenthau.

Already two deputy controlers have been asked to resign and have done so. Upham goes into the new office with full authority to clean out political appointees of the former controler, J. F. T. O'Connor. O'Connor often has been accused of building up a machine within the controler's office to further his own political ambitions.

O'Connor resigned his post in April to run for governor of California in the recent Democratic primary. He was badly beaten.

Speed Causes Surprise.

The appointment of Upham was announced officially this morning by Secretary Morgenthau. Upham was sworn in shortly thereafter. The change had been planned for some time but the speed with which it was launched came as a distinct surprise in treasury quarters.

Upham will be acting controler for about a month. The newly appointed controler, Preston Delano, a distant cousin of President Roosevelt, has not yet taken the oath of office. He will remain with the federal home loan bank board, of which he is chairman, until his work there is cleaned up.

Delano said he probably would not assume office until after the President's conference with the boards of the twelve home loan banks scheduled for Oct. 17.

Two Given Jobs Elsewhere.

The two deputies whose resignations were requested are Marshall R. Diggs, who was Upham's predecessor and acting controler since O'Connor's resignation, and Goodwin J. Oppegard. Both will return temporarily to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation as legal aids. The place was made for them by Secretary Morgenthau and Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the board of the FDIC.

Their resignations had been requested verbally by Upham on behalf of Secretary Morgenthau. The secretary this morning said that Delano had requested Upham as his first deputy and that as for the others he felt that the new controler had a perfect right to choose his assistants.

One Holdover Deputy.

There is one deputy controler remaining as a holdover. He is E. H. Gough. But Delano, who attended the swearing-in ceremony, said later that Gough will be eligible for retirement in nine months.

It was learned that Diggs sent a blistering letter to Morgenthau yesterday in protest against the request for his resignation.

"I think Mr. Diggs went off halfcocked," said Morgenthau today, "and I think he should be satisfied."

Concerning the new controler, Morgenthau said that the President had selected Delano because "we think he is well qualified for the job."

Delano said that he contemplated no changes in policy such as bank examining functions, at least until after he has taken over the office himself.

Oppose O'Connor Policies.

Neither Secretary Morgenthau nor Crowley liked the way O'Connor had been managing the office. Attempts were made to encourage his leaving, but he stuck to the post. Even the choice offer of a $24,000 job as reserve agent at the San Francisco Federal Reserve bank in 1934 failed to tempt him.

In the summer of 1936 THE TRIBUNE disclosed how O'Connor was firing veteran receivers for closed national banks and was replacing them with politicians. This was especially true in the Chicago area. Whether anything will be done about this now is doubtful, as the number of calls for receivers has gradually diminished.

The advent of Upham is expected to strengthen materially the treasury's control over bank examinations in combating the efforts of Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board to consolidate all examiners under his thumb.

With Treasury Since 1933.

Upham has been in the treasury department since December, 1933. For the last four years he has been assistant to the secretary, specializing in banking and operations of government credit agencies. He is a resident of Iowa City, Ia., and a member of the bar of the District of Columbia.

He was graduated with the degree of A. B. from Morningside college, Sioux City, Ia., and obtained a Ph. D. degree from Iowa State university. He formerly was with the National City bank of New York and later was a member of the research staf of the Brookings institution. He is coauthor of the book, "Closed and Distressed Banks,"

Burlington Ry. Building New, Better Zephyr

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A new stainless steel Zephyr train which will contain a number of improvements on present Zephyrs is being built for the Burlington railroad, Ralph Budd, president, disclosed yesterday. The new Zephyr will be used between St. Louis and Kansas City. It will be the ninth in the Burlington's fleet of streamlined trains.

Budd said the train is under construction at the Philadelphia plant of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company. It will be a four car unit powered by a Diesel electric locomotive.

The improvements include the following:

1. New type of brakes capable of bringing the train to a stop from a speed of 100 miles an hour within 2,000 feet.
2. More powerful and efficient Diesel electric locomotive.

Train Roll Is Reduced.

3. New stabilizers which reduce train roll at high speeds on curves.
4. New system of air conditioning.
5. New system of lighting.

The new brakes are an innovation in railroad operation. The new system eliminates the conventional brake "shoe" which is applied to the tread of the wheel. Instead the braking effort is applied to discs which are bolted to the inner sides of the wheels. Braking is applied to both the upper and lower surfaces of the discs. The brakes are constructed so that they quickly dissipate the heat generated in braking.

One of the greatest problems in stopping the modern high speed trains has been that of the brakes. Applied to the treads of the wheels when trains traveled at high speeds, the brakes have damaged the treads, causing flat spots on the wheels. The new brakes have been the subject of long experiments, and it is said they make it possible to stop a train traveling at 100 miles an hour in 2,000 feet without discomfort to the passengers.

Locomotive Built at La Grange.

The new Diesel electric locomotive was built at the La Grange plant of the Electro-Motive corporation. It is said to be much improved over its predecessor locomotives and will be the first of its type to go into streamlined train service.

To improve the ride at high speed roll stabilizers have been attached to the trucks which are said to reduce to a minimum sway at high speeds, especially on curves. These stabilizers are similar to those developed by the automobile industry in recent years to improve the riding qualities of automobiles.

In the new air conditioning system the humidity of the air will be controled so that nearly perfect atmospheric conditions will be created, whether the train is running or standing still. This is made possible by the location of a self-contained unit in each car. The electric current for the air conditioning and lighting and heating will be obtained from a small Diesel engine mounted in a soundproof compartment under each car.

Lighting Much Improved.

The lighting will be a new indirect type recently developed by the General Electric company. This light develops about double the candle power of ordinary electric light from a given current consumption. It more closely approximates daylight than any previous form of artificial lighting, it is said.

The train will be 333 feet long. The forward car will contain the Diesel-electric engine and space for baggage and express. The second car will contain 72 seats for passengers. The third car will have large individual lounges for men and women and 52 seats. The fourth car will carry dining facilities for 24 and an observation lounge seating 22.

Other improvements are a new type of rubber cushions for seats, tight lock couplers, and electrical devices.

Building More Sleepers.

Budd said that two additional sleeping cars are being built by the Budd company for use on the Denver Zephyrs. The heavy demand for accommodations on the Denver Zephyrs has required an additional car to be added each year since it was placed in service.

The present St. Louis-Kansas City Zephyr will be transferred to the Dallas-Fort Worth-Houston service.

The eight Zephyrs now operated by the Burlington have traveled a total of 6,000,000 miles since they have been placed in operation.

LOAN OF $600,000,000 SOUGHT BY GERMANY AT 4½ PCT. INTEREST

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The German government today announced flotation of a new loan of 1,500,000,000 marks [$600,000,000] "for continuing the tasks assumed by the government."

The loan is in the form of treasury bills, bearing 4½ per cent interest and redeemable at par between Oct. 1, 1953, and 1958.

This is the third loan Germany has floated in 1938 and brings the government's borrowings since 1935 to 11,700,000,000 marks [$4,680,000,000].

It was announced that 550,000,000 marks [$220,000,000] of the new loan had been taken up by leading financial institutions. The reichsbank is offering the remaining 950,000,000 marks [$380,000,000] for public subscription between Oct. 10 and Oct. 24 at the issue price of 98¾.

ARMOUR REJECTS C. I. O. PLEA FOR BARGAINING PACT

Armour & Co. yesterday rejected the request of the packing house workers' organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, to negotiate a blanket wage agreement for employés in all Armour plants.

Meanwhile, in a petition filed in the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, Armour asked the setting aside of a ruling against the company by the National Labor Relations board on Sept. 16. The ruling ordered the company to disestablish the Employés' Mutual association in its Chicago plant and to reinstate two discharged employés with back pay.

Armour's rejection of the C. I. O. affiliate's request was contained in a letter from Robert H. Cabell, Armour president, to Van A. Bittner, regional director of the packing house workers.

Cabell told Bittner such an agreement, giving the C. I. O. exclusive right to represent all Armour employés, would mean a violation of the company's obligations under the law. He pointed out that Armour is now dealing with C. I. O. affiliates in eight of its thirty-one plants, and with A. F. of L. or other recognized unions in other plants.

CHICAGO STEEL OUTPUT TO SHOW GAIN THIS WEEK

Steel ingot production will rise this week in the Chicago area and continue unchanged at Pittsburgh, yesterday's preliminary mill schedules indicated. Chicago mills will begin operations tomorrow at 44.8 per cent of capacity, a gain of 3½ points from last week's beginning rate. A month ago the district was operating at about 38.5 per cent and a year ago it was at 62.8 per cent of capacity.

Pittsburgh mills will begin the week at 38 per cent of capacity, a report by Dow, Jones & Co. said. The report added that several large orders which had been held up pending the outcome of the European crisis had been released in the last two days.

The Daily Metal Trade said yesterday that Ford Motor company is expected to buy steel this week for at least 50,000 automobiles.

Du Pont Wins $2,261,336 Smokeless Powder Orders

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The war department ordnance division has awarded four contracts for smokeless powder to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. The contracts total $2,261,336.

GOVERNMENT BUREAU FROWNS ON PLAN TO KEEP OLD MEN YOUNG

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[U. P.]—The federal trade commission today told Edwin J. Dingle of Los Angeles to stop advertising "a perfect mind in a perfect body."

Dingle, the commission charged, operates the Institute of Mental Physics and advertises that he had studied under the "masters of the far east" and can teach, through his courses, how to conquer old age.

"Purchasers cannot, as the respondent [Dingle] allegedly advertises, acquire heretofore unrevealed knowledge which will enable them to enjoy unfading youth of body and mind, and which will teach any man how to become strong and keep young," the commission said.

U. S. May Cut Purchases in Sudeten Area

Washington, D. C. Oct. 1.—(AP)—Official record indicated tonight the march of Germans into Sudetenland might send American business shopping elsewhere for goods formerly purchased from Czechoslovakia.

Although declining to interpret the data, the commerce department supplied an analysis of American-Czech trade which showed that the bulk of this country's purchases from the little republic came from the portion being taken over by Germany. These purchases amount to many millions of dollars annually.

Some of these items undoubtedly will be imported from the same district even when it is part of Germany, but others may be purchased elsewhere because of difficulties in German-American trade relations.

Sudeten Goods to Cost More.

Because of alleged discrimination against American products, Germany is the only country in the world which does not receive the benefit of American tarif reductions made under reciprocal trade treaties. Therefore, Sudeten goods probably will cost more here when they are marked "made in Germany."

Of the goods that made up the $35,725,000 sent here last year by Czechoslovakia, only two major items —lether gloves and shoes—are produced substantially in the remaining portion of the Czech republic.

Glass and glass products led the list of Czech exports to the United States last year, totaling $2,940,000, but most of the Czech glass factories, including the famous Gablontz works, are in Sudetenland.

Czechs Keep Bata Plants.

The Czechs will keep the huge Bata shoe plants which sent $2,887,000 worth of goods here last year and also the lether glove plants which shipped $1,882,000 of their products.

Czechoslovakia's cotton textile industry is concentrated in the transferred territory. Americans last year bought $2,488,000 worth of cotton gloves and $1,386,000 worth of cotton cloth, damask and other manufactures from Czechoslovakia, and the Czechslovakia, and the Czechs bought much of their raw cotton from us.

American firms have been importing from the Sudeten area special kind of hops and barley malt to make Pilsen-type beer. Such imports amounted to $3,200,000 last year.

Other Items Supplied.

Other items supplied largely by the territory being occupied by Germany, and the amounts of United States purchases last year, include:

Sulphite wood pulp, $1,765,000; beads and beaded articles, $1,377,000; towels, sheets, napkins, etc., $1,303,000; flax, hemp, and ramie woven fabrics, $1,216,000; precious stones and imitations, $1,065,000; artificial flowers and fruits, $771,000; buttons, $668,000; pottery, $599,000; china and earthenware, $378,000.

HARVESTER WILL PUT 6,500 BACK ON ITS PAY ROLL

Stepping up its tractor output, the International Harvester company will recall 6,500 men to work in three plants in the next few weeks. This was announced by the company yesterday.

The increased activity in tractor manufacturing is scheduled to start this week. The three plants involved are in Chicago, Milwaukee, Wis., and Rock Island, Ill. Workers will be recalled in accordance with seniority agreements in effect at each of the plants.

The company said improved tractor sales in recent weeks had brought a large reduction in the inventories.

Fowler McCormick, second vice president, said sales estimates have now been made for autumn, winter and spring. On the basis of these, it is expected that the enlarged manufacturing schedule will be maintained throughout the winter months.

Anaconda's Mine at Butte to Be Reopened Tomorrow

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Anaconda Copper Mining company plans to reopen Monday its Mountain Con mine in Butte, Mont., area, it was learned here today. This would make the third mine of the company going back into operation since Sept. 1. It would raise the working force to about 4,250 men, compared with a low of about 1,600 in August. Revival of metal demand has cut into surplus stocks.

STOCKS CLIMB FOR 4TH DAY; NEW HIGHS SET

All Classes Bid Up on Favorable News.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 1.—Stocks climbed today, with a number of issues reaching new high levels for the year. Gains ranged from fractions to more than 2 points. Some sensitive issues did even better.

All classes of stocks were bid up as the market staged its fourth straight advance. Steels, rails, utilities, motors, airplanes, chemicals, electrical equipments, and other varieties of equities scored substantial gains.

News from Europe again got the chief credit for the upturn. Peaceful settlement of the Polish-Czech dispute and news of a Franco-German agreement along the lines of that signed between Britain and Germany were regarded favorably.

Study Domestic Situation.

There was evidence, however, that traders again were studying domestic business news in planning their course of action. They found favorable signs in rail freight car loading figures and reports from auto makers.

Stocks pushed ahead steadily for practically the entire two hours of trading. For a time the market churned about without getting anywhere, but the fact the upward trend was not interrupted was regarded in a favorable light.

Trading activity was heavy for a Saturday. Observers reported a tendency among some traders to realize on the steady gains of the last few sessions. A good part of the day's buying was said to have come from traders who had lightened their commitments while the European situation was critical.

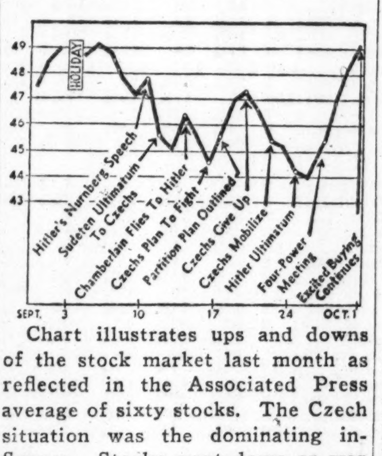

Chart illustrates ups and downs of the stock market last month as reflected in the Associated Press average of sixty stocks. The Czech situation was the dominating influence. Stocks went down as war threatened and went up when hopes of peace rose.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

593 Issues Higher.

Total volume for the two hours amounted to 946,490 shares, which compared with 797,370 a week earlier. The list was broad, 739 separate issues changing hands. Of this number 593 advanced.

At the outset of trading most issues were fractionally higher. Throughout the remainder of the session the list continued steady. A buying flurry just before the final gong accelerated the pace and the ticker dropped behind. Closing prices were at or near the best of the day.

In the second hour United States Steel crossed 60 after selling below that level since the first week in September. It closed at 60⅛, up more than a point.

Traders showed a distinct liking for motor stocks. Chrysler and General Motors each moved up more than a point in heavy dealings.

J. I. Case was a leader. It rushed ahead 6 points.

Rails Also Strong.

Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Great Northern were rail stocks that gained at least a point. Consolidated Edison and North American paced the rise for the utilities.

Metal stocks did exceedingly well. United States Smelting led the parade with an upward march of 4 points. Anaconda, Kennecott, and American Smelting were 1 to 2 points higher.

Stocks to gain 2 points or more included Johns Manville, Westinghouse Electric, Continental Can, Phillip Morris, and U. S. Gypsum.

Stock sales on the New York Stock exchange in September totaled 23,825,690 shares, compared with 20,728,160 in the preceding month and 33,854,188 in September, last year.

Turnover in the bond division amounted to $134,244,900, face value, against $120,363,000 in August and $182,078,000 in September, 1937.

Customs Receipts Gain; Still Far Below Year Ago

Customs receipts in the Chicago district in September were $1,147,174, Collector Joseph A. Ziemba announced yesterday. This was a gain compared with August, when collections totaled $861,219. It was a sharp decline from a year ago, however. In September, 1937, customs receipts were $1,931,962. In the first nine months of 1938, collections totaled $7,776,536, compared with $17,317,542 in the corresponding 1937 period. Ziemba said heavy imports of grain accounted for the large 1937 figure.

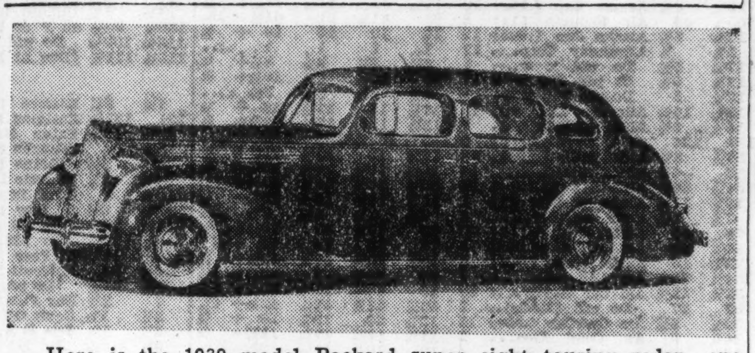
Packard Introduces New Models Today



Here is the 1939 model Packard super eight touring sedan, one of the cars being presented today by the Packard Motor Car company. The super eight is one of four lines offered by Packard. It is priced lower than the 1938 model super eight, is lighter, and has a shorter wheelbase. The new Packards have many improvements, including a gear shift on the steering column.

Industry Lags on War Fears, Storm Ravage

Industry lost ground last week. It felt the effects of the hurricane that recently devastated eastern seaboard states. The critical situation in Europe also had an adverse influence on some lines, especially steel production.

In the latest periods for which figures are available steel output, cotton manufacturing, residential building, engineering construction awards, and bank clearings shrank.

Gains were shown in automobile production and freight loadings. Department store sales made more favorable comparisons with a year ago than they did in the preceding week.

Steel Production Declines.

The decline in steel mill operating schedules was the first in more than a month. The production rate was 46.7 per cent of capacity. In the preceding week it was 47.3 per cent. The American Iron and Steel institute said the automobile industry had not yet entered the market on a large scale in connection with steel for 1939 models. Iron Age, trade journal, said the war scare was a factor in the decline. In addition, it said, industry on the New England coast and other areas damaged by the hurricane or by floods has been hampered greatly.

Electric power output was dealt a direct blow by the storms and floods. Production in the week ended Sept. 24 was estimated at 2,146,562,000 kilowatt hours, exclusive of New England output.

Storm Damages Power Lines.

In making this estimate, the Edison Electric institute said the hurricane had so damaged distribution lines and disrupted service that New England figures were not available. In the preceding week output was 2,214,775,000 kilowatt hours.

Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities fell to $4,606,664,000. This was a drop of 23.1 per cent from the total for the preceding week.

Cotton mill activity declined for the sixth consecutive week. It reached its peak for the year in August.

Residential construction dwindled after having established successive new 1938 peaks in each of the eleven preceding weeks.

Heavy Building Smaller.

Engineering construction awards in the week ended Tuesday tumbled to 49 million dollars from 82 millions in the preceding week. However, they exceeded the total of a year earlier, when awards were 42 million dollars.

Automobile production rose 25 per cent as compared with the preceding week. Ward's Automotive Reports said 25,405 passenger cars and trucks left the assembly lines. Production was 20,390 a week earlier and 44,330 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Railroad freight trafic reached a new 1938 high level. Total loadings were 675,553 cars in the week ended Sept. 24, an increase of 15,411 cars over the preceding week's volume. A heavy movement of coal was reported.

Sales of department stores in the nation were 6 per cent below those of the week ended Sept. 24, 1937. In the preceding week the volume was 12 per cent less than in the corresponding 1937 period.

Industrial Index Lower.

The Associated Press composite index of industrial activity for the week declined slightly to 78.4 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. A week earlier it was at 78.6 per cent and a year earlier it was 102.0 per cent. The index, with its seasonally adjusted components, compared as follows:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Composite Index	78.4	78.6	102.0
Automobile Prod. ...	34.8	31.0	101.4
Steel Mill Act.	62.7	63.4	99.9
Cotton Mfg. Act. ...	106.1	107.2	123.0
Electric Pwr. Prod...	111.8	113.6	120.3
Residential Bldg.	75.9	76.4	62.3
Total carloadings....	*64.3	63.8	78.7

*New 1938 high.

There were some price adjustments in industry last week. The Buick division of the General Motors corporation announced cuts ranging from $51 to $102, equal to 5 per cent on the models affected. The Studebaker corporation reduced the price of the President line $95 from the 1938 model price.

Two companies announced cuts in the price paid for crude oil in the southern Illinois territory. One steel executive told stockholders prices would have to go up if wages are maintained.

New Gear Shift

The Packard Motor Car company's four lines of automobiles for 1939 will be introduced to the public today. In announcing many improvements embodied in the new models, company officials yesterday said that the characteristic Packard hood and radiator lines have been retained.

The models are the six, the "one-twenty" or eight, the super eight and the twelve.

Company officials described the super eight as "a completely new car with which Packard hopes to broaden its market in the fine car field through a considerably lower pricing" compared with the 1938 model. The super eight retains its 130 horsepower engine, but is lighter and of shorter wheel base than its predecessor.

Among the numerous mechanical improvements in all the 1938 models is the "handishift," a new system of shifting gears. The shift lever is on the steering column, just under the steering wheel.

Other improvements on the six, one-twenty and super eight are a new simplified fourth speed, or overdrive, and the introduction of a fifth shock absorber. This absorber is designed to suppress sidewise or transverse road shocks.

"Much has been done," the company said, "to make all the cars more attractive in both exterior and interior appearance, as well as to improve them in comfort, ease of handling, performance and long life."

CHICAGO BANK CLEARINGS LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Chicago bank clearings were less last week than in the preceding week and the corresponding 1937 week. The Chicago Clearing House association reported the volume was $277,800,000. This compared with $280,300,000 in the preceding week and $354,400,000 in the 1937 week. The clearings follow:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$ 37,300,000	$ 3,000,000
Tuesday	41,200,000	7,500,000
Wednesday	43,800,000	5,100,000
Thursday	43,000,000	3,200,000
Friday	52,200,000	7,300,000
Saturday	60,300,000	4,500,000
Total for week..	$277,800,000	$ 30,600,000

SUGAR CONTROL NOW SOUR MESS FOR BUROCRATS

U. S. Is Forced Into Chemical Field.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—Sugar and molasses no longer sound sweet to the administration manipulators charged with sugar control. They find themselves in a sorry mess.

Investigation shows that the administration has got itself involved in a vicious circle that is placing the government in the chemical business for the first time.

Last week a brief announcement was made that the federal government was beginning the production of chemicals by building a plant in Porto Rico to make solvents. There is already an overproduction of these solvents. The purpose is to use surplus molasses rather than send it to this country and compete with molasses companies in the United States.

Benefits "Brain Trusters."

Whether the administration did this consciously or unconsciously, the policy promises to benefit the American Molasses company.

Three of the administration's "brain trusters" have been connected with this company. These are Charles W. Taussig, president and principal owner of the company and one of the original "brain trust"; Rexford Guy Tugwell, former No. 1 brain truster, now on leave of absence from his position as executive vice president of the company [he now is head of the New York city planning commission], and Adolf Augustus Berle Jr., at present assistant secretary of state and who has served as counsel and a director of the molasses company. He resigned the latter positions when he joined the state department last February. All three have helped shape the administration's sugar policies.

American Refiners Protest.

In addition to its chemical venture the sugar controlers have had their worries through the protests of American refiners against the inflow of foreign refined sugar. High labor costs and punitive taxes have brought a steady decline in earnings of refineries in this country. Sugar prices have remained near all-time lows.

On the other hand Porto Rican producers have benefited from the administration's policy. Central Aguirre Associates, one of the largest sugar producers in Porto Rico, showed an increase in earnings from $3.42 to $3.95 per common share in the year ended July 31, 1937. All leading American companies experienced lower earnings in the same period. Virtually all of Central Aguirre's output is shipped to the United States duty free.

Central Aguirre also benefits from attempts to keep Porto Rican molasses off the domestic market. It has a 45 per cent interest in the New England Alcohol company, con-

CORN OUTSTRIPS WHEAT FOR LEAD IN GRAIN TRADE

Prices Sag as Harvesting of New Crop Starts.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.63⅞	$0.63¾	$1.08¼
Corn	.47⅜	.48¼	.63¾
Oats	.25⅛	.25⅜	.30¾
Rye	.43¼	.43½	.79⅜
Soy beans	.75½	.75⅝	.94⅛

Corn supplanted wheat yesterday as the leader in the grain markets. Persistent hedging pressure and reports that husking would start in central Illinois in about two weeks were depressing influences.

Closing trades on corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel. The July delivery sold at a new low for the season, and other futures came within small fractions of a cent of the previous low.

There was no evidence of foreign demand for American cash corn. The country sold 300,000 bushels for deferred shipment.

Expect Sales of Old Corn.

Trade reports indicated that farmers would sell liberal quantities of old corn during the next two weeks in order to make crib room for the new crop.

Trading in wheat futures was restricted. Prices held within narrow limits. A considerable part of the business was of a professional character. Little attention was paid to easiness in Liverpool prices. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅛ cent higher to ½ cent a bushel lower, the latter on the July delivery. The Winnipeg market closed ⅝ to 1 cent lower. Liverpool prices declined ½ to 1 cent and the Rotterdam market was 1⅜ to 2⅛ cents a bushel lower.

Await New Federal Plans.

Professional traders were not inclined to press the selling side of wheat futures, despite a lack of export demand. No sales of Canadian or domestic grain were reported.

A belief there will be a further downward revision in war risk insurance rates was said to be a factor in restricting the European demand for North American cash wheat.

A corn crop of 2,421,000,000 bushels probably will be harvested this year, it is estimated by the C. M. Galvin-James E. Bennett & Co., report. This compares with the firm's figure of 2,406,000,000 bushels a month ago. The department of agriculture's Sept. 1 returns suggested 2,454,000,000 bushels. Last year's harvest was 2,645,000,000 bushels.

SUGAR CONTROL NOW SOUR MESS FOR BUROCRATS

Government Forced Into Chemical Business.

No figures are available on the American Molasses company's position because its stock is closely held. Molasses from Porto Rico, however, could enter duty free and compete with the American product.

This is where the administration decided to dabble in chemicals. With excess sugar over the quota limits imposed by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, the government financed sugar plant in Porto Rico made molasses. Now the molasses is to be converted into solvents such as butyl alcohol and acetone [useful in motion picture production], painas and pharmaceutical products.

Where Will Output Go?

Officials of the Porto Rico reconstruction administration, which is sponsoring the project, admit that they do not know where the output will go. They say that Porto Ricans made a study and found there would be a market for the solvents. It is quite likely that they will find their way to the American market.

The plant will have an annual capacity of 3,500,000 pounds of butyl alcohol and 1,500,000 pounds of acetone. About 50,000,000 pounds of each of the chemicals are used in this country annually and present production capacity is considerably in excess of consumption. Prices have dropped sharply in the last year.

An official said that the new factory will be opened about the first of next year. It is being built by the Lummus company of New York on funds of $550,000 lent by the government to the Asociacion Azucarera Coöperativa Lafayette, a coöperative association of Porto Rican farmers and workers sponsored by the PRRA.

Part of Federal Project.

This official explained that it is one of the rural rehabilitation projects of the federal government in connection with the sugar program.

"It was desired," this official said, "to conduct an experiment which would show some more humane manner of organizing the sugar industry, by giving employment to Porto Ricans and taking them off relief rolls."

The coöperative was formed in 1936 to purchase the Lafayette raw sugar mill, which was owned by a French family by the name of Fantauzzi. They lived on the island only a few months in each year and the rest of the time in Paris.

The PRRA loaned the coöperative $1,500,000 to buy the mill. The loan was at 3 per cent interest with repayment over a 30 year period. Then the government bought 10,000 acres in sugar cane land for $2,500,000.

Sugar Land Turned Over.

This land was turned over to the coöperative in exchange for notes. These also bore 3 per cent interest and were to be amortized over a long period. The proposition was described as a "lucrative" one because of the high yield of the land.

The AAA sugar quotas restricted the growth of cane. So surplus stocks were converted into molasses. When it got stuck with too much molasses the chemical factory was decided upon.

The government then lent the coöperative $550,000 last July, also at 3 per cent interest, for construction of the factory.

"The government's chief effort beside the humanitarian point," said a PRRA official," is to make more certain eventual repayment to the government."

It is understood that a government commission appointed to investigate the chemical venture advised against it. But it went through, anyhow.

RAIL AND UNION LEADERS ARGUE ON WAGE SLASH

Fact Finding Commission Takes Testimony.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A labor lawyer's charge that the proposed railway wage cut is part of a conspiracy to check recovery and discredit the administration was countered today by carrier testimony that the roads face a financial crisis threatening their existence.

Both contentions were advanced before the special fact finding board appointed by President Roosevelt in an effort to avert a nation-wide rail strike.

Tom Davis, counsel for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said the 15 per cent wage reduction proposed by rail managements was only the beginning of a drive to "slash wages in every industry of the nation."

Sees Plot to Cut Wages.

"The effort of the railroads to force a cut in wages is directed and controled by Wall street and the railroad bankers," Davis declared. "The demand is only part and parcel of a nation-wide conspiracy to cut wages of every worker in the land, to delay and prevent recovery, and to discredit the administration."

Davis was followed by Dr. J. H. Parmelee, director of the bureau of railway economics of the Association of American Railroads. He said the railways' predicament was due to "the continued severeness of the 1938 depression," following seven lean years of reduced trafic and inadequate earnings.

Views Service Hampered.

"Impoverished railroads cannot provide the efficient, dependable transportation so essential to commerce and the national defense," Parmelee declared.

"If the railroads continue in their present impoverished condition such a situation will have an adverse effect on the general economic structure; on their ability to maintain or increase their working forces; and on business conditions throughout the United States."

The fact finding board, which is scheduled to report to the President on Oct. 27, will resume hearings Monday. The strike already voted by rail workers against the wage cut will be held in abeyance by law until thirty days after the report is made.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS RISE AT CLOSE OF WEEK

Chicago bank stocks moved up rapidly in the last days of last week. Most of the active issues showed finished the week with net gains after early irregularity. First National bank stock led the rise with a gain for the week of $20 a share. It closed at $222 bid, $227 asked.

Continental Illinois National shares finished $8 higher for the week. American National Drovers Trust and Savings, and Northern Trust shares each gained $5 a share, and Chicago Title and Trust stock was up $4. Madison-Crawford National stock finished $2 higher.

Personal Loan and Savings stock declined $5. Mercantile Trust shares were off $2 and City National stock was $3 lower.

COTTON

Cotton prices held within narrow limits yesterday. Buying by commission houses with Liverpool and Bombay connections was largely offset by southern hedging sales. Closing trades on futures were .07 cent higher to .01 cent a pound lower.

Sales of various kinds of cotton textiles in New York on Friday were estimated to have aggregated 25,000,000 yards.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent higher with New Orleans, 8.22 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 8.06 cents per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

Chicago Grain Receipts.

Chicago is the nation's leading grain market. By rail, lake, Illinois waterway and truck, many millions of bushels of wheat, corn and other grains are hauled each year to this western city. Reshipment of these commodities from Chicago totals annually almost as much as the receipts.

Among all the principal grain centers in the United States last year receipts of grain were 754,005,000 bushels. Chicago's total was 145,382,000 bushels. This compared with 124,724,000 received in Minneapolis, the next largest center.

Corn and wheat account for the major portion of the grain coming to Chicago. In 1937, for example, receipts totaled 66,727,000 bushels of corn and 38,106,000 bushels of wheat. The largest volume of corn was brought to the city by the railroads —45,811,000 bushels. Great Lakes shipments from American and Canadian ports were 18,720,000 bushels, including 120,000 bushels from Philadelphia and 57,000 from Albany, N. Y. Trucks brought 177,000 bushels, and 2,019,000 were shipped by Illinois waterways.

Railroads also hauled the major portion of wheat receipts. Shipments by Illinois waterways, the Great Lakes and by trucks followed in that order.

Commodities

Continuing upward yesterday, most commodity futures closed the week with net gains. The strength in staples was in sympathy with a rising stock market and was influenced largely by European developments.

Leading the week's climb were rubber, hides, copper, and tin, basic raw materials for industrial use. Gains also were shown by wool tops, coffee, cocoa, and silk. Sugar, zinc, and cottonseed oil eased a little against the trend.

Markets reopening yesterday after the summer Saturday closing were those dealing in sugar, coffee, cocoa, rubber, and metals. The silk market remained closed. Hides, wool tops, and cottonseed oil were open Saturdays during the summer.

REDEEM ITALIAN BONDS.

J. P. Morgan, sinking fund administrator, has notified holders of Kingdom of Italy 7 per cent bonds, due Dec. 1, 1951, that $3,378,300 of those bonds have been drawn by lot for redemption at par on Dec. 1.

FOREIGN MONEYS STEADY AS GOLD PANIC SUBSIDES

Flight of Capital from Europe Halted.

Currency values regained their stability yesterday on the international money market. The rates quoted on exchange transactions between the dollar and British and French currencies were steadier than they had been for more than a week.

The gold panic in London, which earlier in the week had reached the highest pitch in recent years, appeared to have definitly ended. The incentive to convert capital in American money likewise appeared to have disappeared as result of the new four power European pact which promises to end the war threat.

Control British Exchange.

The British pound was quoted during the day at a half cent below Friday's price. Exchange brokers said that the market action indicated that the British authorities had intervened to prevent too rapid a rise in the value of the pound. On transactions Friday the pound had risen more than 5 cents in relation to the dollar, the third consecutive day of recovery.

The final quotation on the pound in New York was $4.82, compared with $4.8325 on the preceding day. The French franc closed at 2.70 cents against 2.715 on the preceding day. Swiss, Belgian, and Holland currencies were quoted slightly higher.

London Gold Price Higher.

Gold was quoted ½ pence [about 1 cent] an ounce higher in London, brokers setting the price at 144 shillings 1½ pence. The London quotation was equivalent to $34.77, against $34.98 on Friday.

Dealing were suspended yesterday in many of the foreign security markets. On the Amsterdam market, however, prices added to their recent gains and final quotations were the highest of the day. Gains ranged up to 5 points.

The New York Reserve bank reported that $2,389,000 gold was engaged in England and $736,000 in Holland for shipment to this country. The engagements were the smallest reported in several days.

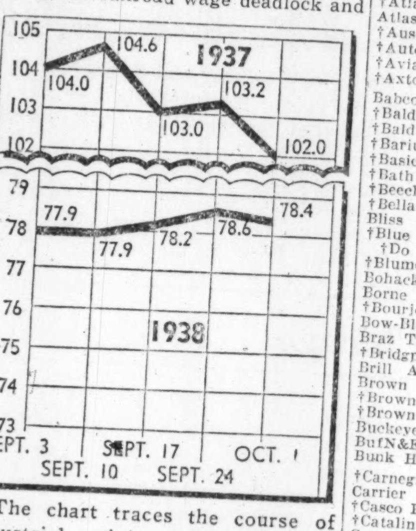
union strife. Three Nash-Kelvinator plants remained closed as negotiations struck a deadlock. Gov. La Follette announced he would intervene.

A fact finding commission was appointed by President Roosevelt to study the railroad wage deadlock and make recommendations in an effort to avert a strike. The commission began hearings in Washington, D. C. The strike technically was called by two union groups to begin last Friday and yesterday, but under federal law cannot take place until sixty days later.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in the last four weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, and shows the corresponding 1937 activity (1929-'30 average equals 100).

Another railroad development was action taken by the Kansas City Southern's board of directors approving merger of the road with the Louisiana and Arkansas railway.

Utility Announces Refinancing.

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois took steps to proceed with its $80,000,000 refinancing program. It filed a registration statement covering the new bonds. The program, one of the largest utility financing operations in recent years, is another step in the simplification of the capital structure of the Commonwealth group of companies.

Security and grain markets were greatly unsettled by the war scare. Stocks fell and grain rose when the crisis was at its worst. When peace became assured, stocks rallied, and grain dropped.

The British pound sterling set a new three year low, then rebounded sharply on the peace move.

Rails Get Permit to Cut Rates on 20 Day Notice

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today issued an order reducing to twenty days the notice required for eastern carriers to put into effect lower freight rates on grains. Ordinarily thirty days' notice is required. The railroads applied Sept. 27 for permission to cut rates about 6 cents per hundred pounds from Chicago and related points to the eastern seaboard when shipments are destined for export.

MEATS CHEAPEST FOR OCTOBER IN LAST FOUR YEARS

Decline in Live Stock Reduces Prices.

Housewives who use meat as the main course of their dinner today will serve the most economical October meal in four years, it was said at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. This has been made possible by the substantially lower live costs of animals this season. Lower costs have enabled packers to pass meat on to the butcher shop owners at lower rates than those prevailing at this time in other recent years.

Although over a period of time the prices of meats usually follow closely the trend of live costs at the stock yards, the reverse was true last week. War news sent prices of live stock higher without response from the meat trade. Wholesale meat prices with the exception of some cuts of beef, declined despite the increased costs to packers.

Meat Prices Decline.

Butcher shop owners yesterday purchased most cuts of pork at the lowest rates since the middle of August and the lowest for Oct. 1 since 1934, a review of the markets disclosed. Best light pork loins sold wholesale at $19.50 per hundred pounds, off $1.50 from a week ago and $5.50 lower than at the middle of last month. Costs of this cut a year ago were at the rate of $25.00 per hundred pounds, two years ago $23.50, and three years ago $27.00.

Best beef ribs at $25.00 showed a saving of $15.00, or 37 per cent, from Oct. 1, 1937, levels. Loins at $36.00 were down $16.00, or 30 per cent. Reductions in rounds at $19.00 amounted to 26 per cent.

Packers sold top grades of lamb legs, loins, saddles, and hotel racks at $21.00 to $24.00, or 15 to 22 per cent lower.

Market Turns Dull.

Markets for live stock turned sluggish late in the week. Some of the price gains that were run up on the war scare were lost, but cuts were not sufficiently sharp to erase the week's gains.

The six day steer average at $10.35 indicated a gain of 15 cents over a week ago. Best steers and yearlings were steady to 25 cents higher. Other grades closed weak to 25 cents lower.

Lower priced cattle, such as cows, canners, and cutters, which would be most in demand in case of war, finished 25 to 35 cents higher.

Hogs last week averaged 5 cents higher at $8.50, the highest weekly average since the middle of July.

Final rates for lambs indicated gains of 40 to 55 cents, with the week's average up 45 cents at $7.95.

Clarendon Hills Starts Real Estate Revival—240 Homes Are Planned

THIRTY HOUSES SOLD IN ADVANCE; 18 ARE UNDERWAY

Town Laid Out 45 Years Ago Becomes Active.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Clarendon Hills, an attractive little suburb tucked in between Hinsdale and Downers Grove, is doing a real estate Rip Van Winkle. For forty-five years this tiny community has shown little activity while its wide-awake neighbors along the Burlington railroad long since have passed it in population. Today, for the first time since the town was laid out in 1893, there is a sizable residential building boom in full swing.

Thirty new homes already have been sold by L. W. Besinger and Associates, an Oak Park building firm. Eighteen of the thirty are under construction. Eight will be occupied by their owners by Oct. 15. Ten will be completed before the first of the year. Work will be started on the remaining twelve on Nov. 1.

Largest of Its Kind.

Two hundred and ten more houses are contemplated by the Besinger firm for erection during the next two years. The total building program is for 240 new homes in Clarendon Hills. This is probably the largest residential program of its kind for any Chicago suburb in many years.

Clarendon Hills was laid out in 1893 by Frederick Law Olmstead of Boston, one of the world's most famous landscape architects and city planners of his day. Olmstead, who planned Central park in New York City, also designed Riverside and laid out Lincoln park, Chicago.

Like Riverside, he planned Clarendon Hills with winding streets. Much of the town site south of the Burlington tracks is owned by the Phipps Industrial Land trust. The trustees long ago declined to sell land for any promotional subdivision development. The streets are paved, improvements are in, and all assessments and taxes have been paid promptly.

Plans Cheaper Homes.

The Besinger firm, which has built many residences in the Oak Park-River Forest area costing between $15,000 and $35,000, recently opened negotiations with the Phipps Industrial Land trust. The firm outlined a program of homes in a much lower price bracket. Construction costs alone of the proposed units would range from $5,550 to $10,000.

This program is now well under way. Two hundred and forty lots, all fifty feet wide and 150 to 300 feet deep and highly restricted, were secured.

The program was started with one home having a novel floor plan of several levels. It was completed late in July. Since then thirty homes have been sold—all before work was started. There is no speculative building.

Use FHA Insured Mortgages.

All of the houses are being financed with Federal Housing administration insured mortgages, negotiated through Dovenmuehle, Inc. One of the six room homes, shown in an adjoining column, is owned by Arthur Allen. It is at 230 Prospect avenue. It cost $7,095, plus $900 for the lot. It is financed with a $7,000 twenty year mortgage on which the monthly payments are $58.35. Thirty dollars of this monthly total is a payment on the principal.

Leonard W. Besinger, head of the firm bearing his name, is one of the first builders in the Chicago area to use the Federal Housing administration method of financing.

Let Contracts for Modern Old Ladies' Home in Aurora

Contracts were let yesterday to the R. C. Wieboldt company for a $140,000 building for the "Old Ladies' Home and Bowran Trust," a combination of two institutions for elderly people in Aurora. E. E. and Elmer C. Roberts of Chicago are architects. The building will occupy an eight acre site at 6th avenue and Farnum street, overlooking Phillips park. It will accommodate sixty. Completion is set for June 1.

Chain Grocery Leases Space in New Building

A chain grocery has leased space in the one story business building to be erected at the southwest corner of 76th street and Exchange avenue, according to Ernest Cook & Co., rental agents. The building will front 275 feet on Exchange and 25 feet on 76th. It also will have frontage on Marquette avenue. It will contain twelve stores.

Western Suburb Does a Real Estate Rip Van Winkle

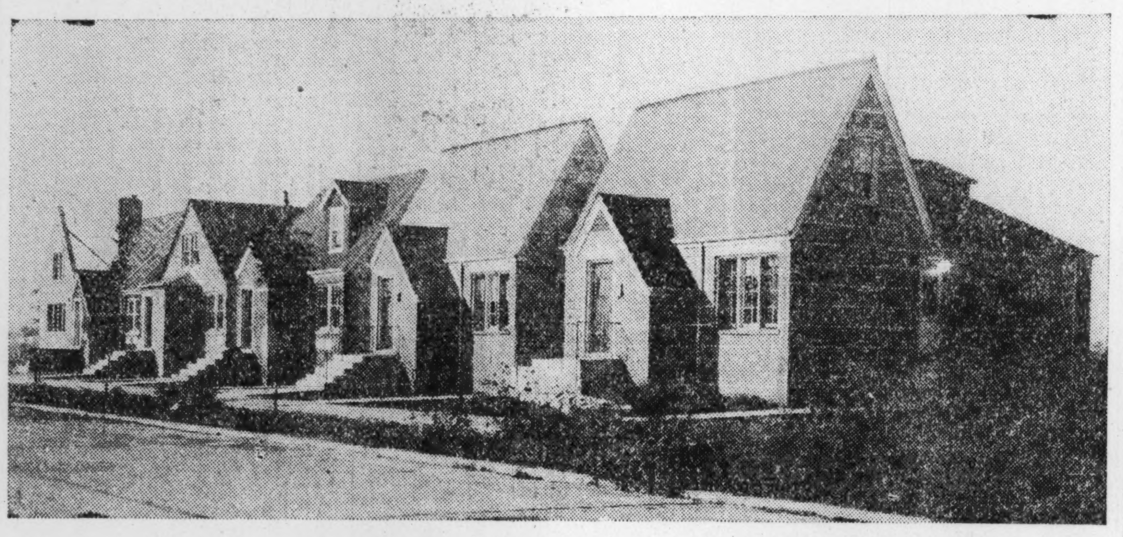
Building in South Chicago



These six houses, being built by Ringman, Hansen & Dunlop, at 110th street and Avenue J in South Chicago, have been sold. Jacob Lewis is architect.

Morgan Fitch Expected to Be Next Realty Board President

Morgan L. Fitch.

Unless the unexpected happens, Morgan L. Fitch will be the next president of the Chicago Real Estate board. It is said he will be the youngest chief executive of that organization. Fitch is only 39 years old. It is understood that the nominating committee at the next meeting of the board on Wednesday evening will place Fitch at the head of the ticket. Graham Aldis of Aldis & Co., it is said, will be nominated for first vice president.

Fitch is vice president and treasurer of the Charles Ringer company, 7915 Exchange avenue. He lives at 9531 Longwood avenue, in the Beverly Hills district. He has four children.

He has been active in the affairs of the Chicago Real Estate board for several years. He has been a director for the last two years and at present is chairman of the finance committee and vice chairman of the house committee of which Paul D. Angell is chairman.

He was founder and president of the South Shore Real Estate board in 1935, an organization which now is inactive. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, class of 1922, where he studied journalism.

Adolph Kramer is chairman of the nominating committee, which makes its report next Wednesday, and Paul D. Angell is secretary.

The other members of the committee are Mark Levy, John R. Magill, Albert W. Swain, W. C. F. Kolmar, Felix C. Enderlin, George R. Hanson, Leland J. McCabe, Harold S. Enright, Fred W. Georgs, Arthur C. Kussman, Edmond A. Martin, John P. Quigley, Charles Ringer, and Orla O. Montague.

Election of officers and standing committees will be held on the first Wednesday in November. The installation will be held at the first meeting in December.

There is always the possibility of a second ticket entering the field, but to date there has been no hint of such a move.

Nine Apartment Building Sold Twice Within 2 Days

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company sold the nine flat building at 7459 North Artesian avenue to Miss Eunice Benson for a reported cash consideration of $22,500. Miss Benson two days later sold the same property to Casimer Wenikajtys for an undisclosed price. John J. Kern, Inc. represented all parties.

Chicago Park District Buys Garage Building

The Chicago Park District yesterday bought from the Lincoln National Life Insurance company the two story concrete building at 3620-42 North Halsted street, containing 50,700 square feet. The building occupies a 145 by 175 foot site. It will be used for garage purposes. J. J. Harrington & Co. was broker.

ANDREW RINGMAN VETERAN BUILDER AGAIN IN FIELD

Andrew Ringman, who says he built one thousand homes in Chicago between 1894 and 1929, has entered the building field again. He is finishing six houses at 10940 to 10958 Avenue J, all of which are sold. The buyers are George O. Hamlin, A. Herndobbler, George Marshall, George Hegedus, Charles De Arcy, and James Dunlop.

The houses were sold from $6,300 to $9,000. The lots cost $1,050 to $1,500. They were financed with FHA insured mortgages for twenty and twenty-five years, with monthly payments ranging from $41 to $70.

The firm of Ringman, Hansen & Dunlop, which built the six homes, contemplates starting work shortly on thirty more, Ringman said. All have solid brick walls and were designed by Jacob Lewis, architect.

At the Realty Boards

Moving pictures may be used by the West Side Real Estate board in a contemplated course of sales training, according to Joseph R. Dorfman, president. Conferences are now in progress between realty board officials and film companies. A series of three pictures is planned. If the program is carried out it will be on a free enrollment basis for employés of firms affiliated with the board.

Kenneth Rice, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will speak on "Real Estate News of the Hour" before the Oak Park Real Estate board at a luncheon tomorrow noon at the Oak Park Arms hotel. Mrs. D. W. Frank, a member of the program committee, will introduce the speaker. President Walter James will preside.

A former chief justice of the Supreme court of Illinois, Floyd E. Thompson, will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board next Wednesday evening. His subject will be "The Need of Amendment to the State Constitution."

SLUMS ARE DRAIN ON CITY INCOMES, REALTOR SHOWS

One Area Pays $586,000; Costs $3,200,000.

Slums are the economic drain through which a large part of the city's income passes. Paul D. Angell, vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board, made this statement in an address before the Illinois Society of Architects. The subject of his talk was the proposed public service building corporation, first outlined in the Graphic section of the Chicago Tribune of Aug. 14, as a means of reclaiming the city's depreciated areas.

Slums get the same police, fire, and educational services, water, gas, electricity, pavements, health supervision, and other city benefits that the best residential neighborhoods receive, Angell pointed out. In fact, they get more police service, because there is more crime and law breaking in general in slums than in the better parts of the city, he said.

Fails to Pay Its Share.

In return for these services the slum fails to pay anywhere near its proportionate share of the cost. The slum residents contribute little in the way of taxes and much in crime and disease, he said.

According to Angell the average slum pays only about one-fifth of the cost of various municipal services supplied it. The rest of the public, living in better areas, makes up the lost four-fifths by having to pay high taxes. Slums are an expensive luxury for any city and their removal would ease the tax burden for the rest of the city, he said.

"All cities in the United States over fifty years old are heavily burdened by slums and the costs they impose," Angell said. "They are the economic drain through which a large part of the municipal income passes.

Taxes Far Below Costs.

"An investigation covering half a square mile on the west side of Chicago, bounded by Grand, Chicago, Ashland, and Western avenues, conducted under governmental supervision, disclosed that the city paid $3,200,000 for municipal services while only $586,000 was collected in taxes three years after the due date.

"In a certain area in Boston tax collection amounted to $99,000 while the cost to the city for fire, police, health, and other services totaled $1,400,000.

"In Cleveland in a certain slum district it was discovered a few years ago that the income from that area was $225,000, while the total cost to the city of maintaining that section was $1,972,000.

"The slums must go. They must be universally condemned as nuisances and liabilities. The property owners in the slum districts must be made aware of their responsibilities to the community.

"People Should Know Facts."

"The people should know the facts. They should be told that on an average 80 per cent of the properties in the slum districts are owned by absentee owners; that these properties do not bear even a fraction of the tax load of the city; that the properties are held for years without repairs, and that they are the breeding places of crime and degradation."

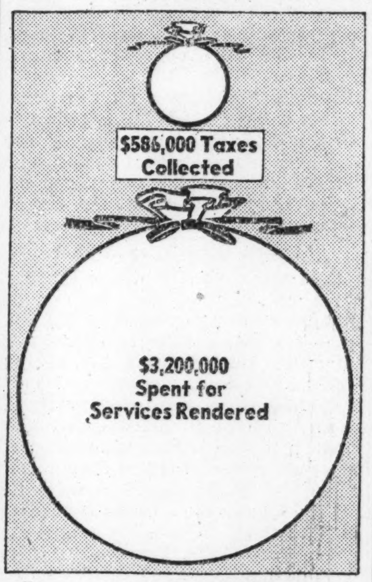
Angell outlined for the first time in detail the proposed public service building corporations as agencies to reclaim slum areas by private initiative. Legislation will be sought which will permit private groups, operating as public service building corporations, to erect large residential or commercial buildings in designated slum areas under state supervision.

Site acquirement, always a difficult task for private interests when the project is a large one, would be made possible by condemnation after a fraction of the land had been obtained, he said.

Corporation Buys 55 Flat Building in Lunt Avenue

The Forrester apartments, 1310-12 Lunt avenue, containing fifty-five suites, were sold by Dorothy Weinstein to the Lunt Apartment Hotel, Inc. for a reported $121,000, subject to first and second mortgages. Bailey Stanton was attorney for the buyer. Julius Taxay was broker.

Why Slums Are Civic Liability



In a government study of the half square mile bounded by Grand, Ashland, Chicago, and Western avenues it was found that in one year $3,200,000 was spent by the city in fire and police protection, education, health, and other municipal services. Only $586,000 was collected in taxes in this same area—three years after the due date.

David Annen Subleases Astor Street Residence

David Annen, grain broker with Lamson Brothers, subleased the house at 1454 Astor street from Adlai Stevenson. Mrs. Henry Channon is owner. Miss Cornelia Ensinger was broker. Byron Webster of Fuller, Rodney & Redman, leased the Arthur Beverly apartment at 210 East Pearson. The same broker reports leasing an apartment at 69 East Division street to Theodore Roosevelt III. Henry Gross leased an apartment for three years at 12 Scott street.

Near Marquette Park

The above three homes are the first of a proposed 200 units for the eleven blocks bounded by 73d, 74th, Kedzie, and Talman. The house on the right at 7312 Fairfield avenue was bought by Albert Lidy, attorney. Next, at 7316, is the home of O. B. Gustafson, policeman. At 7320 is the home of Joseph W. Blackwell, under construction. The latter cost $6,000 (including a $1,000 lot). It was financed with a 90 per cent FHA loan, running 25 years, through the Charles Ringer company, with $41.33 monthly payments.

Propose 200 Homes for 11 City Blocks

A home building program for eleven city blocks on the south side, announced last April, is going ahead under new sponsorship. The Associated Developers, Inc., yesterday outlined plans for the building of 200 brick homes in the area bounded by West 73d street, Kedzie avenue, West 74th street, and Talman avenue. The land is owned by Edward J. Glackin and Julia, Margaret, and Nellie Morand.

Three units were built on the west side of Fairfield avenue, between 73d and 74th streets. All were sold.

Start Work Next Week.

Work is scheduled to start on the first three homes under the direction of Associated Developers next week.

According to William Goldman, president of the Associated Developers, basing plans on the interest shown in the development, at least 100 homes will be sold and work started before the end of the year. There will be no speculative building. Prices will range from $6,000 to $7,000, including lot. Homes will be sold before being built. All will be financed with FHA loans through the Charles Ringer company.

Salzman Designs Houses.

The first three houses were designed by A. L. Salzman. At 7326 Fairfield avenue a $7,000 [which includes a $1,000 lot] six room English cottage type will be built for Oscar Berg.

At No. 7324 a $6,000 [which also includes a $1,000 lot] five room early American type house will be built for Rudolph Olsen. This will be financed with a 90 per cent FHA twenty-five year loan with monthly payments of $41.33.

At No. 7328 Fairfield a Dutch colonial five room house will be built for Joseph Hofstedte. It will cost $6,750, including a $1,000 lot.

CORNER IN LOOP TO BE ENTRY OF 10 STORY GARAGE

The North Loop Garage, Inc., yesterday leased the northeast corner of Clark and Lake streets from the Northern Trust company, trustee, for a long term of years. The four story building, fronting 100 feet on Clark and forty feet on Lake, will be razed next April.

The ground will be paved and used as an entrance to the ten story garage building leased last April by the North Loop Garage, Inc. Arthur Rubloff & Co. were the only brokers.

Printers Lease 22,000 Square Feet in Igoe Bldg.

Printers rented 22,000 square feet of space in the Igoe building, 610 West Van Buren street, last week. The Inland Press leased for ten years 7,500 square feet in addition to the 30,000 it now occupies. Henry Taylor Jr. & Son, Inc., rented 10,000 additional square feet. The Lincoln-Ringley Printing company rented 2,000 square feet, and the Printers and Lithographers Varnish company 2,500 square feet, according to Joseph W. Hickey, agent.

REGISTER: G. O. P. APPEAL TO VOTERS

WOMEN'S CLUBS WILL GET LIGHT ON PUBLICITY

Press Conference Is Set for Nov. 3.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Mrs. F. Russell Lyon.

To club presidents: Are your meetings as well attended as you would would like them to be? Are your benefits a success? Do your friends ask "What is your club doing?"

How effective publicity can help organizations in these and other respects will be emphasized at a press conference to be held under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE at 2 o'clock Thursday, Nov. 3, in the beautifully lighted auditorium of station W-G-N.

Presidents as well as press chairmen and program chairmen of all women's organizations in the area covered by the Metropolitan section of this newspaper are invited. Because of the limited capacity of the auditorium admission will be by ticket only.

Throngs Seek Tickets.

Mrs. W. T. Bruckner.

With hundreds of requests for tickets last week came comments from leaders of the largest women's organizations in the state.

"The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs counts on the coöperation of the newspapers to let the world at large know what it is accomplishing," said Mrs. William T. Brückner of Hinsdale, president of this association of 85,000 members. "The press conference is a wonderful idea—the simplest possible way for our clubs to learn how to obtain newspaper coöperation."

"We're glad of an opportunity to attend a meeting such as the press conference," declared Mrs. F. Russell Lyon, first vice president and Chicago affairs chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers. This organization has 150,946 members.

"Every Parent-Teacher association in and about Chicago should be represented at the meeting," she said. "The program THE TRIBUNE is presenting will help us in forwarding our work."

Calls It Splendid.

Mrs. Myron Omlie.

"It is a splendid project for THE TRIBUNE to undertake," commented Mrs. George Plamondon, president of the Garden Club of Illinois.

"The press conference should solve all kinds of publicity problems for our units," prophesied Mrs. Myron W. Omlie, new president of the Cook County council of the American Legion auxiliary, numbering 11,000 members.

Mrs. Ira Linwood McKinnie of Springfield, president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, also expressed interest in the conference.

"It is a matter of real satisfaction to know that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is to have a press conference and that it will be open to our various chapter regents and press and program chairmen," wrote Mrs. Jacob Fredrich Zimmerman, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A two hour program presenting specialists in a discussion of various aspects of newspaper publicity has been outlined for the conference. No speech will be longer than 15 minutes. Special features will include a surprise presentation by the Chicago Civic Opera company. An original skit illustrating the trials and tribulations of a press chairman will be given by the Chicago Woman's Club Players.

On Speakers' List.

Speakers will include Mrs. Fred R. Lufkin of Elgin, press and publicity chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Chesser M. Campbell, advertising manager of THE TRIBUNE; Mrs. India Moffett, society editor; Miss Marcia Winn, girl reporter for the city desk, and Laurence T. Heron, editor of the Canadian edition of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Each of the writers who handles news of women's organizations in downtown and metropolitan sections will discuss ways and means of obtaining publicity through her department.

Tickets for the conference may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with each request to the Club Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

Walter Kerr.

OUR Towner, Walter Kerr, who received his master of arts degree at Northwestern university this summer, recently moved to Washington, D. C., where he will teach drama courses at the Catholic University of America. He wrote and directed the dialog in two Northwestern university Waa-Mu shows. He is a graduate also of St. George High school in Evanston. In 1932 he began to write and direct his own amateur shows and in six years produced about twenty-five of them on the north shore. Our Towner Kerr is an Evanstonian, residing with his parents at 1114 Monroe street. He will teach courses in playwriting, radio writing, advanced play directing and drama history.

MORE amateur drama news comes from Winnetka where David Bradley, head of a group of North Shore movie actors has recently completed a two-reel mystery film, "Doctor X." The film is to be shown next summer in his private theater in the basement of his home. Filming of the movie, which has been synchronized for sound, took all summer. The locale of the story is at the foot of Tower road in Hubbard Woods. The entire movie company has stopped dramatic work this fall, the reason being that each member returned to high school. Among the north shore members of the troupe are Ann Johnson, William Benoist, David Wilder, William Dodds, and Stanley Johnson.

Three north shore youths are enrolled in the Tome school, Port Deposit, Md. They are Conger Reynolds Jr., 348 Sterling road, Kenilworth; Charles R. Jacobs, 555 Walnut street, Winnetka, and Evan J. McIlraith Jr., 1100 Greenwood avenue, Wilmette.

After a year's study at Oxford university, the Rev. Walter E. Case, chairman of the English department of De Paul university, returned to the campus this fall. During the year abroad he devoted much time to exploring literary shrines in England and on the continent. Another De Paul university traveler who returned recently is the Rev. Thomas C. Powers, vice president and dean of religion. He spent the summer touring Europe.

On Saturday night in the Granada hotel, 525 Arlington place, the Cherubs are holding their annual "whirl." The organization of angelic name is a north side girls' social group. Cherub President Marian Kauffman of 4055 Southport avenue is arranging the dance, assisted by Marjan Kahlas, Marie Kranz and Eva Sullivan.

Edward Dore.

IT was really a matter of saying "Eeny Meeny Miney Moe" for Edward Dore, 601 Deming place, who couldn't decide which college to attend. He had a choice of accepting four scholarships to four different colleges. He was graduated from Lake View High school in June and stood sixteenth in the class of 505. On the basis of his artistic and scholarly ability he was awarded a scholarship to Cornell college. Hardly had he recovered from this news when the other three scholarships began to roll in. The awards were from the University of Illinois, Drake university, and Ripon college. He chose Ripon where he is now enrolled in an art course.

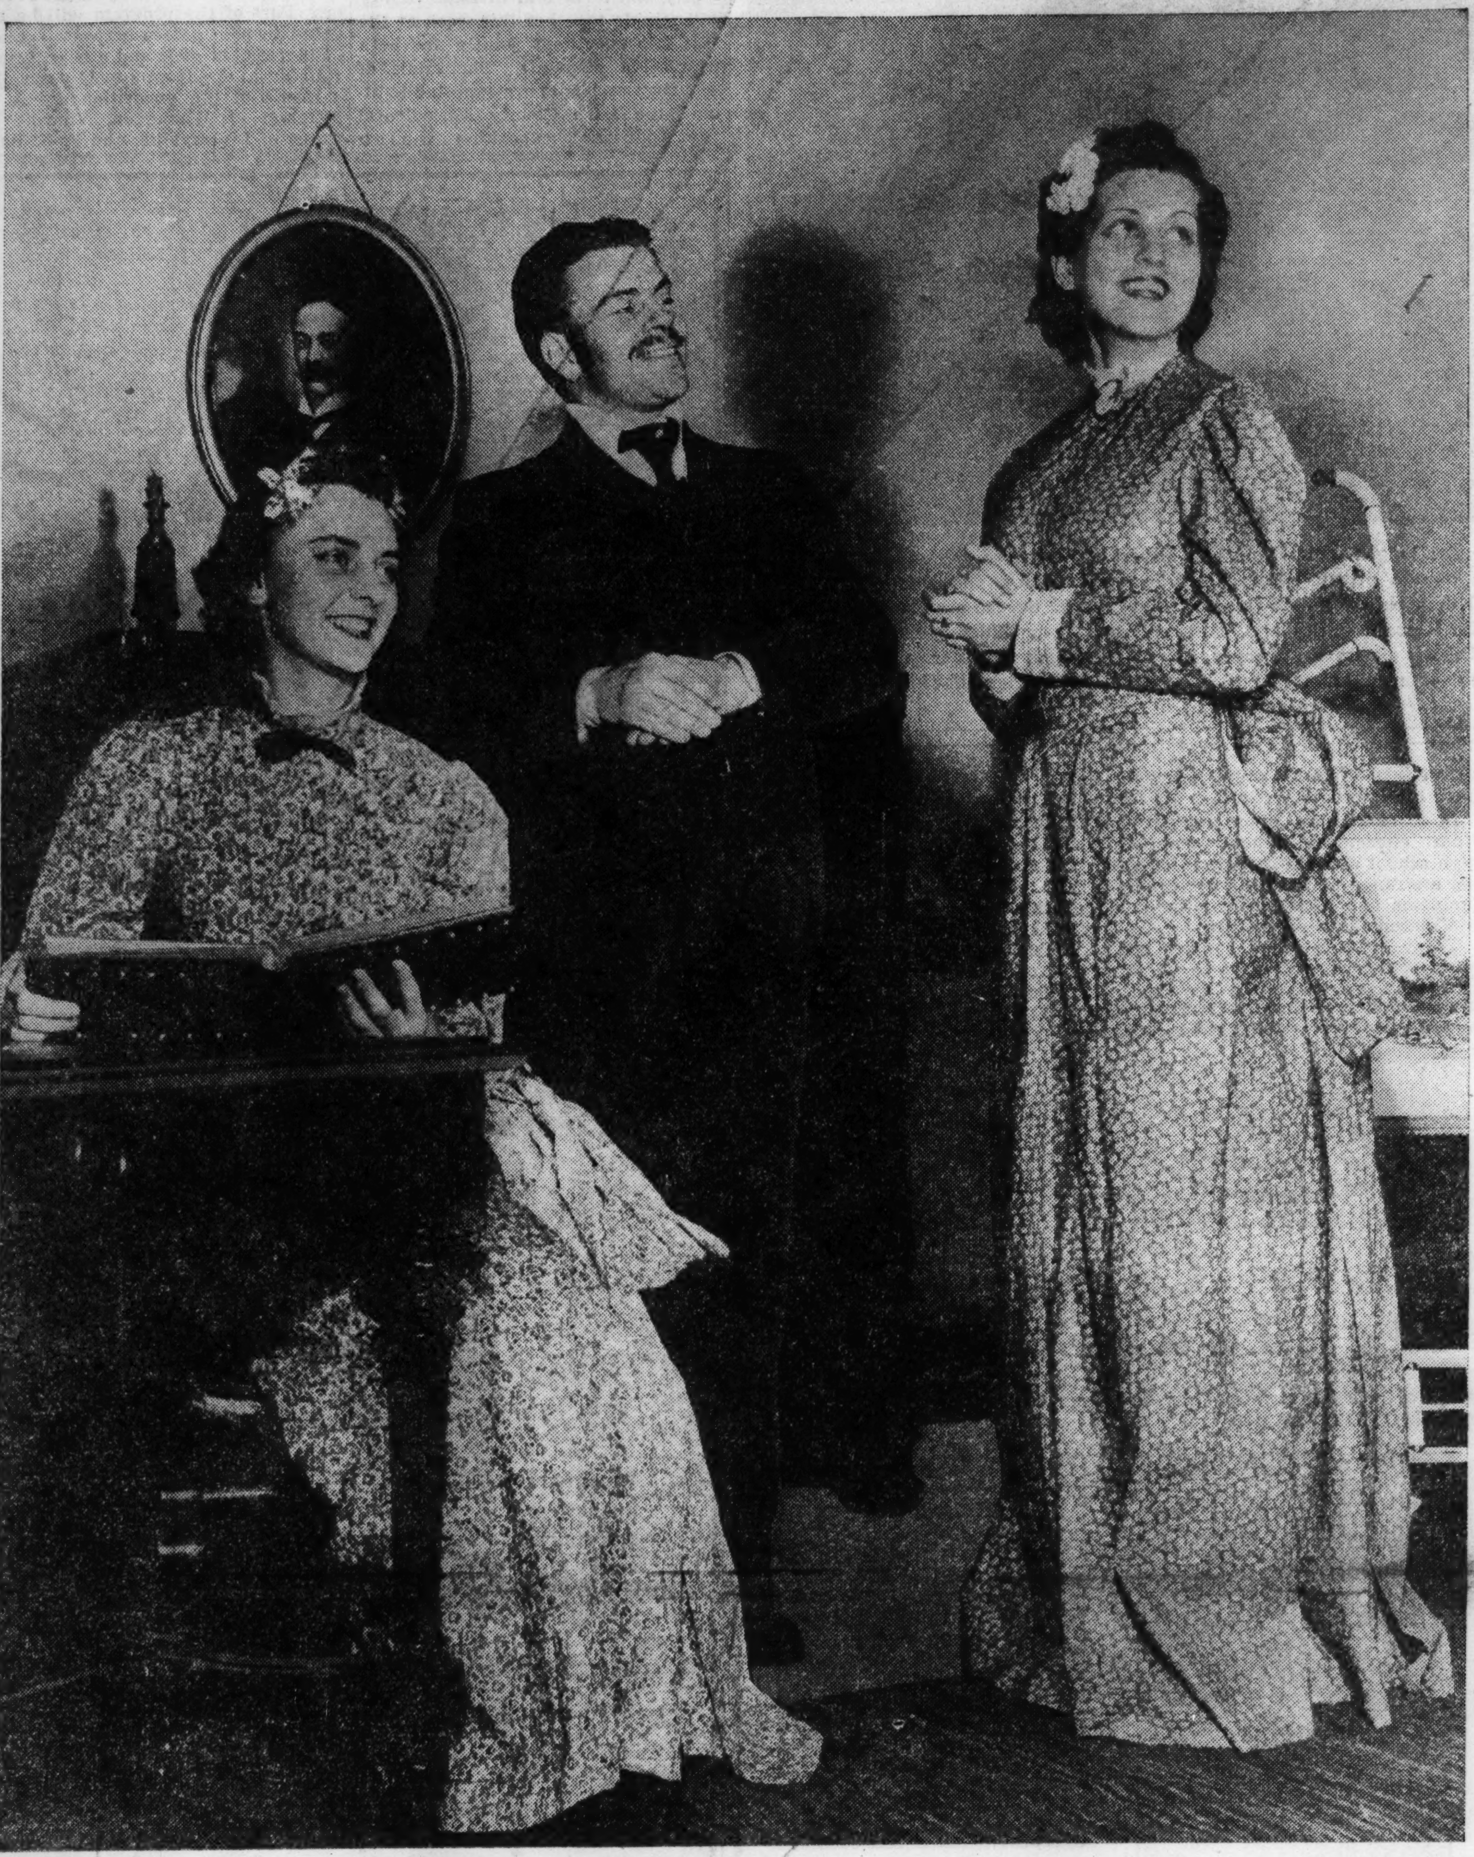
Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Johnson, 844 Agatite avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last week. Mr. Johnson who is 76 years old was employed by a north side furniture store for more than 50 years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were born in Sweden. Their only child, Edna, died several years ago. Mrs. Johnson is 69 years old.

JAMES L. FOX, 2054 Farwell avenue, has no fear of any I. Q. test inflicted upon college students from time to time. He scored highest in a psychological examination given recently to more than 200 freshmen at Loyola university. The test was given to determine what courses the freshmen were best suited for. He was an honor student for four years at Loyola academy where he earned a letter as a member of the football team. At the university he is enrolled in a science course.

Install Preacher Today as Assistant to Father

The Rev. Paul R. Meyer, son of the Rev. Alfred E. Meyer, pastor of the Ravenswood Evangelical church, Pensacola and Hoyne avenues, will be installed today as assistant minister. There will be an official reception for him Sunday evening at the observance of the fifteenth anniversary of the laying of the church corner stone. Members voted unanimously six months ago to install Rev. Mr. Meyer as an assistant to his father.

Present an Old Time Thriller



Tintype dramatics is the latest offering on the north side amateur stage. In a portrayal of the fashions and manners of 1870, the Olivet Players will present "Lena Rivers," a drama of grandfather's time, Friday evening at Olivet institute, 1401 Cleveland avenue. By a careful study of family albums and style books of the period the actors have managed to capture the mode and spirit of the era. A cast of thirteen amateurs will enact the play under the direction of Rita Smith, 2517 North Clark street. (Left to right) Miss Anne Le Bar, Hubert Carson, and Miss Erna Cory.

TURNERS' DRUMS ECHO DOWN 50 YEARS TONIGHT

Three of First Corps to Join in Fete.

Fifty years ago eight German-Americans, members of the Social Turners with a hobby of martial music, formed a fife, drum and bugle corps.

This evening three of the original eight founders will take part in the golden anniversary celebration of the corps. The three men, Charles Broehm, Julius Schmohl and Otto Schwennesen, who don't often take part in the programs any more, will be dressed in the same type of uniforms they wore at the formation of the group. They will play some of the pieces popular half a century ago.

Pageant of Music.

The celebration will be held at the Social Turner hall, Belmont avenue and Paulina street, corps headquarters for fifty years. Thirty-five members will stage a pageant of drum and bugle music since the revolutionary war days.

The pageant will be an historical musical album showing the fashions in martial music. Members will be dressed in uniforms of each epoch in American history and will play selections starting with "Yankee Doodle" and "Marching Through Georgia" down to the present marching selections.

From a membership of eight men the corps grew to a high of 250 members. Its membership today stands at about 125.

In Van of Parades.

The corps has traveled from coast to coast and has taken part in turnfests of American Turners throughout the nation. For years the corps has led parades in the city and has marched with Spanish war veterans, American Legion and the G. A. R.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB OPENS ITS 32D SEASON IN ORCHESTRA HALL

Dr. Robert E. Speer.

The beginning of a series of short talks by Clifford W. Barnes, an address by Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York and music by two of Chicago's largest downtown choruses, will feature the opening of the 32d season of the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, tonight. Mr. Barnes and the Apollo club will appear at the early service at 7 o'clock. Mr. Barnes' talks, which were a feature of the club programs since its early days until several years ago when he was forced to discontinue them on account of ill health, will be resumed this year.

Dr. Speer, who has been 47 years in foreign fields as head of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, will speak at 8 o'clock on the subject, "What are the Essentials?" This will be Dr. Speer's 20th appearance before the club. Col. Robert G. Peck, Episcopal layman, will take part in the service.

Democratic Women Prepare for Dance Saturday Night

The annual rally and dance of the German-American Democratic women's organization of Cook county will be held Saturday evening at the 50th ward Democratic headquarters, 6424 North Western avenue. Officers in charge of the dance include Mrs. Elizabeth Vavrinek, president; Mrs. Lina Schoenstedt, Mrs. Olga Fash, Mrs. Michael Prieb, and Mrs. E. E. Wilhelm, vice presidents; Mrs. B. A. C. Hoelzer, recording secretary, and Miss Linda M. Schreiber, corresponding secretary.

TEMPLARS READY TO TAKE PART IN 3 DAY CONCLAVE

State Meeting Set for Over Week-End.

Preparations were advanced last week by members of north side and suburban commanderies of the Knights Templar to take part in the 82d annual state conclave to be held Saturday, Sunday, and Monday in Peoria.

The meeting will open Saturday morning with an exhibition drill in the Peoria baseball park, to be followed by a parade of the commanderies under the supervision of Col. Henry R. Lundblad, brigade commander. More than 5,000 members are expected to take part in the three-day conclave.

Plan to Attend.

Officers and delegates of Waukegan commandery, No. 12, plan to attend in a body. They will be led by William H. Hogrewe, commander, and James N. Finn, past commander. The delegation from Evanston, No. 58, will be headed by George W. Martin and Aubrey Prosser. Commander Robert Hoffman will lead representatives of Chicago commandery, No. 19.

Lincoln Park, No. 64, will send its drill team. Lee J. Muzik is commander and Charles J. Retterer past commander. The band and several companies of Illinois commandery, No. 72, will attend the convention. The groups will be led by Robert Reynolds, commander, and Harold D. Hayes, past commander.

Will Lead Group.

Harry H. Esser, commander of St. Bernard, No. 35, will lead a delegation to the conclave. Another north side commandery which expects to attend is St. Cecilia, No. 83, under the leadership of Commander John A. Dorn and other officers.

Chicagoans on the educational foundation of the order and who will report on the activities of the division are Edwin D. Wade and S. R. Jensen. Foundation committees throughout the nation have made loans of almost $6,000,000 to approximately 25,000 students, enabling them to attend colleges and universities.

DR. GOTTFRED NELSON MARKS 35TH YEAR AS TRINITY PASTOR

Dr. Gottfred Nelson.

The Rev. Dr. Gottfred Nelson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Seminary and Barry avenues, will celebrate the 35th year of his ministry in that parish with special services this morning; in English at 9:30 o'clock and in Swedish at 10:45.

Special commemorative exercises will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the parish house at which Dr. Julius Lincoln, director of public relations at Augustana hospital will preside. The speaker will be Dr. C. A. Lindvall, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, 1872 South Millard avenue, who was a classmate with Dr. Nelson at the seminary. Greetings will be given by the Trinity church board and by pastors of the northern Chicago district of the Illinois conference. The musical program will be directed by Carl Engstrom.

Dr. Nelson is an alumnus of Bethany college, Lindsborg, Kas., his home state, and his theological training was begun at Augustana Theological seminary, Rock Island, Ill., and completed at the Chicago Theological seminary. Ordained in 1902, Dr. Nelson's first charge was Bethesda church, 105th street and Avenue J. The next year he was called to Trinity which, under his ministration, has developed into a strong metropolitan parish with plant equipment costing over $100,000 completed in 1924.

Philharmonic Choir Gives School Concert Wednesday

A concert by the philharmonic choir of the federal music project will be given Wednesday afternoon at the Jamieson school, 5650 North Mozart street. The director will be Walter Aschenbrenner, conductor. Twenty-seven singers compose the choir.

SPUR LAGGARDS TO RAISE VOICE IN OWN GOVERNMENT ON NOV. 8

Congress Nominees Tell of Needs.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

With the rallying cry that the "silent" vote this year can save the nation from a wastrel administration, Republican congressional candidates in the six north and northwest districts have joined party leaders in urging unrecorded voters to register before the deadline early next week.

Those who have not qualified by then under the permanent registration law cannot vote in the all important congressional elections, the G. O. P. nominees warn. Only by retiring a large number of radicals in favor of conservatives next month can the electorate stave off the economic disaster toward which the country is headed, they declare.

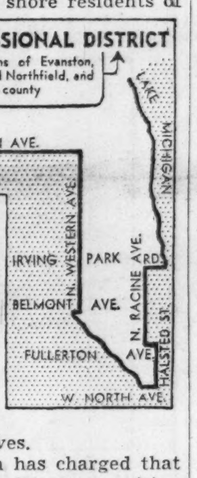
All signs indicate a big shift of voting sentiment away from the administration, Republican leaders are reminding their workers. If all eligible voters go to the polls on Nov. 8, smashing gains by the G. O. P. are assured, they hold.

25 Per Cent Unregistered.

More than 25 per cent of the eligible voters in Cook county are unregistered, Republican chieftains estimate. They maintain that most of these unrecorded voters are Republicans, inasmuch as administration patronage, promises, and threats have already produced virtually a 100 per cent Democratic registration.

Congressman Ralph E. Church of the 10th district, who is seeking reelection, set an example to his workers last week by personally reminding large numbers of men and women that they must register in the next few days or lose their right to vote. Both the Evanston Young Republican club and the Citizens' League of Evanston are active in the drive.

Mr. Church estimates that only two out of three north shore residents of voting age are properly enrolled in the permanent registration lists. The percentage is somewhat lower in the Chicago portion of his district, where the Democratic strength is concentrated, he believes.



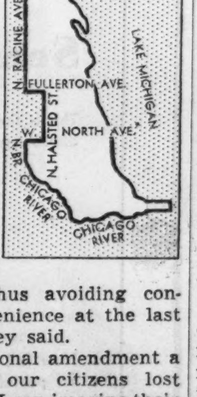
The congressman has charged that because of his persistent opposition to important administration measures he has been marked by the national Democratic leaders for a special purge next month. Therefore every conservative vote is needed, he warns.

Against Interference Abroad.

Mr. Church's Democratic rival, Joseph F. Elward, laid special stress last week on his platform plank against sending Americans to fight on foreign soil.

"At present," Mr. Elward said, "Americans must fight at home to preserve those liberal and humanitarian principles of government which the reactionaries, parading under false banners of liberalism, would destroy. I favor a liberal program that will benefit all our people and carry the United States forward to a new era of greater prosperity."

Charles S. Dewey, Republican nominee in the 9th district, who is given an excellent chance to unseat Representative James McAndrews, said that good citizenship demands not only that each eligible voter register, but that he should persuade others to do likewise.



Employers in particular should encourage every employé to register and give him time off this week to do so, thus avoiding confusion and inconvenience at the last moment, Mr. Dewey said.

"If by constitutional amendment a certain group of our citizens lost their right to vote, I can imagine their indignation," Mr. Dewey asserted. "Yet many of our citizens, who would spring to arms to defend this right of citizenship, calmly disenfranchise themselves and lose their right to vote by failing to register.

Can Blame Only Selves.

"Citizens who do not register through negligence must blame only themselves for failure in government."

Mr. Dewey last week reiterated his anti-war stand, and accused the present administration of setting group against group.

"The crisis that exists in Europe today," he said, "should accentuate the danger of pandering to racial or class prejudice in national or political policies, for such a passion once aroused is hard to allay.

"I accuse the New Deal of being the first political party since the civil

C. J. Monahan Out to Beat Connors.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Senator Connors.

Republican leaders in state senatorial districts on the north side are working hard to increase registrations this week, but the strongest efforts are being made in the 29th district, the near north side. They are reminding eligible persons that they can register any day this week at the board of election commissioners and next Monday, Oct. 10, at their precinct polling place. The country towns general registration will be held Tuesday, Oct. 11, in village halls.

The 29th district, the scene of many rough and tumble political fights in the past, promises to stand up to its tradition this time. Charles J. Monahan, Republican and former assistant United States district attorney, is out to defeat Senator William J. Connors, Democratic candidate for reëlection.

Is Committeeman.

Connors is 42d ward Democratic committeeman and a member of the board of local improvements and in the past has feared no political opponents. This time he is faced with a combination of the 1934 general election returns, the primary returns of last spring and the general swing in sentiment towards Republicanism.

In 1934 Connors received 10,445 votes and his opponent, Robert M. Woodward, now a representative, 6,649. In the last primary there were 14,728 Democratic votes cast in the 42d ward, and of that number Connors received 8,069. There were 6,659 Democratic votes that were not cast for Connors.

Charles Monahan.

Monahan received 1,507 out of 3,057 Republican votes in the primary. If he receives the Republican primary votes and the anti-Connors Democratic votes in the November election, he will have an edge on Connors, he claims. He is carrying on a militant, door to door campaign attacking Connors for holding two political jobs, and is urging unregistered persons to register. Much of his registration campaign is being directed to the hotels on the east side of the 29th district.

Seeks Hotel Vote.

"There are hundreds of residents in hotels who are opposed to the New Deal and its attack on business, but because they live in hotels they do not get out and register and vote," Monahan said. "We are going to get those people to their polling places on Oct. 10.

"People have no right to criticize governmental action unless they do something about it. Their most powerful weapon is the vote, and every Republican vote will be a check on government control."

Tuesday evening the candidate will address a massmeeting at the 42d ward Republican headquarters, 753 North Clark street.

Monahan was educated at Drake and De Paul universities and is a former law professor at Chicago-Kent College of Law.

Campaigns on Record.

Senator Connors is campaigning for reëlection on his activity at Springfield in representing the district. In the last session of the legislature he introduced a bill which provided that before any convict confined in the state penitentiary for specified sex crimes is released the convict shall be examined to determine if he is insane or feebleminded. If the convict is found insane or feebleminded he is to be committed to a state hospital. The bill became a law.

"Almost 50 per cent of sex crime offenders are repeaters and should never be freed," Senator Connors maintains. "The purpose of the law is to perpetuate the confinement of such criminals."

Connors' organization is meeting this week to plan a door to door canvass on registration.

N. SIDE CHURCH IS TO INSTALL A NEW PREACHER

Members of the Edgewater Presbyterian church, 1020 Bryn Mawr avenue, voted last week to install Dr. Adolph Bohn as pastor. Dr. Bohn, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Champaign for seven years, will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Dr. William M. Woodfin.

It is expected Dr. Bohn will begin his service the early part of next month. He is a native of Kansas and a graduate of Elmhurst college and the Presbyterian Theological seminary of Chicago.

CHILD'S SCHOOL RECORD NOW IS ALL IN FOLDER

Data Accompanies Him Class to Class.

BY DR. WILLIAM JOHNSON.
[Superintendent of Schools.]

The Chicago public schools of today are interested primarily in the individual child, his needs and abilities, his social and civic welfare.

In order to take care of the individual differences of children the teacher should know something of each child's abilities, needs, and interests.

Cumulative record folders, therefore, have been set up for each child in all the public schools of Chicago. These folders contain as complete a record as possible of the child's educational achievements, his power, his health, his social activities, his interests, and his talents.

Until recently a teacher began the new school year with a clean, blank page in her record book and an equally blank page in so far as her knowledge and understanding of her new group of children were concerned. It usually took a large part of the term for the teacher to discover the particular needs and abilities of each individual child.

Now Has a Record.

Today, however, the child's cumulative record folder is sent on to his new teacher. Although the records may vary somewhat from grade to grade and from school to school, any data that may be of value in furthering a child's progress or in helping the teacher better to understand the child are included.

The contents of the cumulative folder give a detailed picture of the school experience of the pupil. Results of special studies made of the child are included.

Also included in the files may be records of outstanding talents, lists of books read by the pupil, and records of transfer from other schools. Samples of classwork are often kept for a time.

At the end of each semester examples of exercises which indicate the pupil's abilities in the school subjects are added to the folder. This helps the next teacher to understand the needs and abilities of the individual pupils in her new class.

Need to Know Ability.

Many of the difficulties a pupil experiences in school are due to a lack of that type of work which challenges his abilities and meets his interests and needs. Without adequate information concerning the ability of each child it is not possible to adjust the school work to his needs.

If the work is too easy for the child he may develop poor habits of work, or become a discipline problem; if it is too difficult he may become discouraged and lose interest.

Difficulties of this nature are now eliminated, to a great extent, by a careful study of the contents of the cumulative record folder of each pupil. The program of instruction, then, may be better adjusted to the needs of the child.

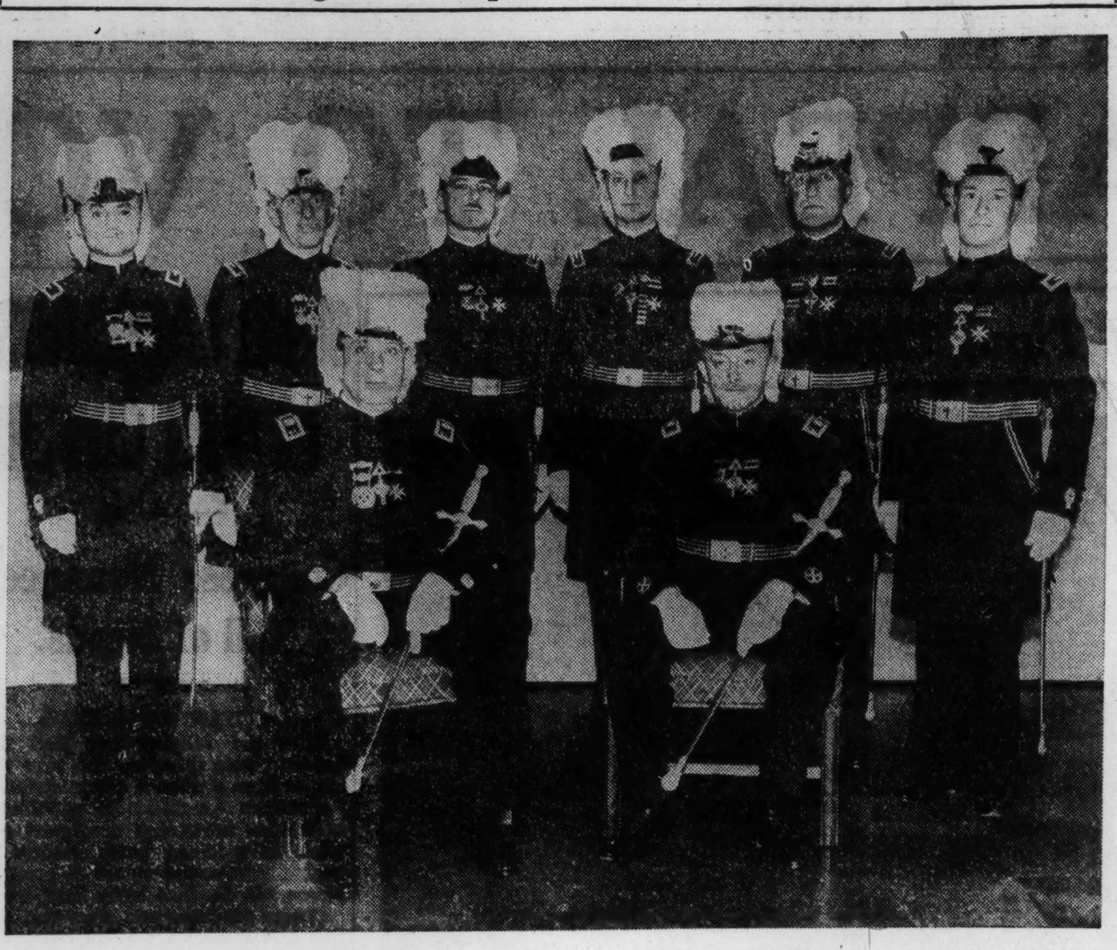
If a child transfers to another school his cumulative record folder is sent to that school. This makes it possible for him to continue his school work without the loss of time that often occurs while adjustments are being made. The cumulative record folders are also sent on to the high school when the pupils graduate from the elementary school.

In former years, upon graduation from elementary school, entering high school was comparable to entering a strange new world. Perplexing problems and bewildering situations confronted the new student.

Today he is a much happier and more confident individual as he enters this second period of his education. The records of the young graduate are sent to the high school in advance of his enrollment. His individual needs and talents are understood and planned for by the high school. His program is ready for him. He has a feeling of security and confidence in his new school work.

These cumulative records will become more and more valuable as time goes on.

Knights Templar Await Conclave



North side officers of Knights Templar lodges will attend the three day state conclave of the organization at Peoria starting Saturday. North side commanders are: Standing, Lee J. Muzik, Lincoln Park commandery; Robert A. Reynolds, Illinois commandery; Robert M. Hoffman, Chicago commandery; Harry H. Esser, St. Bernard commandery; Fred A. Ruker, Apollo commandery, and George W. Martin, Evanston commandery. Seated are Cedric Cook Howland, Illinois grand commander (left), and Frank I. Hooper, deputy grand commander.

URBAN AND RURAL FOLK JOIN HANDS FOR COUNTY FAIR

Exposition Continues All Week at Waukegan.

City and farm folk in Lake county will mingle together this week at the first fair ever held jointly for both population elements. Thousands of suburban residents are expected to attend the Lake County Agricultural and Industrial exposition which opened in Waukegan. The fair will close Saturday.

Sponsored by the Waukegan and North Chicago Chamber of Commerce, the fair is being managed by "The Committee of 100," a group of farmers around Waukegan organized to bring urban and rural residents closer together.

$3,000 in Prizes.

Throughout the week cavalcades of automobiles will go to the areas surrounding Waukegan advertising the exposition. Hundreds of farm boys and girls have already enrolled in produce and craft displays. More than $3,000 in prize money is to be given to winners.

On Thursday and Friday evenings there will be a show of draft and saddle horses exhibited by local breeders. Part of the program will be devoted to polo games between a team of 14 year old girls and a boys' group ranging in age from 9 to 14 years old.

Others Aiding Plans.

Assisting them in arranging the fair are B. L. Anderson, Maj. Joseph A. Teece, Mrs. Helen Heckinger, George H. Bandell, Mrs. James F. Berry, Dr. F. A. Besley, J. L. Boyles, Miss Kate Cramond, the Rev. J. W. Davies, Miss Florence Gunderson, D. W. Durkin, F. Ward Just, George R. Manz, W. H. Woodard, Samuel Sevin, Mrs. E. E. Ellsberry, J. C. Ballantine, J. F. Beck, Harry McKinney, and John Faubel.

St. Elizabeth's, Glencoe, Will Dedicate New Organ

A new organ will be dedicated this evening in St. Elizabeth's church in Glencoe. A program of vocal and instrumental music will be given under the direction of Willard L. Groom, organist and choirmaster. Mr. Groom will play "Prelude in C Minor" by Bach. The combined boy and girl choirs will march and sing. Violin selections will be played by Miss Millicent Grant.

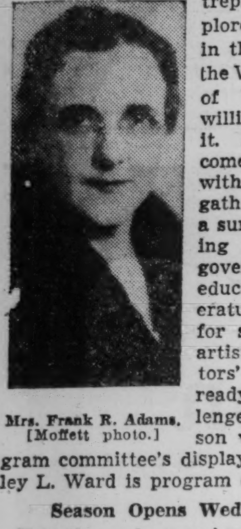
WILMETTE CLUB PLANS SEASON OF STAR PROGRAMS

Gala Opening Takes Place on Wednesday.



Mrs. Frank R. Adams. [Moffett photo.]

That was quite a scintillating catch Winkin, Blinkin and Nod, those intrepid sky explorers, pulled up in their net—and the Woman's Club of Wilmette is willing to admit it. But when it comes to stars, with all the lines gathered in after a summer of seining the seas of government and education, art, literature and music for speakers and artists, the directors' board is ready to challenge a comparison with its program committee's display. Mrs. Harley L. Ward is program chairman.

Season Opens Wednesday.

For the gala opening Wesnesday afternoon the club is to have the internationally famous dancer, Ruth Page, as guest artist. This will be a reciprocity reception and tea in compliment to Mrs. Frank R. Adams, who is entering upon her second year in the presidency, and her staf. Invitations have been sent to 10th district officers of the federation and to the presidents of neighboring clubs.

Day-long meetings will be held thereafter on alternate Wednesdays until May.

Such other eye-arresting names as John Gunther, author of "Inside Europe"; Lilian Mowrer, who wrote "Journalist's Wife"; Minna Schmidt, the costumer, and Frederic Snyder, news commentator, appear on Mrs. Ward's lengthy program schedule.

Mr. Gunther on Men's Night.

Mr. Gunther will address the club and its guests on European affairs on the annual men's night, Feb. 4. Mrs. Mower will speak at the first November session. Mrs. Schmidt's program, "Memory Portraits of Great Musicians and Opera Stars," is scheduled for the morning of the first meeting in February. Mr. Snyder will appear at the second February meeting.

The annual joint meeting with the Wilmette League of Women Voters is set for Oct. 19, and will bring another outstanding program—a panel discussion of current events by the University of Chicago Round Table, led by Prof. Quincy Wright of the political science department. The Wilmette Garden club members will be guests at the second meeting in January, when Dudley Crafts Watson will speak.

Art Department Lectures.

The art department is to sponsor a course of lectures. Among the literature department's projects will be two lectures by J. Manley Phelps. Dr. E. T. McSwain of Northwestern university's department of education, Edna Dean Baker, president of the National College of Education, and Frank P. Breckinridge are to appear in a lecture course under the auspices of the home and education department. The ways and means committee's projects will include a book review series by Mrs. Lloyd Faxon, children's plays, a home arts exhibit, dances, tours and card parties.

Mrs. Ward's program committee is composed of the various department heads: Mrs. Kenneth McAfee, literature; Mrs. J. R. Harper, art; Mrs. L. C. Torrey, home and education; Mrs. Henry W. Drucker, civics; Mrs. Robert C. Marley, music, and Mrs. D. Porter Empfield, philanthropy.

Plans Reception

CHURCH LUTHER LEAGUE FORMS A CAMERA CLUB

Organization of the Luther League Camera club by members of the Messiah Lutheran church, Seminary avenue and Grace street, was completed last week.

The first meeting was held Thursday evening and officers were elected. The club is to hold meetings on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. Plans include the holding of an annual salon of photos made by members.

Officers are LeRoy F. Clark, president; Earl G. Storms, vice president; Jack Erickson, treasurer; Ruth Bowman, secretary, and Raymond Pearson, librarian.

Winnetka Plans Cleanup in an 11 Day Campaign

An eleven day "cleanup" will start tomorrow in Winnetka to remove rubbish in wholesale quantities. Ordinary garbage service is limited to household rubbish. In order to make removals easy village officials have divided the community into ten sections, each of which is to be cleaned during the period.

EVANSTON RALLY TO START ANNUAL CHEST CAMPAIGN

1,500 Aiding Philanthropic Drive in Suburb.

John R. Kimbark. [Toloff Photo.]

Final instructions will be given to Evanston's 1,500 volunteer workers in the seventh annual Community Chest campaign at a rally Thursday evening at the North Shore hotel in the suburb. Two weeks later the drive to raise $150,000 as this year's quota will be over. During the campaign the Chest will hold three meetings for the volunteers. Plans will be presented Thursday to blanket the suburb in a wholesale drive for funds.

Canvass List of 700.

For the last ten days the Men's and Women's special divisions under the direction of Otto Y. Schnering and Mrs. W. I. Howland Jr. have been canvassing a list of more than 700 prospective donors. The business division, headed by Oliver H. Nichols, last week swung into action to raise as its part $18,000 from business houses.

Campaign leaders include Dr. H. A. Hattstrom, general chairman; Joseph A. Rushton, assistant general chairman; Addison L. Gardner Jr., vice chairman of the men's special gifts division; Mrs. Bayless French, vice chairman of women's special gifts division; Thomas Airth, residential division chairman; Robert M. Laas, vice chairman; Edward A. Arnold, business division vice chairman; Dr. A. R. Hatton, schools division chairman; Eugene C. Sanford, public departments division chairman; Dr. S. N. Stevens, education and publicity committee chairman, and Miss Ida F. Wright, speaker's bureau chairman.

Captains Are Named.

Ward captains in the residential division are Horatio Rogers, Thomas Desmond, Edward W. Bell, Eddy Brandt, John Balkam, and Oliver Vinnedge.

Members of the business division include Barry Alexander, Dr. O. [illegible] Andrea, George Ball, Judge James G. Barber, Grant Bergsland, Edward Brock, Louis A. Bunster, W. H. Callow Jr., William Carroll, Judge James M. Corcoran, John J. Corcoran, C. H. Cullen, George J. Cyrus, H. E. Dietrick, Eugene V. Dunphy Jr., W. I. Eadie.

Others in Division.

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES GIVING 20TH ANNUAL PARTY ON SATURDAY

Phillip Steele.

The Municipal Employés society, organization of Chicago civil service workers, will hold its twentieth annual dance and card party Saturday evening at the Hotel La Salle.

John P. Dillon, 411 Fullerton parkway, president of the society, heads the arrangements committee. Proceeds of the party will be turned over to the maintenance fund of the organization.

TODAY IS 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF N. SIDE CHURCH

Our Lady of Mt. Carmel in Celebration.

Msgr. Casey.

Celebration of the 25th anniversary of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, 690 Belmont avenue, will be held today. A solemn jubilee mass will be held at noon and the Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Casey, pastor, will preach the anniversary sermon. The Rev. John Wall will be celebrant of the mass. He will be assisted by the Rev. Daniel Murray and the Rev. George Hulett.

Exposition of the blessed sacrament will be held throughout the day. By a special privilege granted to Msgr. Casey by Pope Pius XI., a plenary indulgence will be conferred upon all persons visiting the church who comply with the requirements of confession and communion.

Evening Benediction.

Solemn benediction at 8 o'clock this evening will close the anniversary program. The choir under the direction of Adalbert Huguelet, conductor and organist, will sing at the solemn mass and at the evening benediction.

The present church building was constructed twenty-five years, although the parish itself was established one year before. Members are also observing the 50th anniversary of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Parish school which is located next door to the church.

School Is "First."

The school is the first north side school to which the Sisters of Mercy were asisgned to teach and was organized by Mother Catherine of the west side branch of the order.

A parish party to commemorate both occasions is to be held sometime this fall at the Drake hotel.

Author-Lecturer to Speak on Writers Tomorrow Night

Appearing under the auspices of the Young People's forum, Arthur Malkes Heim, author and lecturer, will speak at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in the Fullerton Covenant Presybterian church, 600 Fullerton parkway. 'Modern Literature Gets a Transfusion" will be the title of his talk on modern writers. The forum is headed by George Wilson.

CATHOLIC LAW GUILD TO ATTEND HIGH MASS TODAY

Reviving an ancient English legal custom, members of the Guild of Catholic Lawyers will be hosts to Chicago attorneys at solemn high mass today in Holy Name cathedral, 730 North Wabash avenue. The mass to be held at noon will commemorate the lives of St. Ives and St. Thomas More, patron saints of the legal profession.

Mass for the legal profession was begun centuries ago in England. Thomas More, in whose honor the mass today is being celebrated, was a Catholic lawyer and was the first layman to become chancellor of England. He was beheaded and later canonized.

The Rev. Edward Dailey of the "New World," Catholic newspaper, will be the celebrant, and the sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. Michael O'Connell of De Paul university. The Rev. Edwin V. Hoover will direct the musical program.

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF NORTH SHORE BEGIN SEASON

Busy Year Is Ahead for Organizations.

Fragile pink and blue of roses and delphinium giving way in the garden to the scarlet spray of salvia, the burnished gold of chrysanthemums. Air heavy with the pungent incense of burning leaves. Earlier dusks. First gusty blasts from off the lake. A fire on the harth.

Signs and portents, all of the advent of fall on the north shore—but none so convincing as this week's picture of the mistress of the house pinning on a jaunty new chapeau and stepping briskly forth for the opening club meeting. From Evanston to Waukegan the women of the suburbs are returning to club classes and bridge benefits, lectures and luncheons, community service forums and charity sewing circles.

Resume in Evanston.

In Evanston the University guild will resume regular meetings tomorrow afternoon with a lecture by Louis Anspacher and a reception and tea in Harris hall on the Northwestern university campus. The Woman's Athletic club will hold its opening assembly Thursday in the First Congregational church house. Preliminary to the official opening, the president's day reception on Wednesday, Oct. 12, the Catholic Woman's club will meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday for the first of four lectures on parliamentary law by Mrs. Guy M. Pelton.

The Woman's Library club will make village history in Glencoe Wednesday night with the opening of its 65th season in a new clubhouse, built during the summer. Regular sessions will begin for the Waukegan Woman's club tomorrow, when, following luncheon, Judge J. M. Braude of the Boys' court in Chicago, will speak. The Waukegan club meets in the local Masonic temple. The Niles Center Woman's club will be reunited at a dessert luncheon at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Municipal building.

University Guild.

A new president, Mrs. Edward H. Hatton, will head the line at the University Guild of Evanston's reception and tea at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Anspacher, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott and the program chairman, Mrs. Leon J. Willien will receive with Mrs. Hatton.

"The Mob and the Movies" is to be the title of Mr. Anspacher's talk. Mr. Anspacher was one of the founders of the Drama league. In earlier years he was an actor, but it is as the dramatist who wrote "All the King's Horses," "The Glass House," "Unchastened Woman" and other equally successful plays that he is best known.

Mrs. John M. Shumway, with Mrs. Arden B. Lapham as co-chairman, will arrange tea and Mrs. W. W. Buchanan, Mrs. O. F. Long, Mrs. Samuel J. Sackett and Mrs. Franklyn Bliss Snyder will pour.

The hostess committee assisting with serving will include Mrs. E. S. Albritton, Mrs. H. W. Croxton, Mrs. C. D. Hardy, Mrs. L. R. Janes, Mrs. A. H. Kohlbusch, Mrs. J. N. Lott, Mrs. William O'Neill, Mrs. Carleton Pendleton, Mrs. F. H. Philbrick, Mrs. Rolla S. Pribble, Mrs. Rex Rathbun, Mrs. J. S. Seippel, Mrs. Ralph D. Shanesy and Mrs. George C. Turnbull.

Preparatory to the guild's trip to the Morton Arboretum on Monday, Oct. 17, the art seminar committee will conduct a study session at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Evanston Art center. Jean June Myall will discuss "The Artistic Anatomy and Symbolism of Trees."

Evanston Catholics.

The course in parliamentary law which Mrs. Guy M. Pelton is opening at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Evanston Catholic club, 1560 Oak avenue, will continue on succeeding Tuesdays through October. Mrs. F. R. Kennedy, as chairman of the civics department, is in charge. Mrs. Pelton otherwise serves under Mrs. Kennedy as chairman of motion pictures.

Committee heads from the department assisting with the new project are Mrs. L. J. Crowley, Mrs. Allen D. Dimmick, Mrs. Lewis H. Phelps, Mrs. George C. Mullen and Mrs. William F. Schildgen.

Evanston Athletes.

Mrs. Horace Dawson will give a review of Howard Spring's "My Son, My Son!" for the Evanston Woman's Athletic club Thursday. In the absence of the program chairman, Mrs. Harry G. Witt, Mrs. Dawson will be presented by Mrs. Frank E. Lane. The membership has been notified that Mrs. H. Clyde Murphy is organizing bowling teams.

Glencoe Library Club.

Admittance will be by card to the opening reception at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the Woman's club in Glencoe. The directors pridefully write in the records that the new clubhouse has been built without Federal aid, that it is unencumbered by mortgage or debt, and that the year opens with a surplus in the treasury.

Mrs. Warner R. Nelson is Mrs. L. Duncan Lloyd's successor to the presidency. The board of directors includes Mrs. Charles D. Brandriff, Mrs. W. Riley Harvey, Mrs. Shirley E. Brewer, Mrs. John V. Clinnin, Mrs. Burrous J. Martin, Mrs. Charles A. Steele, Mrs. Walter L. Backer, Mrs. Thomas M. Halpin, who was chairman of the building committee; Mrs. Howard I. Potter, Mrs. Arnold Honegger and Mrs. Glenn Thompson.

Waukegan Women.

In Waukegan also the Woman's club is opening the season under a new regime. Mrs. Mabel McCullough will assume active direction at tomorrow's meeting. Mrs. Leland L. Liggett, social chairman, is planning the luncheon. Judge Braude's lecture has been arranged by Mrs. Abe Schwartz, chairman of programs.

Niles Center Women.

At its opening Wednesday, the Niles Center club will have Dr. John Wesley Holland, editor of Prairie Farmer and conductor of the "Little Brown Church" radio program, as guest speaker. A string trio, with Miss Lolita Johnston as soloist, will play. Mrs. Mauritz Friberg will preside.

Junior School Friends.

Appearing under the auspices of Evanston Friends of the Chicago Junior school, Eleanor Ellis Perkins, writer and literary critic, will give a book review program, the first of a series of six, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Pan-Hellenic room of the Levere memorial, 1856 Sheridan road.

Taking "Books by People Who Write Their Own Experiences" for her theme, she will discuss "My America," by Louis Adamic; "My Austria," by Kurt Schussnigg; "Remembering," by Nathalie Sedgwick Colby, and "The Letters of Henry Adams." The series, to continue on alternate Wednesdays, is a scholarship benefit.

Mrs. George H. Webster of 615 Linden avenue, Wilmette, is the chairman in charge. She is assisted with ticket distribution by Mrs. J. Frank Grimes of 2747 Eastwood avenue, Evanston, and Mrs. Kenneth Laing of 6047 North Talman avenue, Chicago. The school in whose interest the Evanston Friends are organized is a home, near Elgin, for boys from broken homes.

Evanston B-P Women.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Evanston will conduct a symposium to define the duties of officers and committee chairmen when it meets for its weekly dinner session tomorrow in the First Methodist-Episcopal church. Miss Jeannette E. Nichols will preside.

Evanston Music Club.

Mrs. Kenneth Kraft of 225 Lakewood place, Highland Park, will be hostess for the club's second tea and musical tomorrow. Miss Arlene Walker has charge of program arrangements. She will present Helen Becker, Ruth Cartwright, Helen Tollefson Guest and Louise Evans, pianist; Helen Rudolf, soprano; Besse Sherrill, contralto, and Jessie Buchtel, violinist. Mrs. Guest and Millicent Chapman Cooke will be the accompaniists.

Evanston Drama Club.

In this column last week Mrs. Hal Foust was referred to as program chairman. Mrs. Foust, who held that office last season, resigned. Her place has been taken by Mrs. Clarence T. Simon.

Junior Club Women Welcome New Season

MRS. VERNON REPLOGLE.
[De Haven Photo.]

MISS RUTH CARLSON.

MRS. JOHN F. WHALLEY.

Junior organizations are well represented on the week's calendar of club openings. With Mrs. Vernon Replogle presiding, the auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Wilmette will resume activities with a dinner and evening of games Thursday. The first monthly luncheon of the Young Woman's auxiliary of the Woman's club of Evanston, of which Mrs. John F. Whalley is president, will be held tomorrow. Tomorrow night the North Town Junior auxiliary, which is headed by Miss Ruth Carlson, will have its opening rally in Indian Boundary fieldhouse, Lunt and Campbell avenues.

Directs Guild

Mrs. Edward H. Hatton, elected president last spring, assumes active direction of the University Guild of Evanston at its opening meeting tomorrow afternoon in Harris hall on the Northwestern university campus.

[E. L. Ray Photo.]

Faculty-Student Relations Subject of Evanston Talk

Dr. Paul A. Schilpp, professor of philosophy at Northwestern university, will speak on the relationship of the faculty to the student body in the second of three orientation talks at the University of Life of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston this evening. The program will be presented by the student religious fellowship of the church at 6 o'clock.

ASSISTANT AIDS ARE CHOSEN FOR SCOUT POWWOW

Take Part in the Rally of 1,000 Boys.

Selection of assistant directors was made last week to take charge of the encampment of 1,000 Boy Scouts at the fifth annual powwow to be held Saturday and Sunday at Camp Doddridge near Libertyville.

Carl Hallen, north shore district commissioner, will be campmaster. Scouts attending the rally will be awarded lether arrowheads as souvenirs. They will take part in an archery contest starting Saturday afternoon and ending Sunday. Winning bow and arrow sharpshooters will be given prizes.

Named to Assist.

Assistant directors and their districts include David Eisenberg, Rogers Park; Henry Henke, Northtown; L. J. Dehli, Ravenswood; Alex Simons, Lake View; Robert Berryman, Albany Park; Harry Frey, Irving Park; George Ahlander, Shabbona Park, and Hans Bredal, Jefferson Park. They will be aided by William Wells, Ken Hordrich, and Al Haas.

Those in charge of registration are Earl Smith and George Simmons. Dr. S. C. Stanton and Robert Birkmeier will take charge of first aid. Swimming activities will be directed by Robert Dorrell, Earl Schmackels, and Wayne Gross.

Others Helping.

Other powwow aids include Leland Koch and Robert Pape, pumpmasters; Jack Kinsella, adjutant; Harry Sohrer, bugler; Mat Adam, lighting; William Woods, signs; P. O. Orlebeke, awards; George Leonard, Indian lore; Walter Schneider, handicraft; Harvey Blank and Robert Nelson, nature lore; Robert Kelly, C. E. Barry, and Paul Logan, scoutcraft judges; Larry Dobson, inspection, and Al Weber, arrow distribution.

Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic services will be conducted on Sunday. Peter H. Norg, north shore district Scout executive, and Harley Lowe, assistant, will supervise camp activities.

WILMETTE CLUB JUNIORS GIVING INFORMAL PARTY

Being a Junior branch, the auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Wilmette contends, should permit of its giving an occasional party in keeping with its name; hence the informal fête being planned for the opening rally Thursday night in the clubhouse at Greenleaf avenue and Tenth street.

After dinner at 6:45 o'clock, the members will have a round of old fashioned and novelty games, waranted to accomplish the "get acquainted" purpose of the party by the committee in charge—Miss Portia Mary Lee, Miss Bettie Buckett, Mrs. C. M. Jensen, Mrs. A. Paul Leisner, Miss Carol Lawrence, Mrs. Dean Lake Traxler, and Miss Elsa Miller.

Last year's president is returning to her post with a new name. The former Miss Adelaide Franklin is now Mrs. Vernon Replogle. On her staf are Mrs. Quintin Crawford, vice president; Miss Ruth Youngberg, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles M. Jensen, corresponding secretary, and Miss Caroline Buchholz, treasurer. Mrs. Harvey A. Bush is junior adviser.

On the board as committee chairmen are: Miss Laura Lou Reichmann, membership; Miss Louise D'Esposito, social, with Miss Mozelle Wrightson as co-chairman; Miss Lee, program; Mrs. John Boddie III., philanthropy; Mrs. W. H. K. Bennett Jr., ways and means, with Miss Mary Stoddard as co-chairman, and Miss Ann Henderson, publicity. Mrs. Weston Butz is a member-at-large.

The October meeting, on Thursday, the 20th, will bring Cornelia C. Steckl, who will speak on "Dress Designing and Draping." November programs contrast a scavenger hunt with a lecture on political economy.

Evanston Auxiliary.

Monthly luncheon meetings, arranged by a committee headed by Mrs. Alford H. Scott, will begin for the Young Woman's auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Evanston at 12:45 o'clock tomorrow. Helen R. Adams, news commentator, will speak on "European Affairs." Miss Adams is to give a course of lectures under the auspices of the current events committee, of which Mrs. A. Newell Rumpf is chairman. Mrs. John Whalley, president, will confer with the board at 10:30 o'clock.

Ravenswood Juniors.

A reunion dinner at Mrs. Darwin B. Pond's home, 2111 Sunnyside avenue, will open the season tomorrow for the Junior auxiliary of the Ravenswood Woman's club. The social committee, under Mrs. Fred Steffen's chairmanship, is in charge.

North Town Juniors.

With Miss Ruth Carlson presiding, the North Town Woman's club auxiliary will open the year with a general assembly at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in Indian Boundary fieldhouse. A. Lorne Brown, presented by the program chairman, Miss Jeanette Patterson, will give his lecture, "The Blind Spot of Science," and conduct a forum discussion.

Rogers Park Juniors.

Executive board and committee members of the Junior membership of the Rogers Park Woman's club will confer on plans for celebrating the silver anniversary year of the organization at the annual rally night tomorrow. Mrs. Theodore J. Beck will have charge of an informal social hour after the session.

Aiding Dance

Miss Jean O'Donnell of 1100 Brummel street, Evanston, is a member of the committee at work under Mrs. Martin Rosendahl's chairmanship on arrangements for a supper-dance to be given next Saturday by the North Shore alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority in Shawnee Country club, Wilmette. The party is the chapter's annual benefit for the Frontier Nursing service in the Kentucky mountains.

VACATION OVER, WOMEN RETURN TO CLUB TASKS

Groups in North Area Begin Programs.

Mrs. James M. Massie.

Without so much as one ostentatious goosestep or paso Romano in the ranks—indeed, this army would likely have only a snicker for that sort of goings-on—such a mighty mass movement as no Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini could envisage quietly gets under way this week. One of the fall phenomena of the land of the free, it is the big parade of the women back to club meeting, and this column is dedicated to a review of north side Chicago's legions.

Largest of the bands in the rally is that of Mrs. James M. Massie—the Rogers Park Woman's club, which will hold its fall opening Tuesday. Others resuming regular schedules on the same day are the Joyce Kilmer league and the Edgemere Woman's club.

Five have their fall reunions scheduled for tomorrow—the Ravenswood Woman's club, Brownson circle, the Woman's Club of the Peoples Church, the North End Woman's club, and the Buena Park Catholic Woman's club. Our Lady of Lourdes Woman's club and Ravenswood Civic league will hold their openings Friday.

Rogers Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Massie's welcoming address at 2 o'clock Tuesday will launch the Rogers Park club on its forty-eighth season. The program, a musical, will be given by Lilyan Sacks, soprano; Irene Stolofsky, violinist; Alixius Baas, baritone and dramatic reader, and Grace Holland, pianist.

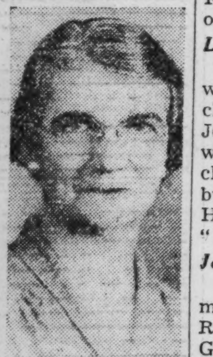
North Town Woman's Club.

Mrs. Harris L. Wilson, president, will meet with members of the executive board at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the home of Mrs. G. A. Reshoft, 6608 North Washtenaw avenue. Mrs. F. B. Stoffel, first vice president, will be assistant hostess. Other board members are Mrs. Albert C. Bensen, vice president; Mrs. William Nehlsen, recording secretary; Mrs. Claire E. Carr, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Reshoft, treasurer.

Ravenswood Civic League.

The opening meeting will be held at 2 o'clock Friday at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., 1735 Wilson avenue. Mrs. M. H. Lieber will be the speaker. Miss Gloria Chevlin, vocalist, will be presented in a group of songs.

Ravenswood Woman's Club.



Mrs. Robert L. Floyd.

A new president, Mrs. Robert L. Floyd, will head the line of officers and directors at the Ravenswood club's reception at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Ravenswood Masonic temple. Mrs. Floyd takes office supported by the following board: Mrs. C. C. West, Mrs. L. E. Sondel, and Mrs. Leo L. Hardt, first, second, and third vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. William J. Knorst, recording secretary; Mrs. William F. Gall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Robblee, treasurer; Mrs. W. R. Schneller, Mrs. J. C. Peltier, and Mrs. T. W. Blachley, chairmen, respectively, of the departments of fine arts, public welfare, and home and education; Mrs. J. J. Clark, house and property chairman, and Mrs. Herbert Davies, director of press and publicity.

North End Woman's Club.

Presidents of neighboring organizations will be guests at the North End club tomorrow. Mrs. Henry House, presiding, will be assisted by her staf.

Edgemere Womans' Club.

The club year will open with a luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. A musical program will feature Miss Elizabeth Biro, lyric soprano, and John Kurucz, pianist and composer. Mrs. Jesse G. Waters is president and Mrs. Burt E. Steenson is program chairman.

Brownson Circle.

Mrs. J. Charles McCarthy.

Brownson circle is another of the north side groups making a reciprocity day celebration of its first assembly. It is entertaining tomorrow the heads of associated clubs and friends of its members. Mrs. J. Charles McCarthy, active president, and the board, will receive, but at tea after the program hostess duties will be delegated to the past presidents, Mrs. George H. Beaudin, Mrs. Frederick M. Clarke, Mrs. John W. Hogan, Mrs. Bertrand W. Evans, Mrs. Edward J. O'Connell, Mrs. James A. O'Callaghan, and Mrs. P. Francis Byrne. The speaker, Mrs. Donald N. Fawcett, will give "News and Views of the Theater and the People in It."

Lourdes Woman's Club.

Our Lady of Lourdes Woman's club will hold its opening meeting of the club year Friday afternoon. Mrs. John Lukanitsch, president, together with the board members, will greet club members and following a short business conference, Mrs. Florence Hudson, book reviewer, will talk on "New Books and Plays."

Joyce Kilmer League.

Miss Mary Jane Morrow, monodramatist and impersonator, will read Rachel Crothers' play, "Susan and God," at the opening meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Rogers Park Woman's club. The Kilmer Karolers, directed by Mrs. William J. Pigott, will furnish the musical portion of the program.

Women of People's Church.

A Milk Foundation luncheon and card party will open the fall activities of the Woman's Club of the People's Church at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at 75 East Wacker drive.

Buena Park Catholics.

The Rev. V. Cardinal will address the Buena Park Catholic Woman's club at its opening assembly at 2 o'clock tomorrow in St. Mary of the Lake auditorium, Buena and Kenmore avenues. Mrs. George J. Aste is president and Mrs. John Lavecchia is social chairman.

Medical Society Auxiliary.

Mrs. S. J. McNeil of 5852 Sheridan road will open her home to members of the Woman's auxiliary of the North Shore branch of the Chicago Medical society and their friends at 1 o'clock tomorrow for the annual "laity day" luncheon. Dr. Robert H. Hayes, president of the Chicago Medical society, will give an address on "State Medicine."

Thanksgiving Bride

The engagement of Miss Betty Lamey to Thomas W. Quish was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Lamey, 5249 West Monroe street. Mr. Quish is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quish, 7740 Loomis boulevard. The wedding will take place on Thanksgiving day.

Recent Bride

OFFER FASHION SHOW AND CARDS FOR MARY CLUB

Evanston Home Benefit Set for Tuesday.

When Judge Mary Bartelme sat in the Juvenile court listening to story after disheartening story from the young girls brought before her, conviction grew that what most of the delinquents needed was not a reformatory to quell rebellious natures but a home where the offenders might have a taste of normal living. Her own house in Austin she gave for the experiment in humanity that justified her faith.

North Shore friends in sympathy with Judge Bartelme's views founded a second Mary club in Evanston.

Give Annual Party.

The principal source of revenue for the maintenance of the home is an annual card party—a benefit that rates a front page memorandum in the engagement book not only of the north shore matron solidly established in the tradition of charity bridge but of her heartily approving young daughters.

Early in the season, Mrs. Roy L. Davis, chairman of the Evanston Mary club board, began recruiting committees for this year's benefit, and weeks of diligent planning have gone into the preparations for the Mary club party to be given Tuesday afternoon in the Woman's club of Evanston, Chicago avenue and Church street.

Other Inducements.

Two inducements other than cards have been included in the program plan—a style show and a book review program.

More than 150 women are active on the committees arranging the benefit. Mrs. Esmond L. Good is general chairman and Mrs. Thomas R. King, vice chairman.

One of the members of Mrs. King's hostess committee at the party will be Mrs. Robert Cutting, member of the general board for the Mary club, who is a niece of Judge Bartelme. Others of the group will be Mrs. Frederick Minkler, Mrs. Thomas Webster, Mrs. Roy Goddard, Mrs. Percival Truman, Mrs. A. E. Willard Jr. [president of the general board], Mrs. Charles Moody, Mrs. Charles M. Moderwell, and Mrs. Ralph Church.

Juniors Are Ushers.

The Junior auxiliary, under Mrs. George L. Bollenbacher, will serve as ushers. Mrs. Gerald Fogarty and Mrs. Charles Rundall head the Junior committee managing the fashion show.

Other committees are headed by Mrs. Burr Blackburn and Mrs. A. E. Davidson, house; Mrs. Benjamin F. Ellis and Mrs. Levering Cartwright, personnel; Mrs. Paul W. Chapin, book review; Mrs. T. E. Quisenberry, floral; Mrs. Carl F. Metz, special events; Mrs. Albert McCaleb and Mrs. A. C. Ruthman, awards; Mrs. Albert Duncan and Mrs. A. E. Patton, tickets; Mrs. D. A. Winter and Mrs. Hugo Dalmar, tea, and Mrs. George B. Jones and Mrs. Harry Culver Lee, supplies.

Promote Style Show

MRS. GERALD FOGARTY.

MRS. CHARLES W. RUNDALL.

MISS PATTY QUISENBERRY.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

The hoary observation that "a 'new broom sweeps well'" may account for it, but, whatever the explanation, no contingent of the army of workers the Evanston board commands in its preparations for the annual Mary club benefit card party has been more diligent than its recently organized Junior auxiliary. Placing Mrs. Gerald Fogarty in charge, the new Junior group has assumed full management of the style show, one of the principal features of the fête which is to be given Tuesday afternoon in the Woman's club of Evanston. Mrs. Charles W. Rundall is Mrs. Fogarty's co-chairman, and Miss Patty Quisenberry is an active member of their corps.

ST. MATTHEW'S PARISH PLANS A HARVEST DANCE

To Be Held at Evanston Woman's Club.

Preparations for a harvest ball that foretell the largest and gayest party in the history of the church societies are in progress in St. Matthew's Episcopal parish in Evanston. The party is to be held Friday, Oct. 14, in the Woman's club at 1702 Chicago avenue. Bridge, midnight breakfast, and entertainment by home talent are all included in plans being made under the general direction of Joyce Fort.

To four committees of women Mr. Fort has delegated the management of ticket distribution, bridge playing, serving of refreshments, and the sale of cigarets and gardinias at the party. Mrs. Stewart A. Cushman is chairman of the ticket committee, Miss Sarah Hornbrook is bridge chairman, Mrs. Leroy Nilles has charge of the breakfast, and Mrs. Beresford Beck is to direct a corps of cigaret and flower girls from the junior guild.

Mrs. Cushman's committee is composed of Mrs. Donald Simmons, Mrs. Hoover Shook, Mrs. Creighton Whiting, Mrs. Elmer Nilles, Mrs. Leroy Nilles, Mrs. Fort, Mrs. Edwin B. Thurman, Mrs. John Chadwell, Mrs. Seymour Neill, Mrs. R. M. Babbit Jr., Mrs. R. V. Najarian, Mrs. William Diedricksen, Mrs. Frank Moran, Mrs. Rolla Fribble, and Mrs. W. E. Sullivan.

Those assisting Miss Hornbrook with card arrangements are Mrs. Edward Reed, Mrs. H. C. Tiedemann, Mr. H. Dyer Bent, Mrs. L. H. Bornbrook, Miss Clara Jacobsen, and Mrs. W. H. Warner. In Mrs. Beck's flower and cigaret girls' corps are Mrs. J. Walker Shipman, Miss Jane Upkike, Mrs. Jack McDonnell, Mrs. Robert C. Howlett, and Mrs. Gail Dalrymple.

Trinity Lutherans.

A program entitled "Portrayal of Life in Flowers and Music" has been scheduled for 8 o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 12, in the parish house of Trinity Lutheran church, Barry and Seminary avenues, by the ladies' circle.

Evanston Methodists.

The womens' union of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Evanston will hold its annual communion service, one of three joint meetings of the Guild and Service and Junior guilds of the year, at 11 o'clock Wednesday. The Rev. Arthur T. Clark will officiate. Guild members will be hostesses at luncheon in Great hall at 12:45 o'clock. The afternoon program will feature a news commentary by the Rev. Charles F. Boss Jr.,

St. Chrysostom.

The Business and Professional Women's guild of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church will begin its second year with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday in the parish house, 1424 North Dearborn parkway. Miss Kathryn Wood is the newly elected president. On her staf are Miss Dorothy Mitchell and Miss Luise Barclay, vice presidents; Miss Elinor Underwood, secretary, and Miss Leona Hanning, treasurer.

5,000 CHICAGO IRISH EXPECTED TO ATTEND DEATH BENEFIT BALL

Michael M. Fee.

Five thousand Chicago residents of Irish descent are expected to attend the annual sick and death benefit ball and card party sponsored by the Chicago division No. 8 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America at 8 o'clock Saturday night in Belmont hall, Belmont avenue and Clark street.

Michael M. Fee, financial secretary and national director, is the general chairman. Assisting him are P. J. Flannery, Edward Mannion, Jeremiah J. Sullivan, John Treacey, and Thomas Joyce, president, vice president, recording secretary, treasurer, and counsel of division 8, respectively. The ladies' auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Mannion and Mrs. Joyce is coöperating.

All proceeds will be used to aid the sick, pay death benefits to widows of members, and do various types of mission work. The Chicago division of the organization will celebrate its 50th anniversary the night of the party. An award will be given to the largest Irish family in attendance

St. Paul's-by-the-Lake Plans for Mission Series

The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka, will act as missioner in a series of services opening next Sunday at St. Paul's-by-the-Lake church, 7100 North Ashland avenue. There will be evening services each night through Oct. 14. The schedule for daily services throughout the week is: 9:45 a. m., holy communion; 10:30 a. m., personal religion classes, and 3:30 p. m., children's service.

CHICAGO LOOMS AS A CENTER IN CHURCH MERGER

Rock River Conference Takes Up Idea.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The place to be occupied by Chicago in the new Methodist church resulting from the merger of three principal branches of the Methodist family, to be effected next April in Kansas City, will be uppermost in the minds of the members of the 99th annual session of the Rock river conference which opens Tuesday night at Chicago temple, 77 West Washington street.

Bishop Wadorf.

Three national agencies of the largest of the three merging churches are now located at 740 Rush street. These are the board of education, the board of pensions and relief, and a leading plant of the Methodist Book concern.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, who will preside at the conference, announced that strong pressure will be exerted at Kansas City to withdraw the board cf education from Chicago and place it nearer the Mason and Dixon line.

On the other hand, Bishop Waldorf said, there are movements toward bringing one more of the newly formed administrative boards to Chicago. Among well known pastors taking part in formal sessions beginning on Wednesday morning are the Rev. John M. Schneider of Albany Park, the Rev. Charles R. Goff of Rockford, Dr. Harris Franklin Rall of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston; the Rev. Albert B. Wagner of Neighborhood church, Maywood, and the Rev. Dr. Almer M. Pennewell of St. John's church.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer of New York, head of the board of foreign missions, an authority on the orient, will speak Wednesday night on the subject, "The War in China and the Christian Movement." Others taking part at the Wednesday missions rally are the Rev. Samuel Taylor of the Lamon Avenue church, and the choir of Cuyler Avenue Methodist church, Oak Park.

Following two weeks of observance of the 20th anniversary of the merger which formed the United Lutheran church of America, the sixty churches of this communion in Chicago will turn their attention to Baltimore, Md., where the biennial convention of the church will be held Oct. 5 to 12.

A major problem to come before the convention will be whether or not the church will become episcopal in form. That is to say, shall the church have bishops and an archbishop? It was announced that the plan would make the United Lutheran church conform with the great majority of Lutheran groups throughout the world.

In the event of such a move, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Knubel of New York, president of the church, would become archbishop and the heads of the thirty-one synods would be designated by the title of bishop. The Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng of Elgin, president of the Illinois synod, would become the United Lutheran bishop of the Illinois synod.

YOM KIPPUR DANCE OF EISENBERG CLUB TO AID SANITARIUM

More than 6,000 persons are expected to attend. Proceeds will go for the maintenance of the new medical center recently completed at the sanitarium. Members of the dance committee include Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Eisenberg and Sidney, Benjamin, and Genevieve Eisenberg, 6807 Sheridan road; Mr. and Mrs. Eisenberg, 1413½ Sherwin avenue; Ruth Hackner, 1219 Lunt avenue, and Gertrude Miller, 7631 Bosworth avenue.

Others include Molly Gordon, 1473 Winona avenue; Della and Marion Herschinow, 6817 Sheridan road; Bernard Sangerman, 5331 Kenmore avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sangerman, 1060 Glenlake avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Skolnik, 1101 Columbia avenue; Jack Kanter, 2100 Lincoln Park West; Harry Bolsom, 2100 Lincoln Park West; Mr. and Mrs. Max Waterman, 924 Agatite avenue, and Fay Caprow, 4020 Clarendon avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 3.

It is assumed that the garden is cleaned up, all withered plants removed, and arrangements made for fall planting of bulbs and other plants. The lawn will require little attention unless the grass makes a strong growth. If necessary, a high cutting may yet be given for it is not wise to allow a growth so heavy it will mat down and tend to smother out to remain over winter. After the ground freeze a new lawn may be protected by placing a light cover of strawy manure over it, but be careful not to bring in any weed seeds to germinate next spring.

Tuesday, Oct. 4.

The apartment house dweller is interested in house plants and this is the time when a start can be made with early chrysanthemums. Plants grown by the florist require attention each day for they have been grown under greenhouse conditions and taking them into the excessively dry atmosphere of the average room is likely to cause the flowers to wither soon unless they are watered daily. Examine the plants each morning and if the soil is dry, water thoroughly. Frequently the center of the ball of soil remains dry and the plant does not receive the moisture it should.

Wednesday, Oct. 5.

The propagation of plants should continue if a considerable number of plants are desired. It is always interesting to root cuttings. Select good, strong wood or stems, use a sharp knife to avoid ragged edges, and remove a portion of the foliage to prevent excessive evaporation. Unrooted cuttings soon wither, even though watered, if too much foliage is allowed to remain. Cuttings may be rooted in a small box of sand or sandy soil and covered with a pane of glass.

Thursday, Oct. 6.

Get the bulbs into the ground as early as possibie to avoid freezing weather. By a careful selection a tulip display can be enjoyed over a two month period. Use groups of the various bulbs in the perennial border for an early display, such as the grape hyacinth, scillas, and glory of the snow, followed by the early tulips. The range of color seems endless, the gardener having an opportunity to select kinds that are adapted for almost any location. Clean up the garden so that all places for insects to hibernate will be removed. Beds that are to be planted in spring should have an application of decayed manure spaded under. The soil then should remain in the rough until spring.

Friday, Oct. 7.

Do not plant any material too close or trouble will result later on when the plants develop. Low growing shrubs should be spaced from 2 to 3 feet, medium sized from 3 to 4 feet, and the stronger growers from 4 to 5 feet. Tall shrubs should not be planted in a location that requires a low growing kind. It is not wise to plant semi-hardy shrubs, even though they are beautiful, for they are bound to die or winter kill. Do not use too many kinds of shrubs or perennials in a border, but repeat the kinds occasionally, or a spotty appearance will result. Remove all movable accessories and store under cover before severe weather arrives.

Saturday, Oct. 8.

Stake all newly planted trees to prevent swaying during storms. Trees need little protection, but mulches of manure spread around their base and reaching out from the trunk under the outermost twigs will be beneficial. The trunks may be wrapped with burlap to prevent excessive evaporation. Leaning a board against the side of trunks exposed to the afternoon sun will offer protection against sun scald on thin barked trees. Peat moss is good mulching material on rock garden plants; oak leaves also are excellent if kept in place by wire or a sprinkling of soil.

ADROIT PLANNING GIVES COTTAGE A SPACIOUS AIR

Colonial Home Commands View of River.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Today's house is a small and very attractive Cape Cod home with colonial treatment throughout. Yet a very modern little home—and a good deal of house for the money. Its overall is 25 feet by 36 feet, its space 24.848 cubic feet, and its cost approximately $7,500.

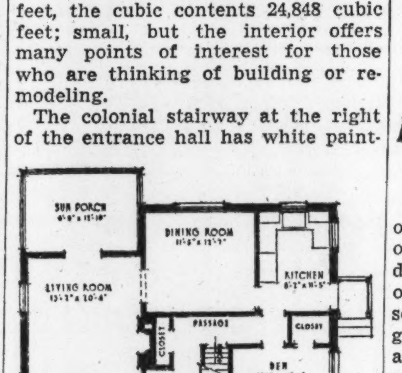
The owners are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Humphrey, and the house overlooks the Fox river in North Aurora. In designing the floor layout, the architect, F. C. Elwood of Batavia, kept in mind the Fox river view. The living room, which is some 13 by 20 feet, has French doors which open onto a large sun porch a stone's throw from the river bank. An excellent arrangement for warm weather and a means of increasing the apparent size of the living room.

The exterior walls are of concrete masonry units, stuccoed and painted white. Small paned wood sash windows and a wide, inviting doorway with brass lamps at each side carry out the colonial spirit.

Has Spacious Effect.

The inside has been carefully worked out to create a spacious effect and maintain the relative scale of furniture. The overall is 26 feet by 36 feet, the cubic contents 24,848 cubic feet; small, but the interior offers many points of interest for those who are thinking of building or remodeling.

The colonial stairway at the right of the entrance hall has white painted balusters and risers, and natural finished hardwood stairs leading to the second floor.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN

A particularly pleasant feature of this home is the study, or den, which is at the front of the house. Such a room can also be used as a child's or maid's room and its walls have been painted a deep cream, and the woodwork stained a deep brown.

White Venetian Blinds.

The living room walls and ceiling are a sand finished plaster, painted a light cream. The woodwork is oyster white, and the small paned windows are hung with white Venetian blinds. The red brick fireplace is set off with a white colonial wood mantel with modern colonial light fixtures at each side matching the center light. The floor, as in all the rooms except kitchen, bath, and sunroom, is of light finished hardwood laid on solid concrete.

A conveniently large kitchen [8'2"x 11'5"] carries out a cheerful red and white color scheme. Its entire east wall, with the exception of the window directly over the sink, is a compact arrangement of built-in cabinets, drawers, sink, and drainboards. The walls are of smooth finished plaster painted white, while work spaces on either side of sink, as well as floor, are of linoleum.

Darkroom in Basement.

A full basement has been utilized to its fullest capacity. A little out of the ordinary is a darkroom for photographic hobbyists. There is also a laundry with electric water heater and stationary laundry tubs, a furnace room with coal burning furnace, stoker-fired, and equipped for winter air conditioning; a fruit closet, and a two car garage. All hot air ducts are overhead and the registers are placed near the ceiling in all the rooms.

The two bedrooms on the second floor are almost identical in size and shape. Paint has been used for the walls; a delft blue in the master bedroom, with white woodwork, windows, and trim. In the guest bedroom the walls are painted a pale gray, and the trim, white. [Overall of the bedrooms: 13'4"x14', and 11'4"x14'.]

Linen Closet Near Bath.

For the bathroom walls a waterproof composition material has been used. Above the wainscoting it has been squared off to give a tiled effect. The second floor linen closet is directly across the hall from the bath.

Altogether a cozy, charming Cape Cod home, with the lure of the traditional and the practical, easy to live with the virtues of the modern.

Stamp Talk.

Gordon Smith of Winnetka will speak at the Evanston Philatelic society meeting tomorrow evening at the Nichols school on the 1912 issue of United States stamps.

Waller Color Guard

It's only the beginning of October, but Waller High school's R. O. T. C. unit is ready to march, and when it does its companies will be following a color guard composed of (left to right) Capt. Chris Walter Jr., First Lieutenant William Soto, First Lieutenant Robert Zurchauer, Second Lieutenant Alex Nerroth Jr., and Second Lieutenant James Sjoberg. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

122D ARTILLERY SONS OF LEGION TO INSTALL STAF

Ritual for New Squadron Is Next Sunday.

An outstanding event in the history of the Sons of the American Legion of Illinois will take place next Sunday afternoon when the first corps of officers of the 122d Feld Artillery squadron will be installed. The program will be held at 2 o'clock in the armory ballroom, 234 East Chicago avenue.

Ceremonies will be conducted by Detachment Commander Joseph R. Dorfman, his staf, and four official detachment squadrons. Participating will be the color guard and drill team of Yarmo-De Vere squadron; the escort and drum and bugle corps of Berwyn squadron; the installation ritual team of Forges squadron, and the emblem tableau team of Cicero squadron. Louis Shanfield, as sergeant at arms, will have Charles Barron and Irving Miller for his assistants.

Show Memorial Colors.

Colors which were dedicated by Commander Dorfman at Legion national headquarters in Indianapolis, in 1935 to the memory of the late Lieut. Gen. Milton J. Foreman and the late Capt. Joseph W. Mattes, will be on display.

The program is being presented under the direction of A. W. Calderwood, detachment liaison officer.

New Officers Named.

Officers to be presented for installation are John J. Spearing, captain; Robert J. Alver, first lieutenant; Carl W. Deitrich Jr., second lieutenant; Raymond Beato, finance officer; Leslie C. Bales, adjutant; John Nessler Jr., historian; Charles Williams, chaplain, and Peter Lang Jr., sergeant at arms.

Waukegan

New officers of the Crossed Sabers club and company promotions and appointments were announced last week in the Waukegan Township High school R. O. T. C. unit.

Club officers composed of cadet officers of the regiment, are First Lieutenant Lawrence Storms, president; First Lieutenant Carl Smith, vice president, and Capt. Edward Holmberg, secretary and treasurer.

Following is the list of officers and their new ranks:

Company B—Capt. Edward Holmberg, First Lieutenants Walter Andrews, Clinton McElroy, and Leo Kukla, Second Lieutenants Arnold Young and Lawrence Dockery.

Company D—Capt. Henry Eads, First Lieutenants George Vanderhei and Willard Tuttle, Second Lieutenants Robert Miller and Ernest Pollitt.

—Sullivan—

Eighteen promotions were announced last week by Sergt. Anthony Gristhus, military instructor of the Sullivan High school unit.

The cadets and their new ranks follow: Maj. James Hadden, Capt. Charles Rissman, Capt. Charles Manley, Capt. Irwin Mandel, Capt. Melvin Sterling, First Lieut. William Powers, First Lieut. Clarence Cohn, First Lieut. Gerald Weinstein, First Lieut. Robert Eskew, Second Lieut. Norton Hill, Second Lieut. Lawrence Michials, Second Lieut. Ira David, Second Lieut. Robert B. Lees and Second Lieut. Robert I. Hyman.

Staf officers include Capt. Arthur Vikander, adjutant; Second Lieut. John McConnel, supervising officer; Second Lieut. Einar Graff, range officer; and Second Lieut. James Montgomery, publicity officer.

CHICAGO R. O. T. C. RANKS FILLED IN RECORD TIME

7,002 in Uniform; 2,021 Others Signed.

BY PAUL HEALY.

Exceeding the most optimistic predictions, Chicago's allotment of uniformed cadets was filled during the first three weeks of school with the enrollment of 7,002 sophomores, juniors, and seniors, official figures from R. O. T. C. headquarters reveal.

The number is a surprise to Col. W. F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics in charge of the 27 public high school units. He did not expect Chicago to fill its increased quota until the second semester.

Leads the Nation.

Chicago now has 1,120 more cadets in uniform than it had at this time a year ago and approximately twice as many as has any other city in the nation this year. Two thousand twenty-one freshmen or nonuniformed cadets also are signed up, but their number was restricted in many schools because of the lack of facilities.

Lane Tech has the largest number in khaki with 901 enrolled. It is more than double the size of the Austin unit, which has 414. The next largest schools are Tilden, 405; Schurz, 385; Lindblom, 360; Lake View, 340; Fenger, 330, and Crane, 300. The largest number of freshmen are registered at Austin and Senn—154 each, followed by Bowen with 124.

Lake View Leads.

Of the 9,023 uniformed and nonuniformed cadets making up the total roster in the city's high schools, Lake View leads in percentage of its boys enrolled. At this north side school approximately one out of every three male students is in the R. O. T. C.

Lake View is closely followed, however, by Morgan Park with 31 per cent. The next highest are Amundsen with 28 per cent and Sullivan and Von Steuben, both 23 per cent.

N. U. Menorah Society.

Plans for the year's program of the Menorah society of Northwestern university are to be announced at the first fall meeting of the organization today at the Midland hotel, 172 West Adams street. Harold I. Blumenthal, newly elected president, will preside at the gathering.

There is something pleasing about being able to enter a funeral home and know that the treatment one will receive will be fair and square, that prices will be reasonable, and that the service itself will be all that one could desire.

The Drake & Son Funeral Home, 5200 N. Western Ave., Corner Foster Ave., has just such an enviable reputation. Since 1900 this firm has been in business, and during all that time has always held to the ideal of the best in services at satisfactory prices. Even a casual inspection of prices and merchandise in the display room bears this out.

CITY'S FORGOTTEN FLAG DESTINED FOR RENASCENCE

Boys' Club Unit to Receive Banner Tomorrow.

Chicago's own flag, which is practically unknown to most of the city's the Chicago 4,000,000 population, will be unfurled and presented tomorrow afternoon to 300 north side boys.

The flag, originally designed by Wallace Rice, writer, is to be donated to the Sheffield branch of Boys' Clubs by Mrs. Emil Rieger, 3746 Lakewood avenue. Ceremonies are to be held at the branch headquarters on the second floor of the Sheffield avenue police station, 2742 Sheffield avenue.

E. B. Lowell, club director, discovered recently that Wallace Rice, who resides at 2701 North Wilton avenue, was Chicago's masculine Betsy Ross. With a delegation of boys from the club he called upon Mr. Rice, who told them the story of the flag.

Adopted in 1917.

The emblem, with three white stripes and two blue ones and three red stars, was officially adopted by the city council in 1917. The flag sometimes flies in public on special civic occasions, but few know what it symbolizes.

The third star was added recently in commemoration of the Century of Progress. The other two stars are reminders of the world's fair of 1893 and the great Chicago fire in 1871. The stripes represent the boundaries and population of the city. Chicago's west, south, and north sides are shown by the white stripes. The color white is a combination of all colors, symbol of the city's mixture of all nationalities. The two blue stripes are the lake and river.

The flag to be given to the club tomorrow was made by Mrs. Rieger, a friend of the club members. Measuring five by three feet, the flag is attached to a ten foot staf. As the emblem is presented to the membership the club drum and bugle corps will play patriotic selections.

Boys on Committee.

Boys serving on the committee to receive the flag are John and Michael Logettuta, 537 Oak street; Matthew Dirso, 2722 Wilton avenue; Fred Woolf, 2666 Lincoln avenue; Brice Rodgers, 3041 Sheffield avenue; Jesse Carter, 908 Oakdale avenue; John and Charles Fyfe, 2771 Lincoln avenue; Martin and Joseph Zuchlag, 2723 Kenmore avenue; James and Robert Jones, 3117 Sheffield avenue; John Miller, 2029 Wolfram street; Marion Brouhn, 2755 Lincoln avenue; Phillip Rupp, 1037 Lill avenue; Frank Pfieffer, 1142 Schubert avenue, and James and Frank Malles, 1153 Diversey avenue.

MUSIC EDUCATOR CLUB TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY

A luncheon in the Blue room of the Auditorium hotel Saturday will feature the first meeting for the 1938-'39 season of the "In-and-About Chicago Music Educators club." An invitation to attend is extended to every one interested in better music.

The organization provides an opportunity for all supervisors, teachers, and friends of music to join in promoting music in the Chicagoland area, with particular emphasis on the public school music program.

Officers for the year are Avis T. Schreiber, district supervisor of music, Chicago, president; Blanche C. Thomas, supervisor of music, Elmhurst, vice president; Clara A. Klaus, supervisor of music, Niles Center, secretary, and Leroy A. Stark, director of instrumental music, Franklin Park, treasurer.

—Amundsen—

Temporary staf appointments have been made at Amundsen High school, where 300 cadets have been enrolled, a gain of about sixty over this time a year ago. Capt. Gerd Rogers, a member of the cadet corps staf consisting of the outstanding commissioned officers from Chicago public schools, is acting as commanding officer.

Tentative company heads are Company A, First Lieut. William Kernan; Company B, First Sergt. William Karls; Company C, First Lieut. Wilbur Schmid; Company E, First Lieut. Edward Wiegand, and Company D, Capt. Bert Hicks.

The Amundsen Drum and Bugle corps now includes sixty instruments and is believed to be the largest in the city.

SPUR LAGGARDS TO RAISE VOICE IN GOVERNMENT

Congress Nominees Cite Need for Registry.

war to seek political advancement through attempting to set different groups of our economic life one against the other.

"For centuries wars have been fought in Europe at short intervals with the purported purpose of protecting racial, religious or social customs or traditions. The result of these wars has been only to exhaust the people of Europe.

Duty to Stand Aloof.

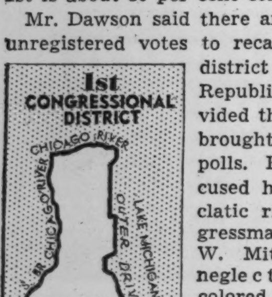
"The result of this chaos was a migration to the United States, where our wise forbears sought peace and the opportunity of individual expression. Here these same nationals, races, and creeds, who for centuries had been enemies in Europe, intermarried, lived amicably together, and developed our great American people.

"It is our duty as citizens to protect this peaceful country of ours and take a determined stand in our congress against legislation tending to foment racial or class hatreds, or cause us to enter into foreign disputes which are none of our business."

Plan Door to Door Canvass.

In the 1st district, which includes the loop, Ald. William L. Dawson [2d], the Republican nominee, last week ordered a door to door campaign to get more of his fellow Negroes on the registration lists. The 1st is about 80 per cent colored.

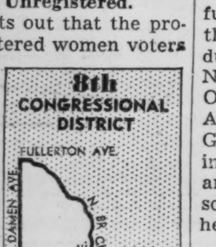
Mr. Dawson said there are enough unregistered votes to recapture the district for the Republicans, provided they can be brought to the polls. He has accused his Democlatic rival, Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell, of neglecting his colored constituents in order to play administration politics. Mr. Mitchell is the only Negro now sitting in congress.



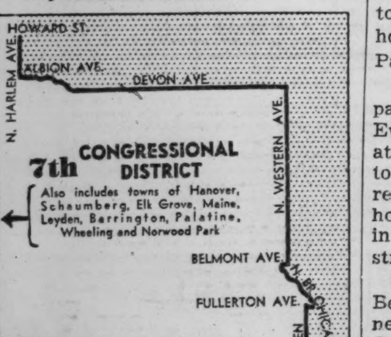
Mrs. Rena E. Pikiel, Republican nominee in the 8th district, where Representative Leo Kocialkowski is seeking his fifth term, is making special efforts to get a wider registration among the women of her congressional subdivision.

Says Women Unregistered.

Mrs. Pikiel points out that the proportion of unregistered women voters is higher than average in the district, which is made up largely of foreign language groups. Most of these unrecorded voters are dissatisfied with their present representation in congress, she declares.



James C. Moreland, the G. O. P. nominee in the 7th district, at his ward and precinct meetings is emphasizing the importance to Republicans of getting out the biggest possible vote next month. The first step in this effort, he points out, is to get the eligible voters to register if they have not done so.



Mr. Moreland is basing his early campaign on a better deal for labor. Conservatism in government will call frightened money from hiding and thus make jobs that will replace WPA, he contends.

Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz of the 7th has not yet started his active reëlection campaign.

Plays Lead in 'The Patsy'

A new north shore dramatic company, the Tower Players, is to make its debut Tuesday, Oct. 11, in the Sacred Heart school auditorium, Winnetka. The play, running two nights, will be "The Patsy" and the star Miss Hugh Ann Fowler. Mrs. L. W. Hayes organized the group and is the director. [Bloom Photo.]

LITTLE THEATERS OF NORTH SHORE SHAPE ACTIVITIES

Friml's "Firefly" Now in Rehersal.

Like the smoke wraiths that rise from the bonfires of Indian summer, definite outlines are beginning to form on the north metropolitan horizon in the haze of the little theaters' autumnal aspirations.

Emmet Lavery.

In Evanston, Friml's renascent "Firefly" is tunefully shaping as the opening production of the North Shore Opera players. Already G. Bunn Guest is rehersing the chorus and tryouts are soon to be held held for the leading parts.

Replete with such embellishments from the screen version as "The Donkey Serenade," the opera is to be given under Howard Tooley's direction the third week-end in November in the Orrington school auditorium.

Workrooms Busy.

Paint brushes, saws, and hammers have been having a busy week of it in the old Birchwood Country clubhouse at 1207 Chase avenue, where the theater and workrooms of The Playshop are to be housed. Director George Speyer and his troupe are holding open house for the Rogers Park community today.

The Repertory group also has a party in prospect. As its guests, Kay Ewing and the entire Group theater's "Golden Boy" company are to see themselves burlesqued in a revue, "Goldet's Boy," from their hosts' playwriting studio Friday night in Repertory theater, 29 East Balbo street.

The Masque players, with Peter J. Benda Jr. directing, begin rehersing next Tuesday in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, for a December presentation of Walter Hackett's comedy, "Captain Applejack."

Catholics Meet Sunday.

But of all the city's amateur playhouses it is the Loyola Community theater at Loyola and Lakewood avenues which commands the widest immediate interest. There, where the National Catholic Theater conference was organized in the summer of 1937, drama groups from universities, colleges, high schools, and parishes of the city and neighboring towns will assemble next Sunday for the first Chicago Catholic theater conference.

Emmet Lavery of "First Legion" fame is coming from New York to act as chairman. Mr. Lavery, who now is head of the play department of the national service bureau of the federal theater, suggested the organization of the National Catholic Theater conference and has been a leader in the movement.

The play unit of the Loyola theater, which is directed by William F. Madden, has selected for its opening production "Ah, Wilderness," Eugene O'Neill's classic comedy of American family life in the first decade of the century.

"Ah, Wilderness," with John J. Hennessy in the rôle of the small town editor, will be given Monday and Tuesday nights, Oct. 17 and 18.

REGISTRATION, VOTE IN NORTH SIDE WARDS

Ward	Population	Registration	Democratic primary vote	Republican primary vote
1	39,312	13,543	7,806	1,720
42	64,548	26,793	14,728	3,057
43	59,976	24,751	12,915	3,400
44	71,568	32,450	15,737	3,955
45	69,372	33,733	17,200	3,630
46	69,984	35,778	16,979	4,983
47	77,724	40,880	18,082	6,274
48	76,752	41,820	20,308	5,585
49	80,352	44,945	22,275	7,101
50	74,700	38,884	17,389	5,658

The above table shows the number of registered persons in many north side wards is less than half of the population. The population figure is based on an extension of the 1930 census. Although the population given includes minors, who are ineligible to vote, Republican leaders maintain there are thousands of persons in those wards who are eligible and should register.

GLENVIEW RALLY ON PROGRAM FOR P.-T. DISTRICT 21

Conference of Association Leaders Tomorrow.

Le Moyne association will meet Friday afternoon at the school. A talk by Dr. Russell F. Dudman will precede the social hour when members of the faculty will be greeted by the association.

Dr. Paul A. Witty of Northwestern university will speak on "The Gifted Child" at the meeting of McPherson unit at 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Heads Benefit Party

As chairman of Circle 11, Mrs. Walter Wimmermark is in charge of a luncheon, radio broadcast, and bridge party her group is giving for the benefit of the women's association of the Edgewater Presbyterian church tomorrow at the Home Arts guild, 205 North Michigan avenue. Her committee includes Mrs. Jack Waddell, Mrs. Donald Hunsaker, Mrs. Walter Gottfred, and Mrs. Philip C. Platt.

TEMPLE SHOLOM SISTERHOOD IN GOOD WILL MEET

First Assembly Is Set for Tomorrow.

The classic gray walls of Frankenstein memorial center at 3480 Lake Shore drive will assume tomorrow afternoon, with the opening assembly of the Sisterhood of Temple Sholom, the aspect of a fortress of peace overlooking a world panorama. It is a good will congress that Mrs. Samuel Schwartz and her organization have planned for their first session and to it have been invited representatives of all the affiliated groups of the Chicago round table to hear the director of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, Dr. Everett R. Clinchy of New York.

Dr. Everett R. Clinchy

An invitation to attend has been extended to all women interested in the causes espoused by the Jews-Christians conference.

Dr. Clinchy was in Vienna at the time of Hitler's annexation of Austria. He is the author of "All in the Name of God." Since 1927 the clergyman has been secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Previously he was pastor of the Church of Christ at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn.

Among special guests at tomorrow's meeting will be Dr. James Yard, executive secretary of the Chicago round table of Jews and Christians, and Dr. Louis Binstock, rabbi at Temple Sholom.

The sisterhood enters upon the new season with a staf composed of Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Edwin Mautner, Mrs. Henry Monheimer, Mrs. Irving E. Hollowbow, and Mrs. A. James Riffkind, first, second, third, and fourth vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Harry Levy, Mrs. J. R. Sensibar, and Mrs. Max A. Stine, corresponding, financial and recording secretaries, and Mrs. Louis B. Hoffing, treasurer.

Sisterhood B'nai Zion.

A season directed to cultural and philanthropic interests will open tomorrow afternoon for the Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Zion in the temple at 1447 Pratt boulevard. The program, arranged by Mrs. Jack M. Cohen, will include a piano group by Sybil Goldberg, who made her debut last winter in Town hall, New York, and Dr. Moses Zalesky, who will give an illustrated lecture on Mexico.

North Shore Israel.

Members and friends of the Sisterhood of North Shore Congregation Israel will meet at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow in the lounge of the Glencoe temple for the first of the play reading group's cycle of programs by Ann Birk Kuper.

TRAIN SCHEDULES OFFER PUZZLES TO COMMUTERS

Time, Distance Seemingly in Conflict.

Time and distance, as every schoolboy knows, are mathematical twins but to most north and northwest suburban commuters time and distance aren't even second cousins.

A survey conducted last week on the subject of riding time of suburbanites from various points around the city revealed some startling comparisons.

Waukegan, which on the map is thirty-five miles away from Chicago, in reality is only two minutes closer to the city than Milwaukee, which is eighty-five miles from the loop.

Gain for Elgin.

Elgin residents, thirty-five miles from the loop, who ride in on what railroaders call "hot shot" trains, are ten minutes closer to the city than those living in Rondout, which is only thirty-two miles away.

Citizens, in many cases, who reside in a twenty to thirty mile radius from the city and ride on local trains, take more time to commute than those living twice the distance with access to express service.

Some of the fast trains, the Hiawatha on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, and the "400" on the Chicago and North Western, run without a stop from Milwaukee to the loop in less than seventy-five minutes, about the same time it takes a local from Crystal Lake to the city, half the distance.

Local trains from Rondout to Chicago need one hour to make the thirty-two miles, but express trains from Deerfield to the city, some twenty miles, make it in thirty-six minutes. The time for Deerfield express trains to Western avenue, three miles from the Union station, is only twenty-four minutes.

Slower Near Loop.

Although a distance of only three miles, it takes from ten to fifteen minutes to go from the Western avenue station on the Milwaukee road to the loop. This is a factor that slows suburban travel considerably, the survey shows. These last three miles are a maze of tracks, crossing and crisscrossing like a $100,000 contest puzzle.

Even the fast trains that come from Elgin to Western avenue without a stop take from ten to twelve minutes to travel the three miles.

Why is it possible for Milwaukee residents to get to the city as fast as those living in Waukegan? Railroad men have several answers, but the chief one is frequent stops, they say.

PADEREWSKI ON AIR IS A RELIEF FROM WAR TALK

Pianist Heard First Time by U. S. Listeners.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Amid the stentorian blasts of war that have pounded from Europe around the world these days there has been one welcome note of relief. This came from the piano of the great artist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, in other days the Polish statesman.

The magic of Paderewski was heard for the first time by millions of Americans on his recent guest appearance on the Magic Key program. Possibly he was heard in this broadcast, which was transmitted round the whole world, by more listeners than saw him perform during his fifty years on the concert stage.

It was the aged pianist's first broadcast for the western hemisphere. He had made one appearance in England before the microphone thirteen years ago. It was a great disappointment to him. And he had gone on record that he would not face the microphone again. It was his impression that radio does not do justice to the piano. Once he had a good case for argument. But from the technical standpoint radio has been so vastly improved that there can be no comparison with the transmissions of today and those of even a few years back.

Heard with Great Clarity.

By now Paderewski knows that his recent radio concert, even though transmitted by short wave from Lausanne, Switzerland, and then rebroadcast by NBC in the United States, reached the ears of America with amazing fidelity. Beyond any doubt it was the clearest and the finest short wave transmission we have heard. Tuned in even on an automobile receiver as we bowled along on a September afternoon, the broadcast was comparable in clarity to the best in local studio transmissions. Even the meteorological gods smiled on Paderewski's radio concert, something they have not always done lately when the lords of war stepped to the microphone.

Atmospherics Cause Cancellation.

Several times the last week scheduled transmissions from the capitals of Europe were canceled because of atmospheric disturbances.

Nevertheless, a greater number of hours of European transmission were aired the last fortnight than during any previous time in radio's history. Hitler was on the air three times in recent weeks; Prime Minister Chamberlain several times, and commentators of every hue and stripe have been cutting in regularly on scheduled programs. Symphonies, comedy programs, and all star revues have been punctured again and again by the staccato bulletins from press radio and city desks.

London Newscasts Extended.

The major networks have been presenting many specially arranged broadcasts from Europe. WBBM-CBS is putting on a 2 a. m. European news roundup nightly.

European broadcasting systems have been devoting more time to bulletins and commentaries, some of which American listeners are hearing by short wave. London news periods, which previously ran twenty minutes, have been extended to a half hour. England's evening newscasts for American listeners are aired at 6:40 and 9:30 o'clock, Chicago time. A morning report is also available at 10 a. m.

To facilitate the circulation of British radio bulletins throughout the world, London news, until recently heavily copyrighted, may now be rebroadcast by British empire stations.

Czechoslovakia has been extending its radio news service, too. Using the 11:84 megacycle band, Prague has been heard frequently recently. On Saturday night there are news transmissions at 5:45 p. m., 7:55 p. m., and at 6 p. m. on Sundays.

Edward Simmons Leaves W-G-N for Agency Post

Edward Simmons of the W-G-N production department has resigned to join the Wade Advertising agency. While with W-G-N Simmons produced "Painted Dreams," "Melodies from the Sky," and wrote and produced "Your Sunday Date," and assisted with other dramatic shows. Before joining W-G-N Simmons was program director at WAAF for five and a half years.

'I Need a Job' to Be Aired on W-G-N Fridays

"I Need a Job," an interview program presenting problems of unemployment by persons out of work, will be broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Friday's on W-G-N. Virginia Lee and Verne Smith will conduct the show, interviewing unemployed people and giving them an opportunity to tell of their experience, qualifications, and ambitions.

Teaching a Dog Tricks Becker's Trick Today

Teaching your dog new tricks will be the theme of Bob Becker in his Chats About Dogs program at 1:15 p. m. over W-G-N. Becker maintains that with patience on your part, and obedience on the part of your dog there is no reason why almost any dog cannot acquire an amusing routine of tricks.

Steele to Give European Comments on Wednesday

John Steele, the Mutual Broadcasting system's foreign representative, and one of the ablest of European observers, will be heard in a series of commentaries over W-G-N and the coast to coast network. Mr. Steele will speak on alternate Wednesdays, beginning Oct. 19, from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m.

Fred MacMurray to Be Guest on Aviation Show

Fred MacMurray, young Paramount star, will make a personal appearance on the W-G-N-Mutual aviation serial, "Men with Wings," from 12:30 to 1 p. m. today. MacMurray will enact the rôle of an early day aviation figure.

'Integrity' to Be Theme of Midday Service

"Integrity" will be the theme of the Midday Service series this week over W-G-N. The Midday Service program, directed by Dr. John L. Dickson, is broadcast from the W-G-N studios each weekday at 12:35 p. m.

AIR 'LOHENGRIN' IN STREAMLINE FORM TOMORROW

W-G-N All-Star Cast to Be Featured.

An all-star cast will present the streamlined version of Wagner's "Lohengrin," over W-G-N and the Mutual network from the W-G-N audience studio from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N staf tenor, will sing the part of Lohengrin. In the rôle of Elsa will be Kathryn Witwer, soprano, of the W-G-N staf and a member of the Chicago City opera. The other principals are Margery Mayer, contralto, who will be heard as Ortrud, and Mark Love, basso, who will sing in the rôle of the king.

Because of the archaic nature of the opera with its setting in the past and its theme of fantasy, it will be kept as intact and close to the original version as possible, Henry Weber, W-G-N musical director, who is in charge, has announced. Since the old language and the story do not lend themselves to drastic "streamlining," Mr. Weber said that a narrator will be used to tell the story to preserve the essential dramatic effect.

Louis Jacobson of the W-G-N production department, and Francis Coughlin, W-G-N continuity writer, collaborated on the English script. The musical background and accompaniment will be provided by the W-G-N concert orchestra.

The Concert Revue, under the direction of Henry Weber, at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, will feature the singing of Mark Love, Miss Mayer, contralto, and William Miller, tenor. The program will be presented from the audience studio. Because of a schedule change the show programmed for Sept. 29 will be heard.

LOTTE LEHMANN, FRED STONE ON MAGIC KEY HOUR

Fred Stone, beloved veteran of the American stage who is currently staging a Broadway success in a revival of the famous comedy, "Lightnin'," and Lotte Lehmann, celebrated Viennese soprano, will share top billing during the Magic Key of RCA broadcast at 1 p. m. over WENR-NBC.

Also on the program will be Sabu, youthful East Indian star of the motion picture, "Elephant Boy," whose latest film, "Drums," is soon to be released throughout the country; Clifton Fadiman, widely known as referee of the weekly Information Please program, who will again be master of ceremonies for the program, and Oscar Levant, distinguished pianist and composer, who will honor a close friendship with George Gershwin by a rendition of the late composer's "Concerto in F."

Frank Black and the Magic Key orchestra will hold their accustomed position on the program and will also accompany Levant in his piano interpretation of Gershwin.

'CURTAIN TIME' MOVES TO 9 P. M. SPOT ON FRIDAYS

Curtain Time, aired Friday nights over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, moves to a new hour next Friday, 9 to 9:30 p. m. The play scheduled is "Blind Landing," depicting the heroism of modern aviation.

Spencer Bentley plays the rôle of Hap Martin, a daredevil pilot of the old school, who conquers his pride and resentment against modern flying regulations to save a huge flying transport.

The part of Dot Mayberry, an air stewardess, is played by Kay Campbell. "Blind Landing" was written by Sidney Marshall and is directed by Blair Walliser of the W-G-N production department.

Northerners to Present Maud Muller Tuesday

The Northerners will present Maud Muller, contralto, as guest soloist from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday over W-G-N in the audience studio. Miss Muller will sing a solo of "You Are Free," from the musical comedy "Apple Blossoms." The Northerners octet will present "Let All My Life Be Music," "Mighty Lak a Rose," "Because," and "When Mother Nature Sings Her Lullaby."

Crosby Hops Bandwagon.

One of America's leading exponents of swing—Bob Crosby and his orchestra—will be riding the Bandwagon at 6:30 p. m. over WMAQ-NBC.

In "Curtain Time"

[Seymour Photo.]

Kay Campbell, who is to play the feminine lead in "Blind Landing," an aviation play to be presented on Curtain Time over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m. Friday. Miss Campbell plays the part of an air line stewardess. Ed Prentiss will play the male lead.

JAN PEERCE TO BE GUEST SOLOIST WITH GOLDBERGS TUESDAY

Jan Peerce, radio and operatic star, will sing "Kol Nidre," the ancient prayer of the Hebrew race, on the eve of the annual observation of the Day of Atonement during the broadcast of the dramatic serial, "The Goldbergs," over WBBM at noon Tuesday.

Gertrude Berg.

The story, written by Mrs. Gertrude Berg, who also plays the stellar rôle, that of Molly Goldberg, deals with typical incidents in the lives of a family from New York's lower east side.

CANOVA TRIO WILL REPLACE STROUD TWINS

Alice Faye will be a guest of the Charley McCarthy hour over WMAQ at 7 p. m., during which the hillbilly Canovas, Judy and her sister and brother, Annie and Zeke, make their bow as regular members of the cast.

Miss Faye will appear in a drama with Don Ameche and in a duet with McCarthy. Nelson Eddy, baritone star, and Dorothy Lamour will be heard with Robert Armbruster's orchestra in several solos.

The Canovas succeed the Stroud twins, Clarence and Claude, who had been with the program for almost a year. Backwoods dialect and mountain music are the Canovas' stock in trade. In addition, Judy sings, Annie plays the piano, and Zeke the guitar. The trio made their radio debut on Rudy Vallee's program in 1933.

BERNIE, BENNY TO START NEW AIR SERIES TODAY

Charles Boyer to Headline Hollywood Show.

Among the new and returning programs today are these:

Ben Bernie's new broadcast series opens on WBBM-CBS at 4:30 p. m. today. With him will be featured Col. Manny Prager, Bobby Gibson, Mary Small, and Lew Lehr, murderer of the king's English.

Jack Benny and company will be back on WMAQ-NBC at 6 p. m. The Benny gang includes Mary Livingstone, Kenny Baker, Don Wilson, and Phil Harris' orchestra.

The Silver theater opens on WBBM-CBS with Frederic March as the headliner in Trie Boardman's "Stronger than Steel."

Smoke Dreams, featuring the Dreamer, with Virginio Marucci's music will be heard over WENR-NBC at 2 p. m.

The Hollywood Playhouse series comes back tonight, too. Charles Boyer will be featured on this series for several weeks. Program starts at 8 p. m. over WENR-NBC and "Algiers" is the play for tonight.

The Chicago Sunday Evening club services again will be a feature of WIND, starting at 8:30 tonight. The speaker for the first broadcast will be Dr. Robert E. Speer of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Portsmouth Male Chorus on Steelmakers' Hour

The Male Chorus of the Portsmouth works of the Wheeling Steel corporation will be presented on the Musical Steelmakers hour aired from coast to coast over W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 tonight. Singing under the direction of Plant Storekeeper Harold Welch, the melodic workmen will sing "Stout Hearted Men."

Cast Is Chosen for 'Fortunes of Emily'

A permanent cast has been selected for the serial drama "Fortunes of Emily," broadcast at 9:15 a. m. on Mondays on Betty Crocker Time over W-G-N. The cast includes Olan Soule, Eloise Kummer, and Bob Bailey. Louis Jacobson of the W-G-N production department is directing the show.

Fashion Leader

Lucille Wall, headliner of Your Family and Mine (WMAQ, 4:15 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday) is one of the fashion leaders in radio circles.

TEXAS RANGERS GUESTS TODAY OF HORACE HEIDT

Tex Owens, cowboy singer featured with his own band, the Texas Rangers, will be guest on Horace Heidt's program over WMAQ-NBC at 9 tonight. The broadcast will originate at Kansas City.

The nine most popular current dance tempos will be featured, including "Mr. Sweeney Goes to Town," "Tales of Vienna Woods," "La Cumpersita," "The Charleston," "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," "Clarinet Polka," "Pocketful of Dreams," "The Chicken Reel," and "The Lambeth Walk."

'America Looks at Europe' to Be N. U. Hour Topic

"America Looks at Europe," is the subject of the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand, to be aired at 10:15 a. m. today on W-G-N. The participants are A. R. Hatton, chairman of the department of political science and Ernest H. Hahne, professor of economics at Northwestern university.

DICK TRACY
WHAT GETS ME, PAT, IS THE FACT THAT NO ONE COMES TO, OR LEAVES THE PLACE, EXCEPT BY PLANE - AND AT THAT WE HAVE SEEN BUT TWO PERSONS IN A WEEK.
AND THERE MUST BE A FORCE OF MEN IN THERE. THE CHIMNEYS ARE SMOKING, LIGHTS SHOW FROM THE WINDOWS.
SOMETHING ABOUT THE WHOLE THING REMINDS ME OF A PRISON! - MEN HELD IN CAPTIVITY!
SAY. THERE'S GOING TO BE THE DICKENS TO PAY SOON. A NASTY STORM IS BREAKING.
YES - WE MUST GET BACK TO TOWN BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE - SAY! WHAT'S THAT?
LOOK! A PLANE'S COMING IN TO LAND ON THEIR FIELD!
IN SPITE OF THE STORM - LET'S GET CLOSER TO THAT FIELD AND WATCH.
MEANWHILE LET US LOOK WITHIN THE WALLS OF THE HUGE BUILDING.
YES, SHE TRIED TO KILL ME - BUT SHE FAILED! SHE WAS JEALOUS. JEALOUS OF THAT BLONDE BOVANIAN AGENT I'VE BEEN DEALING WITH LATELY.
BUT, KARPSE, SHE EVEN THREATENED TO TIP OFF THE AUTHORITIES TO OUR WHOLE SET UP!
SHE WOULDN'T DARE! NEVER! NEVER!
TOO MANY GOVERMENTS ARE LOOKING FOR HER SCALP! TO TURN US IN WOULD BE TO END HER OWN CAREER - AND SHE KNOWS IT. SHE'LL BE BACK TO ME ON HER KNEES. WATCH AND SEE.
SAY! WHAT WAS THAT? IS 32 FLYING IN TONIGHT?
NOT WITH THIS STORM ON! HE'D BE A FOOL. THAT NOISE IS THUNDER.
IT'S A TRANSPORT PLANE, PAT, AND IT SEEMS TO BE HEAVILY LOADED!
DICK, HE'S HAVING A HARD TIME! MAYBE THE STORM - GREAT CAESAR! HE'S GOING TO CRACK UP!
EVIDENTLY THE PEOPLE IN THE BUILDING DIDN'T EXPECT THE PLANE IN THIS STORM - THERE'S NO ONE ON THE FIELD.

2,000 PRIZES

TOTALING $$10{,}000$

JUST FOR FINISHING THIS SIMPLE STATEMENT:

"I Take OVALTINE as a Regular NIGHTCAP, because"...

(IN 100 WORDS OR LESS)

1ST PRIZE $$5{,}000^{00}$

2nd Prize $$1000^{00}$, 3rd Prize $$500^{00}$
2 Prizes of $$250^{00}$ each
5 Prizes of $$100^{00}$ each, 10 of $$25^{00}$
30 of $$10^{00}$, 1950 of $$1^{00}$
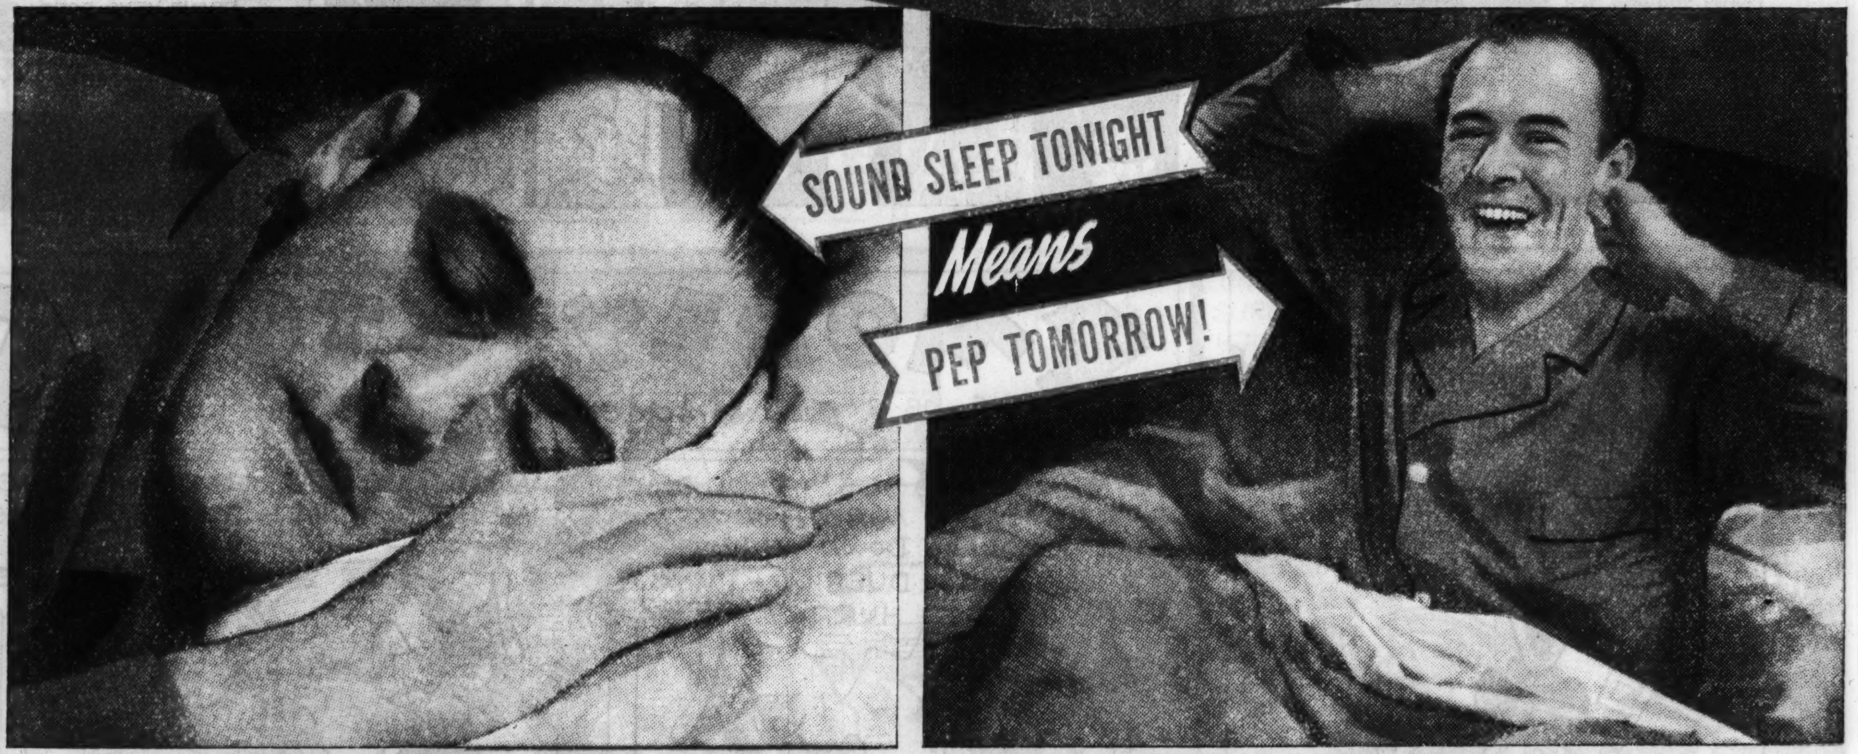
(2000 prizes in all)

Anybody can enter this Contest, and Everybody has a chance to Win!

PURPOSE:

to induce you to try Ovaltine as a Regular aid to Sound Sleep —without Drugs

(ENTRY BLANK AT RIGHT, BELOW)



OVALTINE is a food, not a drug. That is why it nourishes you while you sleep. It supplies four important vitamins (A, B, D, G), minerals, proteins . . . is approved by doctors and used by 1700 hospitals in this country alone. . . . A cupful of Ovaltine at bedtime helps you relax. It makes it possible for you to get to sleep more easily. It fosters a sound night's sleep, too, so you wake up more refreshed. . . . Form the practice of Ovaltine-at-bedtime. Enjoy restful nights and peppy days.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS IN PRIZES! A first prize of $5000; 2nd prize of $1000; 3rd prize, $500; 2 prizes of $250 each, 5 of $100, 10 of $25, 30 of $10, 1950 of $1 each . . . 2000 prizes in all.

And best of all, anyone has a chance to win!

All you do is finish, in 100 words or less, the simple statement—"I take Ovaltine as a regular 'Nightcap', because . . . . . . "

You have just as much chance of winning the grand prize of $5000 as anyone else! So enter the contest today.

As you probably know, people all over the world are using Ovaltine to help them get to sleep at night. Thousands have told us that it usually works the very first night. They say, that they feel the benefits of a good night's sleep immediately the following morning.

But Ovaltine does something vastly more vital than that. When it is taken night after night, users tell us that it helps to build the habit of sound, restful, refreshing sleep!

Nothing is more important than this—To know that tonight, and every night, when you go to bed that you will probably get a good solid night's sleep—not the "dopey" kind you may get from many habit-forming sleep drugs.—But natural, restoring sleep that makes you feel rested in the morning. We know that Ovaltine helps to build this natural sleep habit.

Thousands take Ovaltine night after night for sleep insurance—Very much as they take a glass of orange juice daily for certain vitamin protection.

And so for the sake of sound sleep and good health, as well as for the prizes involved, we urge you to enter this contest.

Just get a can of Ovaltine today and take it regularly every night. Mix up a nightcap tonight—and tomorrow night—and the night after that. Take it for several weeks and see if it doesn't benefit you.

See if you don't sleep better. See if you don't wake up more refreshed, with lots more energy and vitality for the day's work. See if it doesn't help you build the habit of sound, restful sleep.

Then fill out the statement below describing your experience with, or opinion of, Ovaltine as a "nightcap."

Decide right now to enter the contest, whether you're an Ovaltine user at present or not. Get a can at any grocery or drug store. Directions are on the can. And be sure you save the rules for the contest which are printed in this advertisement.

THE GRAND PRIZE OF $5000.00 MAY BE YOURS!

Examples of the Types of Letters people often Write:—

"For two years I'd been overworking and would go to bed so nervous I couldn't sleep," says R. W. Duck, Houston, Tex. "Three months ago I started using Ovaltine. . . . Since then I've been getting real rest and wake up in the morning feeling healthy." (38 words)

"My husband lay awake each night," writes Mrs. Elmer Krueger, Milwaukee, Wis. "One of the doctor's suggestions was Ovaltine. My husband is more than pleased with the results. Now he drinks it every night." (28 words)

"I take Ovaltine each night before retiring in order to insure sound, restful sleep," writes Mrs. Janet MacManigill, Chicago. "I first tried sleeping tablets, but they did not give the kind of sleep I liked. I am grateful to Ovaltine and shall never be without it. It is certainly a wonderful product." (47 words)

The World's Nightcap— NO DRUGS!

Follow these Simple RULES:—

1 Just finish the statement shown in the entry blank, recording your experience with, or opinion of, Ovaltine as a "nightcap." You may use as many sentences as you like, provided you do not exceed 100 words.

2 Attach a foil seal from under the lid of a can of Ovaltine (either plain or chocolate flavored). You may send as many entries as you like provided you attach a seal to each.

3 Mail your entry to OVALTINE, Dept. X-13, Box "P", Chicago, Ill. . . . Write your name and address plainly.

4 All entries must be postmarked before midnight, Dec. 15, 1938.

5 No entries can be returned. They will become our property. But none will, of course, be used for advertising without your permission.

6 The decision of the judges will be final. In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded. The judges' decision will be based on the obvious sincerity and human interest of the entries. This gives everyone a chance to win!

7 This contest is limited to the U. S. and Canada and is subject to all national, state and local laws and regulations. Employes of The Wander Company, their advertising agency, and members of their families cannot compete.

8 Winners will be notified as promptly as possible by mail. A complete list of winners will be mailed to anyone requesting it after Dec. 31, 1938, provided a 3c stamp is enclosed.

HINTS ON WINNING

You don't have to be an accomplished writer to win this contest. But it's important that your entry be based on your personal experience. So get a can of Ovaltine today, study the directions and pamphlets in the can, and start using it. Let your entry record your experience or your opinion of Ovaltine as a "nightcap."

ACE FRUSTRATED GUDGE'S PLAN TO HAVE JACK MURDERED IN HIS OFFICE--- HOW? BY GIVING GUDGE A BETTER PLAN-TONIGHT JACK IS SCHEDULED TO TAKE A HALF MILLION DOLLAR LOAD OVER THE RIDGE---- BUT THANKS TO THE KNOCK-OUT DROPS ACE PUT IN HIS COFFEE, JACK SLEEPS----- WHILE ACE, ALONE, DRIVES SLOWLY UP THE GRADE---
OW-W-- I MUST HAVE FALLEN ASLEEP- ACE-- WHERE'S ACE? OW-W-- MY HEAD-- DIZZY--- WHAT TIME IS IT? THE TRUCK--- GOT TO START---
HEY-- THE TRUCK-- IT WAS RIGHT HERE- I'VE GOT TO TAKE IT THROUGH--- QUICK- SOME ONE MOVED IT- WHERE IS IT?
WHY, IT WENT OUT TWO HOURS AGO-
SURE- ACE SAID HE WAS TAKING IT THROUGH-
ACE? HE TOOK IT OUT? GREAT SCOTT! TWO HOURS AGO--- HE'S NEARLY TO THE RIDGE BY NOW--- NOW I GET IT-- I WAS DRUGGED-- WHY, THAT-----!!!!!
CHEE, LOOK AT JACK GO- TOOK THAT CORNER BETTER'N SIXTY-
WHEN HE CATCHES THAT TRUCK I BET HE STRAIGHTENS ACE OUT-
HE'LL BE DOIN' EIGHTY WHEN HE STRAIGHTENS 'ER OUT-
SOMETHIN' FUNNY 'BOUT THIS WHOLE BUSINESS-
IT WAS THE ONLY WAY- THEY'D HAVE KILLED JACK, BUT INSTEAD THEY'LL THINK JACK IS DRIVING THIS TRUCK- AH--- THEY'LL BE DUE ALONGSIDE ANY MINUTE--- THAT MIGHT BE THEIR LIGHTS NOW---
ALL SET- THIS IS TH' PLACE- ALONGSIDE- JACK WON'T BE EXPECTIN' NOTHIN'- POUR IN ABOUT FIFTY SLUGS- MAKE SURE- THEN ON OUR WAY-
O.K.- HERE WE GO-
DIS'LL BE A CINCH-
AH-H-H--- JACK'S TRUCK WILL REACH THE TOP OF THE GRADE ANY MINUTE NOW, AND START DOWN--- THE BOYS WILL BE PULLING ALONGSIDE ABOUT NOW--- TAT-A-TAT-TAT- CRASH--- ALL OVER-----
HA! HA! HA! DIRECT ACTION- NO MAUDLIN SENTIMENT- THAT'S WHY I ALWAYS WIN--- FIRST, THAT FOOL CAPTAIN ALDEN- NOW JACK--- AH, AND VERY SOON MY CHISELING FRIEND, ACE- TWELVE O'CLOCK--- HE'LL BE WAITING FOR ME BY THE OLD WELL--- HA! HA! HA!
ACE WENT OUT WITH THE TRUCK? YOU DON'T SAY! AND JACK FOLLOWED IN HIS ROADSTER? SOME MIXUP, PERHAPS- OH, WELL- NOTHING WE CAN DO- MIGHT AS WELL TURN IN-
YES- BUT I SURE WISH I KNEW JUST WHAT'S GOIN' ON-HM-M-- THERE SHE GOES, OFF TO DREAM-LAND- WITH ACE AWAY, SHE DOESN'T FIGURE THERE'LL BE ANY RENDEZVOUS BY THE OLD WELL TONIGHT- IT'S BETTER THAT WAY-
HAROLD GRAY
BUT GUDGE DOESN'T KNOW THAT ACE DROVE THAT TRUCK- GUDGE WILL BE WAITING FOR HIM IN THE ORCHARD- TCH-TCH-- HE'LL BE LONESOME THERE ALONE--- HM-M--- SOME ONE SHOULD GO AND KEEP HIM COMPANY-

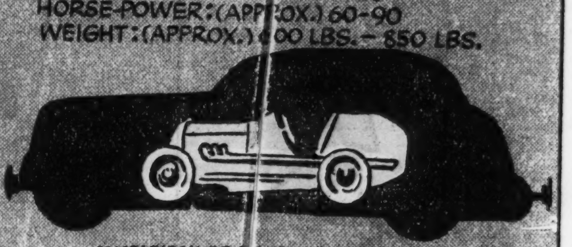
BUCKING BRONCHOS on WHEELS!

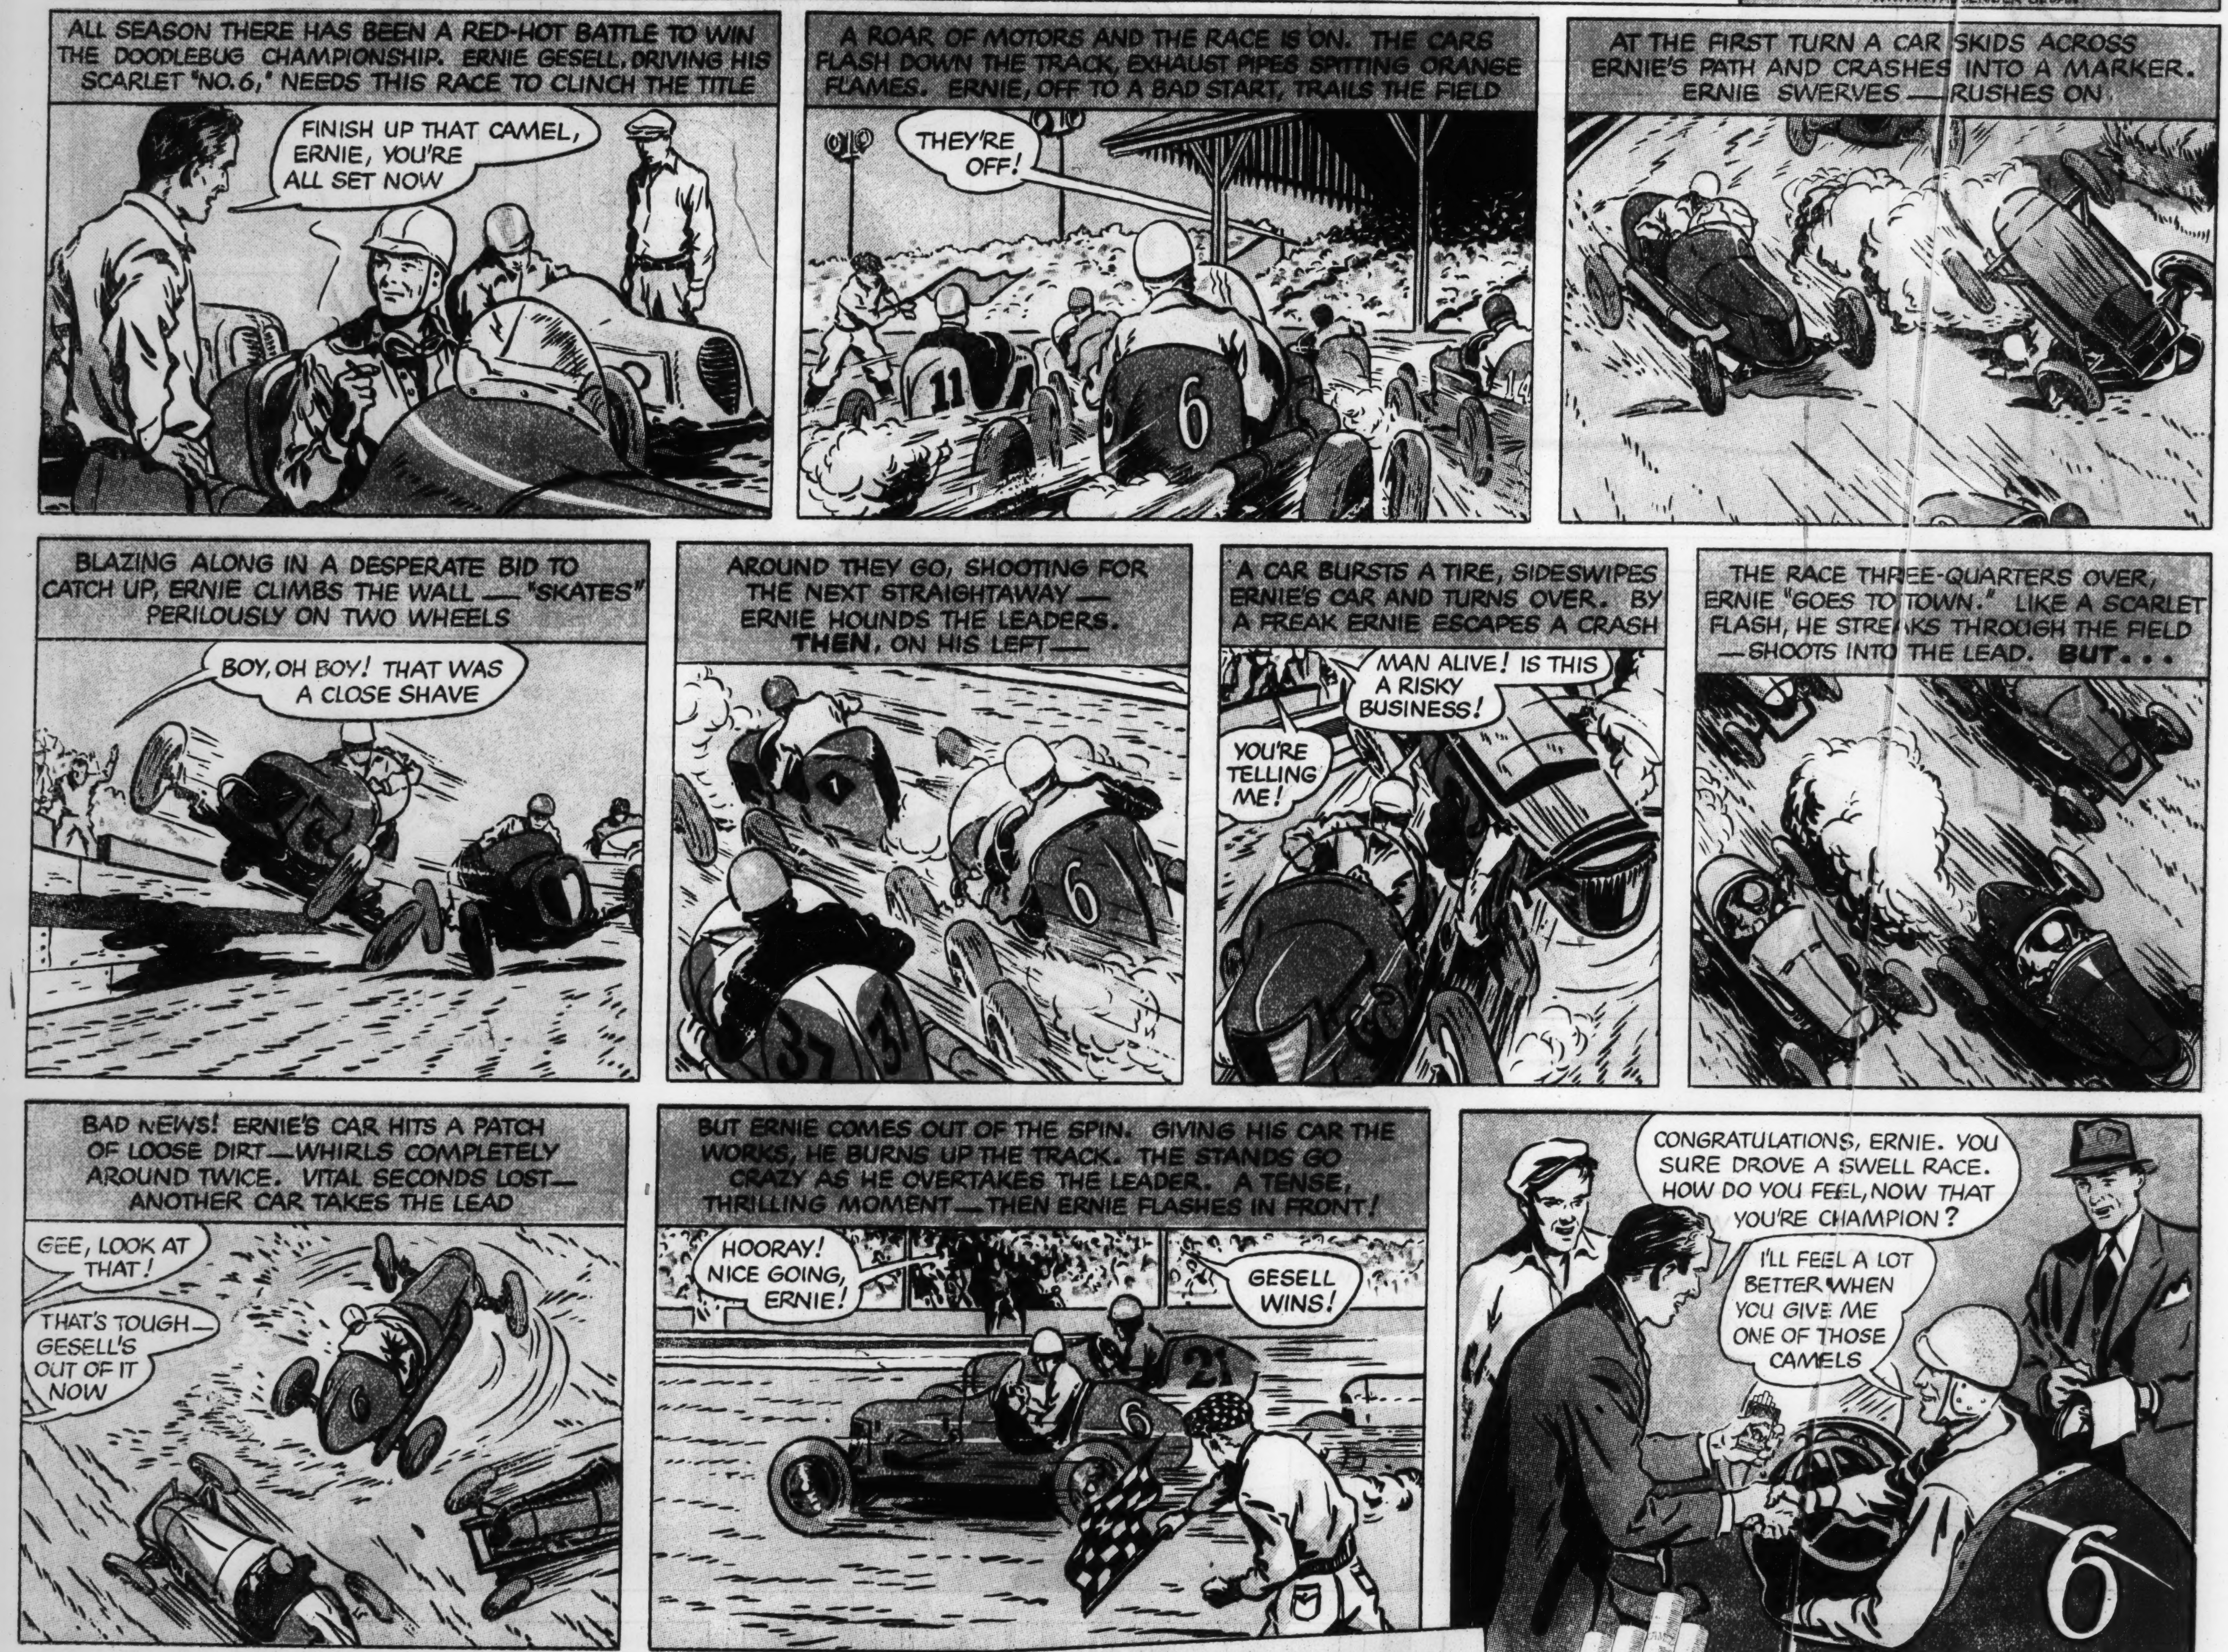
THRILLS, SPILLS, SKIDS, AND SOMERSAULTS AS ERNIE GESELL, JR. BLAZES TO A MIDGET AUTO-RACING CIRCUIT CHAMPIONSHIP

MIDGET AUTO RACES DRAW AN ENORMOUS ATTENDANCE — MORE THAN TEN MILLION PERSONS YEARLY. THE AUTOS ARE CALLED "DOODLEBUGS."

WHEEL-BASE: (APPROX.) 66"-76"
HORSE-POWER: (APPROX.) 60-90
WEIGHT: (APPROX.) 600 LBS.—850 LBS.



COMPARISON OF A MIDGET RACING AUTO WITH A PASSENGER SEDAN



ALL SEASON THERE HAS BEEN A RED-HOT BATTLE TO WIN THE DOODLEBUG CHAMPIONSHIP. ERNIE GESELL, DRIVING HIS SCARLET "NO. 6," NEEDS THIS RACE TO CLINCH THE TITLE
FINISH UP THAT CAMEL, ERNIE, YOU'RE ALL SET NOW
A ROAR OF MOTORS AND THE RACE IS ON. THE CARS FLASH DOWN THE TRACK, EXHAUST PIPES SPITTING ORANGE FLAMES. ERNIE, OFF TO A BAD START, TRAILS THE FIELD
THEY'RE OFF!
11
14
BLAZING ALONG IN A DESPERATE BID TO CATCH UP, ERNIE CLIMBS THE WALL — "SKATES" PERILOUSLY ON TWO WHEELS
BOY, OH BOY! THAT WAS A CLOSE SHAVE
AROUND THEY GO, SHOOTING FOR THE NEXT STRAIGHTAWAY — ERNIE HOUNDS THE LEADERS. THEN, ON HIS LEFT —
37
MAN ALIVE! IS THIS A RISKY BUSINESS!
YOU'RE TELLING ME!
THE RACE THREE-QUARTERS OVER, ERNIE "GOES TO TOWN." LIKE A SCARLET FLASH, HE STREAKS THROUGH THE FIELD — SHOOTS INTO THE LEAD. BUT . . .
BAD NEWS! ERNIE'S CAR HITS A PATCH OF LOOSE DIRT — WHIRLS COMPLETELY AROUND TWICE. VITAL SECONDS LOST — ANOTHER CAR TAKES THE LEAD
GEE, LOOK AT THAT!
THAT'S TOUGH — GESELL'S OUT OF IT NOW
BUT ERNIE COMES OUT OF THE SPIN. GIVING HIS CAR THE WORKS, HE BURNS UP THE TRACK. THE STANDS GO CRAZY AS HE OVERTAKES THE LEADER. A TENSE, THRILLING MOMENT — THEN ERNIE FLASHES IN FRONT!
HOORAY! NICE GOING, ERNIE!
GESELL WINS!
21
I'LL FEEL A LOT BETTER WHEN YOU GIVE ME ONE OF THOSE CAMELS

BOY, HOW I ENJOY A CAMEL AFTER A HARD RACE! THEY NEVER FAIL TO GIVE ME THE 'LIFT' MY ENERGY NEEDS. I'VE TRIED ALL KINDS OF CIGARETTES, BUT IT'S CAMELS FOR ME. THEY'RE DIFFERENT IN TASTE AND MILDNESS — AND THEY DON'T GET MY NERVES RAGGED. 'I'D WALK A MILE FOR A CAMEL' ANY DAY!
Ernest Gesell Jr.

"WE SEE CAMEL BUYERS TAKE THE MILDEST, CHOICEST GRADES —SO WE SMOKE CAMELS," SAY TOBACCO GROWERS

William Vandiford, a tobacco grower with years of experience, says: "A tobacco grower is pretty apt to choose his cigarette by the kind of tobaccos the companies buy. I know Camel buys the best —the really choice tobacco. That's why most men like me who grow tobacco prefer Camels as their cigarette."

Cecil Claybourne has been growing and grading tobacco for years. He says: "I know from personal experience that Camel buys finer tobaccos. Many's the time they've paid more to get my choicest baskets of tobacco. Most of us planters around here smoke Camels. We find there's a real difference in their finer tobaccos."

As a veteran tobacco planter, Edward Thompson knows every phase of growing and grading tobacco. To the question, "Who buys the finer tobacco?" he answers: "My best baskets of tobacco were bought by Camel. That's what my friends will tell you too. Knowing the finer tobacco that Camel buys, we smoke Camels."

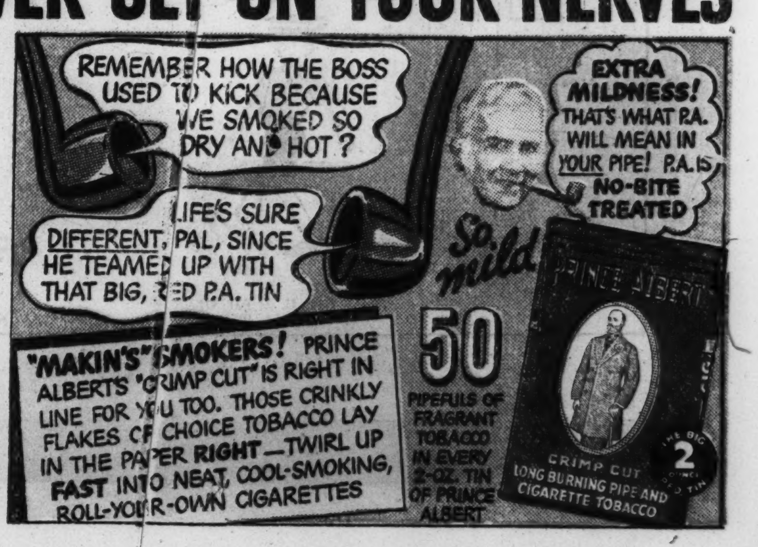
'TWASN'T FIVE MINUTES I WAS ON DUTY THIS MORNING WHEN YOU WENT BY AND I THOUGHT, THERE'S THE MAN I'M AFTER
THIS IS AWFUL, DADDY. HE THINKS YOU'RE A CRIMINAL
ON THE CONTRARY, MISS, HE'S A FORTUNATE MAN TO BE ENJOYIN' HIS PIPE THE WAY HE DOES. 'TIS THE NAME OF HIS TOBACCO I'M AFTER!
O-HO — WELL, THAT'S EASY — IT'S PRINCE ALBERT. IT'S THE TOBACCO WITH THE BITE REMOVED
'TIS PRINCE ALBERT YOU SAY THAT HAS NO BITE. THEN HERE'S ONE MAN WHO'LL BE SMILING OVER HIS PIPE TO-NIGHT. AND THANKS TO YOU, SIR!
DON'T MENTION IT. I'LL BE THINKING OF YOU WHEN I SETTLE BACK THIS EVENING FOR MY OWN PIPE-PLEASURE WITH P.A.



REMEMBER HOW THE BOSS USED TO KICK BECAUSE WE SMOKED SO DRY AND HOT?
LIFE'S SURE DIFFERENT, PAL, SINCE HE TEAMED UP WITH THAT BIG, RED P.A. TIN
EXTRA MILDNESS! THAT'S WHAT P.A. WILL MEAN IN YOUR PIPE! P.A. IS NO-BITE TREATED

NOW DON'T BE ANGRY, NELLIE. IT WAS THE ONLY WAY I COULD GET THE POOR DEAR TO TAKE THAT NASTY MEDICINE.
OH, GRANNY! THAT'S JUST SPOILING HER.
I WAS ONLY TRYING TO HELP HER. GOODNESS KNOWS SHE NEEDED A LAXATIVE! SO WHAT'S THE HARM AS LONG AS I GOT HER TO TAKE IT?
PARDON ME FOR INTERFERING--- BUT THERE MAY BE PLENTY OF HARM MERCY! HOW?
WELL, DOCTOR'S TELL US THAT JAMMING A NASTY-TASTING LAXATIVE DOWN A CHILD'S THROAT CAN SO SHOCK HER NERVES THAT IT MAY LEAVE HER WORSE OFF THAN BEFORE BUT WE'VE GOT TO GIVE HER SOMETHING!
THEN GIVE HER A PLEASANT-TASTING LAXATIVE BUT DON'T GIVE HER ONE MADE FOR GROWN-UPS. AN ADULT'S LAXATIVE, YOU SEE, CAN BE TOO STRONG FOR A TOT'S DELICATE INSIDES!
BUT IS THERE A PLEASANT-TASTING LAXATIVE THAT'S SAFE TO GIVE A CHILD?
YES... FLETCHER'S CASTORIA, IT'S MADE ESPECIALLY FOR CHILDREN. IT HAS NO HARSH DRUGS, NO NARCOTICS, IT WON'T GRIPE OR FORM A HABIT, AND HAS THE NICEST TASTE IN THE WORLD. CHILDREN LOVE IT.

TERRY and the Pirates
by MILTON CANIFF
REGGIE! DID I HEAR YOU CLEARLY? YOU MEAN THAT YOU GAVE YOUR BANK SPECIFIC ORDERS NOT TO PAY RANSOM IF YOU WERE EVER CAPTURED BY PIRATES?
RIGHT, DRUSILLA!
THEN CHUN WI WILL TORTURE YOU TILL YOU WRITE A LETTER TELLING THEM TO PAY! HE'LL TORTURE ALL OF US!!
PROBABLY... BUT HOW DID YOU KNOW THAT WAS THIS PIRATE'S NAME, DRUSILLA?
WHY-I-ER-I DON'T KNOW... I HEARD ONE OF HIS MEN CALL HIM THAT, I GUESS!
I HAVE BEEN WITH YOU WHENEVER HE HAS BEEN AROUND-AND I NEVER HEARD HIS MEN EVEN SPEAK TO HIM!
I HAVE A HUNCH YOU AND THIS PUDGY PUNK WERE NOT EXACTLY STRANGERS BEFORE WE WERE CAPTURED!
I'LL TEAR YOUR...
HOLD IT, MISS! WE'RE IN DEEP ENOUGH WITHOUT A HAIR PULLING TO MESS THINGS UP!
WE'RE PRISONERS ON AN ISLAND, WITH LITTLE CHANCE TO ESCAPE-IF WE DON'T STICK TOGETHER, WE'LL HAVE NO CHANCE! LET'S SAVE THE NAME CALLING TILL LATER... MEANWHILE, THEY JUST SHOVED SOME FOOD THROUGH THE GATE...
WE MEN WILL TRY TO MAKE THIS PLACE LIVABLE... TERRY, BUILD A FIRE! BURMA, YOU AND DRUSILLA DO THE COOKING!
WHY, I'VE NEVER COOKED IN MY LIFE!
THAT'S SWELL! I'LL DO THE COOKIN'-AND YOU CAN WASH DISHES! -AND NO SQUAWKS-OR I'LL FORGET I'M A LADY!
MEANWHILE, BACK IN HONGKONG, CONNIE AND BIG STOOP ARE QUESTIONING A MAN THEY HAVE FOUND AT THE HOUSE OF CHUN WI... CONNIE SPEAKS IN CHINESE...
MISERABLE ONE REFUSES TO ANSWER LIKE GENTLEMAN! GIVE ANOTHER CHANCE! DID CHUN WI HAVE HAND IN ABDUCTION OF SMYTHE-HEATHERSTONE?...
STILL NO TALK! BIG STOOP, PLEASE TO PERSUADE!
YES! YES! IT IS SO!
HAHO! NOW RELATE WHERE CHUN WI HOLDS OUR FRIENDS PRISONER!
THAT I CANNOT DO! CHUN WI WOULD KILL ME!
THEN, MY QUAKING ONE, YOU WILL SHOW US!

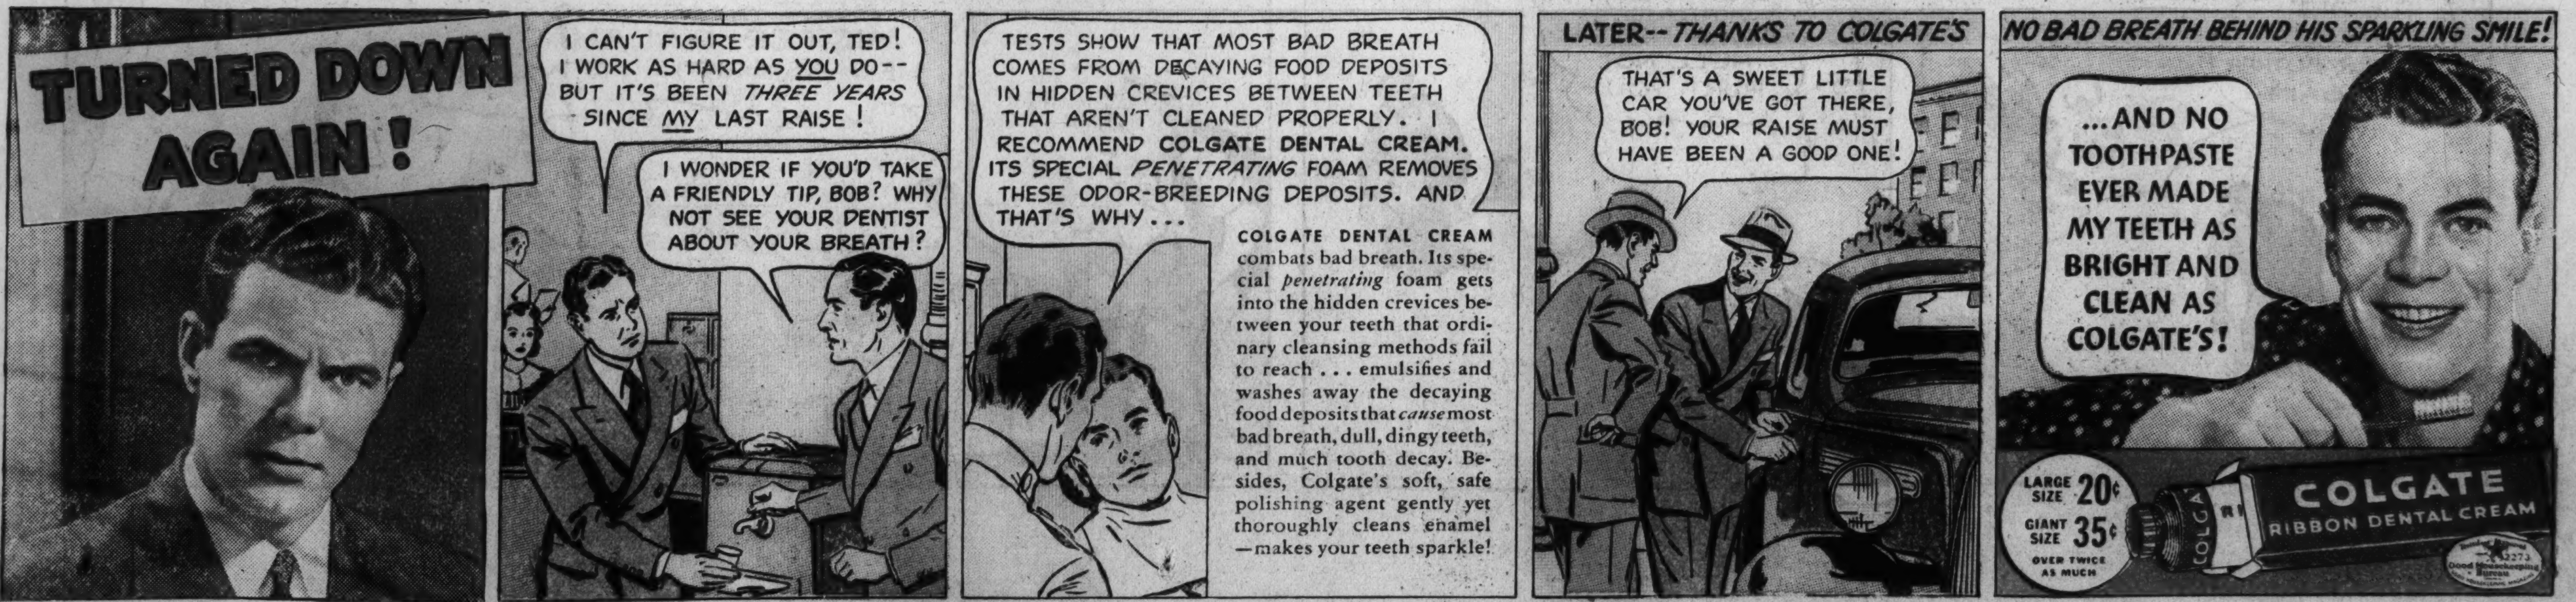
"MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN IS UNFAIR TO LOVE!
TAKE THE CASE OF KAY!
THEN... HE SAID... I DON'T SEEM LIKE THE SAME GIRL HE FIRST FELL IN LOVE WITH!
I HATE TO SAY IT, KAY, BUT BILL'S RIGHT IN A WAY! YOU'VE LET YOUR COMPLEXION GET SO DRY, LIFELESS AND COARSE-LOOKING! YOU CERTAINLY LOOK DIFFERENT!
MAYBE THE TROUBLE IS YOU'RE USING THE WRONG SOAP! WHY DON'T YOU TRY MY BEAUTY SECRET AND CHANGE TO PALMOLIVE?
BUT WHY WOULD PALMOLIVE MAKE SUCH A DIFFERENCE?
BECAUSE PALMOLIVE IS MADE WITH OLIVE AND PALM OILS, NATURE'S FINEST BEAUTY AIDS! THAT'S WHY IT'S SO GOOD FOR DRY, LIFELESS SKIN. ITS GENTLE, DIFFERENT LATHER CLEANSES SO THOROUGHLY, SOFTENS AND REFINES SKIN TEXTURE... LEAVES COMPLEXIONS RADIANT!
SO KAY GOT RID OF "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN AND FOUND HER LOVE AGAIN!
WELL, PALMOLIVE SOON FIXED THAT UP! WHY DON'T ALL YOU GIRLS USE THIS SOAP THAT'S MADE WITH OLIVE OIL TO KEEP SKIN SOFT, SMOOTH, YOUNG!
PALMOLIVE



TURNED DOWN AGAIN!
I CAN'T FIGURE IT OUT, TED! I WORK AS HARD AS YOU DO--BUT IT'S BEEN THREE YEARS SINCE MY LAST RAISE!
I WONDER IF YOU'D TAKE A FRIENDLY TIP, BOB? WHY NOT SEE YOUR DENTIST ABOUT YOUR BREATH?
TESTS SHOW THAT MOST BAD BREATH COMES FROM DECAYING FOOD DEPOSITS IN HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN TEETH THAT AREN'T CLEANED PROPERLY. I RECOMMEND COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. ITS SPECIAL PENETRATING FOAM REMOVES THESE ODOR-BREEDING DEPOSITS. AND THAT'S WHY...
LATER--THANKS TO COLGATE'S
THAT'S A SWEET LITTLE CAR YOU'VE GOT THERE, BOB! YOUR RAISE MUST HAVE BEEN A GOOD ONE!
NO BAD BREATH BEHIND HIS SPARKLING SMILE!
...AND NO TOOTHPASTE EVER MADE MY TEETH AS BRIGHT AND CLEAN AS COLGATE'S!
LARGE SIZE 20¢
GIANT SIZE 35¢
OVER TWICE AS MUCH
COLGATE RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM combats bad breath. Its special penetrating foam gets into the hidden crevices between your teeth that ordinary cleansing methods fail to reach . . . emulsifies and washes away the decaying food deposits that cause most bad breath, dull, dingy teeth, and much tooth decay. Besides, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent gently yet thoroughly cleans enamel —makes your teeth sparkle!

De Lee University OF BEAUTY CULTURE
"America's Foremost Hairstyling Center."

Every sincere and earnest De Lee student is sure of success and immediate employment because all training is supervised by

Madame Louise

Mme. Louise, the Educational Directress of De Lee is recognized in the profession as the world's foremost woman hairstylist, all around beautician, and teacher.

At De Lee beauty culture theory is made easy and interesting by De Lee's theory teacher, Anna Mayo La Bonde.

At De Lee more living models are provided to give De Lee students ample practical experience in De Lee's beauty clinic.

At De Lee more graduates, shop owners and operators receive post graduate and "brush up" training. There must be a reason.

At De Lee there are no extras. Your tuition fee covers cost of tools, uniforms, textbooks, diploma, cosmetics, supplies, laboratory fees, and your own beauty work.

Lifetime Employment Service

A lifetime employment service is maintained for De Lee graduates. De Lee graduates are only placed in the better salons.

FINANCING YOUR COURSE

Only a small down payment is required and the balance can be paid in convenient weekly or monthly installments. It is even possible to arrange to pay for part of your training after you are graduated and working in a shop.

Phone, Write or Come In.

Phone or write and you will get full information about De Lee immediately. Better still, come in, see the school itself and go over your problems and plans with Mr. Murphy, De Lee's registrar. You are invited to spend a day in our classrooms. You are under no obligation when you investigate De Lee.

As BURNHAM'S
Trained Others
Now Making
$50 a Week in Beauty Culture
—Burnham's Will Train You.

There's money—BIG MONEY—in Beauty Culture if you're trained right and are started right. For instance, within a hundred yards of Burnham's there's a graduate whom we trained in 1936, who now earns over $50.00 a week regularly. And we can name you many others doing as well.

To Make the Most Money Out of Beauty Culture.

—You should get into a smart shop where the established operators frequently make $50.00 a week and up. Burnham's is in a position to help you. For months we have been unable to supply demand for our graduates. With such a large number of shops to choose from, we place our graduates in the choicer spots. That means more money from the start, greater prestige, faster progress.

Investigate the Exclusive Advantages Causing More Students to Enroll AT BURNHAM'S Than Any Other.

You owe it to your future to learn about the Burnham methods of training—the result of 67 years of knowing how to teach. Of how you're trained under ACTUAL BEAUTY SHOP CONDITIONS on living models under supervision of experts. Of how you not only become a skilled all-around operator, but also an artistic Hair Stylist. Of how you're drilled in the psychology of pleasing selling customers. The reputation of our graduates for always being superbly trained and always profitable for the shop is why Burnham trained operators are in such demand, why we can place our graduates to such splendid advantage.

Only $5 Enrolls You
Complete Beauty Outfit Given If You Act Now.

Every future student who mails coupon below or who phones or visits school is eligible for splendid beauty kit without extra cost. Don't let lack of money hold you back. If you are in earnest, you can practically write your own terms. Mail coupon below, phone, or visit the school any weekday or any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday evening. Night and day classes.

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

If you have found a cat or dog, a pocketbook, jewelry, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisment in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE, 1 S. DEARBORN-STREET.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisment of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of the Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisment receives the benefit of free listing in the Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.

No Apologies
"What will my friends think?" is one of the first thoughts that flashes across the mind of every one who finds it necessary to take less expensive quarters and adopt a more modest mode of living.

At the Belair you can save money without apologizing to friends. On the contrary they are more likely to think you are one step ahead of them because you have found this smart new color-tone hotel room—a style that inaugurates a new era in hotel living.

Service to match. Our employees are just as eager to serve you as though you were paying several times these low rentals. And the location—right at the door of Lincoln Park. Yes, you'll be proud to say to your friends, "I live in one of those smart new Belair units."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Ducks on Wing Again.

October 1, 1938.

THE mallard and teal ducks which have been enjoying the farm ponds, and the free meals which are provided for them there, have either gone on to the Illinois river valley or are visiting other ponds in Chicagoland these days. When we looked over the ponds this week not a single wild duck or teal could be seen. This situation is not unusual, however.

Since there are scores of ponds in marshes and fields west of Chicago the migrating birds can find plenty of food and rest areas without difficulty. But it's quite possible that the blue winged teal have left for the Illinois river country, as this species is an early migrant. There are some bluewings still in Wisconsin, so perhaps we'll see more of these birds within the next few days.

The first big flight of mallards from the north always brings scores of these birds to the farm ponds. This first big mallard migration won't reach northern Illinois for several weeks.

It usually comes between Oct. 15 and Oct. 25. When these birds arrive the big wire trap which has been placed on the largest farm pond will be ready for them. The plan is to trap as many of these migrating mallards as possible so that they can be banded. Some will be kept on the farm ponds for experiments in domestication and breeding.

Mallards to Be Banded.

THE TRIBUNE'S Du Page county farm holds federal bird banders' permit number 5684 for the purpose of "capturing migratory birds for scientific purposes." The scope of this grant was enlarged this week by Ira Gabrielson, chief of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, who sanctioned an additional permit so that a few wild mallards and other species of wild ducks may be taken and kept in captivity on the farm for "propagating purposes on the premises." The permit, as issued by R. W. Williams, who is in charge of permits of the federal division of game management, also covers coots or mudhens.

Every fall the farm ponds play host to wild mallards, some pintails, a number of mudhens or coots, teal, and several other species. The wire trap which is in use on the farm ponds already has caught six teal and four mallards, and will be kept in operation during the coming migration season to see if it will capture more birds. The teal and mallards which have already been trapped were banded and released.

Although the wild ducks which were on the ponds have moved to new locations, farm hikers, nevertheless, have a chance to see a few wild waterfowl. The flockmaster reports that there are at least three wild Canada geese paddling around one of the farm ponds with the domestic geese. It is believed that these three birds were hatched on one of the ponds and now are back for a short visit before flying farther south.

A short walk in the farm woods suffices to show that most of our song birds have left for the south. Except for the starlings, meadowlarks, robins, cardinals, and other year 'round residents or late migrants it's pretty quiet in fields and woods.

'APPROVED FHA MORTGAGEE.

WHY SHOP AROUND? SAVE TIME! SEE us! We lend not only on palaces, not only on homes up to 12 years old, not only to college men with their hair parted in the middle, or to executives with an Eastern accent, we lend to ALL decent folks on brick, stucco, frame homes, 2, 3, 4 flats up to 30 years old.

If your home needs repairs, if taxes or other debts are past due, we'll lend you up to 80% of your property's value to take care of everything. If your debts are too large, we'll help to get them cut down.

Honest! We can and will help you to buy, build, repair, refinance or sell your property. Our records prove that. Whatever your mortgage problem—see us. We lend our own money under 4 different plans and place FHA mortgages within 100 miles.

CABLE'S BARGAIN BASEMENT.

Piano buyers: Consider this important advantage when you invest in a USED piano. If at any time within one year you decide that you prefer a BRAND NEW instrument, at Cable's you have the privilege of returning the used one and being credited with all you have paid in toward a new one on any one of seven nationally known makes: Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Knabe, Cable, Fischer, Gulbransen, and Estey. We believe that nowhere else in the country can so liberal a proposition on so many famous makes be found.

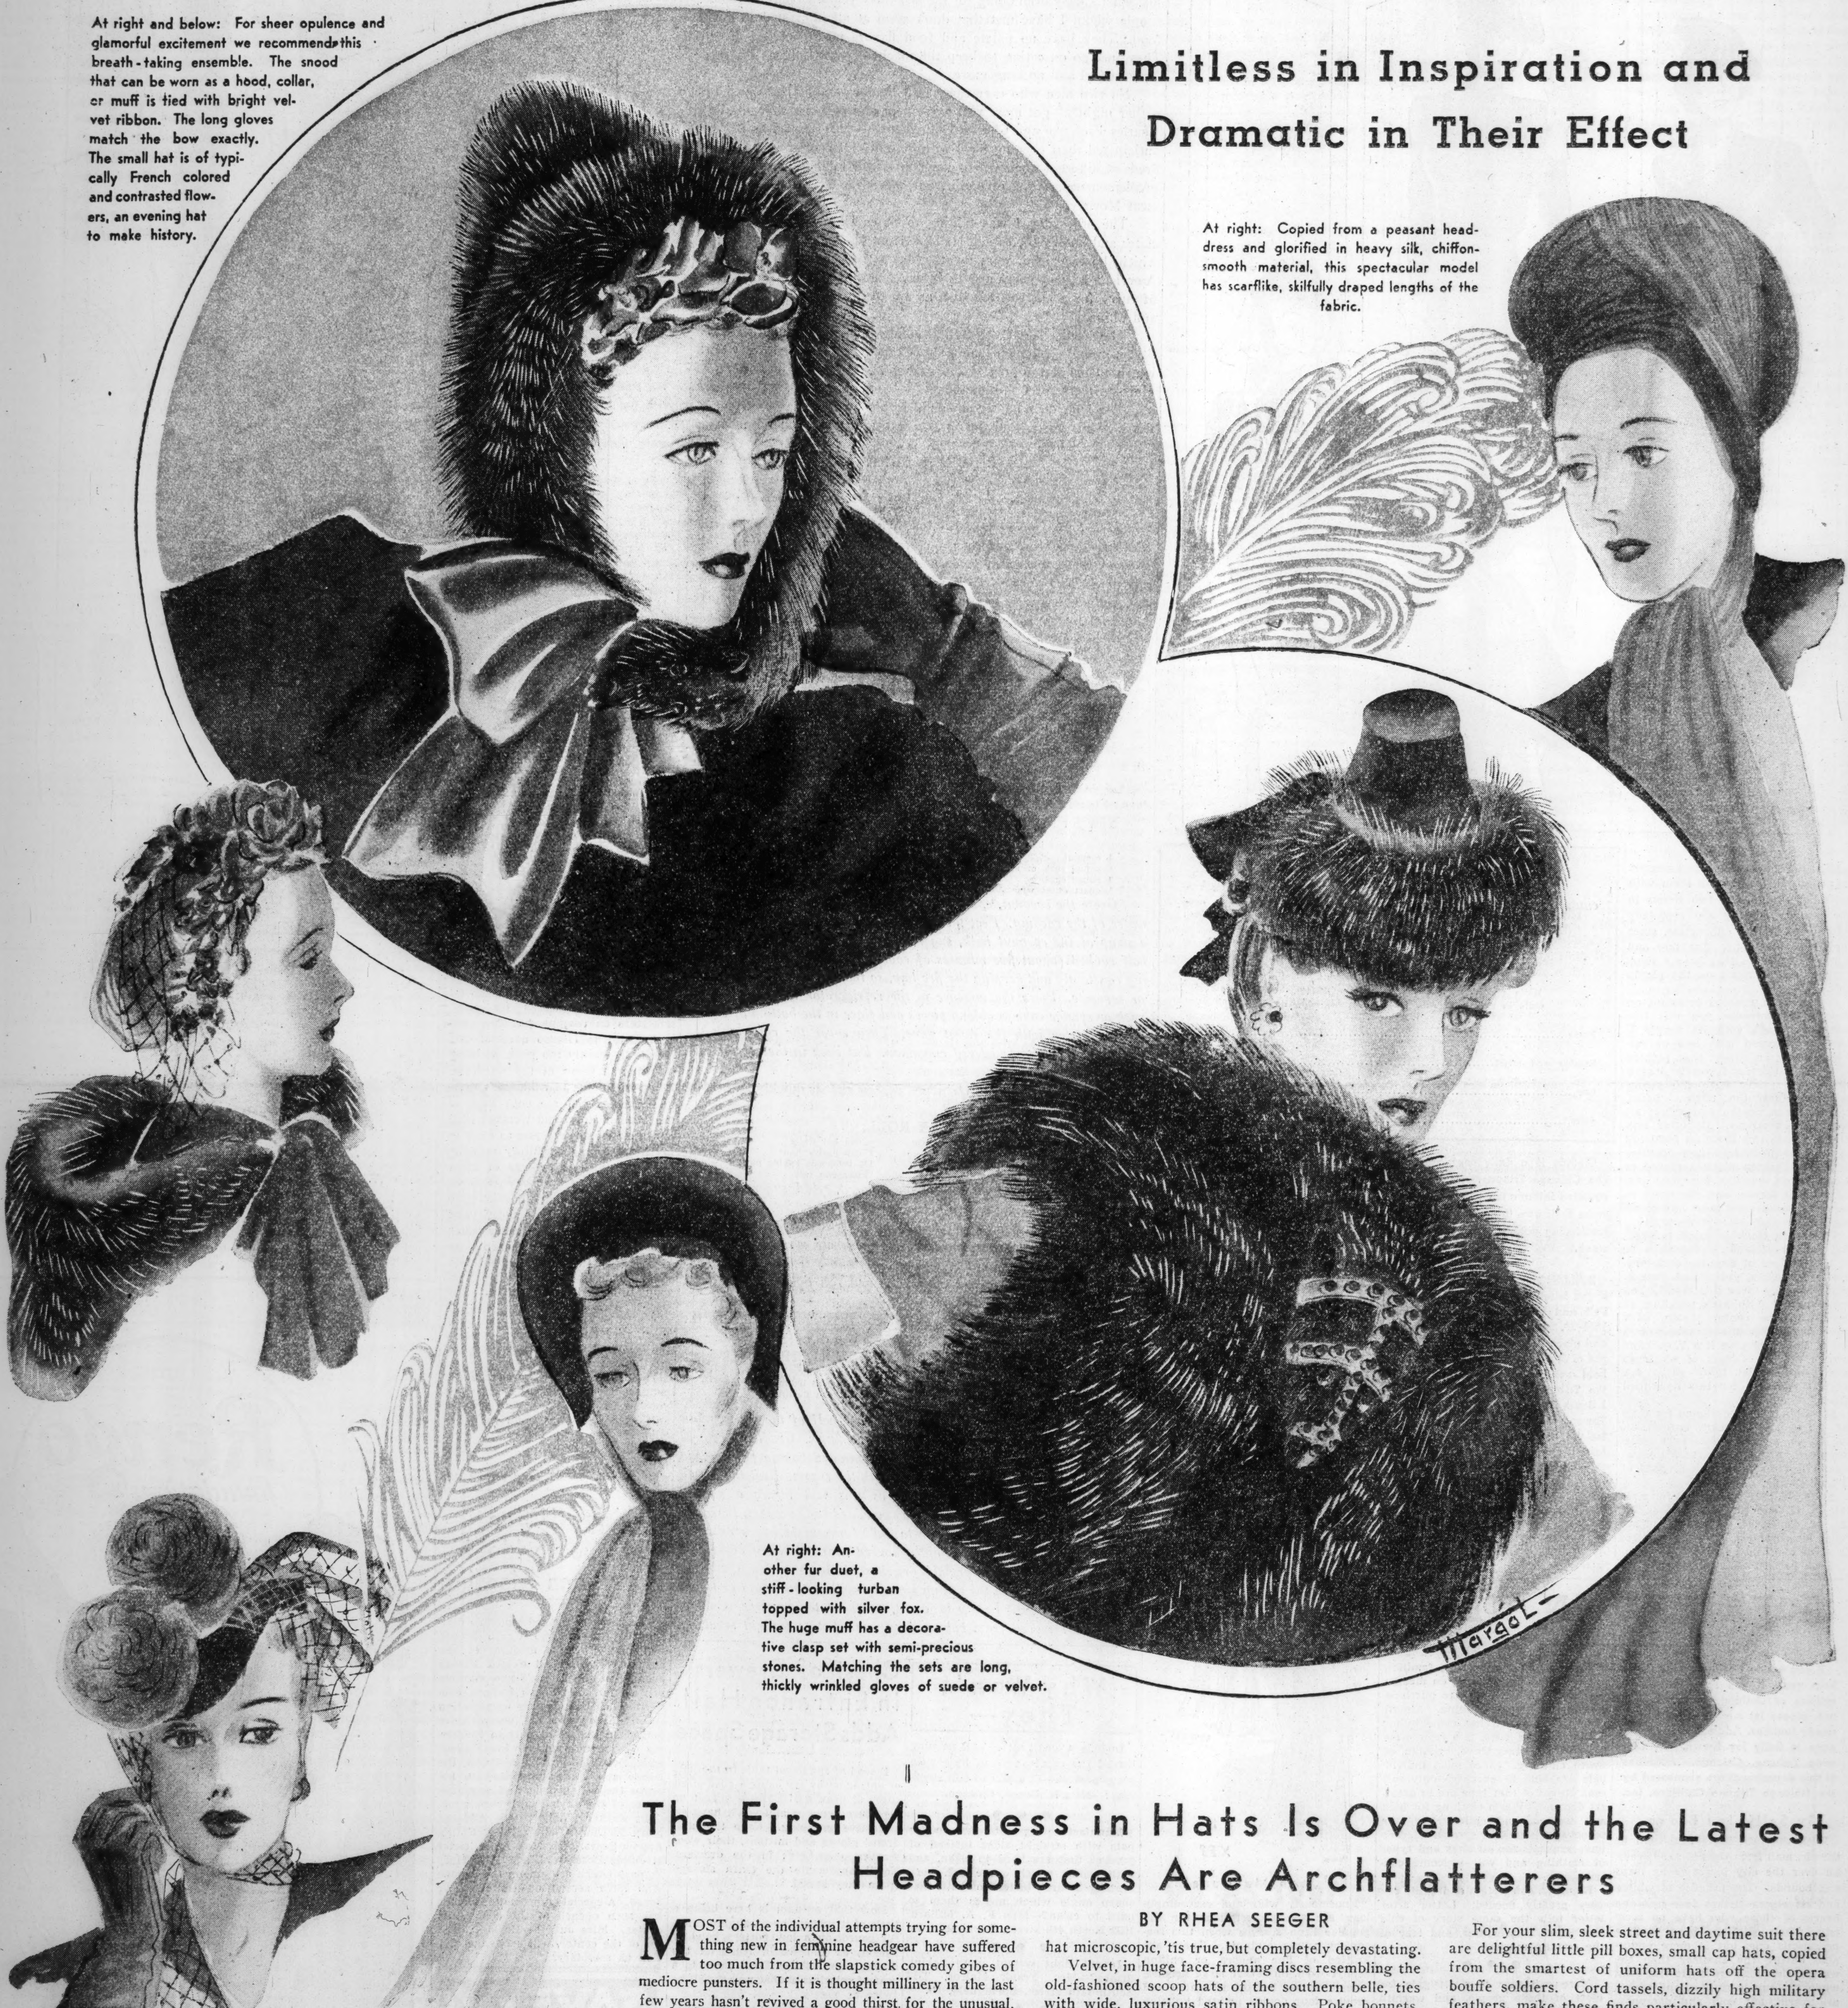
OCTOBER 2, 1938

Limitless in Inspiration and Dramatic in Their Effect



At right and below: For sheer opulence and glamorful excitement we recommend this breath-taking ensemble. The snood that can be worn as a hood, collar, or muff is tied with bright velvet ribbon. The long gloves match the bow exactly. The small hat is of typically French colored and contrasted flowers, an evening hat to make history.

At right: Copied from a peasant headdress and glorified in heavy silk, chiffon-smooth material, this spectacular model has scarflike, skilfully draped lengths of the fabric.

At right: Another fur duet, a stiff-looking turban topped with silver fox. The huge muff has a decorative clasp set with semi-precious stones. Matching the sets are long, thickly wrinkled gloves of suede or velvet.

Above, left: Roguish little tam effect gone dress parade with two feather-covered pompons in contrasting colors. Added, a thin but definitly alluring cloud of veiling. ● Above, right: Romance personified, Dache's velvet poke bonnet with a large, flattering brim. Colored scarfs tie under the chin and peep out around the headline. To wear with afternoon, dinner clothes.

The First Madness in Hats Is Over and the Latest Headpieces Are Archflatterers

BY RHEA SEEGER

MOST of the individual attempts trying for something new in feminine headgear have suffered too much from the slapstick comedy gibes of mediocre punsters. If it is thought millinery in the last few years hasn't revived a good thirst for the unusual, even though it sometimes caused uproarious laughter, the sales records will prove it unquestionably has.

Any revolution produces a lot of mixup that should be quickly and quietly forgotten, but after the first madness is over we, the lucky survivors, find the archflatterers of today's showings. At last, thanks to some inventive genius, we've hats that are hats, creations, exquisitely lovely concoctions.

Feathers nod from small as well as picture book creations. Tiny tufts coquettishly flatter under a side brim; taller spikes curl up, decorating a lovely sweeping side brim or stand erect to add inches beside a high crown. Bunches of artfully combined colored feathers and a snippy little bow add up to a hat microscopic, 'tis true, but completely devastating.

Velvet, in huge face-framing discs resembling the old-fashioned scoop hats of the southern belle, ties with wide, luxurious satin ribbons. Poke bonnets, without anything but a band to cover the hair, have a veil down over the face. Turbans as glamorous as the jeweled glories of Indian potentates are worn for evening. Dramatic small pill boxes, with yards of silk hanging down the back, breathe all the mysterious allure of a yashmak or something seen in Algiers.

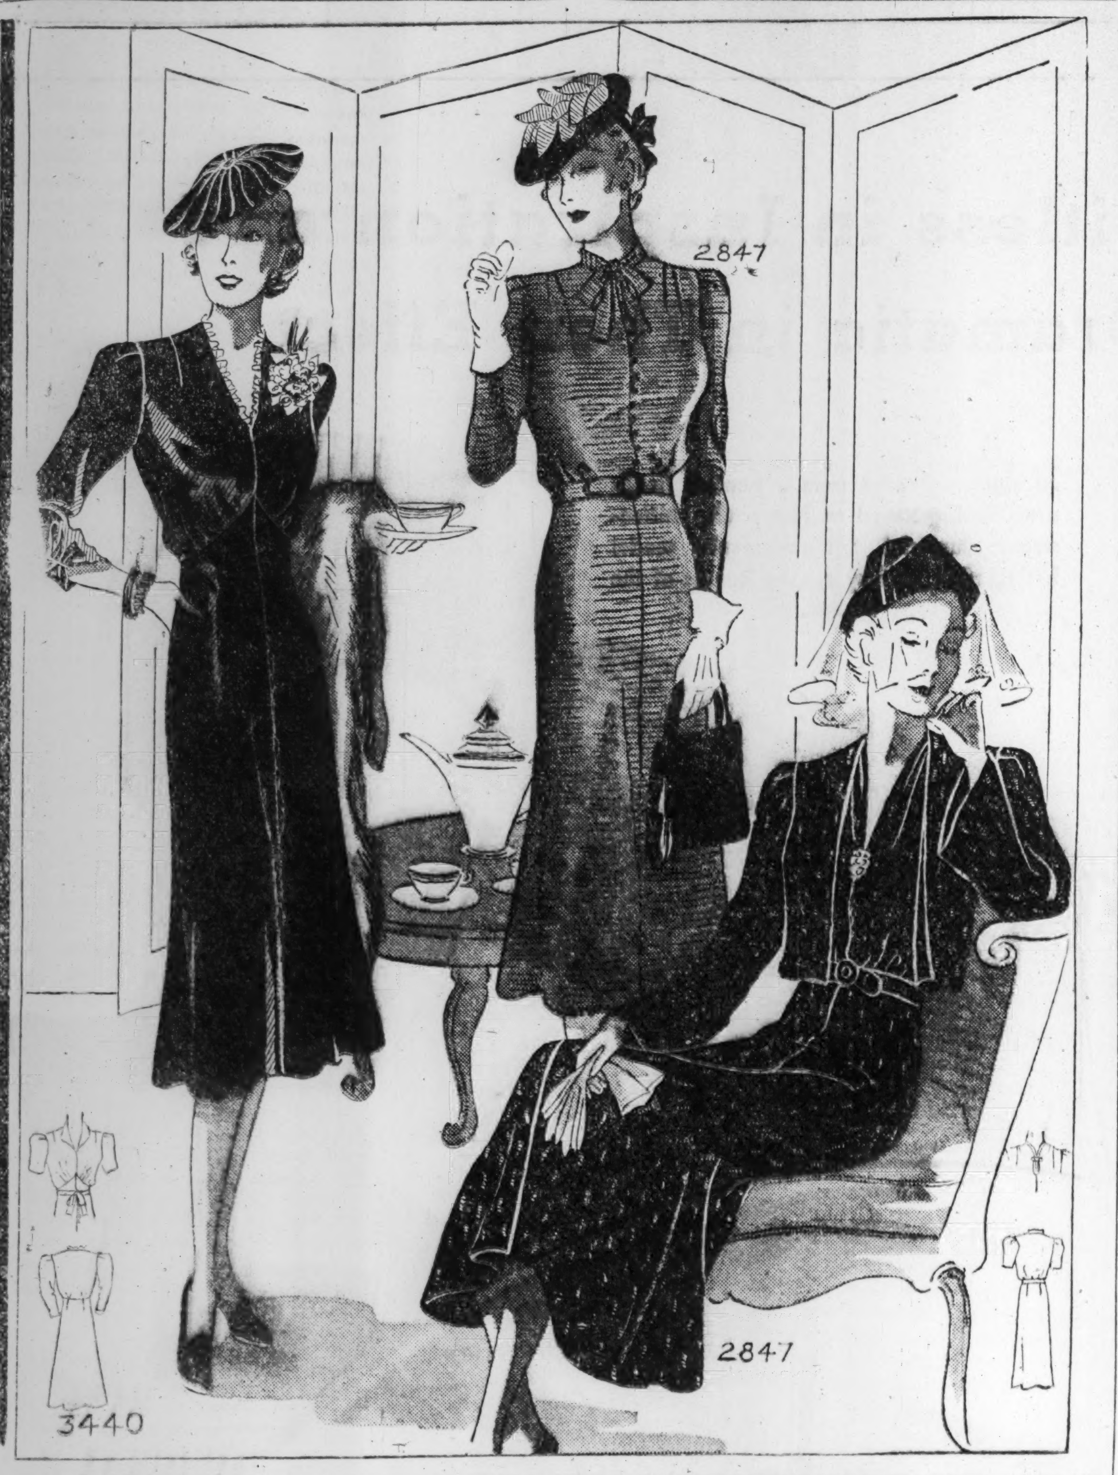
It's no longer possible or necessary to wear one hat from dawn till dark. Freed from such tyranny, the 1938 clothes collector presents an individuality all her own. There are swanky casual felts, suedes, and combinations of fabric and felt or suede to wear with tweeds and country clothes that are designed with a fine air of dash, each hat to be dipped or twisted.

For your slim, sleek street and daytime suit there are delightful little pill boxes, small cap hats, copied from the smartest of uniform hats off the opera bouffe soldiers. Cord tassels, dizzily high military feathers, make these finds particularly effective for the suits. For afternoon costumes comes the last gasp in elegance, an elegance that can't be achieved with anything else but the finest of fabrics.

Dinner and evening hats are positively resplendent. Gold and silver embroidery, jewel-colored beads, and semi-precious jewels themselves make entire hats. This year fur adds further elegance.

No one but a genius like Lilly Daché, the famous American designer, could design and present hats that so subtly flatter, so knowingly dramatize each headline. From her last showing we've sketched five of the most romantic as well as superflattering hats. More than we thought possible are found in the same exciting new showing.

Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

Although they are styled so smartly that any figure can wear them with flattering results, the two frocks in our pattern offering are especially suitable to mature silhouettes, since they lend that long, slim line and minimize contours that have a tendency to be too much on the plump side.

For all the numerous occasions on your social calendar you will like model No. 3440, with its simple V neckline trimmed with lace or ruffling, its shirred bodice, slim, pointed waist, sleek skirt, and bracelet length sleeves that have such interesting gathers below the elbow. Satin, crêpes, sheer woolen and velvet all make up effectively. Its utter simplicity makes this dress an ideal foil for all the marvelous new costume jewelry. Fashion dictates plenty of bangles and baubles for your costumes this season, and the dress to serve as background must be exceedingly plain.

The other frock is more tailored, but equally versatile. You can wear it to all types of daytime occasions. Business women, young and mature, will especially favor this model. You may style it with high neckline, as shown in the center sketch, with squared shoulders and simple buttoned bodice, or give it a V neckline and a bolero. Crêpes of all kinds and woolens that tailor easily are perfect mediums for this delightful frock.

Style No. 3440 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 1 inch ruffing.

Style No. 2847 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 5 yards of 39 inch fabric.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

Bananas Once a Novelty.

In 1876 bananas were such a novelty that they were wrapped in tinfoil and sold at a dime each at the Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

With the first hint of autumn in the air, mail from the poor and needy all over the city increases by leaps and bounds. The promise of winter and its rigors strikes fear into the hearts of those who have no security. Their existence is, at best, a precarious one, but is more endurable during the summer than the winter. Evictions are harrowing even when the sun is shining and nights are warm, but cold and dampness add immensely to the discomfort of the homeless. Lack of proper clothing can be endured and even lack of nourishment is not so great a hardship during the milder weather.

Last winter was an extremely difficult one. Relief agencies were unable to supply more than food and shelter and a minimum amount of coal for their clients. Clothing, bedding and stoves were not provided.

The situation hardly looks more hopeful this year. We already have received hundreds of appeals from people who were without necessary items last year, and have little opportunity of obtaining them for the coming winter unless private individuals can come to the rescue.

There also are numerous families, not on relief, but existing on meager incomes, who are unable to purchase clothing, stoves, or bedding. Almost every letter which has come to me within the last week is a frantic appeal for a heating stove, bedding, or warm clothing. Since most individuals are able to purchase only soft coal, stoves of that type are in greatest demand. Warm clothing for men and women, and children of preschool age, is another great need. We have requests for all sizes and types of clothing and will welcome contributions.

Blankets, comforters and quilts are very greatly needed. Letter after letter tells the same story of cold and illness last winter, and fear of the coming season.

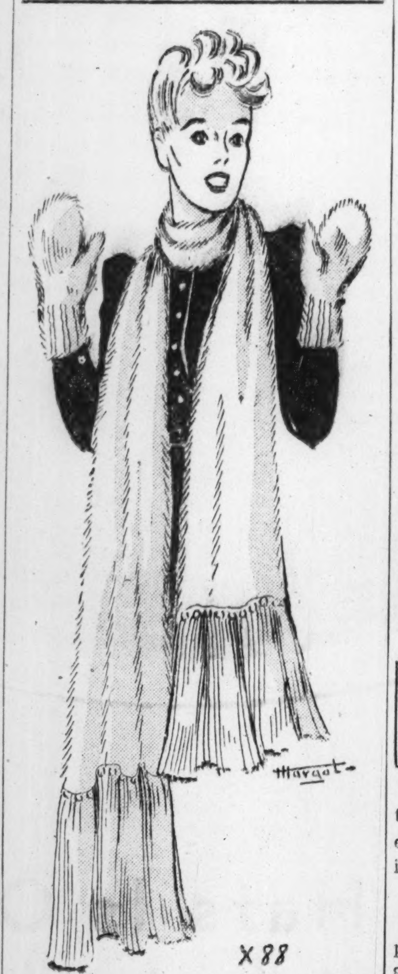
Mere existence is a struggle for most of these people, and warmth and comfort during the bitter weather will be impossible unless those of us who are able will share our unneeded articles.

The needy are scattered over all parts of the city and its outskirts, and we will welcome help from all districts.

If you have anything to offer, please be specific. With stoves, denote clearly the type; with clothing, please state sizes as accurately as possible. Adequate information helps us to place offers more efficiently and, judging from the quantity of calls we have, it is imperative that we make use of every available item, if many of these pathetic and worthy appeals are to be answered. Offers will be accepted by either mail or telephone.

Knitted Scarves in Eton Manner Are Popular Now



By Jean Macdonald.

Enormously wide and exceedingly long are the prescriptions for the popular Eton scarves worn this season by young and old. These are knitted of fine angora or chiffon zephyr wool, on rather large needles. The mitts are knitted to match and require four double pointed knitting pins, No. 11. Mitts never are hard to knit, but those who never have attempted work on more than two needles would do well to make a sample first. Instructions for sizing the mitts are included in the directions.

Instructions for knitting the Eton scarf and mitts, No. X-88, are available for 10 cents in stamps or coin sent to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

How to Cook Cabbage.

Cooking cabbage in quarters and chopping it later when the sections are tender helps to conserve the valuable minerals contained in this vegetable.

George Rector

It's fun to be in a business that ties in one's hobby, and that is just what I have been doing for the last forty years. There are some people whom I have met that don't seem at all interested in good food. They have no palate and food flavors mean nothing at all. They just go on eating to keep the machinery working and regard food as fuel and nothing more.

No two men who ever came into Rector's—and they dined together nightly—got more real enjoyment and pleasure than the late Charles Frohman and Charles Dillingham. It just seemed as if they anticipated their evening meal with delight. Of course we had hundreds of different foods which came out of the kitchen, but these two gentlemen never tired of one of our specialties and that was Crabmeat Mornay.

The other day I was talking to Steve Hannagan, who appreciates and knows good food. He took from his pocket several recipes which, he explained, were outstanding native foods in Porto Rico. American army officers and their wives stationed there are as fond of curry for a hot weather dish as are the British officers in India and China.

The head chef at the Ballaja officers' club of the 65th United States infantry regiment has a special recipe for chicken curry with which to tempt the guests who gather in the garden of ancient El Moro fortress for buffet suppers.

The side dish he recommends is his own recipe for a carrot mold. And, for a cold dessert, an exotic Spanish dish known as "Bien Me Sabe."

CHICKEN CURRY.

3 pound chicken, cut in pieces	1 teaspoon vinegar
⅓ cup butter	1 tablespoon sugar
2 onions, chopped fine	1½ tablespoons curry powder
2 teaspoons salt	Flour

Melt butter in hot saucepan, add chicken, and cook ten minutes. Add liver and heart and cook another ten minutes. Add onion, salt, vinegar, sugar, and curry powder. Cover with boiling water and simmer until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and strain liquor. Measure, and thicken with one tablespoon of flour to each cup of liquid. Mix with enough cold water to make it pour easily. Pour over chicken and simmer again. Serve in border of boiled rice. Garnish with green and red pepper, finely minced, and grated coconut. Serve chopped peanuts, mango, and chutney on the side.

CARROT MOLD.

4 cups mashed boiled carrots	¼ pound butter
1 cup cracker crums	Salt and pepper to taste
3 eggs

Mix the carrots and cracker crums, and spread half the mixture on the bottom and sides of the mold. Place two cups of spinach or baby peas in the center. Cover with the remainder of the carrot mixture. Steam for two hours and serve with drawn butter.

Now for the piece de resistance:

BIEN ME SABE.

1 coconut	8 eggs
¼ pound rusk or sponge cake	2 sticks cinnamon
1 pound sugar	⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
½ quart sweet wine

Grate the coconut, extract the milk, and add the milk to half the water of the coconut. Beat the egg yolks and have them ready. Make a sirup of the coconut milk, sugar, and cinnamon sticks. When it is half cooked (about five minutes of cooking) add the egg yolks, beating constantly and keeping the fire low, so that they will not overcook or separate. Place the mixture in the refrigerator to chill. Cut the rusk or sponge cake in oblong pieces and place in the bottom of a deep dish. Moisten with the sweet wine. Then cover the cake with the chilled custard and powdered cinnamon. Put back in the refrigerator till ready to serve.

Now for a simple old fashioned dessert that is quickly and easily made.

JELLY ROLL.

2 eggs	½ cup hot water
1 cup sugar	1 cup pastry flour
Grated rind of one lemon	1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon melted butter	¼ teaspoon salt

Beat eggs until light and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and grated lemon rind, melted butter, and hot water. Sift pastry flour, baking powder, and salt and fold into first mixture. Line shallow pan with paper, turn in batter, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) twenty minutes. Turn out of pan at once onto a clean towel, cut off all four crisp edges, spread with jelly, and roll lightly and quickly. Sprinkle top with confectioner's sugar.

How about filling the cookie jar for the kiddies? Here is the standard sugar cookie recipe:

STANDARD SUGAR COOKIE RECIPE.

1 cup butter	3¾ cups flour
2 cups sugar	2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, well beaten	1 teaspoon flavoring
¼ cup cream

Cream the butter and gradually add one-half of the sugar. Add the eggs and continue to beat until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in the remaining sugar. Mix and sift the flour and baking powder and add it to the first mixture, alternating with the cream. Beat the dough well after each addition of flour, as this will insure a smooth mixture. Add flavoring last, or it may be added to the cream. Place the cookie dough in the refrigerator to chill for several hours or overnight. Roll the dough on a lightly floured board to about one-eighth of an inch thickness. Sprinkle dough with sugar which should be gently pressed in with the rolling pin. Cut with cookie cutter and bake in a hot oven until lightly browned, or about ten minutes. Cookies should be removed from baking sheet while hot to prevent breaking.

Broken Glass.

Use a wet cloth or dampened absorbent cotton to pick up broken glass. Even the tiniest bits will adhere to it. For safety, discard cloth and all.

Chest of Drawers in Entrance Hall Adds Storage Space

Insead of the usual table in the hall or entranceway try using a good sized chest of drawers. Hang a mirror or a picture above it and you'll have an attractive grouping. Keep the childrens' gloves and mittens, their wool scarves, caps, etc., in the drawers. You'll appreciate the extra storage space they afford.

Now that autumn is here bring a little of it indoors by arranging colorful gourds in a low pottery bowl or basket, as you would fruit, on the dining room table. Treat them to a coat of colorless shellac and they'll be twice as pretty.

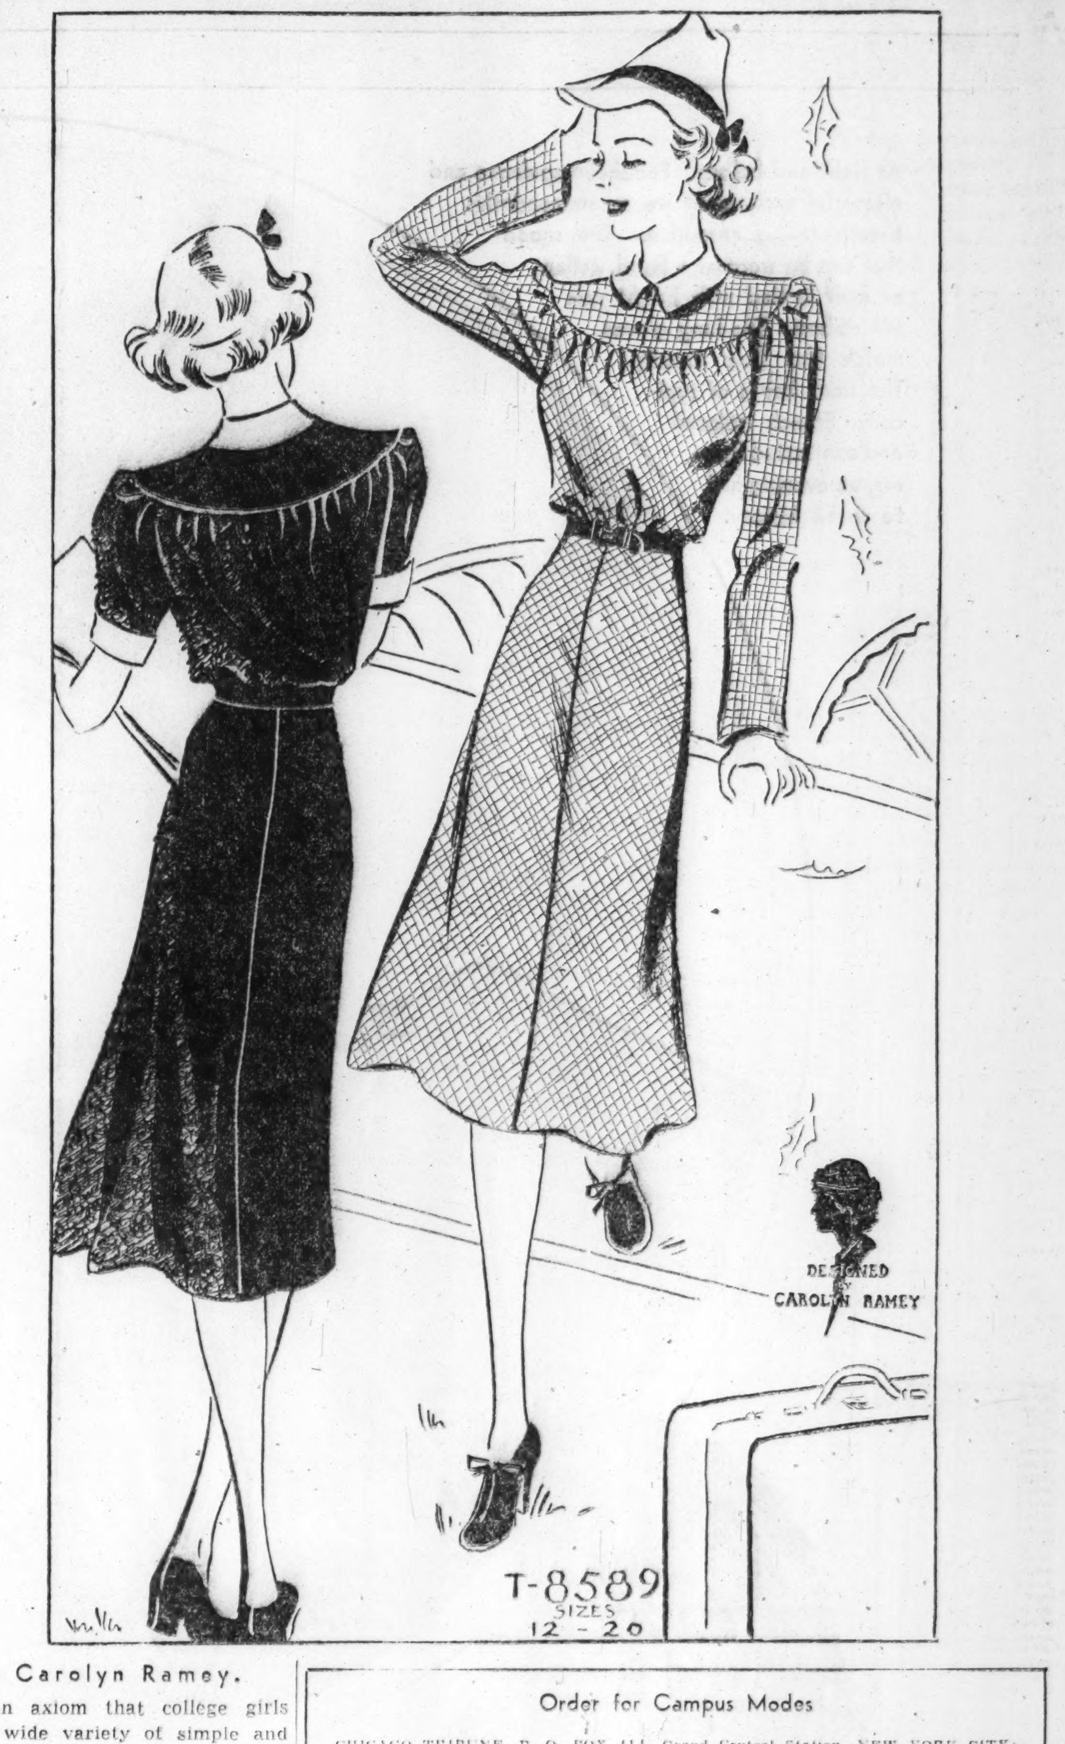
Campus Modes by a Co-ed



By Carolyn Ramey.

It's an axiom that college girls need a wide variety of simple and tailored woolen frocks for their semesters on campus, but the business girl who is also a social success is in exactly the same position, speaking in terms of the wardrobe. Being something of a business woman myself, I can see both sides of the fashion story, and working girls and their clothes are just as close to my heart as my dormitory mates.

All of which is by way of introducing my latest brainwave, this extremely plain and girlish dress with the extended, round shoulder yoke. Topping it is a demure collar which I've designed to be detachable for laundering. I've put plenty of softening shirring under the yoke to lend fullness to the bodice. The sleeves partake of the gathers, too, and may be either long or short. If short, they may have cuffs to match the collar. If long, they are are full all the way to the wrist.

You'll find this dress a snug bit of comfort under your winter coat when you go to the game. Any type of soft woolen will make up well, and silks may be used, too, of course, if warmth is not the prime consideration.

Style No. T-8589 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Chicago Urban League to Hold Autumn Meeting

The recently formed woman's division of the Chicago Urban league will hold its first meeting of the autumn season at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the league's new community center, 4564 South Indiana avenue. Since the league's organization twenty-three years ago, women have played an important part in furthering the league's work to bring about amicable relationships between the Negro and white races and to improve the social, civic, and economic status of the city's Negro population. Celia Parker Woolley, Jane Addams, Mary McDowell, Mary Rozet Smith, Amelia Sears, Mrs. Max Adler, sister of Julius Rosenwald, and Miss Mary Pomery Green are among the women who have served on its executive board. A special clubroom for women has been opened at the community center. Miss Juliette Boykin, director of the center, will serve the division as secretary.

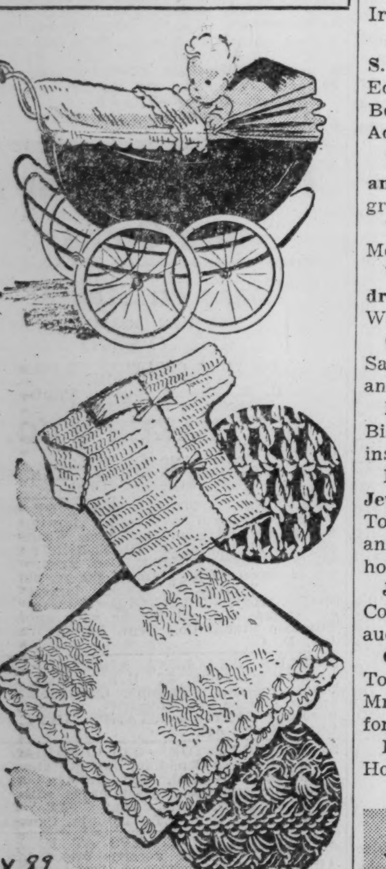
Carriage Robe and Jacket Easy Crochet Items



By Ellen Bruce.

There never are too many jackets or carriage covers in any infant's wardrobe but, regardless of the number, all must be different. This dainty crocheted carriage robe is done in a combination afghan and star stitch with soft Germantown yarn of good quality. The border is in a shell pattern with a picot finish. The baby's jacket is the essence of simplicity, worked in a double crochet stitch and fastened at the side with two satin bows. Pompadour or baby wool is the choice for the jacket, although Germantown may be used if the jacket is to be of the heavyweight variety.

For instructions for crocheting the carriage set, No. X-89, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Through the Looking Glass

—By Eleanor Nangle—

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Black, the color choice of most women three seasons out of the four, imposes the necessity for grooming that is not only meticulous but distinctive. Skin must have a pearly whiteness, makeup must be dramatic, and hair must be well coiffed. Even the perfume used should be suitably interesting.

Black, the favorite keynote color of most wardrobes that must be obtained and maintained on a limited budget, isn't the eminently safe color most women think it is. When black is worn constantly, and especially when it is unrelieved, it obligates the wearer to a certain distinctive grooming that makes her stand out in the vast crowd of women wearing the same color.

Black can be unbelievably drab and somehow musty looking. If your wardrobe is keyed to black, remember that grooming [which implies cleanliness] is what's next to godliness in the bible of chic. Keep your clothes well brushed, well mended, and well pressed.

Do wear white accents occasionally, and see that they are frosty white. If you wear veils, see that they're crisp ones. There's nothing more dejected looking than a rumpled veil. Brighten up the scene with colored accessories. Heaven knows this season is a fruitful one for them. There are glove and bag combinations we could rob a bank for, to say nothing of the bits of costume jewelry we see here and there.

Wearing a uniform, which is virtually what you're doing if you wear black constantly, makes it particularly imperative to be not only meticulous about the state of your hairdress, complexion, and hands, but actually distinguished. The black wearer, more than any other, should have shining hair, well and "differently" dressed.

A radiant complexion is almost a "must" for the woman in black. She must watch her makeup. If her skin tone is cloudy she should lighten it up a bit with a makeup base that gives a pearly tone. She will profit by wearing two shades of powder, one quite light, topped by one in her own skin tone. This gives a glow that is flattering and that helps present a snowy contrast to her dead black clothes.

The face must look suavely made up, with eyebrows in a clean, well groomed line and with lashes dark enough to afford contrast to the white skin. Use a warm shade of lipstick. An indefinite shade, soft and characterless, will be futile as a striking accent. Be wary of too much rouge, especially in too dark a shade.

Use powder on the neck and bleach the skin there if it needs it. Be on guard against dingy elbows and rough, goose-fleshy skin on the arms. Remember that black needs warm white for contrast to be dramatic, and when you wear it the flesh tint is the most dramatic contrast of all.

Then there is the matter of scent. Not flowery or sweet. Use a light scent of the oriental family, not too heady, but with crispness and depth. Just to make life simple for you, there is one on the market now that is a foolproof choice. It's made to wear especially with black, and is a perfect fragrance for it, whether the costume be wool or silk. For daytime you can use cologne, for evening the straight perfume. You can't go wrong.

The important thing is not to be buried in the black gowned feminine sea. Make every little detail of grooming count!

Wing Chairs First Made in Early 18th Century

One of the most popular of all chairs for the living room is the wing chair. It was first made at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Most of the handsome wing chairs we buy today are copies of Queen Anne ones, or of ones made by Chippendale, Sheraton, and Heppelwhite.

Built-in Hamper Adds to Storage Space of Bathroom

For extra storage space in the bathroom, there is nothing more valuable than built-in cabinets and clothes hampers. You may find, on investigation, that the size of your bath and its arrangement permits one of these built-in conveniences. Have it built in before you have your bathroom decorated.

A new trend . . . a beauty shelf in the corner of the kitchen to eliminate the danger of being caught powderless-and-maybe-smudgy when the unexpected caller arrives at the front door. Keep on this shelf a few accessories of beauty equipment: face powder and lipstick and toilet soap and lotion. And, of course, a small mirror over the shelf!

Paris Openings Take Cue from Family Album

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—A big section of the Paris openings broadcasts town clothes to wear all day long, huge gobs of which are flavored with the spirit of the family album. The pelisse of fine fur goes with a dress that has a quaint basque waist and a skirt that is either full or skimpy and draped up a bit to suggest the era when the bustle flourished. Coats and jackets with dolman sleeves wear the aura of somebody's aunt posing for a cabinet photograph.

Dresses equipped with blouses that are replicas of the high-collared, shirred yoke and blousy affairs worn by the Gibson girl are all over the Paris salons. Suits have draped jackets to recall a sweet scented time when ladies draped their fine figgers thus. Fur hoods, velvet pancake toques, and ostrich feather bedecked hats, not to omit some real Edwardian bonnets, make the headlines keep in tune with the rest. High buttoned boots of kid and high gaiters present quaint realism at the foot of the new style picture. Wool dresses, suits and coats trimmed with velvet, velvet dresses trimmed with lace and big sleeves flanking waists that are closely fitted and even boned are likewise out of the family album.

The violets, mauves, and purples out of the past are amongst the first fashion colors. Soft bluish green, and greenish blue, dubbed teal duck colors, are close relatives to the shades our grandmothers loved to wear. Wine reds, plum, fuchsia, magenta, and all the deep violet-pinks, now named "cameo," are leading daytime colors. The pinks pair off with black to make about the best team I have seen in a long time. Very new shades are cornelian tones, which you might call terra cotta like our mothers did. They comprise a brownish red, a tawny pink, a pinkish orange, and a very reddish brown.

Fur wraps will be rampant amongst town clothes this coming season. There are loads of fur jackets for modest purses, amongst the best of which are Jeanne Lanvin's Persian lamb lumberjack jackets with sashes draped around the hipline, and Alix's fitted caracul basque jackets with puffed sleeves. Knee length coats of clipped beaver, sealskin, Persian lamb, natural lynx, and black fox are shown. Short capes made of mink, and long capes trimmed with any fur in the world, are on tap for daytime. fur trimmed wool coats are still big chic, and Vionnet's silver fox ascot scarves, to wear with furless coats, are new and simply swell.

Muffs and hats of every fur known in the animal kingdom will be smart. The muffs come in all sizes, from fox muffs at Bruyers, about the size of a teacup, to foot-long Schiaparelli muffs tied around the middle with bright ribbon. And the fur hats vary tremendously in shape, with mink brimmed sailors at Patou's, fox and monkey fur hoods at Schiaparelli's, and Scotch caps and toques everywhere.

The new handbags are big. They would house a fortune and give room to the odds and ends collected by a busy beaver. They come in almost any lether and all the shapes. Many of the new bags are thrown over the arm, being in two sections like saddle bags, and are as soft as a cloth sewing bag.

Gloves are still giving color notes to sober daytime clothes, and they come in all the new colors as well as black and white. Many of the new gloves for winter are trimmed with fur. Paquin bands suede gloves with pearl fringes and Chanel gives them cuffs of Venetian lace to match the lace collar on a velvet dress.

Jeanne Lanvin's Persian lamb lumberjack wrap is called "Arizona." The black fur ends in a black satin sash that is neatly tied around the waistline and buttons on ringed handles similar to those seen on bureau drawers. A slender black broadcloth skirt has a notched hem and there is a black satin blouse with big sleeves. The Persian toque is vivid pink.

Molyneux's black velvet bolero dress is trimmed with narrow tubes of black Persian lamb and has a muff made of the tubes of fur, and a Scotch cap. The bolero may be shed. There is a silk blouse with big sleeves under it. A bunch of violets gives a flash of purple to the scene.

Schiaparelli's latest suit, which has her draped jacket, is made of sooty blue wool and trimmed with silver fox made into pockets. The silver fox hood is her spectacular bid for winter warmth and a sensation here in Paris. A small collar of the fox slides under the hood.

A Mainbocher coat has his new dolman sleeve with a deep armhole which gives a very fresh look to the silhouette. It is made of black wool cloky and buttons on rhinestone flower sprays, three of them up the center front. The deep revers are set on at the sides and attached to the small collar. A big muff and toque of mink are shown with this smart coat.

Clotilde Children's Fashions

Youngsters well under the age of 10 or 12 usually are more active than they are ladylike! They seldom sit still for long, and always are "on the go." Needless to say, they must be well dressed even though they romp, and their frocks must be provided with plenty of leg room. We're offering a dress today that should fill every need, since it is a comfortable frock that is as pretty as a picture, suitable for either school, general wear, or parties. It all depends upon how you style it and what material you use.

The version illustrated at the upper left is a demure one, with neckline shirred onto a ribbon and embellished with cross stitch embroidery. The pattern for the latter is available for ten cents extra, and its number is E-11176. Sheer cottons and very lightweight silks are the best mediums for this version of our pattern.

Sturdy cottons, heavier silks, lightweight woolens, and challis are ideal fabrics for the more tailored and practical edition of the frock, illustrated at the right. It has a simple contrasting collar, some buttons down the front, and a couple of pockets, should the little lady want them.

There are comfortable panties to match provided for by the pattern at no extra cost.

Style No. 2908 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting and one yard of 35 inch material for the panties.

Shadow Box in Charming New Wall Decoration

A charming new wall decoration, concocted by a clever decorator for a bedroom, consists of a pair of small wall brackets, one above each bed, surrounded by a wide picture frame. The frame is hung flat against the wall and is without glass, of course.

On the brackets are small vases filled with flowers, real or artificial. As they are centered in the picture frames they make a beautiful and colorful shadow box. And the whole idea costs very little.

Origin of Protein.

The word "protein," the food which builds and repairs tissues, comes from a Greek word meaning "of the first importance."

Good Taste Is a Social Ally Lending Poise

What should you say when acknowledging an introduction? For the answer to this and other questions about making and receiving introductions in good taste, read "The Etiquet of Introductions," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

Every week we write an etiquet article, and every week we find the word "taste" creeping into the copy in spite of our best efforts. There seems to be no way of keeping it out. There just aren't other words that have the same connotation and that can be adequately substituted. So, until a better one is provided, we will continue using it.

Taste, as we refer to it, has nothing to do with the gustatory sense, in spite of the old joke about the woman who had all her taste in her mouth. It is an indescribable quality that, for the most part, people are born with, but which also can be acquired and developed to a certain extent, either consciously or unconsciously. It is appreciation, common sense, good judgment, discrimination, sense of proportion, a knowingness.

In order to exercise good taste an individual must have a certain sensitiveness and a critical attitude. The critical attitude is important. We use the word in its purest sense, not that of carping and fault finding, but rather the ability to make delicate judgments, to analyze and compare and so develop a standard of judgment. That sense of proportion again.

The acquisition of this intelligent appreciation [when it is acquired] may be by conscious effort if it is through study, education, and application. A taste for music serves as an example. One is born with an ear for music, but environment and early upbringing have much to do with one's appreciation for it. And the conscious effort in the development of taste is illustrated by the person who studies music and the principles of harmony, etc.

Persons who have an innate sense of taste are to be envied. It seems to apply to all things to a certain degree, and can be developed to a flawless appreciation in certain branches of endeavor by those who have the interest in refining their judgment.

Cultivate taste and a fine sense of discrimination. It will give you poise, self-confidence, and an air of distinction.

Testing Silk.

To test a piece of silk to see if it is weighted, burn a small sample. If it is heavily weighted, the material will blacken and char but will not blaze, and the edge will be flat and smooth, with none of the small balls characteristic of unweighted silk.

NOW! SEE WHAT A GLAMOROUS SPARKLE YOUR HAIR CAN HAVE

when this Lucky new Shampoo removes dulling Soap Film!

OLD WAY Hair dull, unattractive after "old-style" shampoo that leaves cloudy soap film to cover up natural lustre.

AMAZING NEW WAY You'll discover that dulling soap film is completely gone after washing with sensational new HALO Shampoo! Even the dullest hair is left silky-soft and sparkling with new-found brilliance that men rave about!

Women rave about Colgate's amazing new HALO Shampoo for Normal, Oily and Dry hair! Not soap, not oil! A single washing with HALO removes all dirt and dulling soap film . . . leaves your hair glistening with highlights, soft as silk and easy-to-handle!

NO wonder women are raving about Colgate's thrilling new HALO Shampoo that contains no soap! For Halo is an improved liquid shampoo! And results are sensational on all types of hair! Here, at last, is one way to give normal, oily or dry hair dazzling new highlights, new softness!

So don't suffer any longer with shampoos that irritate the scalp. Don't suffer, either, with old-style liquid or bar soap shampoos that leave unrinsable soap film on hair to cover up its natural brilliance. Try Halo Shampoo today. And discover, as thousands have, how attractive your hair really can be!

A single Halo shampoo will prove a revelation! For it instantly removes cloudy soap film to reveal a glamorous new beauty you never knew your hair possessed! Most astonishing, remember—Halo is one shampoo that works equal wonders on normal, oily and dry hair of any color! Yes—a Halo shampoo leaves all types of hair with sparkling new highlights! Even dullest hair takes on breathtaking new sheen . . . while "wild" hair becomes wonderfully soft and silky after washing with Halo!

Actual retouched photos above show what a wonderful improvement this new shampoo may make. Isn't the hair on the right more attractive? Results are so exciting because Halo is utterly different in three ways.

FIRST: Halo contains NO soap! Thus it cannot leave gummy soap film on hair to dull its natural lustre, as old-fashioned soap shampoos do. Yet Halo makes more creamy lather than soap, in hardest water. One sudsing washes away all dirt and loose dandruff. Completely removes that drab, cloudy soap film left by other shampoos. Lemon or vinegar rinses are not needed. Yet hair is absolutely free of dulling film . . . alluringly fragrant, cleaner, more radiant than you ever dreamed possible!

SECOND: Halo is NOT an oil! Leaves hair silky-soft, but never sticky.

THIRD: Halo contains NO harmful chemicals. Does not irritate the scalp.

Thousands of women have been thrilled by Halo's sensational beauty results. Colgate guarantees that Halo is safe for normal, oily and dry hair! Get this amazing new Halo Shampoo at any drug, department, or ten cent store. Or, to try before you buy, mail this advertisement with your name and address, to Colgate, Dept. N-627, Jersey City, N. For Teeth That Glisten

WITH NATURAL WHITENESS

DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

Do As Your Dentist Does

when he cleans your teeth—use POWDER

NOTHING else cleans and polishes teeth more quickly and leaves them more naturally white—than POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—almost always uses powder.

All Cleansing Properties

As it is only the powder part of most dentifrices that cleans, a dentifrice that is all powder just naturally cleans effectively. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—all cleansing properties.

For over seventy years many dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder because normal teeth simply cannot remain dull and dingy looking when it is used.

No Acid, No Grit or Pumice

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling with natural brightness. It will also leave your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist. Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the tooth enamel as years of constant use have shown. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is an effective antacid.

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly—consult your dentist periodically—eat a diet rich in minerals and vitamins, and you will be doing all that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Costs Less to Use

Dr. Lyon's is more economical to use. In the same size and price class it outlasts tooth pastes two to one. Even a small package will last you for months.

Flood of Words Loses Effect with Children

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

Lots of us wouldn't think of running our homes without a budget. With some an exact budget, with others an elastic one, but still a budget. We have to find out where we must economize and where we can spend in order to manage well on the money that comes in.

But when that valuable commodity, words, is concerned mothers often are wildly extravagant. Sometimes I wish we could be put on a strict budget and allowed only so many words a day. What economy we'd have to practice and how it would keep us from a certain wordiness which is the failing of a great many parents. We're with our children all day long, day after day, or at least many hours out of the twenty-four, and we have so many directions and so much advice to give that we get into the way of what you might call over-talking our part.

Probably boys mind long-drawn-out reminders, explanations, and even scoldings more than girls do, but in either case it's a habit, this wordiness, so easy to fall into that we need to be on guard against it. Why, even the children themselves will come out with a comment that drives the point home. It may leave us a bit taken aback, but if we're honest we'll acknowledge it was called for.

One mother I know was telling me not long ago how she was brought up short. "I got the point, Mother, about ten minutes ago. If you'd stopped then it would have had more punch. When any one talks too long my mind begins to wander. Make it short and snappy, if you have to call me down. Or even get tough with me—I can take it, and sometimes I've got it coming," her son said.

And the mother admitted that, fair as she knew herself to be, she talked too much and tended to deliver long lectures about things that she could handle better with a few words.

Doesn't that describe succinctly a fault of which the majority of parents are guilty? And I don't believe I'm exaggerating when I say "majority of parents." Too many of us "preach when a word would do."

You can see why it is easy for a mother to drop into the habit of talking too much. She is with the children from early morning until the last gasp at night. She has a thousand things to do, and children often are heedless and forgetful. Certain things about the house have to be accomplished. The mother gets tired and, perhaps, nervous. Worse, she begins to worry about the children's "character," thinking this or that childish trait means weakness or a fundamental lack of some sort.

And then she just automatically talks too much. Any of these causes, or several of them combined, is capable of tricking her into a veritable flood of words when a scant half dozen would do.

When correcting, guiding, or even severity takes the form of a long "lecture," as the children call it, several bad results follow.

For one thing, you often end by making a mountain of a mole hill. You may, for example, mean to reprove your child for what you consider simply rudeness; but because you're nervous or upset you find yourself going on and on, discoursing upon respect, or being terribly hurt, or harking back to all the times he or she has been rude in the last year. And all too often you eventually find yourself saying something you wish you hadn't. And so frequently a real, a deep hurt will stay with your child.

Again, when you talk too much the very volume of words often makes a trifling matter seem of grave importance. This is one of the most serious objections to the habit of allowing yourself to run on and on about some fault you want to eradicate. By endless talking you are apt to get your values mixed and are almost certain to get the children's values mixed, too.

What had seemed to them an almost unnoticeable fault suddenly looms up, to their surprise, as a grave offense. It is important that trivial slips in behavior should be treated briefly and as of slight consequence, and that serious faults should be dealt with more impressively.

One other and practical argument against "preaching when a word would do" is that your boy or girl may quite unconsciously become deaf to the sound of your voice. The important direction, the really necessary correction then is usually disregarded because it is lost in the day-by-day multitude of words that are, most of the time, quite unnecessary.

Children can grow as weary of wordiness as do grownups; and if they at some time show it, we should be big enough to take the implied criticism and profit by it, as the mother did who was talking to me [even though we may at the moment call our offspring to account for the manner of his reproof!]

So it's better always, when you're correcting a child or even when you are talking over a serious matter with him, to say too little rather than too much. I know a father and mother who try to catch each other up in this connection. If one is correcting their child and enough has been said, the other will use some sort of stop signal to indicate that the point has been made, that the time has come to check the flow of words.

At one time a slight cough will do the trick; or an interruption such as: "Excuse me a minute, John—did you put your white slacks in the wash?" Or a shake of the head may do the trick, if it can be managed unobserved by the child.

"Say what you have to say, then stop," is a good rule for parents. You're more impressive and you make your point better that way.

Now, this advice does not mean that every situation should be met with "neatness and dispatch." There are times, chiefly with older boys and girls, when we need to sit down and talk over serious things at some length. There are times, too, when our child should have a chance to express himself quite as freely as we do, times when we have to get down to bedrock. Often a long talk will show him our viewpoint or show us his, and will clear the air. But, even then, once the thing is "threshed out," we should stop talking. Stop as two good friends, however, and then talk about other, lighter things; or go on with our usual work or play.

Listen to yourself. Do you preach when a word would do? Life will be much more pleasant for you and the children if you try not to do so.

Contract According to Culbertson

Deceptive Leads O. K. if They Don't Fool Partner

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

A lead or a play which is made contrary to the usual convention, with a view to misleading the opponent, is deceptive or irregular. For instance, if a player holds K 9 8 2 and leads the nine instead of the fourth best, he is attempting to deceive the declarer and his lead is called a deceptive lead.

The technique of deceptive leads covers the range of situations in which it is less dangerous to fool your partner than to tell the truth to the enemy. You may have a partner who is blissfully unaware of the finer implications of your conventional leads. Skill then consists in not persisting with all the conventional niceties of the play, but in trying to find the best means of keeping him in his state of torpor. In other situations a wide-awake partner will "smell the rat" before the opponents and understand your psychic lead before the declarer does.

There are good and bad deceptions. The characteristic of bad deceptive leads, like anything stupid, is that there is neither rime nor reason to them. If, for instance, holding Q J 10 9, a player leads the jack, he will have completely fooled the declarer, but what good does it do him? He will also fool his partner and it may easily cost a cold trick if dummy should hold K x x and partner, upon dummy's play of a low card, should play his ace. In still other cases the situation plainly exists where a deceptive lead can do no real harm to partner even if he be fooled. This is particularly so when the choice of suits for a lead is reduced to a doubleton headed by a jack or higher honor. With Q 8, if I must lead it at all, I much prefer the lead of the eight rather than the "supporting" lead of the queen. It may work out as it did in the following situation:

NORTH
♠ K J 8 5 2
♥ 7 4 3
♦ K Q
♣ A 10 7

WEST
♥ Q 8
♦ 10 8 6 4 2
♣ 8 6 5 3

EAST
♠ 3
♥ A 9 5 2
♦ A 9 7 3
♣ J 9 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 6 4
♥ K J 10 6
♦ J 5
♣ K Q

Against South's four spade contract West was in somewhat of a dilemma as to what to lead. From his hand the situation looked almost hopeless and he decided that only a miracle could save it. Since miracles rarely follow an orthodox lead, he selected the heart eight. East won with the ace and, seeing nothing better to do, returned a heart. South was "on the spot," but finally, thinking the lead was a singleton, finessed. West gathered the queen to his bosom, led the diamond four to East's ace, and ruffed the third round of hearts for the setting trick. South's remarks are unprintable.

The valuable information derived by the declarer from the mathematical precision of the Rule of Eleven and the fourth best lead has been in the last fifty years a recurrent cause of rebellion. Every town has its quota of players who never lead the fourth best, preferring the lead of the fifth best or third best; and every year some new bridge authorities "discover" the wornout arguments pro et contra. Yet you cannot get away from the regulation fourth best lead, for, however much declarer may learn, the partner learns even more. With an exposed dummy the declarer will still get along very well even if he ignores the leads, but total darkness will descend upon the defenders.

The right solution to this problem is to maintain the standard of regulation leads, but to vary them with irregular leads when the circumstances warant it. Holding A Q 8 2 against no trump, the irregular lead of the eight is very bad because partner will read it as a short suit lead from the top of nothing and abandon a valuable suit; but from A Q 8 5 2 the deceptive lead of the deuce, as though to show only four cards, will frequently bring good results. It is true there is always a danger that partner, discouraged by an apparent four card suit, may switch into some other suit; as against this there is the advantage that the declarer, assuming wrongly that he is threatened with only a four card suit, may adopt a careless line of play, or even may decide to make an end play by throwing in the leader with his own suit.

In the following deal I was fortunate enough to rescue a hopeless game against an expert who knew that I dislike the promiscuous use of psychic tactics. He committed the fatal error of assuming that I held only A Q 6 2, whereas I actually held A Q 10 9 6 2. Of course he was not so naïve as not to expect any deceptive leads from me, but in this instance my deceptive mechanism had a spring within a spring. I knew I could not fool him merely by leading a deuce, but I expected him to reason that if I held the 10 9 with the A Q, I would certainly open the ten or the nine. The hand:

♠ A Q 8 7
♥ 7 6 5
♦ 7 4 3
♣ K 6 3

WEST
♠ 9 3 2
♥ J 2
♦ A Q 10 9 6 2

EAST
♠ J 10 6 5
♥ K 10 4 3
♣ J 10 9 8

SOUTH
♠ K 4
♥ A Q 9 8
♦ K J 5
♣ A Q 7 5

I held the West cards and opened the diamond two against three no trump. Obviously, declarer could have made his contract by simply finessing against the king of hearts. But, not knowing who held this important card, after finding that the clubs did not break, he chose to lead a diamond to throw me in the lead [having first taken three spade leads], trusting that after I had taken my "three" good diamonds and possible spade I would be forced to lead up to his heart tenace. I ran my five remaining diamonds instead.

As a rule, when a player selects a suit to lead there is involved not only the question of making a trick in that suit but the question of selecting the general line of play for the combined hands. It is easy enough to learn which card to pick in a suit for a conventional signal, or to select a suit in which a trick is likely to be found. But in bridge only beginners conduct their attack bit by bit, staggering blindly from suit to suit and caressing them all as though they were beloved.

The problem of the defense against declarer is, as a rule, solved if the player holds safe and solid suits or if partner has disclosed, through bidding, a leadable suit. But in most cases the hapless player is confronted with suits full of holes and consequently a choice of evils. With all such hands the player's only recourse is to strategy. The selection of a proper suit to lead will come naturally and logically once the player has formed a general policy and determined the line of play for the hand.

The answer to the question, "What shall I lead?" is the answer to the question, "Have I one or more tempos to spare?" If "yes," then the safest lead is the best; if "no," then quick attack is the best defense.

Against trump bids the defenders need but four tricks to defeat a major suit game contract, and three tricks for a minor. Consequently, every honor is a precious commodity and the economy of honors acquires greater importance than time.

Against no trump game contracts the defenders, needing five tricks, cannot as a rule defeat the contract without establishing at least one long card. Time, or speed, is therefore essential and the economy of honors takes a secondary place, at least so far as the opening leads are concerned. That is why there is comparatively little room for waiting leads at no trump.

South's contract is seven spades. West leads the heart queen. As South, could you take every trick, against the best defense, if you knew exactly how all the cards lay?

Answer: Win with heart king. Lead spade ace. Cash diamond ace. Lead to heart ace. Lead diamond jack through East, who must cover or concede the trick. Ruff with high trump. Lead trump three and overtake in dummy. Lead diamond ten. Again, East must cover. Ruff, then lead out trumps. When last trump is played, West holds nine of diamonds [to overlay dummy's eight] and the Q J 10 of clubs. If he discards the diamond, dummy's eight becomes good and declarer wins last three tricks with ace-king of clubs and eight of diamonds. If West chooses to discard a club, dummy discards the diamond eight, and declarer makes three club tricks.

An Invariable Rule for Veal: Never Sear It

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Old fashioned methods of meat cookery prescribed searing a roast in a hot oven or on top of the stove, because it was thought that searing kept in the meat juices. This theory has been disproved. The only advantage of searing is a somewhat richer brown color. Searing isn't at all necessary, and few good cooks now sear any but a floured pot roast.

While searing for a very brief period won't actually hurt beef, pork or lamb, it's a bad practice for veal, for it dries out the surface of the meat. A veal roast is best cooked by placing it, unbrowned, in a slow oven, 300 to 325 degrees, and cooking it uncovered for about twenty-two minutes to the pound.

Since there is so much connective tissue in the meat of a calf, most veal requires moist heat for tenderness. The exceptions are the roasts such as the leg, shoulder, the loin or rack. Veal kidney and liver are very tender parts which often are broiled. Otherwise moist cookery methods are employed, most important of which is braising [cooking covered in the meat's own steam].

The rule for cooking at a low temperature is invariable except in broiling, when a moderate one is most successful. In braising chops or cutlets, the heat is kept extremely low. When stews of veal or veal hearts are cooked, the water in the kettle is just below the boiling point. If boiling is allowed, the meat will become toughened. Nearly all protein foods, of which meat is one, are toughened by more than moderate heat.

The veal carcass is cut into these wholesale parts: the round, which includes rump and hind leg; the loin, the rib section, the breast, the shoulder, and the shank.

CUTS FROM THE VEAL ROUND.

Retail cuts from the wholesale round are: 1. Veal rump roast, with the bone left in, or the boned and rolled rump roast. This cut may be roasted in dry heat, or it may be braised. 2. Heel of the round, and veal hind shank, which may be cooked by braising, or made into a stew by simmering. 3. Veal round steak [cutlet] or veal round roast. The cutlet is cooked by braising, the roast may be braised or roasted. [The term "roasting" always implies dry heat.] 4. Veal scallops, or veal rosettes [on skewers], which are individual portions to be cooked by braising.

CUTS FROM THE VEAL LOIN.

Loin chops, sirloin steaks and kidney chops all are cut from the loin, and all are cooked by braising.

CUTS FROM VEAL RIB SECTION.

Rib roast or a crown roast may be cooked by roasting. Veal rib chops are braised.

CUTS FROM THE VEAL BREAST.

A large cut from the breast is braised or stewed. Mock chicken legs and veal loaves are made from ground breast meat. The mock legs are cooked by braising, and the loaf by baking which, in this case, is the same as roasting. Veal riblets and scraps for stew come from the breast, too. Riblets may be braised or stewed [simmered].

CUTS FROM VEAL SHOULDER.

Blade roast or arm roast may be cooked either by roasting or by braising, as may be a rolled shoulder roast, bone removed. Blade veal steak and arm veal steak are cooked by braising. "City chicken," which consists of pieces of veal strung on skewers, is cooked by braising also.

CUTS FROM THE VEAL SHANK.

The foreshank is cooked by simmering in water. Veal patties may be made up by the butcher from shank meat, and these are cooked by braising.

BRAISING SMALL VEAL CUTS.

Most cooks like to dip the pieces of veal in diluted egg and then in seasoned fine crumbs before braising them, although this procedure isn't necessary. The dipped steaks or chops are then browned in a small amount of fat, covered, and cooked at a very low temperature until they're tender.

Much more information on cooking veal and other meats than I can squeeze into a column is contained in "Modern Meat Lore," a cookery book with charts and recipes, which sells for 23 cents in stamps by mail, or 20 cents if it's picked up at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower lobby. It's a Help to Me, Says—

Mrs. Leonard T., Chicago: For some years I've formed the habit of using the roll wringer of my washing machine to iron my bath and hand towels. I take these from the line before they are quite dry, fold them lengthwise twice—and then run them through the wringer. After this I put them on a rack to dry. This saves work, and they are smooth, and yet it is true—that we can still "feel" the fresh outdoor air in them.

Ethel T., Evanston: A coat of brushing lacquer on my wire clothes line is a big help in keeping rust stains from the clothes.

Mrs. Arthur Christensen, Chicago: I have discovered that gasoline mixed with some good strong kitchen cleansing powder will remove paint spots from glass windows. This is easier to use than a razor and doesn't scratch the glass.

Dora Helen G., Chicago: Ever since I've been married I have always bought all my window shades for my house long enough so that they could be cut off and hemmed when they get bad on the bottom.

Lenore Jones, Chicago: To rout the dust that comes into my apartment in summer, I use soft, absorbent paper which collects and holds the dust. I'm always sure the "duster" is clean, won't mar my furniture, and when I'm through I throw it away.

Flat Mohair Is an Ideal Material for Bedspreads

One of the best looking and most ideal materials for use in bedspreads is flat mohair. This fabric is said to be extremely pliable and easy to work with, and heavy enough to have some body. It hangs well, has the excellent features of being nonwrinkling and of shedding the dust, and it wears like iron.

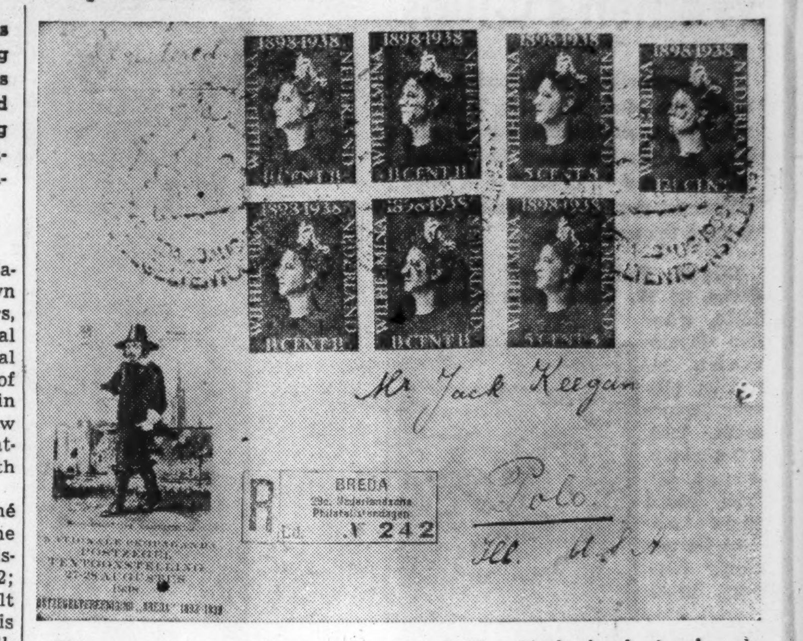
Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



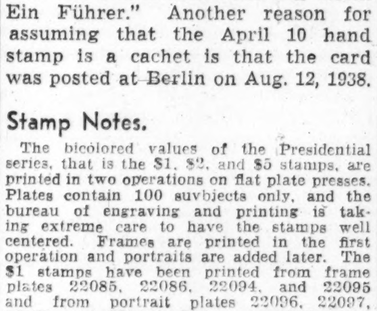
This coronation anniversary cover of The Netherlands is shown through the kindness of Jack Keegan of Polo. The cover is described in an adjoining column.

The "Anschluss" Stamp.

The National Tuberculosis association, which for some time has shown a willingness to cater to collectors, has followed the lead of many postal departments and has issued a special souvenir pane in the limited edition of 25,000 copies. This pane will contain five subjects, four of which will show portraits of early leaders in the battle against tuberculosis, and the fifth being the 1938 Christmas seal.

Those pioneers shown are Dr. René Laennec, inventor in 1819 of the stethoscope; Dr. Robert Koch, discoverer of tubercle bacillus in 1882; Dr. Edward L. Trudeau, who built the first permanent sanitorium in this country in 1885, and Einar Holboell, Danish postal clerk, who, in 1904, conceived the idea of Christmas seals as a means of raising money to combat tuberculosis. The four persons shown on the souvenir panes will appear also on the corner seals in the regular sheets of 100 stamps which will be sold starting Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. Ira E. Bishop has loaned a postal card which shows the "anschluss" stamp of Germany tied on the cover by a large hand stamp of April 10, 1938. It is evident that the large hand stamp is more of a cachet than a dated postmark, for the stamp which it cancels was not issued until months after the date given. In addition the reverse of the postal card bears a map of the united reich, a picture of Hitler and the inscription, "13. März 1938 Ein Volk Ein Reich Ein Führer." Another reason for assuming that the April 10 hand stamp is a cachet is that the card was posted at Berlin on Aug. 12, 1938.



Stamp Notes.

The bicolored values of the Presidential series, that is the $1, $2, and $5 stamps, are printed in two operations on flat plate presses. Plates contain 100 subjects only, and the bureau of engraving and printing is taking extreme care to have the stamps well centered. Frames are printed in the first operation and portraits are added later. The $1 stamps have been printed from frame plates 22085, 22086, 22094, and 22095 and from portrait plates 22096, 22097, 22098, and 22099. It is expected that the $2 stamps will be printed from plates 22120 and 22121 for the portraits and 22122 and 22123 for the frames.

Up to the present time forty-six varieties of stamps honoring the United States constitution have been issued by twelve countries. The latest to fall in line is Haiti with an air mail stamp showing the portrait of Washington at the right and the arms of Haiti at the left. The other countries issuing such stamps are Brazil, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Poland, Salvador, Spain, and the United States.

The Netherlands commemorated the 40th anniversary of the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina by issuing a set of 3 cent stamps in 1½ cent, 5 cent, and 12½ cent values. These were scheduled to go on first day sale on Sept. 1, and some first day covers from this issue are shown. As a favor to a philatelic convention at Breda, Aug. 27-28, the stamps were on sale there and pre-first day covers show the special cancellation of the convention station and are dated Aug. 27 or 28.

The total number of 13 cent, Taylor, stamps bought at Washington on the first day sale on Sept. 14, 1938, was 114,994 copies. There were 52,935 first day covers postmarked in the Washington postoffice on that date.

Iowa territory centennial stamps were printed from plates 22091 and 22092. These were 200 subject plates for the rotary presses and the printed sheets were quartered into panes of 50 before shipment to postmasters.

The prices realized at Joseph Whitebough's bureau print auction held in connection with the recent S. P. A. convention at Chicago, indicate the popularity of that branch of the hobby. Throughout the sale copies [illegible] catalog figures [illegible]. The highlights of the sale were a Fulton, N. Y., 1½ cent Harding coil pair and gap combination, cataloging $75, which brought $99; a Des Moines, Ia., 1½ cent Harding coil pair, cataloging $18.75, which sold for $31.50; an Akron, O., 3 cent Lincoln coil pair, cataloging $90, which brought $33.50, and a Zanesville, [illegible] 1½ cent Harding coil pair, cataloging $25 and selling for $34.

Club Notes.

The Ogden Hill Stamp club will hold an exhibition at the club rooms, 6408 South Hermitage avenue, on Sunday, Oct. 31. This show will be known as the OHPEX and collectors who desire to learn full details should write to Bert Powell, secretary, at the above address. This club meets every Thursday evening.

The Chicago Woman's Stamp club has announced its program for autumn meetings. On Oct. 14 there will be an auction sale of stamps; on Oct. 28, an illustrated talk on Norway by Dr. E. H. Grubbe; on Nov. 11, a paper on Luxembourg by Mrs. Louise [illegible], and on Dec. 9, a paper by Mrs. Olive Peterson. Visitors are welcome at all of these meetings which are held at 7:45 p. m. in the Hotel La Salle.

Cachets and Covers.

The Mercersburg Philatelic club will sponsor a cover in honor of James Buchanan, fifteenth President of the United States, who was born in Mercersburg, Pa. This cover will be postmarked on the day when the new 15 cent stamps are placed on sale by the local postoffice. Collectors desiring this postmark may send addressed covers, together with a remittance to cover the exact cost of the stamps at 15 cents each, to Mercersburg Philatelic club, Mercersburg, Pa.

Frank Zaracki, 2763 Dupont street, Omaha, Neb., will send a list of the special events for which he will handle covers, upon receipt of a 1½ cent stamp.

There will be a cachet for the dedication of the West New York, N. J., postoffice on Oct. 13. Send covers ready to go to Cachet Director, c/o postmaster of that place.

Edward E. Bryan, R. C. D. No. 104, Box 304, Albany, Ore., will have a Navy day cachet from two stamped and addressed envelopes, 6¾ size, with 1 cent additional per cover for forwarding, before Oct. 10.

Myron F. MacCamley, R. C. D. No. 51, U. S. C. S. No. 179, 2135 North Alberta street, Portland, Ore., will have cachets for Navy day, Armistice day, and Thanksgiving day. These will be from [illegible] on Oct. 27, four from mine sweepers on Nov. 11, and two from [illegible] on Thanksgiving day. Send covers in sets of [illegible] and include 10 cents with each set for forwarding. Deadline for all events is Oct. 15.

Rosemary a Sweet Herb.

Rosemary is a rather sweet herb used a great deal in Italian cookery. It grows in southern Europe. Many Europeans mix it with pine needles and stuff pillows with the combination.

New Ironer Is Boon to the Busy Home Manager

Will it wash and iron? That's the question we ask of the clothes we buy for ourselves and our families.

We like to keep looking smart and attractive and feeling comfortable, but it is just as important that our clothes be kept fresh looking with a minimum of trouble. With a washer and an ironer in the home the dressing problem is made easy and kept easy. The washer swishes everything fresh and clean in a few moments.

As for the ironer, most articles can be finished on it the first time a new owner sits down at the appliance. With a little practice she soon will be skillful in doing all the ironing this new way.

Plaits, for example, are pressed straight and crisp looking by smoothing a group of them into position, pressing with the ironer on the "press" or stop button, moving on to the next group of plaits, and so on.

You use the ironer roll or the surface of the flat ironer as you would the ironing board, smoothing out the fabric, moving up the heated "shoe" to iron it, adjusting another section and so on. You bring the ironing "shoe" into contact with the material simply by touching a control. There is none of that old fashioned picking up the iron and setting it down again that gets so tiresome.

Your own frocks, the children's little dresses, wash trousers, all lend themselves to easy finishing on the ironer. What a satisfaction it is to know that the laundry bag can be jammed with grubby little play clothes and still not create any burden on the busy mother and housewife!

Jewelry Well Chosen Is Aid to Loveliness

By Antoinette Donnelly.

From time immemorial women have loved jewelry. Often they have loved it not wisely but too well.

The irresistible appeal of gold and precious stones has led the female of the species, from Cleopatra to the alert young modern, to buy jewels because she likes them rather than because they are smart and becoming. This way she gains no loveliness from her pretty baubles. And that's too bad.

For jewelry can be a real asset to beauty, second only to perfume in the glamor it bestows, according to Charlotte of Paris, well known stylist and designer, who feels that jewelry should be an integral part of the costume.

"An attractive clip or brooch, the right bracelet, or a flattering necklace can transform the simplest frock into a costume of importance, can endow its wearer with grace and distinction," she explains.

"But if jewelry is to serve as a real asset to beauty it must be selected carefully, with due regard for the figure and personality of the woman who is to wear it.

"Earrings that will do grand things for a tall, slim girl with square shoulders will add pounds to the appearance of her petite, well rounded sister. The streamlined necklace designed to subtract inches from the woman of important stature will fade into drab insignificance if worn by a girl of dainty proportions."

It isn't difficult to know how to select the right jewelry, this designer continues. It's mostly a matter of line and color.

The girl with a pert, round face and short neck should avoid large, chunky jewelry that has a feeling of bulk. She should stick to delicately wrought pendants or lockets hanging from slender chains that form a thinning V-line beneath her chin.

She should be careful of bracelets, too, wearing only one at a time. Not for her are the combinations of several bracelets worn by the girl with long, thin arms.

The girl with a round face can wear earrings, of course, but instead of long, dangling ones that will create a heavy, bulky look around her neck, she should choose small flat earrings that follow the lobe of the ear for a line of length.

The tall, thin girl can wear a bit more jewelry than her curvesome sister, and it can be heavier and bulkier, too.

If she has a long, thin neck she can do wonders to fill it out by wearing a festoon-type necklace or by creating an impression of width with a necklace of irregular outline. A wide looking, round necklace will help to disguise hollows and fill out her throat.

Even in clips and brooches, the same principle of selection applies.

For the slender girl, large, chunky, round pins or clips can be used at necklines, on pockets or at the bottom of elbow length sleeves, but the girl who is trying to lose a few pounds should wear slim, flat clips or brooches that are streamlined rather than circular.

There are tricks of color, too, to be remembered in selecting jewelry, this designer says.

"Sapphires will deepen blue eyes and make them shine, while garnets will light a thousand fires in the dark, glowing eyes of a brunette.

"Fair blonde hair will gleam like burnished gold above ornaments of topaz, and amethysts will bring out all the glorious bronze of auburn tresses."

Charlotte also insists that personality as well as physical characteristics should be considered in choosing jewelry.

"The gay, vivacious woman should wear stones and sparkling jewelry," she suggests. "She will look well in clips glittering with many colors, in twin bracelets, in a pendant hanging from a jeweled chain.

"On the other hand, the quiet, demure girl would be completely overshadowed by such ornaments. For her, quaint, old-fashioned jewelry of antique gold set with cameos, pins of fine old Limoges work, intaglio brooches, will intensify the serene charm of her personality.

"Still another type is the fresh, youthful woman who wears sports clothes and tailored suits during the day, and svelte, jacketed dinner gowns in the evening.

"Chatelaines of gold and silver or of intricately beaded clusters will be her choice, and she'll wear amusing jeweled animals in rows on her lapel, too."

Fortunately, it will be easy this year for a woman to find exactly the right jewelry for her type, for variety is the keynote of new jewelry fashion.

Reproductions of old museum jewels reflect the luxury and opulence of the French court during the reign of Louis XIV. and are stunning with the handsome period gowns so important this season.

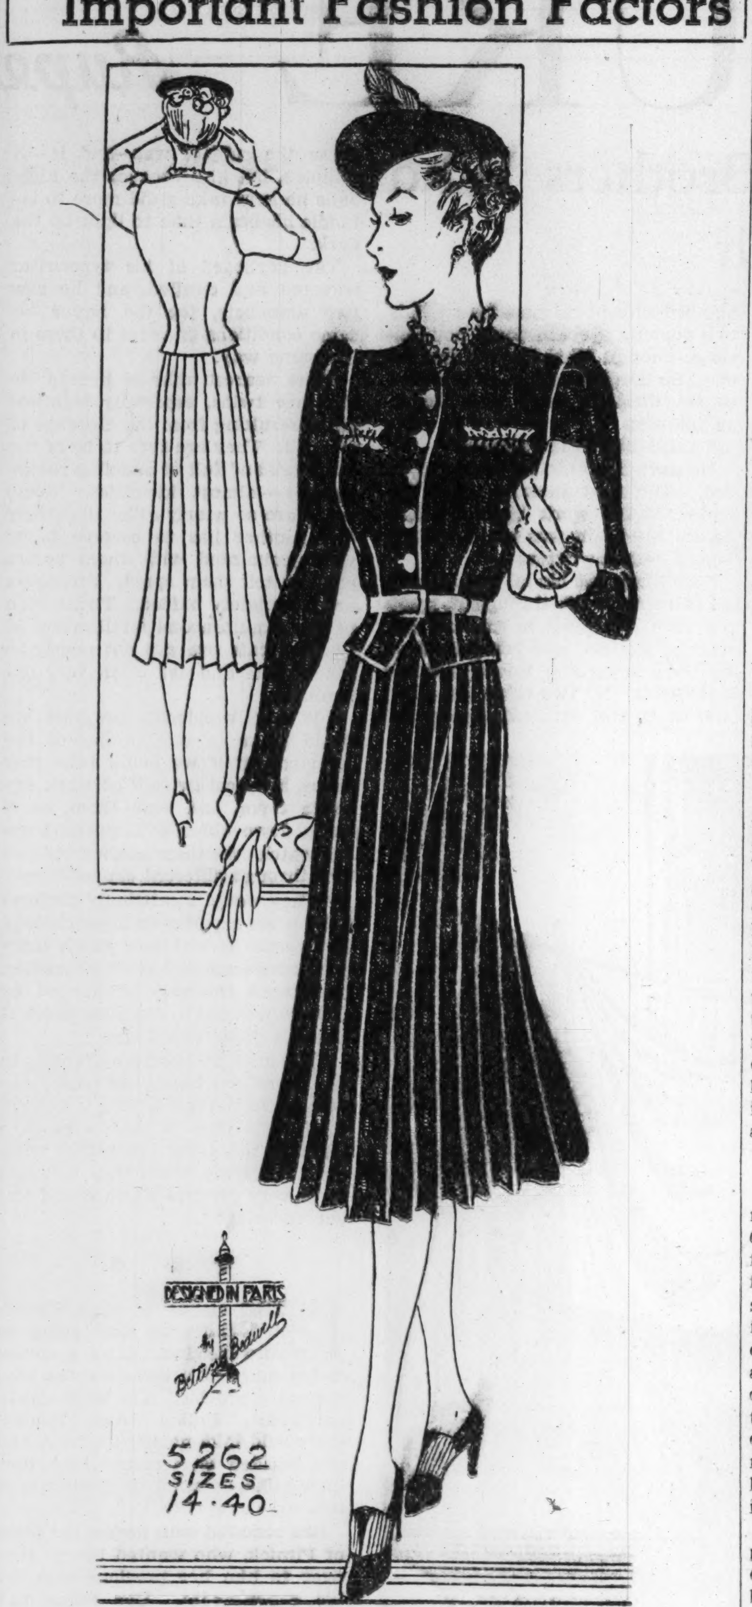
Modern versions of the fashions our mothers wore in the early 1900s will be beautifully set off by the cameos, coral sets and chatelaines now in evidence.

Even the currently important Swedish modern influence finds expression in jewelry which will be perfect on slim town frocks.

All a woman need do is remember her type and stick to it. Then she'll enjoy to the fullest the lovely jewels she wears.

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of The Chicago Tribune.

Paris Frock Unites Three Important Fashion Factors



No. 5262—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of ruffling.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Three fashion factors have assumed magnificence and importance here in one of the greatest style centers of the world. We mean plaits, ruffling, and fitted lines. One of the loveliest of the frocks to incorporate all three features is the one I have had copied for our pattern, No. 5262. Among the street dresses shown at the major openings it possessed unusual distinction. It has so much beauty and practicality in its simple lines that I know American women will take to it.

The original is created in silk crêpe with a nubby surface. Its color is black, with the ruffling, belt, and buttons of the perennially perfect white. The high V neckline is an ideal background for the softening ruffles. Where you might expect pockets to be are bands of the ruffling. The sleeves, squared at the shoulders, are perfectly plain. The jacket is nipped in for snug fit and flares slightly at the peplum. The skirt is a miracle of plaits, the kind that swirl yet don't destroy the sleek lines of the frock.

You may use any type of silk or rayon for this dress, or employ sheer wool or challis. The color scheme possibilities are legion.

Furniture for Man's Room Is Simple, Sturdy

"Beautiful Bedrooms," a booklet by Edith Weigle, goes into detail in explaining ways to furnish and decorate three different types of bedroom: The colonial, the Early American, and the modern. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

Men and boys enjoy rooms that are kept simple and masculine in character. They like plain, fairly bright, clean colors, and most of them take to a few touches of red. It's surprising to find how many men like red. So, remember these points next time you furnish or refurbish a room for Junior.

Another good looking room for a man can be built around a new group of pieces called Coronado. They come from California near Coronado. This furniture has the simplicity and sturdy charm of early Spanish days in that sunny country. Chairs, bed, chest of drawers, mirror frame, etc., are decorated by hand with designs of a Castilian rose. Corners are bound together by heavy, ropelike strands of fiber wrappings which add to the rustic feeling of the pieces. Drawer handles, hinges, etc., are of wrought iron.

The finish of this furniture is most pleasing, being a beige-tan in antique effect. There are several types of bed from which to choose. The one shown in the picture today has the Castilian rose painted on the top rail of the head and foot boards. You see this motif again in the lower rail of the chest of drawers, at the right, and along the mirror frame.

Walls are painted a gray-beige, and the long, floor length draperies are of cotton in horizontal stripes of rose red, white, and black. Glass curtains are of ecru net with a large, lacey mesh. A chenille spread is used on the bed.

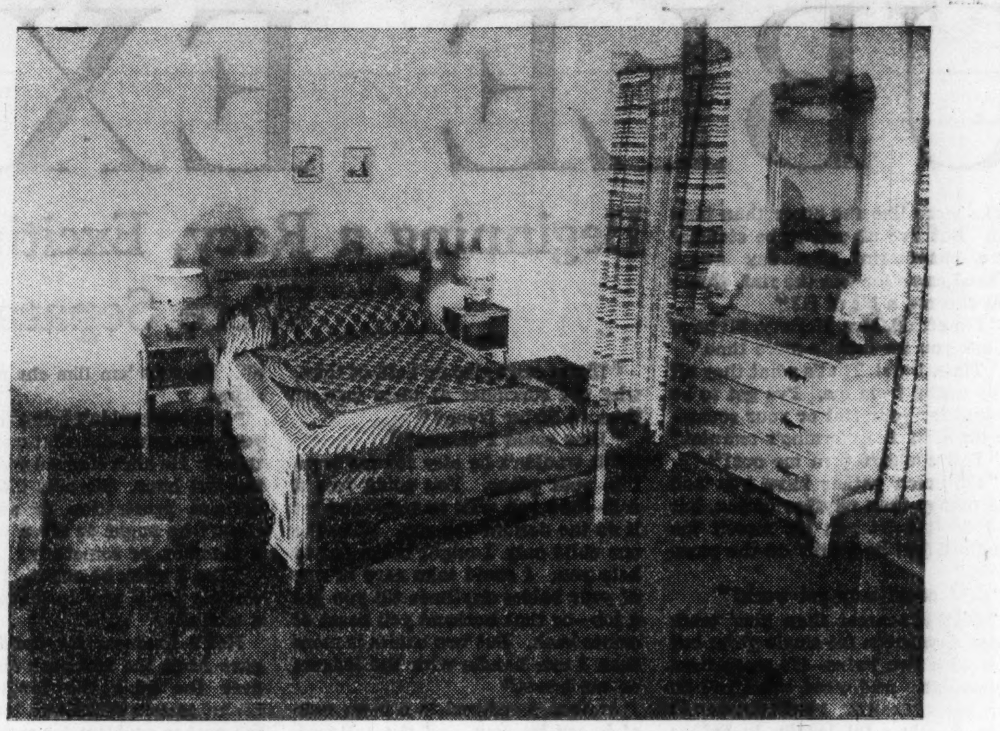
This California furniture is ideal for a man's room. And it is most inexpensive, too. For a boy's room there is the double-decker bunk bed, so popular with youngsters. It, too, has the light beige finish, called "yucca," and it is equipped with its own ladder. Comfortably wide, each bunk was given a lovely touch of color by a rose and white pine-tree spread.

BEDROOM ENSEMBLE FROM CALIFORNIA

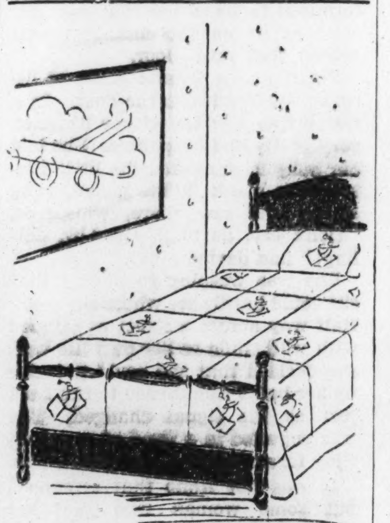


This good looking furniture is of northern hard maple, though made in California. Its gay flower decorations are hand applied and its finish is a pleasing light beige called "yucca." It is ideal for a boy's or man's room because of its sturdiness and simplicity.

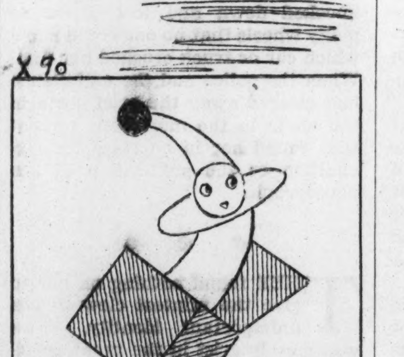
Quaint lamps have been designed especially to go with this Coronado line of furniture. They have parchment shades and bases of wood or of pottery.

Besides bedroom ensembles you can also select pieces for the living room, dining room, and game room, and for a combined living and dining room. All are priced in the same range. Upholstered items such as couches and lounge chairs are done in fabrics similar to homespun that blend with the colors of the furniture.

Jack-in-Box Is Saucy Figure in Applique Quilt



X 90

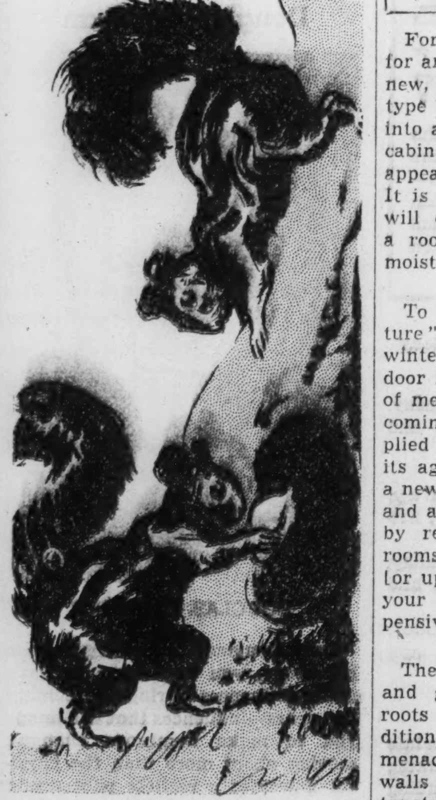


By Nancy Cabot.

Here is a saucy individual whose name does not require three guesses, and whose popularity remains undiminished through the years. To applique him on a block is an accomplishment which even the novice may attempt without fear. Straight lines and circles form the simple design, and one block may be made up in a few minutes. A completed coverlet of "Jack-in-the-Box" for a child's bed requires fifteen applique and fifteen plain blocks, surrounded by a seven and a half inch border. It is finished with a half inch bias binding and measures 72½ by 84 inches.

For a pattern of "Jack-in-the-Box," No. X-90, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Preparation



By Eleanor Jewett.

Squirrels are busy the live-long day,
No time now have squirrels for play.
Nuts that have ripened on bush and tree
Are being hidden where none may see;
The squirrels are hiding in trunk and root
Acorns and beechnuts, the forest's fruit.
The squirrels are garnering them threefold
Against the threat of the winter's cold.
And what do you think a squirrel might say
If he went to his store on a snowy day
And found his acorns had sprouted oaks?
That would be something to tell the folks!
But as for the squirrel I guess that he Would hate to exchange his nut for a tree.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

For an apartment or hotel room, or for any room in your home there is a new, efficient 2 foot square cabinet type humidifier which you can plug into any electrical outlet. This wood cabinet, with walnut finish, has "eye appeal" as well as moisture appeal. It is portable, not high in cost, and will contribute needed humidity to a room, these months ahead, when moisture must be given to a room.

To help keep in that "needed moisture" your house air will crave this winter, as well as your precious indoor heat, there is a fairly new type of metal foil insulation which is fast coming to the front. This can be applied to your house, no matter what its age happens to be, as well as to a new house. It comes in thin sheets and acts as a barrier to heat passage by reflecting heat back into your rooms. Excellent on your attic floor [or upper story ceiling] and between your attic roof rafters. It's not expensive—and is easy to apply!

The season is here when drain pipes and gutters clog with leaves and roots of trees and shrubs. This condition is a fire menace as well as menace to your indoor floors and walls and decorations. To prevent gutter-stoppage, as well as overflow, there's a specially designed wire screen, made to "snap" in place easily, without nails or screws. Can be furnished in any length or width in galvanized steel or copper.

* *

There is a remarkable little mechanical servant in the form of a control clock. You can start and stop any electrical equipment with it. You plug it into one of your wall outlets, attach it to electrical heater, electric toaster, radio, or what-not, and set it. Then it starts the electrical device, and stops it at the time you desire. And, of course, it tells time, too.

Music Federation Announces Prize for Young Artists

Young musicians of the Chicago area will begin preparation for contests that may bring them a $1,000 prize and nation-wide recognition with the announcement by the National Federation of Music Clubs of its thirteenth biennial contests for young artists and student musicians next May at Baltimore, Md.

State contests will be held in March, and district contests in April, preceding the final contests at Baltimore. The age requirement for young artists in piano, violin, and voice is 21 to 30 years. For student musicians the age requirement is 18 to 23.

Sponsors for the young artists are Rudolph Ganz, piano; Mme. Anne E. Schoen René, woman's voice; Efrem Zimbalist, violin, and Charles Hackett, man's voice.

Requests for young artist bulletins and other inquiries may be addressed to Rose Lyon Du Moulin, 421 Surf street; Mrs. Frank P. Whitmore, president of the Chicago district, Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, 644 Abbotsford road, Kenilworth, or Miss W. St. Clair Minturn, district president, Millikin university, Decatur, Ill. Mrs. William H. Knapp, 2126 Orrington avenue, Evanston, has bulletins and information for student musicians.

Chicago Women Thrilled By NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL
As They See It Wash White Clothes
Up to 15% WHITER!

Scientific tests show that it also gives up to TWICE as much suds as old-fashioned bar and package soaps, even in hard water . . . Yet you'll find it safe for Washable Colors—safe for Washable Fabrics and Hands

HERE is exciting news of an amazing new ingredient now added to America's fastest-growing laundry soap to make it even whiter-washing than before! Yet an ingredient that keeps it safe for washable colors—safe for fabrics and hands.

Tested against old-style bar and package soaps even in hard water, new High-Test OXYDOL does these amazing things:—

(1) Washes white clothes as much as 15% whiter as shown by scientific Tintometer records. (2) Gives as much as TWICE the suds—suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer. (3) Washable colors stay amazingly fresh and bright, wash after wash and in hard water, even. High-Test Oxydol has passed test after test for safety to washable colors.

In fact, tests show that dainty cotton prints washed as much as 175 consecutive times in new High-Test Oxydol showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed amazingly brilliant, fresh!

In addition, High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in as little as 10 minutes. No scrubbing, no boiling as with less modern soaps. Thus clothes last 2 to 3 times as long from a standpoint of "washday wear-and-tear," compared to old-fashioned ways.

High-Test Oxydol is more economical than ever. For a single cup of it goes up to one-fourth again as far as the same amount of old-fashioned soaps.

You'll find new High-Test Oxydol now on sale at all dealers. No change in the familiar package—the difference is in the soap.

Ask for High-Test OXYDOL today. You'll be thrilled as you've never been thrilled by any laundry soap before! Procter & Gamble.

More Suds Means Better Dishwashing, Too!

YOUR DEALER NOW HAS THE NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL. THE SAME ORANGE AND BLUE BULL'S-EYE PACKAGE—THE ONLY CHANGE IS IN THE SOAP!

IT'S TRUE! HIGH-TEST OXYDOL GETS CLOTHES FAR WHITER THAN THESE OLD-FASHIONED SOAPS I'VE BEEN USING!

GETS CLOTHES UP TO 15% WHITER

New High-Test OXYDOL was developed and perfected by Procter & Gamble to revolutionize washday performance—and contains a remarkable new ingredient that increases its white-washing powers to a truly astonishing degree.

Under laboratory tests, it was proved that High-Test OXYDOL washes white clothes as much as 15% whiter than old-fashioned bar and package soaps. Yet you'll find it safe for washable colors—safe for washable fabrics—safe for hands!

CLOTHES LAST 2 TO 3 TIMES LONGER—THERE'S SO MUCH LESS WEAR AND TEAR!

CLOTHES LAST LONGER

OXYDOL soaks dirt loose in as little as 10 minutes, and ends the washboard scrubbing that shortens the life of your clothes.

Picture at left shows a brand-new sheet (highly magnified) scrubbed 84 times with old-fashioned soap. Note fraying in weave, due to hard rubbing and scrubbing. . . . At right, similar new sheet washed 84 times the OXYDOL way. Tests show that clothes last 2 to 3 times longer from the standpoint of "washday wear-and-tear" compared with old-fashioned methods.

WASH AFTER WASH, COLORS STAY SO CRISP AND BRIGHT YOU'LL BE AMAZED!

BEFORE WASHING AFTER 175 WASHINGS

175 Washings with High-Test Oxydol left dainty prints without perceptible signs of fading—still amazingly bright, truly fresh!

COLORS STAY FRESH AND BRIGHT

High-Test OXYDOL is amazingly safe for washable colors. Even in hard water, you will find colored things stay amazingly fresh and bright, wash after wash.

Note the two swatches shown at left. One represents the original piece—the other a piece from the same swatch after 175 OXYDOL washings—picturing what you'd see from the actual color pieces.

No perceptible color fading after 175 consecutive washings. Just think of it!—No perceptible sign of fading after more washing than you'd normally give it in three years. Try it and see for yourself.

DOUBLE EXPOSURE

By Rupert Hughes

Beginning a Racy, Exciting Story of Twin Brothers Who Were Separated Almost at Birth

INSTALMENT I.

(Copyright: 1938: By Rupert Hughes.)

LIFE was too much—it was one too many for young Anne Fleming. The duplicate gave her tragedy a little more comic relief than she could relish.

A qaint fact, that. So-called human beings can suffer for almost anybody who suffers, but when the misfortune is multiplied more than so much it is only the funny bone that feels it. At such times what is flatteringly cherished as the sense of humor is apt to be only a failure of the sense of pity.

At first glance Anne Fleming was a thing of poignant beauty and yet more poignant pathos, with her exquisite face one wild stare of terror and bewilderment. She was the more appealing for the pretty little baby gurgling with laughter at her breast.

But somehow compassion was puffed out when a second glance disclosed at her other breast another baby exactly like the first. Number two was almost suffocating with distress or rage, or both, yet he was such a carbon copy of his brother that he was irresistibly funny.

Even the landlady stood grinning at the trio, though she was calling on Anne Fleming about the little matter that seems to be the main business of poor landladies. The repetition of baby twisted her frozen apple features into a smile.

"Twins you have—two of them," she sniffed, "but ne'er a one weddin' ring to your tin fingers."

"O, but I had a wedding ring once."

"For why so modest? A weddin' ring is the wan piece of joolery there's no sin of vanity in flauntin'!"

"But it's—it's in the pawnshop with my other things."

Mrs. McRory could be broad-minded, charitable, and tolerant to paying guests who paid—even to wild ones like Nell Gregg, the cabaret girl, who kept the most unspeakable hours and left her room as disorderly as her life probably was. But Mrs. McRory had very high moral ideals for such of her tenants as committed the unpardonable sin of unreceipted bills.

Where Nell Gregg got her money was Nell's business so long as Nell paid her rent, which was Mrs. McRory's business. But when Anne Fleming's rent ran weeks behind Mrs. McRory was very much concerned about Anne's relations with men. The trouble was she had none. There had been no visible male on Anne's horizon since she came to Mrs. McRory's. Yet some man must have known her better than well. The twins were two proofs of this. Mrs. McRory demanded:

"Where's the man gave you the ring? Or did you pawn him, too?"

"O, no! He sailed away—on a long voyage. He left before he knew the babies were coming."

"There's many the man takes that long trip, and it a one-way street. Has he gone too far to be gettin' back, belike?"

"O, no, he'll be back some day. You see, he thought he left me ample money. I was working at the time. I had a job, but after he left I had to give it up on account of—these."

"It'll be the grand laugh he'll have when he comes back, if ever—and finds himself a father twice. Sure, it's the dooble-barreled joke you're after playin' on him.

"Why wouldn't you write himself would he come home and be forgaven? Or at laste sind you a piece of money for the three of yous."

"I don't know where he is. I did write him, but the letters came back. He'd gone on and left no address."

"Ah, I see ducks!"

THIS cynical ridicule drove Anne to the folly of defending her children's father as far as she could. She took from her purse on the table a little folded note, the ink almost washed out with her tears and kisses. She handed it to Mrs. McRory, who read it aloud in that derisive voice of hers which made all things false:

Dearest Little Wife: I have disgraced my father's name and my own and must hide from the penalty of the law until I can clear the stain off them both or grow strong enough to come back and face the music. What I repent most is my seeming treachery to you, but if I stayed I could only drag you down into disgrace with me, and I haven't the money to take you along. I did love you, Anne. I do love you. I always shall, but I cannot prove it now. It may be a long, long while before I can, so you'd better divorce me and forget that you ever knew

Your loving, loving, remorseful

E. T.

Mrs. McRory handed back the sacred document.

"It's aisy for a man to be sayin' 'forget,' and it's aisy doin' with the man. But not so aisy for a girl who has to carry a couple of souvenirs like thim twins. Listen at the reminders! Was you deaf you'd hear that one—what's his name?—him with the voice there on your left airm. He'd be the grand one at a wake. They'd pay him for it."

"This one is Ned," said Anne.

"And well named, for he's always raisin' it. And what might be the name of the other one? I forget—him that do be always googlin' wit' laughter."

"This one's Ted. You see, their father was named Edward Theodore Fleming, so I call one by his first name and the other one by his middle name."

"And yoursilf by his last name. And very simple and convanient could you but tell the children apart."

"O, I can do that."

"You must have the second sight on you. To me they're as like as two paise in a pod, and aich of thim looks more like the other than himsilf. But I've no call to be standin' here chattherin' the day away. What I came for was the rint. Could you slip me a bit of it?"

"I'm afraid, Mrs. McRory, I'll have to ask you for a little more time."

"Time, time! That's what they all keep askin' from me. I've got to be lookin' for your rint or your room—by tin a. m. the morning's mornin'."

"You couldn't turn me out!"

"I'd much rather have you and the money than nayther of you, but if I don't evict you it's myself the landlord will be puttin' on the pavement."

"If I could only get work!"

"Jobs is scarcer than hins' teeth these days, even for single girls; but you with two twins—it's more than onpossible. And what could you do for the man that hired you—you with a baby's fat bottim in ayther hand?

"There's nothing you could do but make use of your feet—like Nellie Gregg doos at the cabaret where she's night watchwoman. But aven Nellie has to have her hands free to cuddle the coostomers or pick their pockets, or whatever it is she doos to thim."

"I can't even go out and hunt a job," Anne said in black despair. "I can't hire a woman to take care of the babies, I can't pay for their keep till I get work, and I can't get work till I can pay for their keep. O, it's awful having no money!"

"That's no invintion of your own. There's only one way out of it for you, me girl, and that's to git rid of your childer before you can take care of thim."

"I'd rather starve! I'd rather die!"

"Well, it's you'll be one of the few that ever got their rathers. But what right have you to stairve the babies? They have their rights. They weren't sint down to this airth for nothin'. Ah, I have it! I knew if I talked long enough an idea would come to me. I have the cure for all your cares. Put the both of thim twins in the Foundlin' horsepital."

"How can you ask me so frightful a thing? Get out of here and leave me alone."

"Listen to a bit of sinse and raison. The Foundlin' is the finest home a child could have. Outside the dure they have what they call Sister Irane's basket. It's been there close on a hundred years, and a hundred thousand babies has been doomped into it, mainly by young girls who had no husbands—not even such husbands as gave you that writing.

"But the sisters at the Foundlin' have no objections to a baby because it's honest-born. They ask no questions that the baby itself can't answer. You go there, walk up to the dure, and put the babies in the basket; it's big enough for the both of thim. You ring a bell and run. The sisters turns the basket inside the dure, and from then on the babies is in heaven. Such tinder care as they'll have! Such care as the richest would invy.

"Afther the sisters have mothered thim a while, along comes some one who wants for to adopt a child. They have to give their proofs of are they good enough to take one. The babies adopted out from the Foundlin' have all gone into good homes, and some of thim have become governors of states, and sinators from the same, or grand people of some kind."

It was a paradise she painted, but Anne shook her head till her tears flew like beads from a broken necklace.

Mrs. McRory tried again:

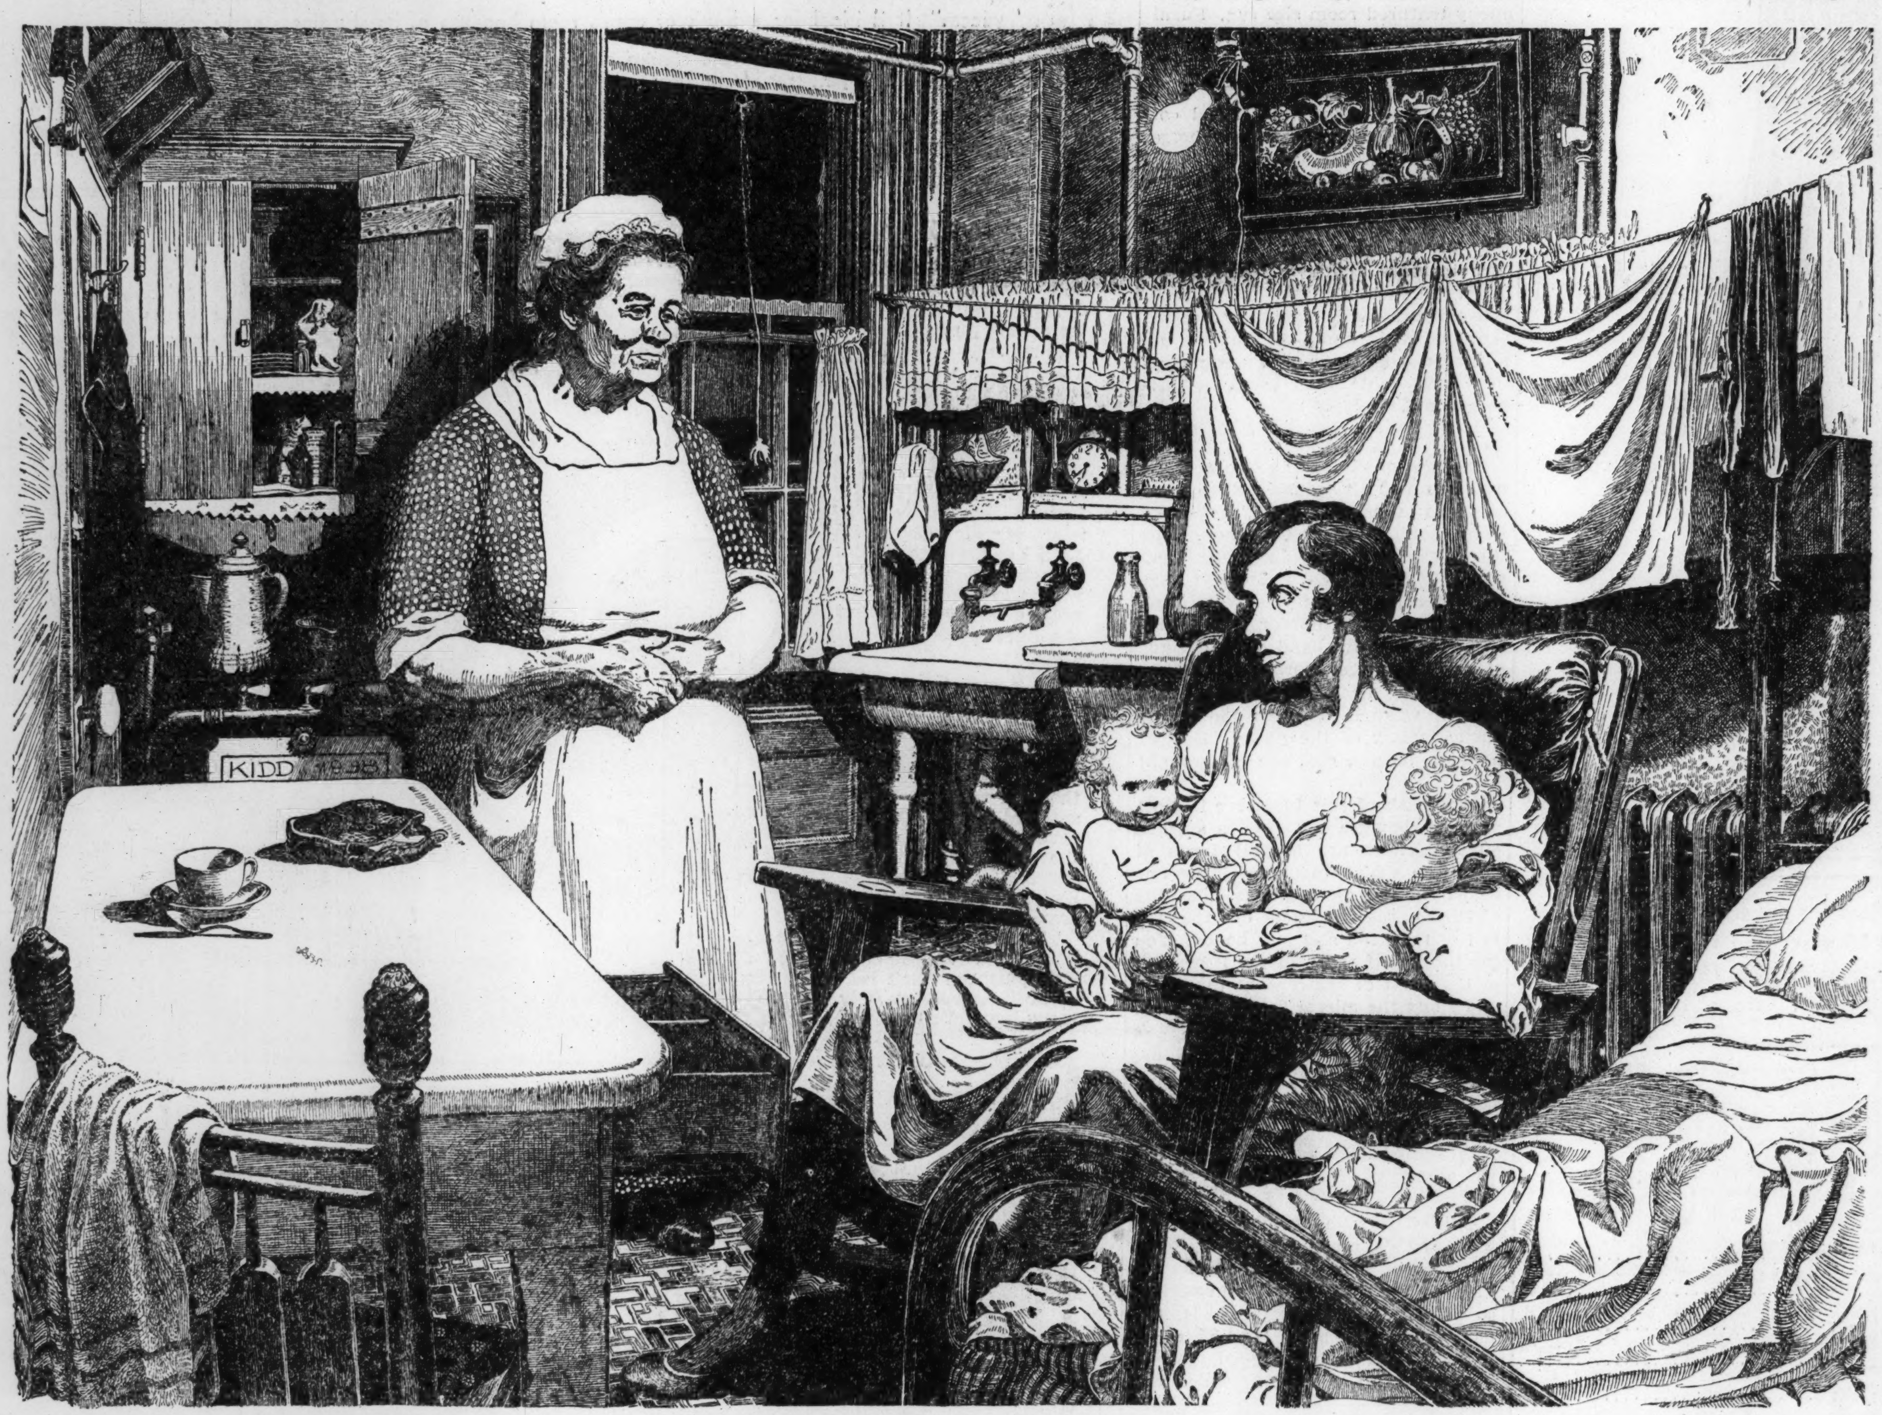
"If you can't give up both of thim, why not surrinder at laste wan of thim to Sister Irene?"

"How could I choose?"

"It wouldn't be aisy for me were I in your place. You could toss a coin—had you wan to toss—and let it do the decidin' for you. With the one child only, I might make out to help you. I could take care of one of your babies daytimes till you got a job—or that husband you boast of comes back. But two babies is more than I can handle with the lodgers on me bones."

Anne was reduced to a mere pulp of idiocy by now, and she faltered.

"You'd really take care of one of them?"



"I could take care of one of your babies daytimes till you get a job—or that husband you boast of comes back."

"The laughin' wan, not that banshee, and providin' you give the other one to Sister Irene tonight and then start out lookin' for a job tomorra."

"You're terribly kind," Anne sighed.

A knock shook the door, and without waiting for an invitation the knocker came right in. She was as pretty a devil as Anne looked a pretty angel. Seeing Mrs. McRory, she reached in her purse, took out a few folded bills, and handed them over.

"I know how you hate money, Mrs. McRory-Dory. You hate it like ham hates eggs, but could you take my rent off me here, or must I carry it downstairs to your treasurer?"

"O, Gawd, niver lave money on me husband. I'll take it. Was it a trunkful of gold, it would be light as a pillow of goose feathers. And thank you hairtily, Miss Gregg. You're a good tinant—whativer else you may be."

"I get you, you old blarneyer! And don't you wish you could be as bad as you think I am? And wouldn't I be twice as worse if I could get paid for it?"

She dropped into a chair close to Anne, crossed the professionally pretty legs, which she called her "bread winners," and put out her arms.

"Hand me one of those rabbits to play with before I go back to work. It's the only kind of doll I'll ever hold." She paused to knock on wood. "A ready-made one, custom built and streamlined."

• • •

NED, the howler, shrank away from her with a new contortion. Teddy put out his arms and slipped into hers. As Nell squeezed him close the landlady departed. Nell made violent love to the infant before she asked:

"Didn't you tell me this lump of sugar was born last Christmas?"

"Last Christmas—he and his brother."

"Just imagine! You must have hung up both stockings! My Gawd, but kids do get to you, don't they? Once they're finished like this. Do you mind if I sit here a while and squeeze the livin' daylights out of this little cherub?

"If I could adopt something like this—and had a husband—you're not thinkin' of sellin' one of these, are you? Or wouldn't you care to break the set? But how do you ever expect to get along? If you could park 'em somewhere I might get you a job in one of the night clubs. My particular pal, Ben Roat, knows 'em all. He runs 'em like chain grocery stores.

"But you couldn't bring these with you—say, what ails that one you got there? He ain't stopped yodeling for the last hour. He acts like he had nervous prostration or something. Hadn't he ought to see a doctor, or a plumber, or somebody?"

"Yes, I think he ought. I was just waiting for a way to leave him for a while."

Nell's fondness for dandling Ted gave Anne the last push she needed over the edge the landlady had brought her to. She had been brooding on her problem for weeks. Mrs. McRory's offer to care for one of the twins if the other went to Sister Irene's basket seemed to be heaven's—or hell's—answer to the riddle.

If Anne refused the landlady's advice there was nothing ahead of her but the river or a tall building. She wanted to live and she wanted her babies to live, but evidently it was not in the books that they should live together.

Afraid even to mention her plan to Nell, she caught at the opportunity and said:

"I've been wanting to take little Ned here to the hospital for a once-over, but I hadn't anybody to leave Teddy with with. Could you——"

"Sure! I got a hour or two yet before the whistle blows. I haven't played with a doll in a hell of a while. Run along and get old Uncle Ned there polished up. I'll take Ted into my room so's if there's a phone call I can nab it."

Nell's and the landlady's partiality to Ted made up Anne's mind for her—saved her from the dread of choosing between her children. Humbly she told herself that, seeing how wretched Ned was with her, she was doing him no injustice in offering him the chance of a home with other people. He might be a happy child in happier surroundings.

She herself had been two different women in different companies. She had been wretched at home and had only begun to live outside—until her desperate little romance threw her out of the scant heaven she had with the man who was so briefly her husband.

She still believed that he would come back to her before it was too late to rescue his baby from the Foundling hospital.

There was no way for Anne to find out that Edward Theodore Fleming was dead, that he had fallen off the ship he fled on. There was no way for her to foresee that she also was on her way out—perhaps to join him somewhere, but certainly never on this earth, to which she had contributed two children, as a flower scatters seeds before it goes the way of all flowers.

She put on her hat and reached for her purse, but, since there was no money in it, left it there. She kissed the child in Nell's arms and said to him:

"Be good, now, till mamma comes back."

Strangely enough, Ned's wails ended the moment he was out of the room. Apparently he was one of those who like travel so well that the destination is less important than the motion.

Anne did not see Mrs. McRory on the way down the stairs and out, and it was only when she reached the street that she realized she did not know where the Foundling hospital was. She stopped in at the corner drug store and looked up the address in the telephone book there. Also she borrowed from the druggist a pencil and a slip of paper—a prescription blank—and wrote on it a line or two with infinite anguish:

His name is Ned. Please be better to him than I could be. He was born on Christmas day.

She decided not to sign it, but stuffed it into her bosom and plunged into the dark and crowded streets. She made her way through the indifferent throng to the Foundling hospital and kept aloof while she studied the door of it.

She paced back and forth, stared at by the passersby, who wondered at the young mother weeping so hard over a baby that chuckled so contentedly. A dozen times Anne moved toward the door. A dozen times she rushed away from it, determined to die rather than cast her child adrift on the unknown seas behind that fatal door.

Finally, in a frantic crisis of despair, she hurried to the door. In a recess was a white wicker bassinet, very pretty and hospitable. She laid her baby in it, stuffed the little prescription blank in his jacket, rang a bell she saw there, whispered, "Don't cry, darling! Good-by, darling!" and darted away.

She was weeping so blindly that she could hardly see where she went. Half way across a street as tangled with wild trafic as her own life was, she decided that she could not give up her baby. She turned to run back just as the signal changed. She was engulfed in a flood of cars hurtling forward like a broken log jam.

It was not Anne that screamed, but some woman who saw her knocked down and lost under so many wheels that no one could know which car or truck crushed her first. When the police and the ambulance had cleared away the brief obstacle she made in the monstrous torrent they found her in no state for recognition or the publication of her photograph.

THEY found nothing on her to give the faintest clew to her unimportant identity. She was merely grist in the great grinding mill of the streets, and only a few of the newspapers even mentioned that an unknown woman had been included in the day's street casualties.

Anne had managed to reach a kind of city of sacred refuge with one of her children, but she had left the other in the hands of Nell Gregg, whose lawlessness was all the more complete from the laughter she got out of it. Even her one almost serious romance was with a knave, Ben Roat. A smile was as rare on his face as it was merciless when it came.

On the very evening when the twins were separated by the death of their mother, and sent along two such opposite-pointing roads, a young psychiatrist, one Clifford Pitnick, Ph. D., was working over an article for a magazine that dealt in such things.

There was no coincidence in this, since he had been hammering out the same thoughts for years and would go on hammering them out as long as he lasted. The clarity of Dr. Pitnick's thought was not great, because the subject was—and is—so complex, but also because the highballs he kept taking did more to befuddle his brain than to light up the dark.

The keyboard of his typewriter wavered and curdled, and he saw two alphabets, for the liquor benumbed his optical muscles and his two popping eyeballs could not converge enough to make the images one. So the great essay, as it looked to Dr. Pitnick's boozy eyes, began as follows:

"Aallll lliiffee iiss oonnee."

He gave it up at last and went to bed. The next morning when he looked at his work he found that before his brain was quite whisky-logged he had written:

"All life is one big laboratory, and all of us must sift through it, meeting such influences as chance may float us against, and being changed by them according to our natures and theirs. No two of us are alike, and no two of us meet exactly the same conditions or react to them in the same way.

"The nearest alike of human beings are twins, especially identical twins resulting from the cleavage of one cell. They are sure to be of the same sex and full of amazing resemblances—almost identities. Some twins are so nearly alike that their own mother has to become fairly well acquainted with them before she can tell them apart. Strangers are completely baffled. Twins born of the simultaneous fertilization of two separate ova are not nearly so much alike and are often very dissimilar.

"What wonderful progress we could make in our studies of the human soul if we could take new twins, identical twins if possible, separate them, and send them, as it were, down different hoppers, keeping watch over them as they are carried through different experiences.

"They would unwittingly perform the perfect experiment in psychology and teach us just how much influence environment has on character, how much the soul is changed by what surrounds it, and how much it changes its surroundings.

"But such an experiment seems to be beyond our hopes, for where can we find the parents willing to subject their little ones to such a passage through the great laboratory without interfering when they fall into those very dangers which would test our theories?"

IN THE course of time Pitnick would think he was going to realize his dreams, for a cousin of his married a little woman who promptly provided him with identical twins. Unlike Anne Fleming, she would take nobody's advice, and she insisted on treating both darlings alike, dressing them alike, and rearing them alike.

She rebuffed with horror the pleas of Pitnick, who wanted her to turn over to him her precious ones for his experiments. Her twins tantalized and thwarted him so that he drank harder than ever and went on vainly imploring the fates to send him what he wanted.

He would have given his right hand—well, anyway, his left eye—to have known of the Fleming twins, for they were brought up under absolutely different influences. All they lacked was a scientific observer keeping minute accounts of their chemical and spiritual behavior under the infinitely various reagents they ran into.

The people who took over the rearing of Ned did not even know he had a twin brother. Nellie Gregg, the foster mother of Ted, knew, of course, that Ted's twin had once existed, but soon after she saw him depart in Anne's arms she decided that both had disappeared forever and gave up all expectation of seeing either of them ever again.

It was typical of Nell's character, based on her experiences—or perhaps her experiences were based on her character—in any case, it was like Nell to wonder if Anne had deliberately planned to disappear.

For the first half hour or so Nell took care of Anne's baby as a man plays with his son's Christmas toys. But the novelty soon wore off. As it came time for her to go to work she began to worry. Teddy was hungry and made no secret of it. He told her so in the only language he knew—mainly sign language. She counseled with him:

"Teddy boy, I hope that little mammy of yours hasn't taken a run-out powder on us. Swell if she took it on the lam and left me holding the bag—no offense to you, Teddykins; you're a bag of candy. But you sure would take a lot of explaining. Keep your hands off me. I know you're hungry, but you're barking up the wrong tree. I ain't that kind of a lady."

She knew that Mrs. McRory was abed by now. She thought she recognized the McRory snore in the household symphony. Mrs. McRory usually got out of bed about the same hour in the morning that Nell got into hers. Hunting about, she came on a milk bottle in an icebox. She warmed it up a little on the kitchenette stove and gave it to Teddy, saying:

"Here, bo, gnaw on that while I do some ground and lofty thinkin'."

To the more earnest of the good people of New York Nell was an anonymous imp of evil, one of the throng of young women who made merchandise of their charms and disgrace of their graces.

She was one of those who did not believe in burying what talents she had. Since her only talents were her physical perfections, she hated to bury them even in clothes.

As a mere half-formed girl she had joined the vast army of women who began at that time the great undressing rush which overwhelmed the censors. The nudist colonies flourished behind high walls in the deep woods, but the next-to-nudists filled the stages and the night resorts, and the beaches.

Nell went as far as the laws of the cabaret allowed, then went a little farther. Now and then she would be carried off to the police station in the "foolish wagon," but there were always kind gentlemen to bail her out, and the effect of the punishment was seen in the haste she made to resume her old practices until the next raid.

Good people who thought of her as a dangerous criminal would have been perplexed by the maternal ecstasies that another woman's baby awoke in her.

Nell was still a child, a bad one, but a child; the worst and most dangerous of all children, the one that never learns to respect the laws. She talked to the infant Teddy with much the manner and vocabulary she devoted to the brokers who asked her to their tables.

In New York a broker means almost any male (only rarely a stock exchange man) who dresses well and gets about of nights. Nell's brokers were apt to be drunk and dumb, or at least incoherent. They had little advantage over Teddy.

An Open Letter to Douglas Corrigan

DOUGLAS CORRIGAN

Dear Douglas: According to your horoscope, you are going to have many influences during the coming five years—influences that will tempt you to make numerous changes, moving about more than the physical moves of a restless pilot would normally do. You are going to have a hard time picking your true friends from among the other kind, especially among the women you will know. In your business hook-ups you will have genuine opportunities connected with entertainment—not that you should try to be an actor, although this is one of your minor occupational choices. But during these coming five years you need to be mighty careful to avoid the swindle element in its many false faces. With best wishes, WYNN.

Part 7 Drama Music Education

OCTOBER 2, 1938

Left: A busy bee is Olivia De Havilland—though she doesn't look it here. She's currently appearing in "Four's a Crowd" with Errol Flynn, and working on production of "Wings of the Navy" with George Brent and "Hot Heiress," opposite Dick Powell.

Above: Here is Gail Page. She plays a leading role in "Four Daughters." Those Lane girls, Lola, Rosemary, and Priscilla, are also headliners in the cast. (Chicago)

Fritzi Scheff Still "on Road"

By Cecil Smith

In 1902 when the Metropolitan Opera company made one of its annual visits to the Auditorium theater the roster of singers included a "sprightly little lady with challenging eyes and an attracive figure." Her name was Fritzi Scheff, and she sang Nedda in "Pagliacci," Marguerite in "Faust," and Papagena in "The Magic Flute." A year later she returned with the company and in the course of a repetition of "The Magic Flute" engaged in an unpremeditated but memorable scene with Mme. Marcella Sembrich.

At the close of the famous "Pa-pa-pa-pageno" duet Miss Scheff and her collaborator, Giuseppe Campanari, completely stopped the show. After repeated recalls the audience still refused to let the opera go on. Mme. Sembrich came onto the stage and began to sing. But the roar of applause would not subside. Finally Miss Scheff and Campanari gave an encore. But Mme. Sembrich did not reappear, and the following ensemble was cut.

At the close of the performance the celebrated coloratura did not appear before the curtain. Miss Scheff and Johanna Gadski left in search of her and came back to report, "She's gone home."

The little German ingénue who was able to steal a show from the great Sembrich and send her home in a huff was brought up in Vienna, Frankfort, and Dresden. Until she was 17 she studied hard. Then she made her debut at an almost unprecedentedly early age in those pre-Betty Jaynes days of severe discipline and strict training. Martha was her first rôle, at Munich, and the heroine of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" her second.

On Dec. 28, 1900, Fritzi Scheff made her bow at the Metropolitan Opera house as Marzelline in Beethoven's "Fidelio." She was billed for Musetta in "La Bohême" two days earlier, but was indisposed. She remained at the Metropolitan for three seasons.

Her greatest triumphs came later when she turned to the field of light opera. In Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste" her singing of "Kiss Me Again" brought New York to her feet at the première on Christmas night, 1905. For nearly three years she appeared exclusively in this operetta. "The Prima Donna," written for her by Herbert and first given in Chicago, Oct. 5, 1908, was likewise a great success, although it never matched the popularity of "Mlle. Modiste."

Fritzi Scheff lived the life that was expected of a prima donna in those days, surrounding herself with a large retinue of maids, press agents, and hangers-on, and traveling across the continent in a private car. When she came to Chicago in the fall of 1910 to sing in "The Mikado" she regaled reporters at the station with a truly triumphal appearance. Here is a contemporary description:

"There was a fanfare of trumpets, and six valets clad in immaculate bottle-green uniforms, with 'F. S.' blazoned in white letters upon their military caps, descended to the platform bearing numerous traveling bags. The bags were deposited on a nearby truck, and (Continued on Page 2.)

Jesse James Is Bad Man with a Good Heart in New Drama

Outlaw's Last 8 Days Make Up Action of Saga

By Burns Mantle.

New York.—[Special.]—"The dirty little coward, who shot Thomas Howard, laid poor Jesse in his grave," sings a one-man choir at the close of "Missouri Legend," the first drama of the new season. E. B. Ginty, the author, does not try to make a hero of Jesse James, but she does present him as a bad man with a good heart, which is customary when glamorous law breakers are humanized for the fiction trade.

Jesse is living in St. Joe in 1882 in the play. Married to a protesting but loyal wife, his brother Frank and three or four other members of his band practically make their home with him. Jesse has become a loyal churchman, a fighting Baptist, with little use for meeker Methodists. Churches, he reasons, are run for sinners because saints don't need them. And he has a vaguely reasoned idea that God is understanding. He is no longer an avenger for the wrongs done his family because of their southern sympathies.

Miss Ginty's saga covers no more than Jesse's last eight days. He organizes a train robbery; stops on the way to the robbery to befriend a widow who is about to be dispossessed by a villainous banker; gives her the money to pay off a mortgage and then steals it back from the collector; holds up the bank to avenge his honor when the banker doubts his word and is finally shot in the back by a jittery follower tempted by the $10,000 reward offered by the governor of the state.

These essential facts are true enough to the James story to be acceptable and their transfer to the stage has been accomplished with good effect. It is fairly easy to believe in most of the characters and to accept the dramatic situations. But there is neither sympathetic nor emotional appeal, and this will probably prove the weakness of the drama as a stage attraction.

Miss Ginty was for many years David Belasco's secretary. She knows the theater and has a nice feeling for character. Dean Jagger, better known to screen than to stage audiences, plays Jesse, making him a lumbering, kindly, likable person. Mildred Natwick, the surest of character comediennes, is the befriended widow. She wins the acting honors of the cast. Dorothy Gish does nicely by the protesting wife, Joseph Sweeney is the banker, and Richard Bishop a stolid Frank James. Guthrie McClintic staged and produced the play.

The Winter Garden, which is still a strong attraction with folks from out of town, has started its season with a typical winter garden exhibit called "You Never Know." The Shuberts had this one touring for some weeks at the tail end of last season trying to whip it into shape for Broadway. The whipping has done some good, but the shape is still nothing to talk about. The cast is all that saves the piece.

The principals include the Clifton Webb who glides with grace and curious interpretative twitches about the stage in a variety of dance numbers; Lupe Velez, who comes from Hollywood determined to be cute and devastatingly hoydenish or know the reason why, and Libby Holman, who has tired again of riches and obscurity and brought her fuzzy velvet contralto into the open with pleasant results.

In the second line of defense are the Hartmans, who specialize in amusing burlesques of esthetic dances, and Rex O'Malley, a suavely mannered juvenile who loves playing aristocrats.

The story of "You Never Know" is negligible. Taken from a comedy called "Candlelight," it tells the one about the gentleman's gentleman who posed as his master and a lady's maid who changed frocks with her mistress. Which is quite all right if you can stand it.

Another musical entrant is called, evidently because it has to be called something, "Hellzapoppin." This is a collection of variety acts of the old-time variety, assembled by Olsen and Johnson, a pair of noisy comics who had their following years back and are now intent on recapturing that following's interest.

This may be possible, but the odds are against it. The Messrs. Olsen and Johnson do start their evening with as gay and amusing a bit of travesty as we have seen in months. A newsreel showing actual photos of President Roosevelt, Adolf Hitler, Benito Mussolini, John L. Lewis, and other notables in speaking pose is run, and while the lips move as the lips of the respective speakers the words are the words of a ribald jester behind the screen who takes occasion to boost extravagantly the talents of the performers, and particularly the enterprise of Olsen and Johnson. After that, unhappily, the show becomes a noisy conglomeration, much of it acted in the ailes of the theater, more to the discomfort than the entertainment of the auditors.

The production of "Pins and Needles" last season started something in the theater which this season may be reasonably regarded as a trend. It has brought the proletarian satire uptown and given it to the very class it aims to satirize, not to say pillory.

The second of the radical musicals is one called "Sing Out the News," which, in effect, is another "Pins and Needles." The form of entertainment, the character of the sketches and the general setup is the same as that which brought novelty and success to Labor stage, which, as you may remember, was organized as an outlet for the combined talents of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union.

The political bits include a travesty on "I Married an Angel" in which a sub-committee of the Republican National committee, seeking a candidate for president, is favored with the visit of a volunteer straight from heaven. A likely candidate, too, in all particulars save that he, too, is a believer in stripping the rich to support the poor and such other New Deal policies as the committeemen are able to acquaint him with. He, however, accepts the nomination and promptly loses his wings.

IN SELWYN COMEDY

John Emery is featured at the Selwyn theater in the comedy adapted by Zoe Adkins from the Hungarian of Lili Hatvany, called "I Am Different."

Vaudeville

Veloz and Yolanda, famous dance team, leave the Empire room of the Palmer house for a week's engagement at the Chicago theater. It is announced as their last Chicago appearance before their retirement from the stage. The screen feature is "Four Daughters," with the Lane sisters and John Garfield.

At the Palace theater Count Berni Vici conducts the Hollywood Ingénues, an all-girl orchestra, and heads the "Stars Over Broadway" revue, in which appear Schlepperman, comedian; Roberta, dancer; Lane and Lane, acrobats; La Rue and Carol, dance team, and Gene Gory and company, comedians. Joel McCrea and Andrea Leeds star in the current motion picture, "Youth Takes a Fling."

The radio hill-billy orchestra, Texas Jim Lewis and his Lone Star Cowboys, head the list of attractions at the State-Lake theater. Other acts include Pinky Lee, radio comedian; the Perry Twins, tap dancers; Joe and Jane McKenna, knockabout team; Ada Brown, and Verne Buck with his State-Lake Sweethearts. "Rich Man, Poor Girl," with Robert Young and Lew Ayres, is shown on the screen.

Guy Lombardo Takes Over at Palmer House

Veloz and Yolanda bowed their way out of the Empire room at the Palmer house Wednesday evening, and the following night the welcome mat was dusted off for Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians. . . . A good many Chicagoans were on hand to join in the dusting off process.

The story of the Lombardo aggregation is something of an epic in entertainment. . . . A native of London [Ontario], Guy was an orchestra leader at the age of 12. . . . Son of a musician, he started in on the violin at an early age, and he was still in short pants when he directed his own juvenile band in a concert before the local Mothers' club. . . . That was the start of the Royal Canadians.

Fifteen years ago he came across the border to introduce his velvety music to a country mad about jaz. . . . Today he is doing the same thing in a country mad about swing. . . . He has never varied from his determination to play tunes instead of noises.

● The Royal Canadians are repeaters at the Empire room; they first played there in the summer of 1936. . . . Two other repeat acts are Tommy Martin, magician, and Holland and Hart, ballroom dancers. . . . Four years ago Martin rang up a record run of sixteen weeks. . . . Holland and Hart were here in the summer of '37. . . . They have just returned from a tour of Europe—where the people are more interested right now in escaping the dance of death than in watching ballroom dance routines.

Other acts in the autumn revue at this supper club: Jimmy and Mildred Mulcay, labeled "harmonica rhapsodists"; Dolly Thon, specialty dancer, and Chicago's twelve Abbott dancers. . . . Phil Dooley's swing band performs whenever Lombardo's band rests.

● The lights on the near south side grew brighter Wednesday night when the Royale Frolics café went into action with a sprightly show headed by Bee Kalmus. . . . This singer, coming here from Ben Marden's Riviera in New York, is making her first appearance in Chicago. . . . With her are the Radio Ramblers, comedians and singers familiar to movie and vaudeville audiences; the Karre le Baron trio, adagio dancers centering around an eye-filling girl who otherwise doesn't take up much space; Spencer and Foreman, youthful tap dancers; Jack Hilliard, vocalist and emcee; Mark Fisher's band, and a chorus of twenty-four. . . . The entire cast acts as if it enjoys its work, and the crowd responds accordingly.

● Known as the Greek ambassador of good will, George Givot is cavorting hereabouts for the first time in several years. . . . He headlines the show that opened at the Hi-Hat club Thursday night. . . . A Chicagoan, he attended Lewis institute before entering the amusement business. . . . He has been in the movies, and last summer he was getting laughs in England. . . . With Givot at the Hi-Hat are Wini Shaw, last heard at the Chez Paree; Barbara McDonald, dancer; the Pol-Mar dancing girls, and Sidney Lang's orchestra.

Comedy Role Recalls Scheff Triumph Here

the six valets lined up, three to a side, on each side of the step and raised their hands in salute.

"With another fanfare of trumpets four French maids descended, each burdened with luggage, and after depositing it on the truck also lined up and stood at attention. Then descended the private secretary with the writing portfolio under his arm and a splash of ink on his nose to indicate his special position.

"After an impressive pause the personal representative, Mr. Nath Roth, descended with the Scheff dog tucked carefully under his arm. Another pause and Miss Scheff's husband stepped lightly to the platform and saluted the assemblage.

"Another impressive pause, and madam herself appeared at the top of the steps. A sudden hush came over the multitude. . . ."

This was in 1910. The world has not always been so kind to Fritzi Scheff since then. But the spirit of a real trouper never gives in, and she has taken adversity in her stride.

And now, many years later and still on the road, she is a member of the cast of "I Am Different," in which Tallulah Bankhead is starred at the Selwyn theater. When you see her don't forget the Fritzi Scheff who drove the envious Sembrich from the stage, and who traveled in her private Pullman with six attendants in bottle green uniforms.

For their second play in the 1938-1939 subscription list of six, patrons of the American Theater society will venture to the Selwyn theater to see "Of Mice and Men," the dramatized version of John Steinbeck's best selling novel which was awarded the Critics' prize in New York last season. The opening date is Oct. 24. According to unconfirmed reports from New York the leading male rôles will be given to Guy Robertson and Edward Andrews, instead of Wallace Ford and Broderick Crawford of last year's Broadway cast. Mr. Andrews will play the central rôle of an unfortunate feeble minded yokel who kills his girl because he does not understand his own strength.

Later on in the autumn American Theater society subscribers — and sporadic playgoers as well — may count on a double opportunity to see Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The famous couple will open a four week engagement in "Amphitryon 38" at the Erlanger theater Nov. 28, and subsequently, on Dec. 26, will turn their energies to Chekhoff's "The Sea Gull" for a period of two weeks. Both plays are included in the subscription list.

For the first time in history the President of the United States becomes the leading figure in a musical comedy in "I'd Rather Be Right," opening at the Auditorium theater Nov. 21. George M. Cohan, the star of the performance, has made his portrait of President Franklin D. Roosevelt the crowning achievement of his distinctive career. The book is by those deft slingers of political shafts, George Kaufman and Moss Hart, the first of whom won the Pulitzer prize for a previous satiric essay upon national policy in "Of Thee I Sing." The lyrics and music are by Lorenz Hart and Richard Rodgers.

"Blossom Time" will unfold its bittersweet story of Franz Schubert and his beloved Mitzi once more at the Grand Opera house in one of its perennial revivals beginning Oct. 16. The cast looks good this time with Everett Marshall, former Metropolitan opera baritone, as Schubert; Charlotte Lansing, heard here in "The New Moon" and "Desert Song," as Mitzi, and a supporting group including Robert Shafer, last seen and heard here with Beatrice Lillie in "At Home Abroad"; Marjorie Ford, Gracie Worth, Douglas Leavitt, and William Kent. The music, as every one knows, started out to be by Schubert and ended up by being by Sigmund Romberg.

The Chicago Repertory group, local play producing unit, will play host to the "Golden Boy" company on Friday evening at the Repertory theater, 29 East Balbo street. An original revue burlesquing the story of "Golden Boy," entitled "Goldet's Boy" [can you find Clifford Odets' name in that title without straining your intellect?], will receive its first [and last?] performance at the hands of the Repertory players. Hosts and guests alike will be delighted to have members of the playgoing public attend their frolic.

Of special interest to Chicago followers of the theater is Edith Atwater, who plays the rôle of Leonora Stubbs in Gertrude Lawrence's company of "Susan and God," opening at the Harris theater Oct. 10. Miss Atwater is a Chicagoan, the daughter of Mrs. Harold Pynchol. The Goodman theater was the scene of much of her early dramatic training. Her first New York chance came in "The Black Crook," a burlesqued revival of an old play in Hoboken, N. J. Her performance won her less questionable assignments in "Springtime for Henry," "Brittle Heaven," and "This Our House." Recently she has appeared with Ruth Gordon in "The Country Wife" and in the Theater Guild production of Maxwell Anderson's "The Masque of Kings."

Opera to Run Week.

What is said to be the first production in the history of the opera to run an entire week, will be the Peninsula Philharmonic society's presentation of Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas," at Williamsburg, Va. Each evening during this week, beginning tomorrow, an attempt will be made to recapture the intimate spirit of the early English theater in which "Dido and Aeneas" was first given about 250 years ago. Orchestra and attendants will be in costume, the lighting will be by candles, and orange "wenches" will ply their wares during the intermissions.

Antioch Co-op Study Plan Is Held Success

By the Rev. John Evans.

Antioch college, Yellow Springs, O., a liberal arts institution which became widely noted under the presidency of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, has developed a coöperative study plan under which students work in various industries and other nearby enterprises part of the time and then return to Yellow Springs for academic training.

This setup raised certain student problems such as where to live, what to see and how best to spend their money in strange cities and among strange people while engaged in the work side of their educational programs. But the problems are now well toward solution through the organization of a coöperative student managed information bureau, established this year by Miss Ella Posselt Monrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Niels Monrad, 3479 Tripp avenue, Chicago; Guy Deeks of Sea Cliff, N. Y., and George L. Harter of Des Moines, Ia.

The three students who are doing the work get their information from the student work reports sent in to the college, and from questionnaires answered directly by upper classmen. The bureau is now compiling a student guide for each city where the college has arranged for coöperative jobs in industry. The service is run as a project under the community participation plan set up by Dr. Morgan whereby all students made definite contributions to the college community.

Instead of having two semesters, as in most colleges, or quarters as in a number of universities, the Antioch college year is divided into eight divisions of five weeks each. This arrangement helps to gear the students' coöperative work assignments into their academic programs. The information bureau publishes their findings during the last week of each of the eight divisions of the school year.

Charge of Infrequent Melody in 'Good' Music Analyzed

It Seems Piece Must Be Heard Several Times

By Edward Barry.

The composers of "classical" music make their listeners wait such a long time between melodies. Often you have to sit through a whole symphony to get one hummable bit in the first movement and another in the last.

A second irritating habit of these stingy gentlemen is to quote a little snatch of their melody and go on to something different just before that swelling moment for which you have been waiting is scheduled to arrive. Sometimes they tantalizingly withhold a full restatement for what seems like a quarter of an hour. Things are so different in popular music, where a chorus is played over and over and over again and where you do not have to put up with a lot of filler between repetitions.

The above objections are put forward frequently by people who are trying to get interested in "good" music and who find the going extremely hard. In rare instances their charges are justified, for some composers in some works have indubitably tried to spread their melodic inspiration too thin. At other times they have been guilty of formal miscalculations and have failed to secure by means of sufficient repetition that unity and that sense of completeness which the esthetic sense of the listener quite justly demands. Or the conductor may make unauthorized cuts and bring the composer's scheme to grief. Sometimes there are passages whose principal interest lies in harmony, rhythm, or color, rather than melody.

But in the majority of cases this difficulty in finding sufficient melody in a work is due to one of two causes. [a] The melodies are of a subtle rather than an obvious character and they do not reveal themselves as examples of the genuine article until they have been heard many times [b] The listener is defining melody in too narrow a way and is missing countless excellent things simply because they do not fall in with his conception of what melody is.

Everybody will call "Jingle Bells" a melody and hardly any one will require even two hearings of it before making such a concession. On first acquaintance with the slow movement of Schumann's piano concerto only a small percentage of listeners will recognize it as anything but a clever conversation between the solo instrument and the orchestra. That it is a gloriously expressive melody, infinitely superior to "Jingle Bells," will be borne in upon the more sensitive members of an audience after one or two repetitions. For some, ten or more hearings may be required.

Yet this bit of Schumann can hardly be rated as an exceptionally subtle melody. Music fairly bursts with examples of melodic sequences which require much more attention than this before their beauty can be apprehended.

If a man says "Pass the butter," you grasp the idea immediately and dismiss it promptly from your mind. If he says "Maybe the very conception of purpose is a purely human one," you are silent and thoughtful. The meaning of the first statement offers the mind no difficulties. The second does—but it also opens up vistas of thought which are as long as life and considerably wider than the universe.

The rule of "Easy come, easy go" applies not only to fortunes and ideas but to intuitions as well. The feeling content of "Jingle Bells" is immediately apparent and is simply not worth any extended contemplation. In the Schumann, and in a thousand more subtle melodic ideas, the feeling content is not so easily apprehended nor so promptly dismissed. Music of this sort has a permanency of appeal which more than justifies the additional effort required for its comprehension. It says something important, something which we will do well to try to make our own.

Confusion as to what constitutes melody—the second possible reason for the difficulties which people have in finding it in "classical" music—is admirably illustrated in the controversy over Wagner. His enemies used to claim that his music had no melody, his friends that it was all melody. Obviously the members of these two groups should have arranged a truce and spent an hour or two trying to agree on a definition of melody.

If by melody you mean a rhythmically compelling sequence whose parts balance perfectly and whose cadences come always at the expected moment then it is indubitably true that a great many "classical" works [Wagner's "Ring," for instance] are very poor in melody.

But music is not content with a definition which covers only one type of melody—the "tune." Certainly it is no lowly type, and nearly all of the great composers have been proud to turn out as many good tunes as they could—yet it is no better nor worse, in itself, than the other kind of melody which is used so frequently in standard music.

Melody is simply an expressive series of tones. A melody need not be rhythmically obvious nor susceptible of division into balancing periods. Cadences may be quite unexpected and unconventional. The flow of feeling rather than an architectural blue print determines where the melody shall go and how it shall end. Such music has greater flexibility than the tune type, and a widened expressive range.

It is true that you cannot tap your foot to many of the preludes and fantasies that precede the Bach organ fugues nor to much of the music with which Wagner has clothed the remarks of his gods and goddesses. But there are more enduring joys than foot tapping—and countless loftier musical aims.

3d Chicagoan Wins N. Y. Cash for Composing

By Cecil Smith.

Within the past two years the Philharmonic-Symphony society of New York, in its annual contests for new works by American composers, has given cash prizes to four composers. Three of the four are Chicagoans. David Van Vactor, the most recent winner by virtue of his Symphony in D, lives in Evanston. So does Gardner Read, who won the initial prize in the first contest. Robert L. Sanders, whose "Little Symphony" led the judges to divide a prize between him and Charles Haubiel of New York, was born in Chicago and lived most of his life here until Sept. 1 last, at which time he moved to Indiana university to become dean of the school of music.

Here is welcome evidence that musical creativity is burgeoning in our very midst. The Philharmonic-Symphony contests are utterly impartial—make no mistake of that. Extraordinary precautions are taken to make sure that none of the judges can possibly know the origin of any of the scores submitted. And, as if this were not enough, one of the successful Chicago contestants went so far as to use score paper purchased in New York and to have a friend remail the manuscript from Newark, N. J., so that nothing about his entry should betray its middle western origin!

There is a good moral lesson for us in New York's discovery of the middle west. For too long we have overrespected the east, and concurred weakly in the typical New Yorker's bland assumption that the Allegheny mountains continue to present an insuperable barrier to the westward spread of musical culture. We never dreamed that the output of any of our resident composers could compare favorably with the works of the best eastern musicians.

Even though neither Mr. Sanders' "Little Symphony" nor Mr. Van Vactor's "Symphony in D" has yet received its public première, it is my good fortune to know both scores reasonably well. I have heard two orchestral rehersals of Mr. Van Vactor's complete symphony. Mr. Sanders' score I have heard only on the piano, but I examined the manuscript several times before the composer submitted it in the contest.

Of the two, Mr. Van Vactor's symphony is not only longer but much more sober in its prevailing mood. It is not without an echo of Sibelius, and there even seemed to be one fleeting reminiscence of Scriabin's "Divine Poem" in a trumpet call in the finale. But these are unimportant bits of detective work, for the symphony as a whole is splendidly original, and reveals a gift of long-lined eloquence that is something new in Mr. Van Vactor's music. The harmony is dissonant but not too dissonant, and the orchestration is richly varied in color without seeking mere color at the expense of thematic interest.

Mr. Sanders' "Little Symphony," superlatively competent in its orchestral craftsmanship, seeks out a lighter vein. Its most impressive quality is its authentic Americanism of idiom. The first and last of its three movements capitalize a streak of brash jollity which the composer first discovered for himself in some barn dances he tossed off a few years ago. The principal theme of the slow second movement is none other than the familiar hymn tune, "Jesus calls us, o'er the tumult," with improvements in melodic line which eradicate the banality of its original form.

It is a known fact that the east possesses a large number of composers of good and deserved reputation. There is no reason to suppose that all the eastern composers conspired to boycott a contest offering a jackpot of $1,000 to the fortunate winner, or even the secondary contest for a shorter work, holding out a lure of $500. Why, then, does the score stand 3 to 1 in favor of Chicago?

The answer is not easy to find, but I think there is an answer. The musical world of the east may be said to be divided into two camps—conservative and radical. The conservatives are represented by such men as Daniel Gregory Mason, David Stanley Smith, and a host of others who cast a nostalgic eye back toward the era of Brahms and manifest at least partial distrust of most contemporary musical idioms. The radicals, such as Roger Sessions and Aaron Copland, not to mention many others much more iconoclastic, have developed a brand of musical speech beyond the comprehension of many lay listeners, even though musicians are likely to admire much of their work.

Here in Chicago we have our conservatives, too, but the three prize-winning composers are not among them. We do not, however, have any genuine radicals. Even Gardner Read, the most radical of the trio, is not as radical as I suspect he may think he is; his newest piece, the "Passacaglia" played at Ravinia last summer, could not have come into existence without the Bach Passacaglia on which it bases its form and much of its very thematic material.

Mr. Van Vactor's symphony is not nearly as experimental as, let us say, Honegger's "Horace Victorieux," written nearly twenty years ago. Soon after the war Hindemith started passing through musical territory much like the area of Mr. Van Vactor's present explorations, and Hindemith is not the most radical of contemporary creative musicians. Mr. Sanders employs few harmonies that would not fit into the scheme of a Gershwin, a Kern, or a Youmans, none of whom cared to risk using a style the lay public could not understand.

I should hazard the guess, therefore, that these Chicago scores appealed to the eastern judges because they had something vital and fresh to say in a style that did not go beyond the comprehension of the average habitué of the Philharmonic-Symphony concerts [or for that matter the concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra]. If you are hunting for extremes of musical innovation, you will still do well to hunt in the east. If you are looking for new music employing a vocabulary not too unfamiliar, yet personal and communicative and warm, you need not necessarily let your search carry you far away from home.

Notes of Music and Musicians

The San Carlo Opera company comes directly from the Center theater in New York to the Auditorium theater for a three weeks' season beginning tomorrow night. Members of the company familiar to Chicago who reappear during the opening week are Lucille Meusel, Norina Greco, Leola Turner, Hizi Koyke, sopranos; Charlotte Bruno, Lyuba Senderowna, Philine Falco, contraltos; Aroldo Lindi, Dimitri Onofrei, Rolf Gerard, tenors; Mostyn Thomas, Stefan Kozakevich, Mario Valle, baritones; Harold Kravitt and Natale Cervi, bassos.

The opening performance, Rossini's "Barber of Seville," features the Chicago debut of Ivan Petroff, Bulgarian baritone, in the title rôle. In the Tuesday evening performance of "Aïda," Lloyd Harris, bass, makes his debut as the King of Egypt, and Mildred Browning, contralto, makes her first Chicago appearance as Mama Lucia in "Cavalleria Rusticana" on Thursday.

Saturday nights' Carmen will be Helen Oelheim, Metropolitan mezzo-soprano, who makes her Chicago debut in the Bizet opera. Miss Oelheim was born in Buffalo, N. Y., the daughter of a violinist-father and a singer-mother. She entered the Eastman School of Music on a scholarship, appeared in New York in 1927 as a member of the Rochester Opera company and later toured with the American Opera company. Her Metropolitan debut was made as Siebel in "Faust" on Dec. 19, 1936, and she has appeared since then in such rôles as Suzuki, Lola, Maddalena, Mercedes and Frederick.

As before, the incidental dances will be furnished by the corps de ballet with Lucian Prideaux and Lydia Arlova. All performances will be under the direction of Carlo Peroni.

Complete details for the first week's repertoire follow:

Monday evening—Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," with Lucille Meusel, Charlotte Bruno, Dimitri Onofrei, Ivan Petroff [debut], Harold Kravitt, and Natale Cervi.

Tuesday evening — Verdi's "Aïda," with Norina Greco, Lyuba Senderowna, Alice Homer, Aroldo Lindi, Mostyn Thomas, Kravitt and Lloyd Harris [debut]; Lydia Arlova, Lucien Prideaux and corps de ballet.

Wednesday evening — Verdi's "Rigoletto," with Meusel, Bruno, Rolf Gerard, Petroff, Kravitt, Harris and Francesco Curci; corps de ballet.

Thursday evening—Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," with Greco, Bruno, Mildred Browning [debut], Gerard, and Stefan Kozakevich; followed by Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," with Leola Turner, Lindi, Thomas, and Kozakevich.

Friday evening — Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," with Nizi Koyke, Bruno, Onofrei, Mario Valle, Harris and Cervi.

Saturday afternoon — Gounod's "Faust," with Turner, Bruno, Gerard, Petroff, Kravitt, and Harris; corps de ballet.

Saturday evening—Bizet's "Carmen," with Helen Oelheim, Turner, Browning, Philine Falco, Onofrei, Valle, Kravitt, Harris and Curci; Arlova, Prideaux, and corps de ballet.

Next Sunday night Bianca Saroya will make her first appearance of the season as Lenonora in Verdi's "Il Trovatore," with Senderowna, Lindi, Thomas, Kravitt, Curci and Cervi.

Hanya Holm and her dance group will appear under the management of Bertha Ott at the Goodman theater on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 23.

Pitt Symphony

The new season for the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra opens on Friday evening, Nov. 18, with Fritz Reiner as its new musical director. The first program offers the American première of an orchestral suite drawn by Mr. Reiner from Richard Strauss' ballet, "The Legend of Joseph." Other such premières include Paul Creston's "Threnody" and Morton Gould's Third Symphony. Novelties for the orchestra will be Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf," Aaron Copland's "Music for Radio," and Charles Wakefield Cadman's "American Sketches." Soloists to appear with the orchestra are Lotte Lehmann, Josef Hofmann, Emanuel Feuermann, Lauritz Melchior, Nathan Milstein, Harold Bauer, the Wagnerian Singers, Elisabeth Schumann, Helen Oelheim, and Julius Huehn.

D'YALL KNOW JOEL?

Joel McCrea, always popular with screen fans, returns to the screen after a short absence in "Youth Takes a Fling." (Palace.)

Good Morning!

Falling leaves and fading flowers—and another res-u-mé of ours.

[If you didn't see the "bests" listed above, you "should of!" And maybe you still can. Observe neighborhood theater ads.]

"Give Me a Sailor" was thought by what is writing, to be "a pleasant farce comedy interpreted by pleasing people; generous with its laughs and stressing what has been increasingly apparent, the fact that, allowed to be faintly natural, Martha Raye has charm, considerable good looks, and a disarming, wistful appeal. . . ."

"I Am the Law"—"Give the man a horse he can ride in the way of a script and Edward G. Robinson is dynamite. . . . This trip 'Little Cæsar' proves that he can be a menace on the right side of the law. . . . In every way, to be explicit, the film has yumpf. . . ."

"Three Loves Has Nancy"—"A grand show for the laughter loving. . . . Miss Gaynor, who made such a magnificent comeback in the dramatic 'A Star Is Born,' proves that she's no slouch at comedy. . . . Robert Montgomery gives a fine performance . . . a broth of a cinema. . . ."

"Sing, You Sinners." . . . one of those human, melody, melo and humor strung dramas that the whole world loves. . . . "Features Bing Crosby, Fred MacMurray, Ellen Drew, Elizabeth Patterson, etc. . . ."

"Algiers"—Made to order for the fan who likes his romances violently hued instead of pastel colored, sensational—but credible—and prefers them to work out logically rather than ooze into traditional "happy endings." . . . Never has a film had two more alluring leading women . . . Sigrid Gurie . . . Hedy Lamarr . . . You will care a lot for Charles Boyer . . . you are fascinated . . . and a little afraid all the time.

"Professor Beware" [starring Harold Lloyd]—"The applause which greets Harold Lloyd upon each return to our screens is a tribute of which he must be justly proud . . . proves that this clean playing, clean living star who got his start in the silent films, has an undisputed place of his own in the hearts of movie fans . . . new venture is on same general order as 'High and Dizzy,' 'Grandma's Boy,' and 'Safety Last.' . . ."

I hope you see the above—and hope you like 'em.

See you tomorrow.

Guest Conductor.

Bruno Walter, noted German-Austrian musician, comes to America this winter to appear as guest conductor with the National Symphony orchestra in Washington, D. C.

Cabaret Notes

● When Hal Kemp and his orchestra reopen the Gold Coast room at the Drake next Sunday evening they'll present what has come to be known as styled dance music. . . . Most band styles are based on one or two instrumental effects; the Kemp variety has seven. . . . That gives the program an unusual flexibility.

One of the maestro's effects is achieved when a staccato trumpet tone is played as background to the principal theme. . . . The result is something like the clicking of a telegraph key. . . . Another trick consists of having a glissando saxophone play the melody while four others dress it up with improvisations. . . . You don't know what a glissando is? . . . Kemp defines it as a gliding effect, more or less like the music coming from a steel guitar. . . . Still another stunt is the double octave, with the pianist playing the simple melody in parallel octaves and leaving the harmonization to the other instruments.

● The big hotels around Chicago are making the news right now. . . . At least ten of them either have opened their night haunts for the fall season or are about to do so. . . . The lights go up as the leaves come down.

At the Sherman hotel's College Inn next Saturday evening Buddy Rogers will go into action as master of ceremonies, batoneer, vocalist, and instrumentalist. . . . In the old days the handsome Buddy would have been known as a matinée idol. . . . Nowadays the girls flock to see and hear him at night. . . . With him and his band in the new engagement will be the Boots McKenna lovelies, who will show how dancing is done around the world.

● "Ol' South" is the name given a $50,000 cocktail garden and lounge which the Stevens hotel will open up next Friday. . . . Some 4,000 square feet of floor space has been taken over in the lobby. . . . Managing Director Otto K. Eitel has made two trips through the deep south to get the correct atmosphere. . . . Gladioli, roses, geraniums, hollyhocks, jasmine, and wisteria are being reproduced in the moonlit garden. . . . Real magnolia trees have been shipped in from the Carolinas. . . . Muted night sounds, such as the chirping of crickets and the croaking of frogs, are to come from a public address system.

● In the last few months—first at Ravinia and then at the Chicago theater—Chicagoans have sat and listened to Benny Goodman's music. . . . Now they're going to dance to it. . . . Benny's band, generally regarded as foremost among the swingsters, will make the jitterbugs all the more jittery at the Trianon ballroom Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, and at the Aragon Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings of next week. . . . Roger Pryor's orchestra is to play at the Trianon this afternoon and evening; Bill Carlsen's men will be there Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. . . . Dick Jurgens, now at the Aragon, will switch to the south side while Goodman is warming up the north side.

Threefold Career.

Thomas Mitchell, whose career in the theater has led him into the three fields of acting, writing, and directing, is stage director of the new Lili Hatvany-Zoe Akins comedy, "I Am Different," in which Tallulah Bankhead is starred. On the New York stage he won praise and popularity for his performance in "The Last Mile." In recent weeks in Los Angeles he has coöperated with Miss Akins in revising "I Am Different" for eastern presentation.

Brussels in Gay Mood for Orientalists' 20th International Meet

By Cousin Eve.

BRUSSELS.—The twentieth International Congress of Orientalists took me to Brussels. I signed up for it early in the spring and expected to meet there Dr. and Mrs. Harley MacNair of the University of Chicago and Henry Field with his charming bride, Placidia.

The MacNairs were coming from the Channel Islands, where they own a house—or an island—on their way round to China. The Fields were coming from Cambridge, where Henry, distinguished curator of our Field museum, had given a lecture or so.

I found Brussels extraordinarily lively. The streets were swarming with people in raincoats and rubbers, for between bright hours of sunshine there were black clouds heavy with rain. I pounced upon a hotel new to me, the Metropole, very large, amusingly modern, and well done. There was never a dull moment at the Metropole; it was alive with patrons, and there was good food, for the Belgians are famous bonnes fourchettes. There was music, and there was, in short, life of the most cheerful.

Brussels is divided into two distinct parts, the lower, or ancient town where are all the lovely old black buildings with gold paintings over their fronts. And the high-up-on-the-hills, or new town, where are the royal palace, the palace of the count of Flanders, the magnificent Palais de Justice in white marble, about the largest building in the world.

Here are also the parks, Bois de la Cambre, Parc Leopold, and, 'way, 'way out, the park surrounding the Cinquantenaire, that large triumphal arch dominating the country, erected when Belgium had been a kingdom for fifty years. It was in the royal museums which flanked this arch that the sessions of the congress were held.

King Leopold of the Belgians was honorary patron of the congress, and the other dignitaries involved made a roster a mile long, including, as they did, delegates from the world over.

I raced out on Sunday with a friend of Henry Field's to get our badges, programs, and what not for the congress. He was a vague sort of fellow, an archæologist who had been digging at Ankara and was about to dig in Persia, and one never did quite know what his name was. We found that Brussels has most wonderful street cars, which cost far less than walking, for the sidewalks are paved with cobbles (Continued on page 2)

Below: Miss Miriam Bartlett is one of a corps of pretty young debutantes who will usher at the Auditorium theater tomorrow night at the opening of the San Carlo opera season. The performance, "The Barber of Seville," will be given for the benefit of the Church Mission of Help.

Above: Mrs. Arthur T. Bennett Jr. is in charge of music for the second annual Monte Carlo ball, a dance the Ridge Service guild auxiliary of Beverly Hills is giving next Saturday night at the Drake.

Left: Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. will model again in the St. Luke's fashion show, to be held the afternoon and evening of Oct. 18 at the Stevens hotel. Tea will be served in the afternoon and dinner during the evening performance.

Orientalists Find Brussels in Gay Mood

which are a boon to cobblers and chiropodists, but ruination to one's shoes and feet. The cars go everywhere, are first and second class, and are the coziest little things!

We found Indians with large turbans, Chinese, South Americans, lots of French, multitudes of Germans, and many Americans and British, putting on their badges. Also in the crowd were Italians, Swedes, and quite a few Russians. There were very many invitations to parties, and it seems one was expected to be polite and reply.

The evening receptions and routs were given by the Belgian government, and the fullest evening dress was obligatory, not only the white tie and tails, but the robe en traine and family jewels.

The congress was divided into nine sections. Each met twice daily. They were Egypt and Africa and Assyriology. And here Henry Field was scheduled to read a paper on "Physical Character of the Peoples of Iran and Irak."

Next came Central Asia. India was followed by the Far East and Siam. Here the MacNairs had signed up. Dr. MacNair's topic was "Contrasting Sino-Japanese Ideologies." And Florence MacNair's report was "The Kaleakha Ceremony Held by the Panchen Lama at Hangchow: 1934."

Section VI. was "Semitic Peoples and Tongues," and this was followed by a section devoted to "The Old Testament and Judea," which was largely attended by all the true highbrows.

Islam was the eighth section and "The Christian Orient" was the ninth. The congress opened Monday morning with splendor and éclat in the great ancient hall of the Palais des Academies. The members flowed up over red velvet carpets hedged in by huge marble busts of noble Belgian savants of the past. The dais was heavy with celebrities who voiced the royal welcome, under the presidency of M. Jean Capart, curator of the Royal museums, and leader of the Belgian art world.

It was the most whiskered audience I had seen in years, and many of the delegates wore the frocks of religious orders. There were several Dominicans in the long white robe with black cassock, and Jesuits aplenty. Men of this order have contributed for 200 years to the world's knowledge of the Chinese empire. There were more than 500 Orientalists present, but soon it was plain that many, for some reason or other, hadn't come at all.

Never for a minute did war occur to me then. I went merrily to the first afternoon party, a tea at the Hotel de Ville. This has an exquisite black and gold façade and is about the finest medieval building in Europe. Surrounding it are thirty-two guild houses from early in the 12th century, painted in polychrome and gold.

As I came that afternoon into this ancient cobbled square, where many a burgher of the old days had his head lopped off, there was a flower market, and great dahlias red and dahlias yellow splashed it with blood and gold. One shivered unaccountably, but found a warm thrill inside where were Flemish tapestries and armor, and guests came in cheerful and began to speak one to another. I picked out an attractive American woman, who turned out, however, to be English. This was a surprise, as she hadn't the horsey look that one finds often with English highbrows, but was very pretty and smartly dressed. She was a Miss Caton-Thompson, and had been latterly in South Arabia with two companions, digging up some superior ruins. Her paper on the subject I had to miss, owing to rumbling war camions and what not.

Before we had tea that day three orations were given by our hosts. But that was nothing. Later in the week at the Tervueren park party, given by the Minister of Colonies and Mme. De Vleeschauwer, nine orations were had before we sat at the charming little tables in the marvelous Congo museum.

The Congo museum was the palace of the lovely and ill fated Empress Carlotta, widow of Maximilian of Mexico. Here she lived among the beauties of its park and gardens, in a twilight of the mind lasting forty years.

Miss Caton-Thompson and I were agreed that the evening parties of the poor darling Orientalists, who had gone there from the ends of the earth, were not so hot. Enormous wintry rains came splashing down, and exactions about evening gowns and tiaras were tiresome. Then they gave these parties in vast cold palaces, miles and miles away.

So we patronized the movies. Brussels has lovely movie theaters and lots of them. There was even one under the Metropole roof. The show that caught my fancy was "Marco Polo," and I heard a lecture on Marco Polo, too, by M. Pierre Pelliot, an erudite Frenchman. And here one learned that copyists of the 15th century garbled the manuscript of the fascinating Italian traveler without the shadow of a doubt.

Marco Polo is the rage in Europe just now. I dined that night with Dutch friends, Baron and Mme. Storm de Grave, and apropos of Marco Polo told them Comte Fleury's witticism. The gay set in Paris, says he, is all excited about Marco Polo because, being tired of plain polo, it welcomes the idea of a new kind. Just like bridge players and contract.

The days were passing quickly enough in this "little Paris," where corner kiosks with dahlias and autumn roses, also magnificent muscat and royal grapes, brightened the granite thoroughfares. But one should really never go back to the scene of happy memories. I had a fancy to revisit an old convent in the country near Brussels, at Jette-St. Pierre. It stands in an ancient park with a lake, and swans, and lovely allés of tilleuls. In the park was a sweet old château of the early 18th century, and all around were fields and forests. I had memories of violets there in February and thought it the heavenliest spot on earth. Near by was Lacken, the Belgian royal château.

Jette is now a part of Brussels, with gas works, boulevards, and modern apartments. Enormous new convent buildings had engulfed the simple old one, and the mother superior said there were 1,000 pupils.

"The Belgian nobility," said I, "are still having large families."

"No," said the dignified old religieuse. "The Belgian nobles cannot any longer afford to send their children here. They are entirely ruined by taxation. Our pupils belong to the little bourgeoisie."

We strolled in the long shaded allées of the park, the mother superior and I, she proud of her magnificent, modern school and I defeated by it. Not once could one recapture the silvery past in all this masonry, this great expansion. It was like a soul returning from other worlds. And so on the whole one was sorry to have stirred up this reality in trying to renew an old, dear memory.

In the tram again came thoughts of the Harley MacNairs and Henry Field. Where were they? That night one had awakened to the dull rolling of heavy camions and the thud of marching feet. It occurred to me then that King Leopold of Belgium had left suddenly for Italy, and that the royal garden party with which his majesty often greets visitors was not scheduled.

The congress drove that day in thirteen buses to visit Louvain and its famous library. It was a beautiful, blowy afternoon and we sped over the long, straight road lined with poplars, where all was peace in the little red roofed hamlets. Shepherds guarded their flocks, children played. On this road that had led the German legions into Brussels came a sudden bleak sensation of chill in the air of some black thing impending, one knew not what!

The Orientalists were met by a charming old bishop in long black robe with dashes of crimson and crimson beretta. He took us over Louvain university, of which the new executive wing has risen on the site of the old magnificent library, with all its treasures of the ages, destroyed by the German army in 1914.

We went afoot about the ancient streets of Louvain, under Roman arches, through 11th century cloisters and quaint small parks where old people sat in the sun, until we came to the new Louvain library. This is in superb Renaissance style and restocked, as the whole world knows, by gifts of books from all civilized nations. Germany, under the treaty of peace, supplied manuscripts from her ancient treasures to replace those burned and pillaged. It was a marvelous hour, and after it we bowled back in our thirteen buses along forest roads that led us straight to the Congo museum, 12 miles east of Brussels.

King Leopold II. owned the Congo region and was in consequence one of the wealthiest of men. He bequeathed his African possessions to Belgium as if it were any private domain, and his bust adorns the museum's great central hall, looking with its vast, spadelike beard like an ancient Babylonian.

The collections of animals and birds of the Congo are something formidable and not disposed in their own scenery, as with us, but stuffed and mounted with great effect and artistry. There are rhinos and reptiles, elephants, ant nests, giraffes, all sorts of deer, hyenas, small furry creatures, members of the cat family, of the ape species.

Loveliest of all, life size African figures in bronze, carrying on native arts and industries, fishing, trapping, trekking through the jungle, poling their crude canoes. The bird section is absolutely marvelous, too.

Coming in town by the handsome boulevards and residential quarters, we passed a house where a strange tragedy of the past flashed into my mind. On that doorstep, many years ago, the heir to the Belgian throne, Prince Baudoine of Flanders, lost his life in a love affair. And further on, looking up a dark little street, one saw again the façade of the mansion where happened the duchess of Richmond's ball on the night before the battle of Waterloo. That street had once been full of British officers rushing to the great allied struggle against Napoleon.

Suddenly I decided to leave at once for Paris.

Of that journey I remember nothing! But I found Paris calm and collected. Long distance calls told me that general mobilization was hourly expected. Forty men a day had been drawn from dear old Chantilly for army service. Chefs were snatched from their posts in two famous Paris hotels. Friends living in city apartments had been presented with sand piles to smother fires from air attacks. Notable numbers of buses had been withdrawn and changed into war vehicles for transport of troops. Every man was at his job in the great museums of Paris to remove treasures of the nation to places of safety.

American friends had vanished like flocks of wild birds. The American embassy foyer was a great sight. Hardly could one get in or out for those who were yerning for home, sweet home, and milling gloomily about. I heard then that Baroness Eugene de Rothschild's own personal war hospital unit was ready to the last worker and the last nurse. So I chartered a red taxi and arrived at 130 Rue de l'Universite, where enters the personnel of the Ministere des Affaires Etrangeres, determined to shake out of somebody all about everything.

In the upper corridor I met two men who are friends of mine, Comte Serge Fleury and Henri le Coursier. The latter had been staying lately in Italy with the William Phillipses at our embassy. They both gave me the laugh about the war, and I observed that Fleury was looking unusually gorgeous in a black silk topper and an array of stripes, black and gray, that made me quite dizzy. Said he: "Here I am dressed up like a plush horse, and you have nothing to say about it—where am I going, or what?"

Said I: "My dear Serge, I was thinking you looked like a couple of zebras, and wondering if you were off for the zoo. Where are you going?"

It seems he was going to the Gare de St. Lazare to meet King Boris of Bulgaria, an old friend. So I got nothing out of the foreign ministry but an invitation to lunch in the country with Le Coursier. But having ascertained from high places that the Normandie would sail, rain or shine, hail or snow, peace or war, I settled down to days of wandering over all Paris, saying good-by to the places I love.

IN SURPRISE MARRIAGE

Mrs. Douglas Fraser Smith is the former Miss Jane Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of Evanston. Mr. Smith's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Smith of Evanston. No announcement had been made of Miss Miller's and Mr. Smith's engagement, so their marriage in August came as a surprise to their friends Mr. and Mrs. Smith are living at the Elmgate Manor in Evanston.

Schooners of U. S., Canada to Race Oct. 9

BEVERLY, MASS. With all the north shore interested in yachting, the first of the International Fishermen's races between the Gertrude Thebaud, fleetest of the Cape Ann craft and the Bluenose, pride of Nova Scotia, will be sailed next Sunday. Chicago sojourners on the north shore have coöperated in making the series possible. The federal government is sending naval boats to patrol the course and the races will be witnessed by thousands. The other dates for the series are Oct. 12, Oct. 14 and Oct. 17. The races will alternate from Boston Light and Gloucester.

The state of Massachusetts has contributed to the fund to bring together the two schooners. With good weather conditions there will be plenty of excitement for the racing enthusiasts. There will be much entertainment in connection with the races as the Nova Scotia government will be represented by a large group of officials.

Art lovers found much to attract them yesterday at the exhibition of water colors under the auspices of the Marblehead Arts association. The exhibition was held in the King Hooper mansion. A special exhibition of paintings and manuscripts relating to the China trade is being held during October at the Salem museum. The art exhibitors this season have been most successful. The North Shore Art association at its East Gloucester galleries has the largest exhibition on the north Atlantic coast while the Gloucester Society of Artists had more sales this year than for many seasons. The Rockport association exhibitions were large, interesting, and most successful.

The north shore was interested this week in the report that the British embassy would be located on the north shore next summer. For years the north shore was the favorite summer place for diplomats. The British embassy was established at Beverly Farms and in Manchester, while Pride's Crossing was favored by the French diplomats.

The Belgian embassy was for several seasons at Beverly Farms and the Spanish embassy in the days before the Fascist uprising was at Pride's and Manchester.

In the period before the war the German embassy was for many years at Beverly Farms or Manchester and diplomats of the Scandinavian countries often found delight in long seasons in the north shore communities. Until recent years the Siamese legation was often at Bass Rocks. With so many diplomats on the north shore, there was much entertaining and the season was made notable by social events at which the distinguished visitors were entertained or gave large parties in return.

Mrs. William H. Moore has returned to her Rockmarge estate at Pride's Crossing after a visit in Chicago and Lake Forest. Mrs. Moore plans to be on the north shore through the autumn season. Her estate is one of the most attractive in that section and is well known for the beauty of its gardens. Some time ago Mrs. Moore purchased the Edwin C. Swift estate adjoining her own. The 100 room mansion house was razed and the site added to the Moore gardens. At Rockmarge is a fine private driving park where the late Judge William H. Moore of Chicago exercised his horses and where private horse shows were staged. Mrs. Moore usually passes the winter abroad, often in Egypt, but this year her plans are indefinite.

Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago, former American ambassador to Sweden has returned to his Eagle Head estate at Manchester after a trip to Sweden and the Scandinavian countries. Mr. Morris will be at his north shore estate through the late season.

John Clay Jr. is to take back to Chicago with him two fine trophies won by his yachts in the late season races on the north shore. He won honors with his Sea Gull in the Triangle class and his Clipper in the Cape Cod class.

Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge gave a dinner dance at Selwood, her Beverly Farms home, Wednesday evening for her niece, Miss Evelyn Lilly, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Clay Bartlett of Chicago and Whitehall, Beverly Cove. Mrs. Beveridge is the widow of the former United States senator from Indiana and her home is one of the finest on the shore. Miss Lilly is one of the most popular members of the younger set on the north shore. Like her mother, she is interested in art and has often shown some of her work at the Bartlett studio.

Mrs. Henry L. Williams is returning to Washington next week after a long season at Beverly Farms. Mrs. Williams is the mother of Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Chicago and Washington and her home is near the Leiter estate, Edgewater, at the Farms.

United States Senator and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. have returned home from a trip to Europe where they visited France, England and Ireland. They plan to be at their Beverly Cove home until after Christmas when they will go to Washington. The Lodge home is across the point from the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of Chicago.

WILL MARRY OCT. 14

Miss Margaret Ann Koeber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alfred Koeber of Oak Park, will be married to Herbert B. Brown on Oct. 14 at the Oak Park Country club. Mr. Brown is the son of Mrs. Harry Forbes Brown of Oak Park.

Press Conference Wins Enthusiasm of Club Leader

"A very fine idea," was Mrs. George G. Bogert's comment on the press conference for women's organizations to be held under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 2 o'clock in radio station W-G-N. Mrs. Bogert is president of the Illinois League of Women Voters.

Mrs. George G. Bogert.
[Nelidoff Photo.]

"To present organization leaders with the facts on publicity and how to obtain it should be very helpful; such instruction is all to the good," Mrs. Bogert said. "When I was a press chairman our local Leagues of Women Voters were an untilled field so far as this type of activity was concerned. I hope they will avail themselves of this opportunity. The press conference should be to the mutual advantage of newspaper and organizations."

A more detailed account of the conference appears today in the Metropolitan section. Admission to the conference will be by ticket only. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must accompany each request to the Club Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Because of limited space only presidents, press chairmen, and program chairmen are invited.

Fourth State D. A. R. Division in Convention

Twenty nine chapters in the Chicago area will be represented at a meeting of the Fourth division Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution, tomorrow at Naperville. Fort Payne chapter will be hostess at the all day meeting, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, in the First Evangelical church. Mrs. Dorrance D. Snapp of Joliet, division director, will preside.

Mrs. Jacob Fredrich Zimmerman.

Mrs. Jacob Fredrich Zimmerman of Harvey, state regent, will attend the meeting before she and other state officers and committee chairmen start off on a motorcade downstate tomorrow. They will take part in the dedication of a bronze tablet tomorrow afternoon at the historic Glover house in Ottawa, where Abraham Lincoln was a week-end guest Aug. 21 to 23, 1858, at about the time he debated the slavery issue with Stephen A. Douglas.

The cavalcade will proceed to Streator for a divisional meeting Tuesday, thence to a similar meeting at Lewistown on Wednesday, and to Quincy for an assembly Thursday. Meetings are scheduled at Harrisburg Oct. 18, at Robinson, Oct. 19, and at Monticello Oct. 20.

The hostess chapter is planning a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow for guests of the Fourth division. Mrs. Otto A. Goetz of Naperville is in charge. Mrs. A. W. Abbott is regent of Fort Payne chapter.

Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr., new president general of the National society of Daughters of the American Revolution, will pay her first visit to Chicago on Friday, Oct. 14. The Fourth division regents will entertain for her at their round table luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Afternoon tearoom of Carson Pirie Scott and company. A meeting of the fourth division national-defense-through-patriotic-education committee, open to all members, will precede the luncheon. Mrs. Snapp is arranging the luncheon. All members are invited.

Garden Club to Dedicate Lincoln Acres

By Betty Browning.

A garden memorial to Abraham Lincoln, sixty gently rolling acres on the shore of Lake Springfield, near the city where he lived most of his life, will be dedicated by the Garden Club of Illinois Tuesday afternoon. The garden is the only tribute of the sort to the man who said, "Die when I may, I want it said of me by those who knew me best that I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower where I thought a flower would grow."

The dedication will occur during the semi-annual meeting of the Garden club Tuesday and Wednesday in Springfield. Fittingly, the two day program has been woven around Lincoln and historic places associated with him.

After a luncheon Tuesday, members will lay wreaths at Lincoln's tomb. Then will come the dedicatory service. A visit to Lincoln's home—the only one he ever owned—tea at the Governor's mansion, and a dinner will follow. Wednesday morning a trip to the reconstructed village of New Salem, where Lincoln began his career, is planned, with luncheon at a nearby tearoom.

The Lincoln Council ring, set in the heart of the garden amid groves of white oak, overlooking the lake, will be the scene of the dedication. Paul M. Angle, historian and author, will make a short address, and at the close of the program Boy Scouts will light council fires in this and other rings throughout the garden. Afterward members will inspect the plantings so far completed.

Mrs. O. W. Dynes.
[Palmer House Photo.]

Governor Henry Horner, authority on Lincoln, Mayor John W. Kapp Jr. of Springfield, Mr. Angle, and possibly Jens Jensen, who designed the garden, will be guests at the dinner that evening. Mrs. O. W. Dynes, president of the National Council of State Garden clubs, will speak. It was while Mrs. Dynes was president of the Garden Club of Illinois, several years ago, that the Lincoln garden was made the chief project of the club. Since then Mrs. Dynes has served each year as general chairman of the Navy pier flower show, proceeds of which largely have financed the garden.

"To be true to the name of Lincoln this garden must sing the song of America," Mr. Jensen said. He has carried out his idea by planting these acres only with trees, shrubs, and flowers native to Illinois. Thus the garden is to be significant not only as a memorial to the state's greatest citizen but as an illustration of what horticultural riches Illinois possesses.

Hundreds of contributions have gone into the making of the garden, contributions from garden clubs, organizations such as the Wild Flower Preservation society and the Chicago Outdoor Art league, individual garden lovers. More than one WPA worker employed in the garden has brought a rare wild flower to be planted there.

Although it is just two years since the first planting was begun, visitors will find groves of oaks, hawthorns, crab apple, streams crossed by artistic bridges, sun openings brilliant with prairie flowers in season, ponds filled with lilies, council rings, great circular stone seats placed at some particularly beautiful spot. Whole sections are being developed by individual garden clubs.

Two years ago the land was ordinary rolling farm land, cultivated for generations, with only a few fine old trees. When Mr. Jensen and the committee chose the site, he said: "Here we can paint our own picture." Already the commonplace canvas has been transformed into an enchanting landscape. Barren hills are crowned with forests. Hollows, drained, are planted with shrubs and flowers. Meadows of wild flowers have been metamorphosed from corn fields, lanes of dogwood and red bud created, sloughs dredged into ponds. Incidentally, Mr. Jensen has given his services without charge, apart from the cost of drafting the plans.

A council ring located on a site chosen by the late Mrs. Willard Jaques shortly before her death last year, has been named for the former president of the Garden Club of Illinois. Her own club, the Garden Club of Evanston, is developing the surrounding area. The ring overlooks a meadow on the edge of the lake where shooting stars, Mrs. Jaques' favorite flower, will be planted.

Illustrative of the fashion in which wild flowers have been assembled for the garden is the story about these shooting stars. Mrs. Raymond R. Knotts, one of the executive committee, saw masses of shooting stars, ranging from white to deep claret, growing along the right of way of the Alton railroad when she was on a motor trip. The Garden Club appealed to Roy H. Beardon of Bloomington, then president of the railroad, and he promised to protect the flowers. Presently they will be transplanted to the meadow.

A particularly beautiful strain of native purple violet that has been developed in La Grange will find its way into the Lincoln garden through the efforts of the La Grange Park Garden club. Its 50 members have pledged themselves each to furnish 100 plants from her own garden for five years. A garden lover who knows the haunts of the fast vanishing native orchid has told Garden club members where they can find the four Illinois species in sufficient numbers to plant a Lady Slipper trail.

Within another two years the Garden club expects to have virtually completed the garden. Then it will be turned back to the city of Springfield, which transferred the land to the Garden Club of Illinois at the suggestion of Mrs. T. J. Knudson of Springfield. It was she who first conceived the idea of a Lincoln garden. Springfield is to maintain the garden as part of the great park around the artificial Lake Springfield.

WILL BE WED THIS WINTER

Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Kramer of Kansas City, Mo., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Theodotta, to Richard Patrick Shanahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Joseph Shanahan of Chicago. The wedding will take place this winter.

Suede Shoes That Hug the Foot Are Fashion Favorites

Shoes that hug the foot, corset fashion, have been launched as the autumn's most sensational contribution to smart footwear.

Made of fine, pliable suede, they sometimes are called "stretch-ons," because they have an elasticity which adapts itself to the individual foot. Once on, they cling tenaciously and hold their shape indefinitly.

Of zephyr weight, the shoes provide maximum comfort. There is no strain or pressure on the foot. Available in all styles and in all types of heels, they are most popular built up over the instep, the material being decorated with pin holes which enable the foot "to breathe," as it were.

Ball Saturday to Aid Charity of Arden Shore

By Judith Cass.

In a season surfeited with benefit dancing parties, the dinner-dance given by the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association always are remembered from one year to the next as being good fun. This year a new dance, the Flagship Float, is to be introduced at the party, which will be given Saturday night at the Drake hotel, at the formal fall opening of the Gold Coast room.

London's newest dance, the Lambeth Walk, will be taught, as well as the Flagship Float. It only takes a minute or two to learn the former dance, which is simplicity itself. Miss Julianna Holmes, chairman, and some of the committee are planning to take a few lessons in the "Float" before taking the floor at their party.

Guests who admire Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky's drawings will have a prized souvenir in the program cover, which was executed by this well known illustrator. The committee is calling the party an "American Flagship ball," and since National Air week is being held here this week, Miss Holmes hopes that several aviation stars will come to dine and dance. Guests at the party will not be pestered to buy this and that for sweet charity's sake. Only cigarets are to be sold, with a corps of debutantes acting as vendeuses, directed by Miss Beatrice Bamford.

On today's calendar are the Mill Creek Hunt's Trials in Millburn, and the Northbrook Kennel club show, to be held in the Riding Hall of the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest. Lake Forest and Millburn are not very many miles apart, so any one wishing to visit both events will be able to do so easily.

Tomorrow night there will be an opera première that will attract a large and fashionable audience, for the performance is for the benefit of the Church Mission of Help. The San Carlo Opera company is opening its season in the Auditorium theater with that old favorite, "The Barber of Seville." Miss Valeria Harris is in charge of a group of young women who will usher.

Mrs. Harry Daniel Briggs will be at home in Wilmette Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to benefit the Woman's Symphony orchestra. Helen Freund, soprano; Dorothy Miller Duckwitz, pianist, and Lela Hanmer, accompanist will give a musical program. On the same day another in the series of benefits for the Chicago City Opera company's Student ticket fund will be held at the Oak Park Country club. The affair will begin at 11 o'clock with an opera matinée. After luncheon there will be bridge and sewing and another musical program. Mrs. Louis E. Yager is general chairman of the committee in charge.

The Alumnae association of the Sacred Heart is giving a scholarship dinner-dance at the Lake Shore Athletic club next Saturday night. Mrs. John B. Bremner is chairman of the committee that has planned the party. The Ridge Service Guild auxiliary of Beverly Hills will inaugurate its fall season with the second annual Monte Carlo ball at the Drake hotel on Saturday night. Mrs. Thomas Edwin Kiddoo is general chairman.

The Chicago Fashion group, a noncommercial organization of young "career" women, will give a fashion show on Tuesday, but it will be a different sort of fashion show. It will portray fashions in furnishings, and will show how important a position such fashions hold in this ever changing world. The show will be presented at a luncheon in the Congress Casino.

Among the women on the committee planning the show are Miss Helen Bournique, Mrs. Marjorie Letts, Mrs. Ford Rodman Carter, Mrs. James W. Thorne, Mrs. Marshall Sampsell, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, and Mrs. Frank D. Webster, who is in charge of reservations.

Brief Jacket of Precious Fur
. . . Slim Dress of Fine Wool

the smart woman's answer to the new season demands

Mainbocher, Heim, and Chanel inspired these fur jacketed ensembles that flaunt all the little airs of elegance that bespeak the French couturier's art. Here are precious fur jackets that are regal aristocrats in their own right, over whatever costume you choose to wear them. The gowns are flatteringly slim affairs of that eloquent simplicity that is the despair of cheap dress copyists.

Sheared Beaver in soft beige over beige wool dress. After Heim, $250.

Australian Opossum, that hard-to-find fur, over wine wool dress. After Chanel, $265.

Black Persian jacket over all black sheer wool dress. After Chanel, $265.

Galleries Here Exhibit Disney Water Colors

By Eleanor Jewett.

The most fantastic and delightful exhibition imaginable is to be seen in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building, through October. It is the first national showing of the original water colors from Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The water colors are on celluloid and are exquisite in draughtsmanship and alive with beautiful color.

The celluloids are not the original paintings by Walt Disney himself, but from the skilled fingers of the artists in his studio. "We" is how Mr. Disney labels those who create his intriguing creatures. He himself is the guiding genius of his pictures, but much of the fine workmanship and painting is the product of some of the 800 persons who make up his staf. It took more than 475,000 individual paintings on celluloid to make "Snow White" and all except about 7,000 have been destroyed. The survivors of the purge are being shown in the United States and abroad and the prices on them are very low, from $5 to $35. They will be quickly absorbed at these prices and those who have them will find themselves with a priceless treasure; these adorable poses of Sneezy and Happy, the bunnies, the deer, and the various little birds and beasts who went with Snow White on her adventure cannot be duplicated.

The animals and figures painted on the celluloids are the originals actually photographed to make the picture, but the backgrounds are not the same. These were thought out and created by Walt Disney artists especially for the little pictures. They are intended to bring out the artistic values of each tiny episode. Whether or not you wish to carry home with you one of these exquisite bits of fancy, do not miss the exhibit. The children will be as intrigued as their parents. This is one of the unique exhibits that have a definite appeal for every one. You cannot afford to miss it.

On Friday, Oct. 7, in the Winnetka Woman's club, the painter, Ruth Llewellyn Baird, is showing a group of recent portrait and figure studies. There is a seated nude with a little vase of flowers in the background which is particularly sensitive and charming and a study of a man with a monocle that is fascinating. The several portraits of young people, boys and girls in their early teens, are well handled, simple, and pertinent interpretations of character.

Armour Institute of Technology, in coöperation with the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Illinois Society of Architects, will be host at a dinner Oct. 18, to be given in compliment to Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, recently appointed director of the institute's school of architecture. Among those who will address the guests are Frank Lloyd Wright, Eliel Saarinen, famous Finnish architect, William Emerson, dean of the school of architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Rexford Newcombe, dean of the college of fine arts at the University of Illinois.

Franco Fontana, Italian consul general in Chicago, announces that the permanent committee for the San Remo Prizes for Literature and Art has provided a prize of $2,600 to be awarded to the foreign artist [not of Italian birth] who with imagination and understanding shall illustrate the best some piece or pieces of Italian literature by one of Italy's greater writers.

Those who wish to enter the competition must apply to the "Comitato Permanente Premi San Remo," San Remo, Italy, sending six copies of each work entered, to reach the committee not later than Jan. 31, 1939. No work will be accepted after that date. The applications for admission must be signed by the competitor and bear his address.

The big news from the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue, is that the English portrait painter, Frank O. Salisbury, is arriving in Chicago early in October and there will be a comprehensive exhibition in the galleries of his recent important paintings, many of them his ceremonial groups and other single portraits of such well known men as the late Cardinal Hayes.

In the meantime the Anderson galleries are showing water colors of the Canadian Rockies by Walter J. Phillips and a magnificent portrait by Sir Henry Raeburn. This last is of a genial and prosperous looking gentleman, a certain Donald Smith, who was a figure of importance in Edinburgh in his day and the president of a large and influential bank. One hundred years after the lord provost's [for Donald Smith was that to Edinburgh] bank was robbed [by Deacon Brodie, who escaped to hide his guilty secret for twenty years before he was caught and hanged] Robert Louis Stevenson used the incident in a novel. He did this the more eagerly as in his room as a boy there had stood a cabinet made by the same Deacon Brodie, a clever man with his fingers in more ways than one.

An exhibition of recent paintings by Beatrice Newman, sponsored by the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, opens tomorrow in the west mezzanine gallery, Drake hotel, to continue to Nov. 1. The All-Illinois is also sponsoring the one-man show of paintings by Dale Nichols that hangs in the third floor corridor gallery at the Stevens hotel during October. Two excellent shows.

Cupid Showers Darts All Over Pasadena Area

By Ruth Billheimer.

Dan Cupid is showering darts in all directions, which means some interesting weddings early in 1939.

PASADENA, CAL.

One of his pranks ended this week in the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Schleicher of South Oakland avenue of the engagement of their daughter, Gretchen, to Joseph S. Mather Jr., son of Mrs. Edward S. Swift of Lake Forest, Ill., and of Stanley Mather, Pasadena. The Schleichers entertained Sunday night with a cocktail party in their great white pillared mansion to make the announcement. The wedding will take place after New Year's.

Miss Schleicher is a member of the junior auxiliary to the Assistance league and of the Nine o'Clock players. She attended Westridge School for Girls and Mills college and was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles. She belongs also to the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Her fiancé is a graduate of the Babson School of Business in Boston and attended the University of Chicago.

Two more "victims" of cupid are Miss Barbara Morris, daughter of Mrs. Armour Morris, formerly of Chicago, and Cyril N. Kerrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kerrin of this city. They have set no date for their marriage, but announced their "intentions" at a dinner party. The bride elect is a junior at Occidental college and her fiancé is studying at the Osteopathic College for Physicians and Surgeons at Los Angeles.

Illinois will be the future home of Relfe Stanford Ehret of Belleville, Ill., and his bride elect, Miss Vivian Vesy of Santa Monica, who will be married Oct. 8 at the Vesy summer home in Estes Park, Colo. Mr. Ehret is a graduate of the University of Illinois and attended Stanford university. He is a Theta Xi. His bride-to-be is a graduate of Pomona college and returned recently from a European tour. Her sister, Virginia, will be married in Santa Monica in December to James Van Dyke of Sioux City, Ia. They both attended Pomona and Mr. Van Dyke was graduated from Northwestern university, where he joined Delta Tau Delta.

Vital statistics include the notice that Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mothershead [Alice Bonzi] are the parents of a daughter, born Sept. 17. The little lady's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mothershead, formerly of Chicago.

Seaside vacationing at an end for another season, Mr. and Mrs. George Snow Gaylord will leave California on Saturday for a visit to their old home town. They will spend considerable time in Chicago and will see Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth, who visited Pasadena last winter and is expected again this autumn. Mrs. Gaylord plans also to see Mrs. Harry Hartman Davis of Baltimore, who frequents the Hotel Huntington, and before turning homeward the Gaylords will go into Canada, making stops in Toronto and Montreal.

In the meantime their children are settling down after summer vacations along the west coast. Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Ruppel [Margaret Gaylord], with Barbara and Bobby, have left the Gaylord ranch in Carmel valley and are in Pasadena again. The Eugene Leslie Bruces [Gertrude Gaylord] have taken their little daughter, Anne, with them to San Francisco for a time after a summer with the Gaylords in La Jolla.

Among those still away from home are Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz of Altadena, formerly of Chicago, and her daughter, Miss Gloria Gartz, whose absence in New England brought concern to friends here after shocking news of the recent hurricane. Mrs. Gartz wired that they are safe at the home of her brother, Charles R. Crane, at Woods Hole, Mass.

The Benjamin Alshulers of Aurora, Ill., have been house guests of Col. and Mrs. Ira Clifton Copley at Coronado. Mrs. Wilbur H. Rhodes and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Rhodes, of Wheaton, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Rhodes' aunt, Mrs. Charles Henry Thompson of Beverly Hills, after a motor trip west by way of Yellowstone. They will spend the winter here again this year.

Coming here to live in the near future will be Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell of Winnetka. Mrs. Campbell is a sister of Mr. Zeiss of San Diego, and they plan to live in that city.

Art Notes

In the Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue, there is an exhibit of early paintings by painters of decidedly modern inclinations. Leger, Derain [with a melancholy female head], Kandinsky, and Jawlensky are represented. The pictures are heavy, rather sullen in color, and lack both spiritual qualities and beauty. If you want inspiration you must look further.

The Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue, are showing a colorful and romantic group of recent paintings from the south of France by the Englishman, Lee-Hankey. His boat pictures are particularly nice. Two exquisite tiny canvases, "Les Quais—La Rochelle" and "Le Port—St. Tropez" are worth [to my mind] a ten years' output of such men as Mrs. Kuh is sponsoring. Still, every man to his own taste, and no matter how strongly we feel we must not be narrow so there may be [for the chosen few] a place in the sun for Chabaud, Munthe, Kandinsky, et al.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts announces its thirteenth annual art exhibition will be held at the Stevens hotel from Nov. 19 to Jan. 31. The jury will meet Wednesday morning, Nov. 2, at 10:30 o'clock. The last day for the return of entry cards is Saturday, Oct. 22.

Event to Rally 2,000 Catholic Club Women

Catholic women of the Chicago area, 2,000 strong, will gather Saturday at the Palmer house for the annual luncheon of the Council of Catholic Women. Scores of organizations, clubs, and sodalities will be represented.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., who addressed the council at last year's meeting, again will be the principal speaker. Msgr. Sheen is a radio lecturer and author. His latest book is "The Cross and the Crisis." Reservations for the luncheon are being received at council headquarters, 31 East Congress street. The Rev. James C. Curry is executive director.

This week has been proclaimed Parent-Teacher week by Gov. Horner, and will be celebrated with special programs by scores of parent-teacher associations. The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, with a membership of 150,946, has set 175,000 members as its goal this year. There are 60,000 members in Chicago alone, and 2,222,218 in the national organization. Mrs. Edward W. Jackson of Chicago is membership chairman for Illinois.

All associations in and about Chicago are invited to tour the Chicago City Opera building at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to inspect what is said to be the finest operatic stage and one of the best equipped property and wardrobe departments in the world. Mrs. J. W. Heylmun of Oak Park, music chairman for the Illinois Congress, is in charge of the trip.

When Illinois Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar opens its 82d annual conclave Saturday at Peoria, Ill., wives of officers and other leaders will enter upon a busy two day program of their own. A luncheon will be given Saturday noon at the Peoria Country club with Mrs. Cedric Cook Howland of Peoria in charge, assisted by Mrs. Frank I. Hooper of River Forest. Mrs. Howland is the wife of the grand commander of Knights Templar of Illinois, and Mrs. Frank I. Hooper is the wife of the deputy grand commander, and she also is president of the Past Presidents' club of the auxiliaries of Cook county.

The women visitors, of course, will be invited to the grand ball at the new Mohammed Shrine mosque Saturday evening, and there will be a formal dinner Sunday evening at the Père Marquette hotel. The auxiliaries were formed to assist the Knights Templar in planning social events, and have developed an extensive philanthropic program.

When Chicago Was Young:

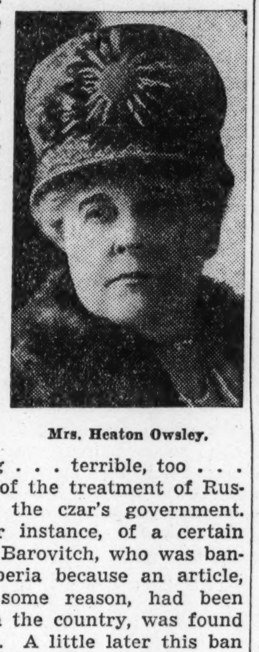
George Kennan Spoke Here on Czarist Russia

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, February 13, 1890.

Dear Julia: Have you ever heard George Kennan, the traveler, speak? His recent magazine articles on Russia have interested me very much and I determined to hear him when he was announced to lecture at Central Music hall. Will and I went, therefore, this week. It was thrilling . . . terrible, too . . . his account of the treatment of Russians under the czar's government. He told, for instance, of a certain man named Barovitch, who was banished to Siberia because an article, which, for some reason, had been banned from the country, was found in his house. A little later this ban was removed so that the article was bought and sold freely, but Barovitch is still serving in the Siberian mines.



Mrs. Heaton Owsley.

Another tale, equally unbelievable, concerned a young man named Vladimir Korsky, a student, arrested by mistake for a man named Victor Korsky. In vain Vladimir protested that he was not the individual wanted. When his name was reached on the list the judge calmly changed the name from Victor to Vladimir and, though perfectly innocent, he was exiled to Siberia.

Mr. Kennan has visited Siberia and pictures with great feeling the sufferings of the exiles who have been torn from their families, dying in pestilential prisons, denied the bare necessities of life.

"The wonder is not," he said, "that there are terrorists in Russia, but that the whole nation does not become one of terrorists. If the czar would go where I have gone and see what I have seen he would understand why, when he travels from station to station, it is necessary to move a whole division of troops in his wake."

It doesn't seem possible that such things can be in a civilized world.

A gayer gathering this week was that at the home of Ex-Mayor Carter H. Harrison, 231 South Ashland avenue, on the west side. It was quite a unique party . . . a ladies' reception from 4 to 8 o'clock. But the unique part of it was that the tea tables were presided over, not by ladies but by gentlemen, who not only made the tea but poured it for us.

The gentlemen honored thus by Mayor Harrison [we still call him "Mayor"] were Bishop Fallows [of the Reformed Episcopal church], Prof. David Swing, the Rev. Dr. H. W. Thomas [these three being probably the most prominent clergymen in Chicago today], John G. Shortall, Enos Ayres, Ely McLennan, F. H. Winston, and Frederick B. Tuttle.

Several ladies helped receive . . . the mayor's daughter, Mrs. Heaton Owsley, being one of these. I saw in this group of "assisting ladies" Bessie Ross [a diminutive beauty, daughter of Dr. Joseph P. Ross] and Miss Rose Buckingham, to whom Harry Selfridge is devoted. The halls and reception rooms of the great mansion at Ashland avenue and Jackson street were beautifully decorated with yellow roses, while the wax candles which shed a soft light on the scene were shaded in yellow silk. It was a grand sight, typical of the Kentucky hospitality that has always reigned there.

Among the ladies I saw at this reception was Mrs. Potter Palmer, who has a special interest in the house because it was built by her father, H. H. Honoré, who, when he moved to Michigan avenue in 1867, sold it to Carter Harrison. The Honorés came from Kentucky, as did most of the people who settled in that part of Chicago in early days. Most delightful always has been the social life of that colony.

This week, too, brought the wedding of John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, to Miss Mary Louise Jewett, formerly of Cambridge, Mass. She is a niece of Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and the ceremony took place there. We were among the few people invited, as it was a quiet ceremony. They are lovely young people, both of them. Now I must go up and see the dressmaker in the sewing room. Much love.

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

By his articles and lectures during the '90s George Kennan did much to stimulate sympathy for the oppressed of Russia.

The mansion built by H. H. Honoré and bought by Carter H. Harrison Sr. in 1867 has long since been demolished. An apartment building now stands in its place at the southwest corner of Ashland and Jackson boulevards.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell are John J., William H., and Clarence B. Mitchell; Mrs. Robert E. Hunter, and Mrs. John P. Kellogg.

In a frame house built in 1889 at 6937 Stewart avenue live Miss Alice Temple, the builder, and her sister, Mrs. Eloise Temple Mason. Both have been connected with the Rock Island railroad, Mrs. Mason having been for thirty years in charge of suburban ticket sales at a time when few women were so employed. She is now retired. In this old house, transformed from a cottage to a two apartment house, these sisters live among the relics of earlier days. We were interested to notice on the walls framed color pictures given by THE TRIBUNE in the '90s. Near these hangs a photograph of a number of naval officers taken during the civil war. Among these officers is Rear Admiral William G. Temple, an uncle of the sisters.

Hospital Board to Honor Memory of Mrs. McCormick

The woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital will dedicate its first meeting of the season tomorrow morning to the memory of the late Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick. Mrs. Harrison Ray Anderson, wife of the pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, will discuss informally Mrs. McCormick's life and work. The meeting will take place in the hospital chapel.

For many years before her death last June, Mrs. McCormick was an active member of the hospital woman's board. As chairman of the occupational therapy committee from the inception of that department in 1917, she did much to further the effectiveness of the department, the second to be established in a Chicago hospital. Mrs. McCormick was vice president of the board for ten years, and was a member of the advisory council from 1928 until her death.

The Rev. Russell L. Dicks, new chaplain of the hospital, and Mrs. Dicks will be presented. The Rev. Mr. Dicks succeeds the Rev. E. N. Ware, who is retiring after 26 years as chaplain of the hospital.

AUNT JENNY'S FRIED PIES

1¼ cups thick apricot purée
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup Spry
6 tablespoons cold water (about)

Make a thick purée by rubbing sweetened cooked apricots through a sieve. Add sugar, lemon juice, lemon rind, salt and nutmeg and mix well. Cool.

Sift flour with 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in ½ of Spry until mixture is as fine as meal. Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. (Notice how quickly triple-creamed Spry blends with your other ingredients.) Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly until a dough is formed.

Roll dough ⅛-inch thick and cut into 4-inch squares. Put 1½ tablespoons apricot filling in center of each square. Moisten edges, fold dough over apricot filling, and seal edges with tines of fork. Fry in deep hot Spry (375° F.) about 5 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes 12.

Conference of Club Leaders to Open Season

The conference of club presidents and program chairmen will bring together representatives of hundreds of middle western member organizations for the first time this season Thursday morning at the Art institute. For this reunion meeting Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president, is moving her organization to the Goodman Memorial theater, since it is larger than Fullerton hall, the conference's usual meeting place.

Roy Glahn, tenor, and Lois Tschappat, soprano, who were winners of the Chicagoland Music Festival contests for the best man and best woman singer last August, will be presented. A style show, "The Well Dressed Woman on a Limited Budget," also will be a feature of the program.

Glenn Harding will lead the conference in community singing. The Theater Guild and the Masquers Studio Players will present brief plays under the auspices of Mrs. R. W. Martindale, drama chairman.

Mrs. J. E. Replogle.

The Protestant Women's Service club will begin the year with a luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co. The annual card party and bazar Nov. 4 in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel will be a high point of the season's program. Mrs. J. E. Replogle is president.

Members of the Martha Washington club will meet for their opening luncheon and program at 12:30 o'clock Friday at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. Sue B. Keller, superintendent of the home for crippled children which the club sponsors, will report on activities of the past summer, and Elba Lennstrum will give a dramatic interpretation of "The Star Wagon." Mrs. J. A. Cousins is receiving reservations. Mrs. Frank J. O'Brien is the new president.

The leaders' association of the Chicago Girl Scouts will hold a city-wide court of honor at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday at Bradshaw's restaurant, 661 North Michigan avenue.

BRIDE OF SOUTH SIDE

Mrs. Julian H. Levi was Miss Marjorie Jeanne Reynolds until her wedding on Sept. 16. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reynolds of the Windermere hotel. Mr. Levi is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerson Levi of 919 Hyde Park boulevard.

Hurricane in East Maroons Chicagoans

BOSTON, MASS.

The wave of destruction that swept Cape Cod will keep many Chicagoans from returning home for the early fall social activities they had planned. Suffering the most terrible damages was the beautiful estate of the Edward L. Ryersons, which is just across the canal from Cape Cod in the hamlet of Marion. Located on a bluff overlooking Buzzards' bay where wind and water were roughest, their house was in a vulnerable spot when the tidal wave rolled in. Pounding breakers from the bay completely demolished the water side of their white clapboard summer home, tearing away the green New England shutters, smashing through windows and doors, and filling all the first floor rooms with sea water. Only a few of the attractive furnishings were saved by Mrs. Ryerson and her eldest son, who sought refuge on the second floor while the terrible drama of the storm unfolded. As soon as the news was flashed to Chicago, Mr. Ryerson boarded a plane for Boston and in a few hours reached Marion, where martial law still prevails, allowing only property owners to enter the desolated territory and guarding against looters.

The Ryersons' daughter, Nancy, and her husband, George A. Ranney Jr., who now are at Marion helping with the discouraging task of salvaging what was left by the storm, hardly can recognize the dead brown lawns covered with huge, uprooted trees as the setting early this summer of their wedding.

The Fo'castle, quaint bathhouse on the Ryerson grounds, was torn from its foundation and splintered by falling trees many yards away from its original position. Trees and all kinds of débris filled the tennis courts, and the garages caved in on five cars. The Ryersons also lost four boats. One broke from its mooring while the skipper was trying to save it and carried him down the bay into the woods and through the side of a garage on the crest of the tidal wave. Mr. Ryerson plans no extensive repairs at present and as soon as the house can be boarded up the family will return to Chicago.

Two other homes in the same colony which are situated on higher ground, that of the Gerald M. Butlers of Hubbard Woods and that of the John M. Butlers of Winnetka, escaped with only minor damages to their shrubbery. Another worried summer resident of Cape Cod who arrived at the Boston airport soon after the hurricane and chartered a plane to Hyannis was Charles B. Goodspeed. Mr. Goodspeed was relieved to find no serious trouble at their Osterville summer residence, which Mrs. Goodspeed plans to close for the season in a few days.

Less fortunate were Mr. and Mrs. Ariel Meinrath, whose house at Wianno was greatly endangered when high water from Nantucket sound washed away most of the bank on which the house was built. Another scene of devastation is the Wianno club, popular gathering place of this summer colony. Waves lashed the clubhouse and broke up the huge pier, carrying it far out to sea. In Cotuit the homes of Carter P. Whitcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin L. Whitcomb, and the latter's 60 foot yawl, Onkahya, were saved although the boat house wharves were demolished.

Mrs. John Spoor, whose Wianno residence luckily escaped damage from the hurricane, will join Chicagoans homeward bound about the end of the month. The least destruction was done in the cottage colony at Oyster Harbors, where even the golf course remains in fine condition for late vacationists. Some towering pines were uprooted on the Oyster Harbors property of the T. Kenneth Boyds, who had already returned to Winnetka, but their house and that of the David Wanglers, who now are in Lake Forest, were unharmed. Mrs.

The Cotuit estate of Mrs. Robert M. Roloson, from which she expects to return to Chicago on Oct. 15, lost many beautiful trees. Mrs. Roloson's son, Richard M. Burns, and his bride, the former Ruth Carney, who were married at Wianno in June, have taken a house in Cambridge for the winter while Mr. Burns completes his course at Harvard.

Only a few trees were damaged on the property of Mrs. Eugene Kimbark in Wianno, but her daughter, Mrs. James R. Maccoll Jr. of Bronxville, N. Y., who had driven her sons to school at Concord, N. H., was marooned in that flooded town for four days. Another daughter, Mrs. Norman Maccoll, whose home at Providence, R. I., is in one of the worst stricken areas, has sought refuge at her mother's summer residence.

RECENTLY MARRIED

Mrs. William O'Malley, who until her recent marriage was Miss Agnes Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Howe of 8034 South Hermitage avenue. Mr. O'Malley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Malley of 8225 South Hermitage avenue.

Two Speakers on Schedule of Woman's Club

Two distinguished visitors, Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, and James Van Benschoten Bennett, director of the federal bureau of prisons, will make this opening week at the Chicago Woman's club one of the most interesting of the season.

Mr. Bennett will speak on "Youth and Crime" at a luncheon Saturday under the auspices of the education and public welfare department of the club at 12:30 o'clock Saturday at the clubhouse, 72 East 11th street. Mr. Bennett is coming from St. Paul, Minn., where he will attend the American Prison association conference, to address the club, and will leave immediately afterward for Washington, D. C.

Joseph E. Ragen, superintendent of Illinois state prisons; Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission; Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission; Dr. Paul Schroeder, state criminologist; Judge Cornelius Harrington of the Criminal court; T. V. Sullivan, state supervisor of parolees; E. W. Burgess, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago; and E. W. Puttkammer, professor of law at the university, will be guests at the luncheon.

Mrs. William E. Lewis, program chairman of the education and public welfare department, has arranged the luncheon.

Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell.

Mrs. Dunbar is expected to reach Chicago in time for the luncheon Saturday. That evening she will be the club's guest at an informal dinner to which club leaders of the Chicago area have been invited. Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell, president, and her board of managers will be hostesses.

Mrs. Dunbar, who is on a tour of the middle west, will remain in Chicago until Monday morning. Her visit will be unofficial.

The president's reception formally will open its sixty-second year for the Chicago Woman's club Wednesday afternoon. Receiving with Mrs. Cornwell will be executive officers and other, distinguished members of the club and still others will preside at the tea tables. Mrs. Ira Carleton Humphrey, chairman of hospitality, will be in charge. The board of managers will meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Also opening their season this week are the Daughters of Indiana, whose guest day will occur at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday at Curtiss hall, 410 South Michigan avenue. Giuseppe Cavadore, tenor of the Chicago City Opera company; George Seaburg, pianist, and Clair Omar Musser, marimba player, will give a program. Mrs. Frederick Tice is new president of the Daughters of Indiana.

Peace League Is to Hear Talk by Hull House Head

Miss Charlotte Carr.
[Kesslere Photo.]

Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident of Hull house, will address the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at its opening meeting of the season at 2 o'clock Tuesday at headquarters of the Alliance Française, 410 South Michigan avenue.

Miss Carr, who is a former relief administrator of New York and labor commissioner of Pennsylvania, will discuss "Mediation in Labor Problems."

Programs this month will deal with labor on the national and international scene. On Oct. 18 Mrs. Feliza Hertz will discuss conditions in postwar Germany, and on Oct. 25 Mrs. Nathan Blumberg will review Levinson's "Labor on the March." Mrs. Irwin S. Rosenfels is new president of the Chicago branch.

Capo-di-Monte Porcelain Is Becoming Scarcer

One of the most beautiful of Italian porcelains is that bearing the name of Capo-di-Monte. This noted factory began producing in 1736 in Naples, creating both soft and hard paste porcelains. Old Capo-di-Monte is usually marked and is becoming extremely scarce. A new factory was established in the nineteenth century on the site of the old one and copies of the old pieces are still being made today, but they are inferior in quality. A good type of majolica ware is also being manufactured there today.

The Big Four in Furs

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have been told that the "Thirty-Nine Steps" of John Buchan's mystery story actually exist. Is that true?—C. J. N.

Yes. They are to be found, not on Britain's North sea coast, as in the novel, but at St. David's cathedral at the western edge of Wales, where the coast of Pembrokeshire juts out into the sea.

We wish to visit the grave of John McCrae, author of the world war poem, "In Flanders Fields." Can you tell us where it is?—L. A.

In a quiet little cemetery at Wimereux, France.

DETOUR

By FREDERIC BABCOCK

No matter what may be the outcome [see page 1 for details] of the current state of jitters in the old world, the peace loving new world this winter is likely to continue its pursuit of happiness. . . . Indications are that travel between and in the Americas will be on the "business as usual" basis—if not more so. . . . The sun spots down south and the ski spots up north will be playing to the same old crowds. . . . The people of Latin America and Nordic America will be paying friendly calls on one another, just as if their quarrelsome neighbors across the Atlantic weren't threatening to set the whole world on fire.

Buddhist temple in Trinidad, where orientals worship and tourists gaze in wonder.

Soon after Christmas three big ships will leave this country for cruises clear around South America. . . . Besides the regular sailings down both coasts of that continent there are to be at least six cruises as far south as Rio. . . . And the total to the countries and islands clustered about the Caribbean will be something like seventy.

● Nearly all these cruises manage to find their way, at one time or another, to the magic isle of Trinidad, 2,000 miles out of New York. . . . The island itself yields heavy dividends in scenery, but it has another kind of wealth. . . . If they are lucky, and free from superstition, travelers stopping there may find enough of that wealth to pay for the entire trip. . . . They can join in a treasure hunt.

Port of Spain is the port of call. . . . It lies off the main harbor on the Gulf of Pearls. . . . At the bottom of the gulf—so the story goes—lie gold and silver fortunes lost nearly a century and a half ago. . . . The loss took place when, in 1797, with the Spaniards and British at war, Admiral Apocada set fire to his ships to save them from capture. . . . Blackbeard likewise burned a number of ships there, and all of them were reputed to contain the coin of the realm.

● Many groups of treasure seekers have been organized to retrieve these fortunes. . . . Some of them have found ships deeply imbedded in the sands on the floor of the sea. . . . Some have come back—or up—with a few doubloons, but none has ever admitted the finding of great quantities of gold and silver.

Another story holds that Admiral Apocada took the wealth with him when he and his men escaped to the shore and that it was buried in the soft sandbanks between Port of Spain and San Fernando. . . . The superstitious Trinidadians are inclined toward this theory, but they are afraid to do anything about it. . . . They believe that the souls of the men who dug the holes still guard the spots.

● In keeping with one of the quaint customs of that time the diggers were killed as soon as the treasure had been placed in the holes and were thrown in after it by those who had ordered the digging. . . . Bad luck, of course, will dog the footsteps of any one who disturbs these lost souls. . . . So the natives—needy as most of them are—never think of pushing a spade into the sand.

But if the rumors flying about the island are true many a cache has been found by outsiders and the finders have held their tongue. . . . At least they have come away from there with their pockets bulging, their eyes popping, and as close mouthed as a New England clam.

More Names Than Kings.

Travelers have more names than kings. Travelers are tourists, voyagers, wanderers, excursionists, pilgrims, globe trotters, gypsies, rovers, explorers, adventurers, seafarers, wayfarers, passengers, not to mention tramps, vagabonds, hobos, and straphangers.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

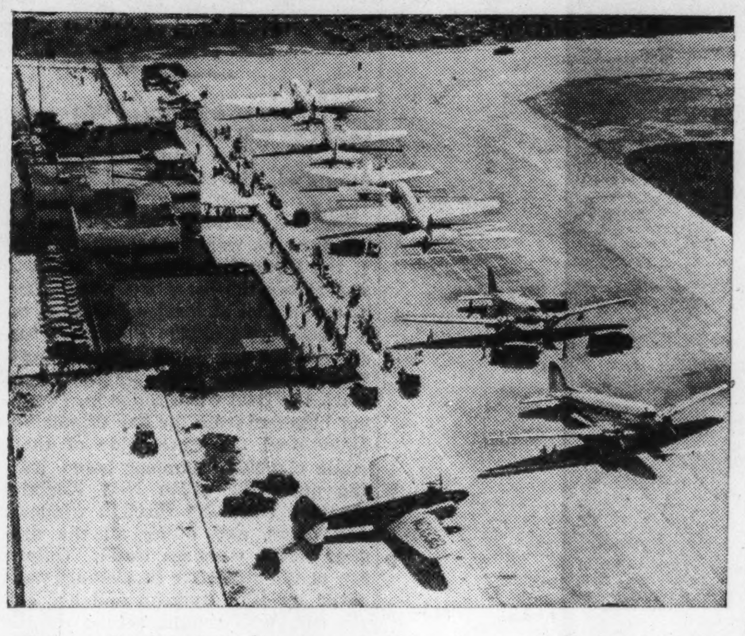
What is hailed as the greatest mass flight in the history of commercial air transportation will be taken at noon tomorrow. Some 150 multi-engined transports will take the air from various terminals and fly over the cities as a part of National Air Travel week. Chicago's quota is ten planes. Mrs. Alice Hager, veteran air traveler, was scheduled to leave Newark yesterday on an eight day continuous trip that would carry her over 26,000 miles of the nation's major lines. She is due to reach Chicago next Saturday.

The travelogue season at the Fair store will open at 11 a. m. Friday with a natural color film of Sun Valley in Idaho. A. C. Langlois of the Union Pacific railroad is to give the talk. The programs are held on the seventh floor and are open to the public.

Dates for Miami's fourth annual fishing tournament were announced last week. It will be held Jan. 15 to April 16. Last winter the competition attracted 102,000 anglers.

Hollywood boulevard is to be reproduced at the 1939 Golden Gate exposition in San Francisco bay. Managers of the fair let it be known last week that they had contracted to have a replica of the famous street, along with its shops and cafés. One exhibit will reveal how the movies are made.

Chicagoans intent on seeing the best autumn colorings are flocking these days to Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana. Reports received yesterday from French Lick Springs, Turkey Run, Traverse City, Muskegon, Waveland, Ind., and other resort centers said the colors were beginning to show and that the leaves promised to put on a big show throughout October.



Chicago boasts of having more air lines than any other city in the world. Planes of seven of the eight companies are shown lined up at the Municipal airport.

Members of the Bons Vivants, Chicago society of steamship and travel agents, will hold their annual nomination of officers tomorrow night at a dinner at Ernesto's restaurant, 69 East Walton place.

Tom Wall of the Canadian Pacific railroad relates that there has been a heavy movement of late vacationists to the Pacific coast this season, and that many of them are going by way of the Canadian Rockies. Travelers have found that the mountains have more beauty in the fall than at any other time of the year. Mr. Wall asks this department to point out that, though many of the larger hotels in the Rockies closed the middle of September, others are open throughout the year, and tour parties will continue to be held for several more weeks.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

WHAT'LL YOU BET?

Chicago, Sept. 27.—To the Travel Editor: In last Sunday's TRIBUNE you mentioned the pillar of wrought iron at Kutub Minar, near Delhi, India. Are you sure it is not cast iron? I'll bet it is. WIEGAND.

HISTORY LIVED AGAIN.

Lostant, Ill., Sept. 28.—To the Travel Editor: I was particularly interested in the picture and account of old Fort Laramie in last Sunday's paper. I am a daughter of one of the soldiers who endured the hardships and dangers on the plains while engaged in protecting overland immigrants from hostile Indians.
MRS. J. J. F.

APPRECIATION.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 24.—To the Travel Editor: I have just read your splendid article on the Golden Gate International exposition and its background scene. It is a piece of writing to make sympathetically warm the heart of every one here in the writing craft who might chance to see it. Only a man who knew the Pacific coast and San Francisco could do a job like this. JOHN CUDDY, Managing Director, Californians, Inc.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Berwyn, Ill., Sept. 25.—To the Travel Editor: I wonder if any of your travelers or other readers would care to send a birthday card to a wonderful old lady. On Oct. 11 my aunt, Mrs. Louisa Ritter of 2379 North 7th street, Milwaukee, will be 85 years old. She cannot get out very often any more, and one of her arms is paralyzed. Her daughter, who will be on crutches and have her leg in a cast the rest of her life, does the housework. The daughter has had infantile paralysis ever since she was 8 years old.
LOUISE C. MAAS.

Howell, Mich., Sept. 28.—To the Travel Editor: Please ask your readers to send cards or letters to Julie Summerfield, University hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich. She has spent nearly two years in bed and has had many operations. She would enjoy hearing from other shut-ins and from travelers. It would help her along the slow road to recovery.

AROUND THE WORLD
• A world cruise can be accomplished in three or four months of hilarious fun, or, if you wish, you may take a year in which to do it. The steamship companies permit you, at no extra charge, to take your luggage off at various ports where you can wait for later boats. Thus you can live for a while in many of the world's great cities, moving on as fancy dictates. What a vacation!
• Consult the travel and resorts advertising in the Tribune. Or let the Chicago Tribune Travel Bureau help you plan a world cruise or any other trip you have in mind. This department of the Tribune Public Service Office can supply you with information about steamship, railroad, bus and plane travel, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours everywhere. Services are free. The Tribune Travel Bureau sells no tickets—gets no commission from the sale of tickets. You can feel free to call in person, write or telephone.

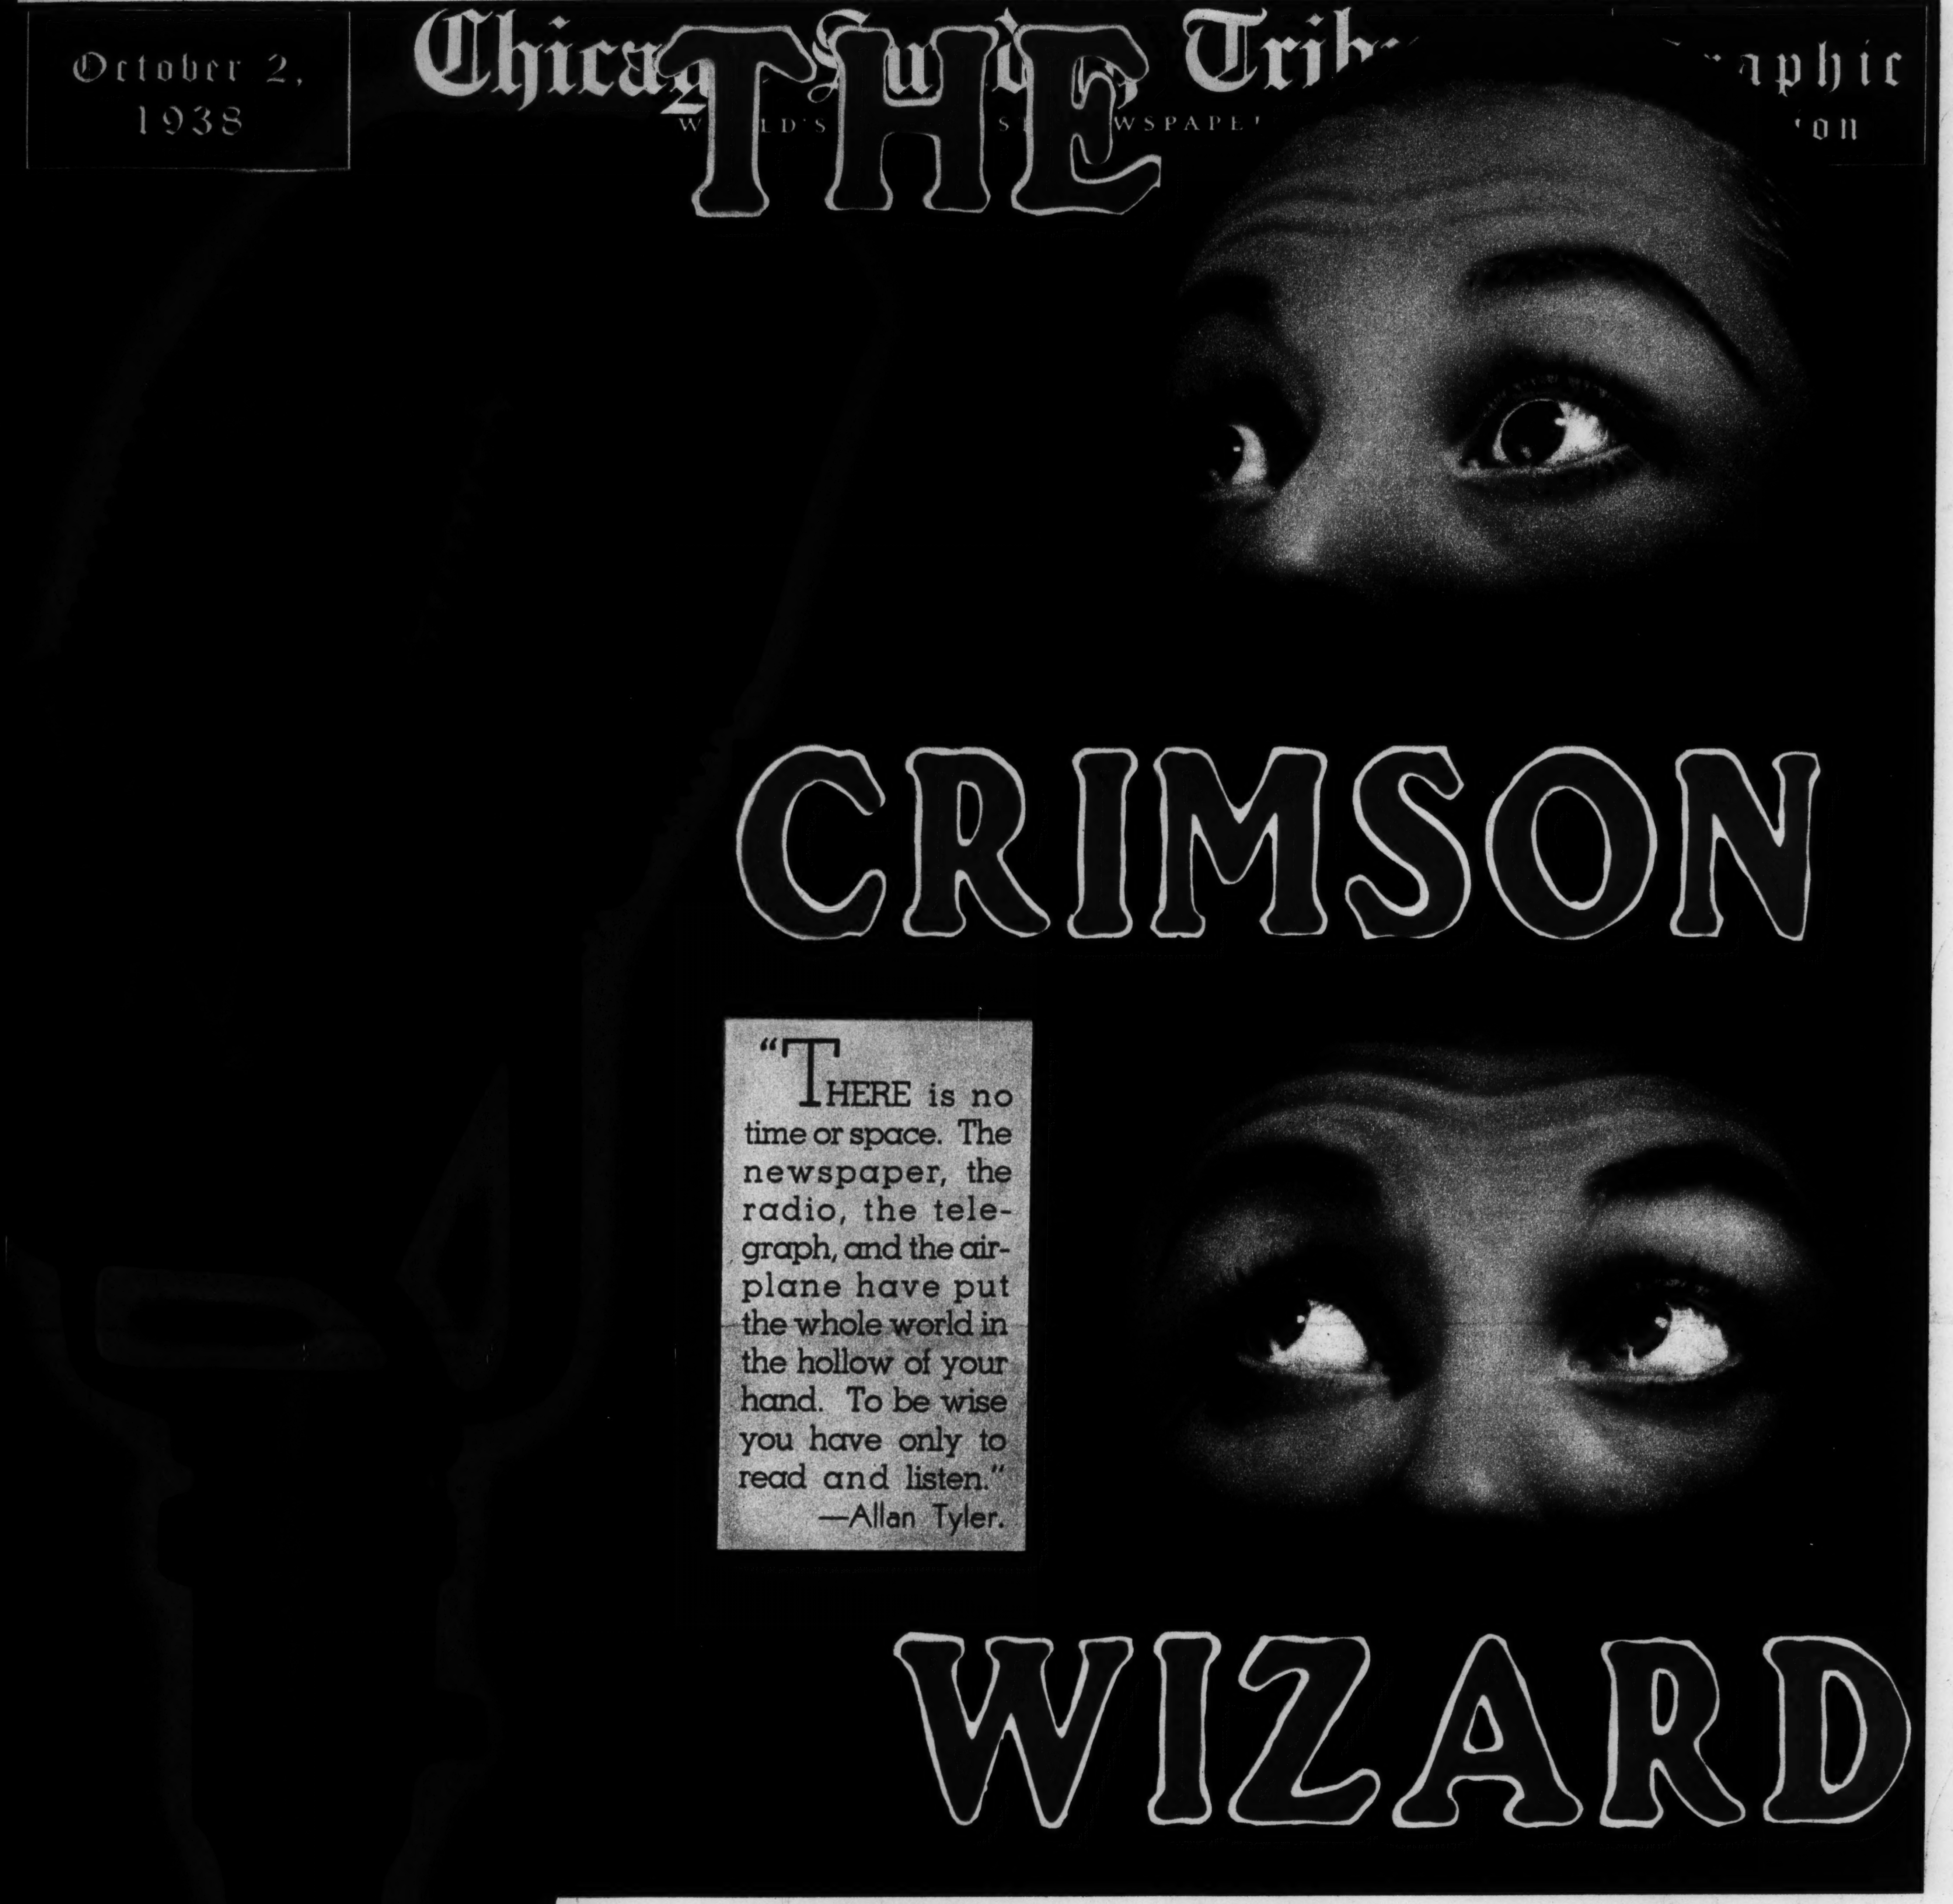
THE CRIMSON WIZARD



> "THERE is no time or space. The newspaper, the radio, the telegraph, and the airplane have put the whole world in the hollow of your hand. To be wise you have only to read and listen."
> —Allan Tyler.

By SPECIAL AGENT*

(Secret Records, File 685.)

(Copyright: 1938: The Chicago Tribune.)

IT WAS the nerve-shivering crash of the navy department's alarm bell that brought Chief Tyler's feet to the floor of the secret service bureau with a thump.

He ran to the squad radio operator's desk. "Give me that microphone," he snapped. He glued his nose against the short-wave police transmitter and began his monotonous litany: "All squads . . . all squads . . . calling all squads of the secret service . . . all squads . . . the naval vaults . . . robbers! . . ."

As the agents in their squad cars shot back their answers—"This is squad G-37 . . . This is squad G-25 . . . This is squad G-85"—in an almost endless chatter of low-pitched voices, Allan Tyler cut in sharply.

"It's the burglar alarm in the naval archives building," he called, as if pressing his anxious tones into the transmitter. Then in a swift series of commands he separated the squads; some to the archives building with its priceless naval records, some to block the roads leading from the city, and others to run down and question suspicious motorists.

Mr. Tyler leaned back and drew breath. "It's the Red Circle," he said. "Red Circle of communistic spies. There's a Red spy in every street."

I.

The gloomy naval archives building had suddenly become the center of enormous activity. Only a few moments before it had stood, severe and dignified, in its pleasant plot of shade trees as if the last place in the world to attract the attention of a frantic multitude. The only persons seen near it were some occasional citizens walking rapidly homeward.

No! There had been some others. Three others had been seen. One of these was a girl, and there had been two men with her. These three, then, composed a trio of gypsy musicians. The girl sang, apparently. One of the men played a violin. The other man carried a guitar. They had been seen to pause in the shadow of the heavy shrubbery about the building. No one had heard them play. They had been seen to stroll away. No one had thought to notice the direction they took.

Suddenly smoke billowed out from the windows. In a moment the streets were in confusion. There was the cumulative screaming of fire whistles, the wildly rising screechings of the police sirens, the thunder of big motors, the squealing of brakes.

In the secret service bureau, where his sure nerves were needed, Mr. Tyler could scarcely keep hold of himself. The telephone broke in. Mr. Tyler seized it.

"This is Eric Lambert," came the voice in the receiver. "Is this Mr. Tyler?"

"Yes. I hope there's nothing in the archives building belonging to you."

"That's why I called you, Mr. Tyler." Eric Lambert's voice was tense and unnaturally loud. "I was just speaking over W-G-N on the plans I have drawn for the superdreadnaught battleships. I am in the radio studio now. I heard your calls for squad cars——"

"Squad cars and fire apparatus," Mr. Tyler broke in. "There's not only been a robbery, but the building is ablaze."

"I was afraid of it. Mr. Tyler, you can do something, can't you?"

"We're covering the city, Mr. Lambert. Is there something you are especially anxious about?"

"Anxious about! Anxious about! Mr. Tyler, do you know what was in the archives building?"

"Yes, of course. Records, I suppose."

"Records?" shouted Lambert. "Records? Mr. Tyler, my plans for the superbattleships were in those vaults. I say they were, do you hear? Were, were! They can't be there now. The Red Circle spies have got them."

The Knit-tex Tweed Topcoat

Made of Imported British Wool

This new coat now brings to the average man a type of cloth that was formerly loomed by hand. It has the feel, the warmth, the lightness, the softness, the wearing quality and the rich smartness of the hand loomed fabrics. Even the primitive colorings, formerly obtained from berries and herbs in the British Isles, have been successfully reproduced.

In the photograph above, Knit-tex Tweed is made up in the Throw-on model—designed to meet the changing moods of weather. The collar can be worn open, or buttoned up as in illustration (A), or completely turned up as in illustration (B).

The cloth is genuine Knit-tex but made of imported British wool. There are many patterns, colors and models to choose from—some conservative and semi-conservative, some high style.

THE CRIMSON WIZARD

MAIDA TRAVERS . . . lovely radio songstress.

(Tribune Studio photos.)

IVAN MOLOKOFF . . . evil genius of the studio.

Who Is Peter Quill? That Query Links Three Lives

"Red Circle spies?" demanded Mr. Tyler. "Then you know?"

There was a silence on the telephone for a moment. Then Eric Lambert said very slowly: "Yes, I know. And before long Peter Quill will know. Good-by, Mr. Tyler."

II.

We have known for months that the Red Circle is closing in on Peter Quill. You will ask, What is the Red Circle? You will ask, Who is Peter Quill? If you are to understand these things you must also understand Mr. Tyler. Mr. Tyler believes that darkness can be driven away by light.

The Red Circle always works in secrecy. The secret service, too, has always worked in secrecy. Mr. Tyler is determined to tear away this secrecy. He believes that the American people should not be kept in the dark. He believes that the secret service should become the public service.

So there you have it. You know why it was that every small detail of the robbery and the fire in the naval archives building was broadcast to the public. Perhaps it was Mr. Tyler's instinct for drama. Perhaps he felt that something startling had to be done. Perhaps he saw that a terrific explosion of public interest is necessary to focus attention on the growing number of cunning, studious, and alert spies from the Red Circle which have penetrated into every phase of our common life.

"Publicity," said Mr. Tyler. "That's the thing. It's going to be miserable for Peter Quill. It's going to be embarrassing for Eric Lambert. And it's going to be a terrible situation for a beautiful, talented girl like Maida Travers."

"Why?" This single question came from David Evans. There was something curious in the question if only because David Evans has been chief assistant to Mr. Tyler too long to question his thinking.

"Why?" said Mr. Tyler, as if the subject was not debatable. "Because I have a feeling that the Red Circle of spies is going to close in on any one who comes near Peter Quill, and this goes for Ivan Molokoff, the assistant radio engineer."

There is no question of what was going on in Evans' mind. It was this: What possible bond of sympathy or sentiment could there be between the beautiful singer, Maida Travers, and the strange, repellent Peter Quill? Mr. Tyler seemed to catch the unspoken inference.

III.

Always that name, Peter Quill. Each time we heard it we went jittery. The first time it came to our attention it appeared in a report. We are always making reports in the secret service. It is not that reports in the secret service will lead us to suspect every one, but that we never know when a report on some human being may become highly necessary to an investigation.

Peter Quill! Peter Quill! We fell to saying it over and over as if to note its effect on our nerves. The report I speak of came from the radio studio. It came as the result of the merest chance. I think it was that same David Evans, Mr. Tyler's assistant, who first among us saw Peter Quill. Something in the appearance of that grotesque figure caused Evans to follow his detective's instinct for information. Among the items he found was a report written by the personnel manager of the radio station. Here is a scrap of that report which you may have seen before:

"It is at once glorious and pitiful to write of Peter Quill. What he must have been in his childhood I hesitate to conjecture. I shrink from the task of even considering what his poor mother must have endured when she first became conscious of his misshapen form. I suppose her sick mind must have been sustained by that ever-celestial glory of motherhood when she beheld his dwarfish proportions, his twisted torso, and all the unmistakable indications of monstrosity. . . . He will live in the caldron of hatred, in stifling winds of suspicion; and I think he may one day come very near to godliness."

Strange Peter Quill! He was the last of the three to begin life in the radio station. Why a radio station, you ask? When that question is answered you have the first suggestions of the peculiar bond which exists between Peter Quill and Maida Travers.

This takes us back to Eric Lambert. When he was a boy he was attracted to radio. And who wasn't? He fairly haunted the studio building until he was given a messenger's place. From that moment he burned with an eagerness to learn. Eric Lambert's ambition took him into creative shipbuilding. You will say this is an odd occupation for a boy in the radio field. But you must remember that this is an age of communication. Ships and trains and airplanes and studios and landing fields and automobiles and homes are all bound together by that mysterious power that darts through the ether with an unbelievable swiftness. This is radio. Eric Lambert thought of home and nation and defense as one thing. The first line of defense is the navy. Navy, in Eric Lambert's mind, must be something to communicate courage. He did not think of battleships as things to attack with. He thought of them rather as defense. Now you see how it was that Eric Lambert moved, as if impelled by some necessity, into the designing of giant battleships.

Eric Lambert. Maida Travers. Peter Quill. Eric Lambert was well on his way to becoming a naval designer when Maida Travers entered the studios to become famous as a girl star among the radio singers. Eric Lambert was paying his way to an education with his radio salary. So now he found a third interest. This was his love for Maida Travers. There were the three interests—Maida Travers, the radio, and his battleships. Maida became the compelling romance. Her voice, her beauty, and her charm wound Eric Lambert so close to her heart that nothing could divide them. Very soon now Maida would be sailing for Europe to complete her vocal studies. Her steamer reservations were made. The thought of her absence already was a gloomy prospect to Eric.

So you see the interest that binds Maida Travers and Eric Lambert. And you ask, but what of Peter Quill? Here is the strange circumstance: Peter Quill spent his boyhood as a lonely, forlorn cripple. He was rarely out of his gloomy bedroom. His legs would hardly bear his weight. He was humiliated by his hunched back. He was conscious of a ridiculous figure. His head was huge, and it rolled about as if the muscles of his neck were incapable of sustaining it erect. This was Peter Quill as he lived a haunted and hidden life which was relieved only by one thing. That thing was the radio. It was the one thing that came out of the world and into his shadowed life which did not scorn him for his blemishes. One day he heard a voice that struck him with the force of some strangely blinding light. It was the voice of Maida Travers.

You may say that you cannot understand how the voice of a girl on the radio can completely change the mental and physical qualities of a halting, withered cripple. If Peter Quill would come out of the gloomy reserve which has always hidden him he might tell you better than any one else. However, the truth is that we all possess some qualities which are magnetic to some persons. It is only necessary that the persons thus magnetically in tune come within each other's spheres. Certainly Maida Travers could never have met the monstrous Peter Quill in his remote dwelling. But her voice could reach him. Her voice could reach him through that vague and mysterious channel of the ether waves. And that voice became to Peter Quill an invitation into the outer world.

Mr. Tyler had the sense of this one day when we were going over a handful of papers. "There is a perfect psychology in this," he said. "Peter Quill's mind was eager, anxious, and hungry for wisdom. But his body shamed him into hiding from the eyes of the world. His playmates had jeered him. Little girls had laughed at him and run away in fear. Older people stared after him in horror. Something had to come and touch a hidden spring of resolve. That something was Maida Travers' voice. That voice was courage. It was a command to go out into the flowers and the sunshine and to drink wisdom."

Well, whatever it was, Peter Quill went. His shambling gait and his awkward presence remained with him; but his terrible hunger for knowledge overwhelmed those who met him. While Eric Lambert worked over his designs for battleships, Peter Quill's strange mind inquired into a thousand quirks of electricity. When he finally was recognized by the navy he had earned the title of the Wizard. And wizard he was with his piercing genius — the very genius which became so obvious to every one about him.

IV.

Now, I have told you how three persons, Maida Travers, Eric Lambert, and Peter Quill, are bound together. There is a fourth person you should know. That person is Molokoff — yes, Ivan Molokoff. It is probable that none had ever thought of Ivan Molokoff as a member of the Red Circle. Perhaps this is because Ivan Molokoff was something of the kind we do not often notice, a kind of man who moves along in a given groove and seems to have only one purpose. Molokoff was a sort of assistant engineer.

"I looked into his case months ago," said Mr. Tyler. "At first I thought he was a clumsy kind of man; then I noticed that he seemed to have more intelligence than he needed for the job of assistant engineer. Now I know he has been building fear."

David Evans leaped at this. "Building fear?" he demanded. "How does a man build fear?"

Mr. Tyler contemplated Evans rather coldly, we thought. "Molokoff was building fear," he said very judicially, "by discovering that Peter Quill had a secret Any man with a secret may be subjected to fear. And when the secret is so dangerous that whole nations may be destroyed by it——"

The whole staf started at this. "Nations!" cried Evans.

"Nations," said Mr. Tyler quietly. "I repeat, I said nations. Peter Quill is the discoverer of an electrical principle which cannot be resisted."

"A death ray," ventured Evans half-sneeringly. "There have been a dozen such rays. They exist only in the imaginations of fiction writers. There is no such thing."

"That is true," replied Mr. Tyler. "But this is not a death ray."

"Not a death ray?" said Evans. "Then it's infrared, or some variant."

"I don't know," said Mr. Tyler. "I have heard only that it is not a death ray, but a sort of invisible lightning which has a chemical affinity for explosives. It will destroy any ammunition dump or magazine or any supply of explosives, whether on shipboard or kept in a fortress on land."

Evans' turn came to stare very hard. "Why," he said, "that's the end of everything. One man can become the master of the world."

"No," said Mr. Tyler, "no one man. But one nation might. In the hands of America it stops all war. And in the hands of the Red Circle——"

Evans took the words out of his mouth. "And in the hands of the Red Circle," he said, "there will be an end of free democracies. The Circle could crush our battleships like paper boxes."

V.

So! That was the fear that Ivan Molokoff was slowly building all around Peter Quill. That was the fear, too, that gripped Eric Lambert. Fear gripped Lambert because he knew two things—he knew that Peter Quill had the secret of the invisible lightning; he knew that he himself, Eric Lambert, had only just finished the drawings for the first of the greatest battleships ever to be built.

Lambert's hope lay in the first line of defense. That defense was ships. No nation has ever built battleships of more than 42,000 tons. In the last few months England and America have

Barrymore—the Clan Eternal

By ED SULLIVAN

Hollywood.

NO FAMILY of the theater or screen is so hardy as the Clan Barrymore. Just as you are ready to ring down the curtain on them they bounce back, attired in sock and buskin, to confound those who were ready to attend the obsequies. Lionel Barrymore at the moment is winning an enormous success in "You Can't Take It with You," and Brother John, as a result of scoring heavily with Carole Lombard in "True Confessions," can't handle all the assignments which call for a comedy lift.

It may come to pass—and do not be too astounded if it does—that Lionel Barrymore will be called into the winner's circle at the Academy award banquet next January and given the No. 1 laurel wreath of his profession. It is going to be difficult to stand off the fine performance he contributed in Frank Capra's "You Can't Take It with You." How much of this was Barrymore and how much Capra is open to question, but the wedding of the two talents resulted in a rousing character projection. Not since he electrified the world with his address to the jury in "A Free Soul" has Lionel accomplished anything so noteworthy.

The picture content had much to do with it. Great performances must be established in a believable story, a story that has flesh and blood on its skeleton. At this particular moment in the history of the country "You Can't Take It with You" becomes almost a social document. It expresses a philosophy of living that may be true or false, according to your lights, but, true or false, it is interesting at all times. Audiences explode into applause at some of its more reflective passages. Holding it together, giving it point and rime and reason, is the warm portrayal of Lionel.

Curiously enough, he turned in his finest all-around performance at a time when advancing age and illnesses were threatening to write a period to his career. They even had to write in crutches in his part so that he could use them and continue working while he had to use them. Yet there is no suggestion in his playing that Barrymore was feeling unwell. How he avoided expressing the irritability that must have beset him is a tribute to his talent at make-believe.

While Brother Lionel is weighted down by ill health, Brother John careens along merrily, enjoying himself hugely, swearing great oaths that startle those who meet him for the first time, and behaving handsomely under the quieting influence of his young wife. I went to see him recently to do a story on him and found him at ease in his Bel-Air home. A letter from Lincoln to one of the Drews is framed on one wall, and there are pictures of the great names of the world affectionately inscribed to him. The shelves are crowded with books, well thumbed books.

There is an air of great vitality to John Barrymore. The eyes seem to blaze at you as he lifts shaggy eyebrows in a familiar gesture. He projects excitement and almost recklessness. Not difficult to understand why he scored so heavily in the theater. This robust personality would have no difficulty in making electrical contact across the footlights. His first stage appearance was in Chicago in a stage musical, "The Stubborn Cinderella," which opened the Princess theater. "I had to dance, and I felt so ashamed that every night I'd brave myself with a couple of stiff drinks," recalls Barrymore. "Maybe that's how I got to rely on that other John, Barleycorn."

He talks enthusiastically of "Hamlet" when you bring up the subject of the melancholy Dane. Only he argues that Hamlet, far from being melancholy, was a vigorous, rowdy person. "That's why a lot of actors have trouble with the part," he believes. "They approach Hamlet timidly and play him as though he were neurotic. Nonsense! He was a lusty fellow, the sort you might meet in the smoking room of any train boasting of his lady-killing exploits. He was a great swordsman, so it follows that he was strong and wiry. Try fencing some time and you'll realize that a great swordsman must be a great athlete. Nothing puny or inhibited about Hamlet. Approach the character in that spirit, get your teeth into it, and the rest is easy."

It was while he was playing "Hamlet" in London, on the invasion that made theatrical history, that Barrymore met his most embarrassing stage experience. "There was an ancient veteran of a cat in the theater. He took a prompt liking to me. Probably the old bum recognized a kindred spirit in me. In any event, it was flattering, and I was so pleased that every night I'd bring him something to the theater for dinner. Then one night it happened. In the middle of one of my speeches I heard the audience snickering. For a moment I thought that a drunken actor or stagehand had wandered into the scene. The snickers now were becoming giggles. I looked down, and there a few feet away, sitting on the stage and with his head cocked as though he were listening intently, sat the tomcat. There was only one thing to do, and I did it. Reaching down and picking him up and setting him in my lap, I continued with the speech, stroking the cat meanwhile, and carried him off the stage on my first exit."

Barrymore paused. His cheeks were flushed. His eyes sparkled as if he relived the moment. "You know, every actor lives in fear of the performance when an emergency develops. You can school yourself for everything but the unexpected, because there are no lines that can cover a crisis. So my deepest thrill was the realization that the long-feared emergency had happened and that I'd carried it off. That tickled the 'ham' in me, and the applause of that audience was the most spontaneous that I ever heard. The papers made so much of it that we tried to make the cat a permanent part of the show. It was no go. He never came out on the stage again to listen to my dulcet tones, which was a form of criticism, I suppose."

Looking back at the London triumph in "Hamlet," Barrymore says that it was the lighting of the show that was responsible in great measure for its huge success. "London had never seen the light effects which the crew from Broadway introduced. They played the lights to get certain moods, just as a great musical conductor creates moods by undertones and overtones." He recalls amusedly that George Bernard Shaw sent him a typical Shavian note referring to Barrymore's deletion of certain Shakespearean lines. Shaw said that he enjoyed the show, but assured the American star that, regardless of Barrymore's estimate, Shakespeare was easily a greater judge of wording.

With Lionel gunning for the Academy award and with John as busy as a cinema beaver, only Ethel, princess of the royal family, is not represented strikingly. If she were to bob up with a Broadway hit the Clan Barrymore would be fully represented.

Not, mind you, that they are doing badly, with two out of three importantly represented. That is a .667 batting average, and even the best of the Cub and White Sox employés will tell you that is a terrific mark at this stage of the game. After all, the Barrymores, man and boy, woman and girl, have been on the firing line for a long, long time.

John Barrymore as Sam Jaffe, temperamental producer in "Twentieth Century." The younger Barrymore is much in demand now in Hollywood for comedy roles.

Lionel Barrymore (far right) bids for Academy recognition with his interpretation of the Grandpa Vanderhoff role in "You Can't Take It with You." Spring Byington and Halliwell Hobbes are with him in this scene from the film version of the stage comedy.

Two Men and a Girl—in Color

JON HALL AND FRANCES LANGFORD

● Jon Hall and Frances Langford, as you probably know, are Mr. and Mrs. Jon Hall in real life, for on June 8 of this year they eloped to Prescott, Ariz.

Miss Langford's voice is familiar to both movie and radio fans, for she's been appearing on popular radio programs for several years and has also played featured rôles in the following films: "Broadway Melody of 1936," "Palm Springs," "Born to Dance," "The Hit Parade," and "Hollywood Hotel." She is from Lakeland, Fla. She's 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 101 pounds, and has brown hair and eyes. It was while singing in a night club that she was discovered and given a chance to appear on a national radio program. She appeared as a singer on Rudy Vallee's hour and later starred on the "Hollywood Hotel" radio show.

● Jon Hall was formerly known as Charles Locher. He was born in San Francisco, but spent much of his youth on his mother's home island, Tahiti. His paternal grandfather, Capt. Charles Chapman, sailed his New England trading schooner into the harbor of Papeete, the island's capital city, and liked the land so well he remained and married the daughter of a French and English business man. Today his relatives are leaders in the industrial life of the island. Three years ago Mr. Hall went to Hollywood to live after spending several years studying in Switzerland. He was introduced to E. E. Clive, who was producing stage shows at the Hollywood Playhouse. Given rôles in several productions, Hall then got a chance to do a small rôle in a picture. When "The Hurricane" went into production he got his first big break and was chosen to play the rôle of Terangi.

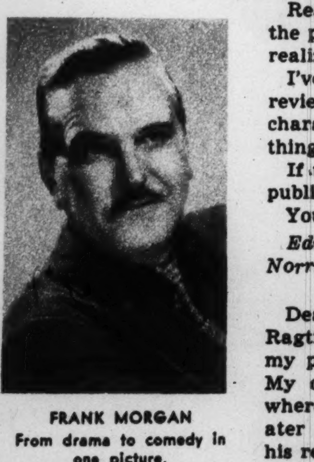
WAYNE MORRIS really is Bert De Wayne Morris Jr. He shortened his name because of his professional career. He was born in Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 17, 1914. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 190 pounds, and has blue eyes and blond hair. He was educated in grammar schools in San Francisco, Los Angeles High school, and the Pasadena Community Playhouse School of the Theater. While appearing in "Yellow Jack" at the Community Playhouse he was noticed by a talent scout from Warner Brothers and signed for a small rôle in "China Clipper" with Pat O'Brien. Soon after that things began to happen—he played the rôle of the Kid in "Kid Galahad," which immediately put him in line for leading rôles. "Brother Rat," the screen adaptation of the stage play, is his next film, in which he's co-starred with Priscilla Lane and Jane Bryan.

Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: One of my favorite actors is Frank Morgan. I just returned home from seeing "The Port of Seven Seas." Mr. Morgan was in this picture and was certainly the star. He was very dramatic one minute and the funniest ever the next minute. I think such a good actor should be recognized more than he is. Would you print a picture of Mr. Morgan and print a short biography of him in your column, please?

Sincerely, MARTHA FLETCHER.



FRANK MORGAN
From drama to comedy in one picture.

Editor's note: Glad to oblige. Mr. Morgan's name is Frank Wupperman. He was born in New York, June 1, 1890. Educated Cornell university. He appeared in vaudeville and as the juvenile lead in "Mr. Wu," which was produced in 1914.

Dear Miss Tinée: Recently I read that Edward Norris was going back to Broadway. I think the producers are wrong to let him go. True, "They Won't Forget" didn't do him any good, but remember how cute he was in "Between Two Women" and "Song of the City"?

Really, I think he could make good with the proper rôles, and I hope the producers realize it before it's too late.

I've been searching the casts of all your reviews, hoping to see his name among the characters portrayed, but haven't seen anything since "They Won't Forget."

If there have been pictures since, please publish the names, won't you?

Yours truly, LENORE MILLER.

Editor's note: To my knowledge Mr. Norris hasn't been in any pictures recently.

Dear Miss Tinée: I saw "Alexander's Ragtime Band" a few weeks ago, and add my praise along with millions of others. My only criticism is that in the scene where Tyrone (Alex) comes into the theater where Alice Faye is rehersing upon his return from war she is wearing a pair of pumps with open heels. Now, we all know this very modern style was not worn then. Another thing I have heard mentioned is that her hair all the way through is too modern and her clothes a bit too streamlined during the war period. Couldn't Mr. Zanuck remember 'way back then? Most of us can, and enjoy seeing details such as those carried out. I've had my say; thanks! Also please tell Don Ameche we like him best without the mustache, and Tyrone Power not so thin.

Yours very truly,
DOROTHY RHODES.

Editor's note: O, let's let Mr. Zanuck have just one slip! I'm with you on the Ameche mustache. As for Tyrone—well?

Dear Miss Tinée: The first day that "Marie Antoinette" came to Chicago I saw this magnificent picture. Norma Shearer is rightfully called "the first lady of the screen." The part that she portrayed was without doubt the greatest ever done by an actress. She was marvelous; the acting she did was so realistic that she had more women (and men) crying and sniffing in the theater than at some funerals. In my opinion this is the greatest picture released from Hollywood this year, and in many a year. Tyrone Power gave a splendid performance, as he always does. The supporting cast was also good. Congratulations to Miss Shearer, Mr. Power, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for such a truly magnificent production. This is one show that no one should miss. Could you please print a little of the lives of Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power, and also their pictures? Lots of success to both of them. Yours truly, A CHICAGOAN.

NORMA SHEARER
as they appeared together in "Marie Antoinette"

Editor's note: They deserve success! Here are their pictures. Norma Shearer was born in Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 10, 1904. She's 5 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 118 pounds, and has brown hair and blue-gray eyes. Educated in Montreal public schools. Her hobby is acting. Tyrone Power was born in Cincinnati, O., May 5, 1914. He's 6 feet tall, weighs 155 pounds, and has dark brown hair and brown eyes. Played in stock and then appeared at Century of Progress in 1933 before going to Hollywood to appear in motion pictures.

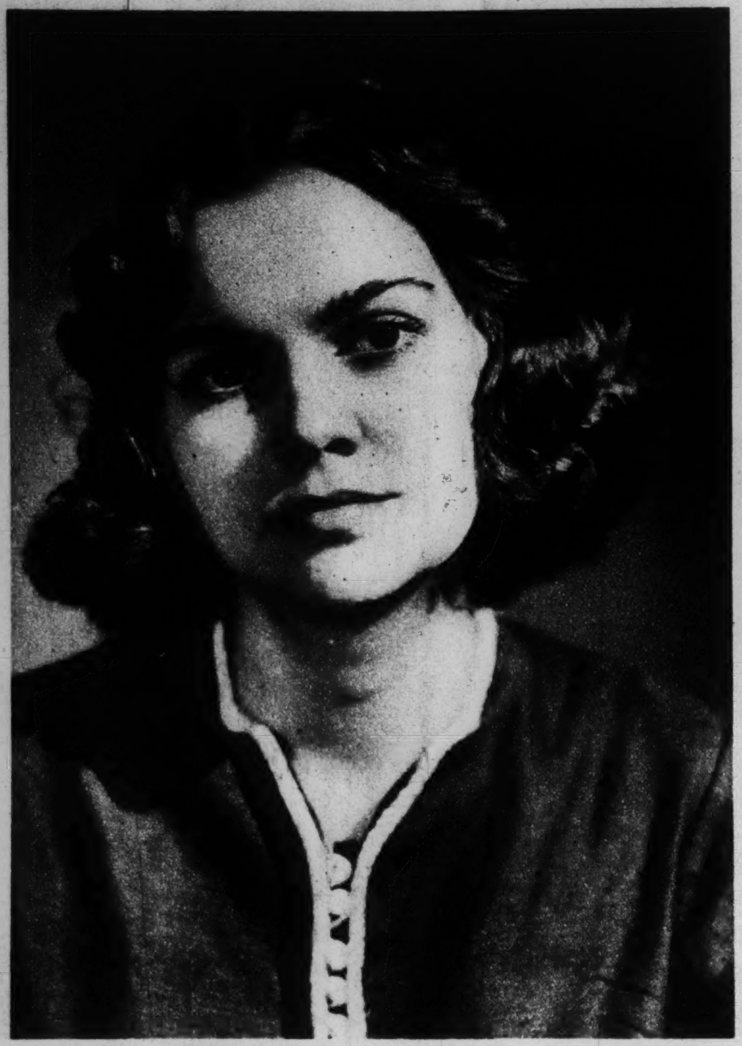
Dear Miss Tinée: I have just seen "Marie Antoinette," and why they had to include such ghastly scenes as those of the guillotine, the death of Anita Louise, and the removal of her children is beyond me. I do hope no children see it, as it is not a decent picture for adults, let alone them.

The beauty and great acting were overshadowed by the grim, unnecessary end. I had looked forward for a long time to see this film and hoped it would be as good as Katharine Anthony's or Stefan Zweig's book, but unfortunately it wasn't. The whole film was under an air of tragedy. Norma Shearer, however, was beautiful, but Tyrone Power looked silly. I can't see how any human could enjoy this unless they have no heart whatsoever. It left me with an awful jolt. Sincerely,

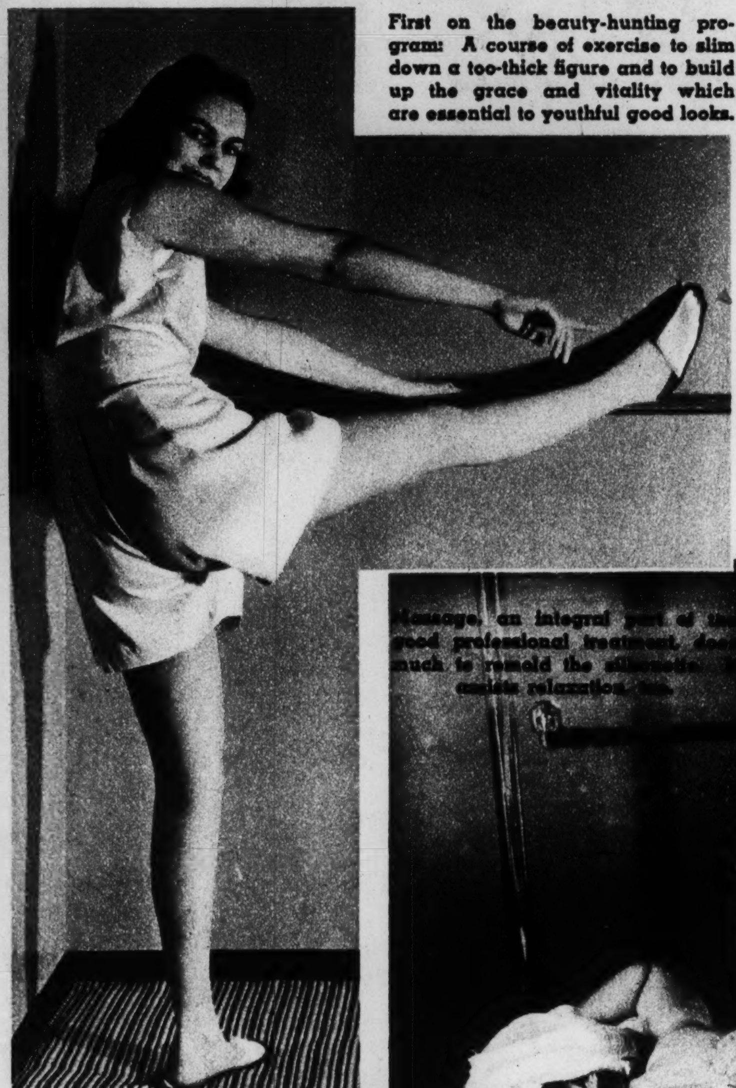
E. H. PEARSON.

Editor's note: So?

I Transform "Miss Average"

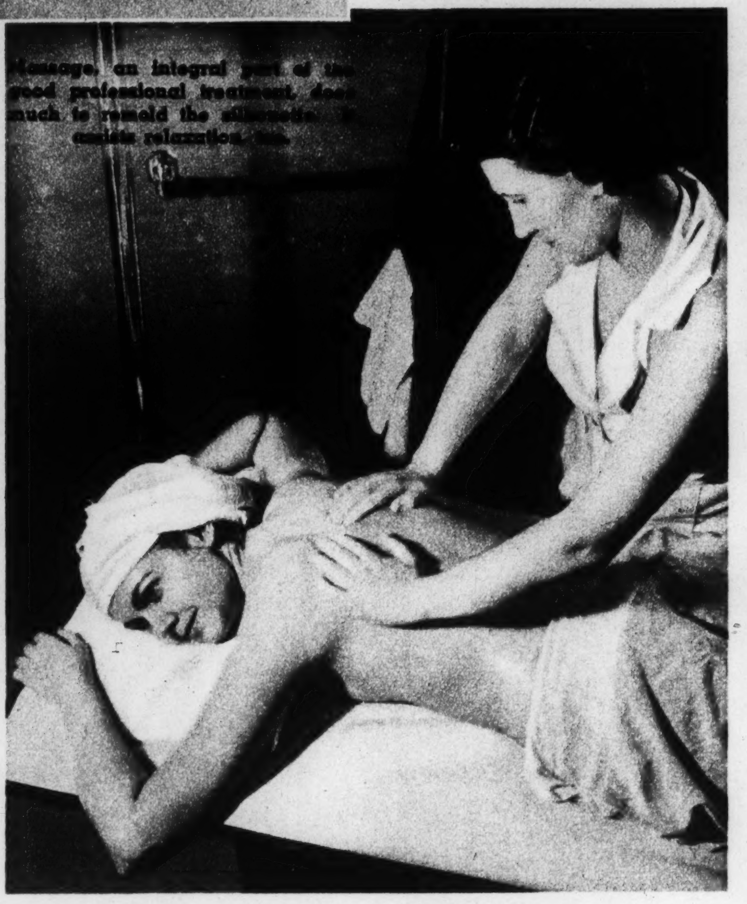


One month ago Miss B. looked like this. Looks like a lot of us look, doesn't she? Far from beautiful, but, also like a lot of us, with no beauty ills some judicious beauty shopping won't cure.



First on the beauty-hunting program: A course of exercise to slim down a too-thick figure and to build up the grace and vitality which are essential to youthful good looks.

After exercise and massage there is nothing like a brief sun lamp treatment. It unkinks nerves, which are excess baggage for any beauty seeker. (Tribune Studio photos.)



Massage, an integral part of the good professional treatment, does much to remold the silhouette. It assists relaxation, too.

That complexion is going to be better from now on. Skin dryness, the bane of our subject's existence (and the cause of her premature lines), simply can't flourish when you have treatments like this.

Unkempt and poorly shaped eyebrows add years and an untidy look to any woman's face. An expert seeks the becoming, clean-looking brow line.

Even the hands come in for attention in this four-week rejuvenation course. And you've no idea how effectively ugly hands can be beautified by a course of treatments!

Planning, Not Purse, Now Sets the Beauty Level

By ELEANOR NANGLE

BEAUTY is no longer a rare quality bequeathed only to the few who had the good fortune to choose beautiful ancestors. Beauty is out of the birthright class. Beauty can now be bought, not so much with money as with the golden currency of brains.

Noel Coward says of Gertrude Lawrence in "Present Indicative" (Doubleday-Doran): "She appropriated beauty to herself quite early, along with all the tricks and mannerisms that go with it. In adolescence she was barely pretty. Now, without apparent effort, she gives the impression of sheer loveliness. Her grace of movement is exquisite and her voice is charming."

The glamorous Miss Lawrence is one of the outstanding examples of the application of beauty wisdom. There are others, notably the duchess of Windsor. They are the women who were not bequeathed beauty in the classic sense but who appropriated unto themselves an individualized dramatization that is more valuable in this age than fine bones, a Grecian nose, and a complexion of alabaster.

What makes it all so exciting is the fact that the ability and the means of acquiring beauty are not the sole possession of the rich girl or the woman of the theater. Income level doesn't matter. The modern recipe for the modern type of acquired beauty is a careful mixture of self-study, observation, the right beauty aids, and, most important, the basic appreciation of what constitutes individualized chic.

The trouble with most women who bewail their lack of good looks isn't lack of good looks at all. It's lack of knowledge of how to type themselves!

Consider the dark young woman whose pictures adorn this page. Young, not too bad a figure, not too bad a complexion. Her features are hardly classic, but they are no more irregular than those of most of us. She, like the average woman who wishes she were prettier, didn't have any beauty ailments that beauty grooming wouldn't cure. Beauty grooming did cure them.

A new eyebrow line, a clarified, soft complexion. Makeup comes next, of course. To dramatize the now fair skin and the sparkling dark eyes: a creamy shade of powder and lipstick in a fuchsia shade. It's practically a new face.

All that none-too-bad figure needed was a little of the sort of slimming that is a double-edged weapon against mediocrity. Exercise plus massage (in a brief series of carefully budgeted professional treatments) did more than change measurements to more pleasing figures. It bestowed grace, which was sadly lacking. An awful lot of dowdiness disappears when women acquire a springy step, a flat abdomen, and an uplifted chest. Newly acquired verve—a verve that is mental as well as physical—is born of an exercise and massage course. And this aura of vitality banishes the stodginess that makes so many women just average in personality and appearance.

Exercise plays an indirect though potent part in complexion clarification. When the gears are meshing properly, when the circulation is perfect, the complexion acquires a certain healthy radiance. But with our brunette subject some corrective face treatments were very necessary, too. These were mostly of the deep-cleansing kind, involving gentle scrubbings, stimulation, and massage with lubricating creams to banish the dryness that was her skin's besetting sin. Half a dozen face treatments did the trick.

Eyes and mouth are the vital features of a face. We find that since women have adopted lipstick without reservations they do quite well in dramatizing their mouths. Almost every woman is pretty deft at sculpturing with lipstick. But there is plenty of beauty education to be administered concerning eyes—and most particularly eyebrows. Skinning them all off, as was the fashion not so long ago, is happily a passé custom now. But to go to the other extreme and to leave the brows untouched is usually a fatal mistake. We wish every woman who wants lovely eyes would do as we made our subject do—go to an expert, who will unearth exactly the right line and will cleverly groom the brows to it. As we have often said, no one single step in a beauty transformation makes such a delightful difference! See for yourself what a bit of judicious brow grooming did for our dark, drab looking girl who became orchidaceous almost overnight.

Then there is the matter of a coiffure. This is the year for hair dramatization. If your hair is polished to satin smoothness and dressed to a line that does camouflaging and flattering things for the head and shoulders the Lord gave you, you've appropriated one of the most important attributes of beauty.

See what we did for our subject; a corps of experts labored long over that hair problem. It was heavy hair, but lusterless. And she'd been wearing it in the shoulder-length, straggly bob that has for too long been part of the American uniform.

After reconditioning treatments, to insure luster; and a permanent, to insure curly vitality, there was careful, prayerful shaping to a new high coiffure. Our too-short subject gained inches in stature and immeasurably in chic. Her too-round, rather heavily featured face suddenly became piquant. Her neck looked more slender; her lovely hair line was flaunted for all the world to see.

Simply and inexpensively our subject has at last appropriated beauty to herself. She is Herself, dramatized to conceal her flaws and to glorify her assets. What she did any one can do. Shopping for beauty is merely a matter of making the most of the well equipped beauty shop.

• Now turn the page to see what a planned beauty campaign did for this "Miss Average."

When Lunch Goes to School

Handsomely healthy children like these are evidence of a mother's care in providing the right kinds of food.

By MARY MEADE

Meat sandwiches, cream cheese stuffed prunes, and fresh fruit are healthful foods for tots who must carry school lunches. There should be milk, too, if possible.

WHEN school children eat lunch at home it is easy for mother to see that their food is adequate to the nutritional needs of growth and an active life. But when lunches must be carried she has a bit of a problem.

Many school cafeterias provide a hot dish or milk, perhaps both, for school lunches, in which case sandwiches and a piece of fresh fruit are enough food for the child to carry.

If no hot food is provided, and if it's impossible for the child to get the milk he should have at noon, the lunch must be carefully chosen in order that it may be hearty enough to cure hunger and nutritious enough to fill body-building requirements.

Cheese, cottage cheese, custards, and cereal puddings made with milk are good items to include in a lunch which can't provide milk itself. There should be something hearty, too, such as a slice of meat loaf, a stuffed egg or two, perhaps a meat-and-vegetable salad.

Here is a sample menu for a school lunch box, including milk: Hot main dish as provided by cafeteria, or potato-and-egg salad, raw carrot and peanut sandwich, bunch of grapes, two oatmeal cookies, one-half pint milk.

This menu makes up for a lack of milk in other ways: Hot main dish as provided, or serving of cottage cheese; cabbage, celery, and carrot salad, sliced beef sandwich, fruit tapioca cream (pack in paper cup with lid or in a covered half-pint jar).

And here's a sample menu for a home lunch for school children: Tomato soup made from condensed tomato soup and hot milk, toasted crackers, pear and cream cheese salad, with assorted sandwiches, milk.

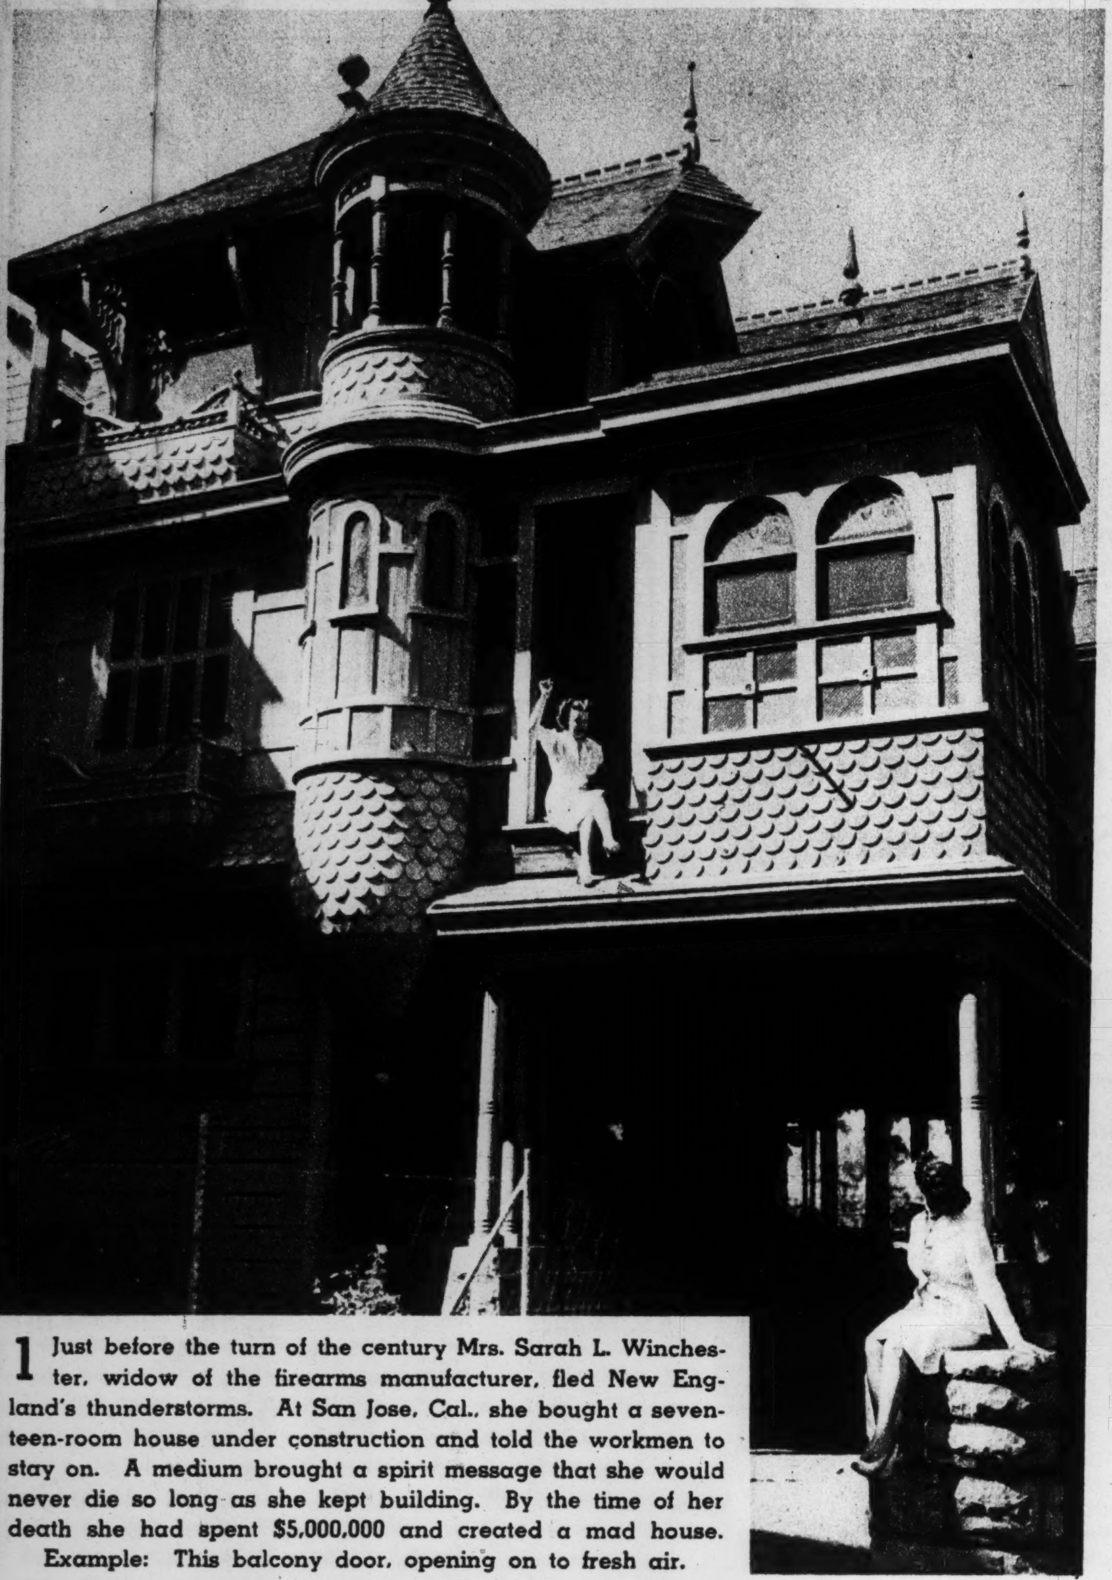
● It took just a month of beauty treatments to transform the drab little brunette whose pictures you see on page five into this piquant charmer. In a Chicago salon equipped to conquer all beauty ills she had exercise and massage to slim down a somewhat chunky figure and to give her grace of movement.

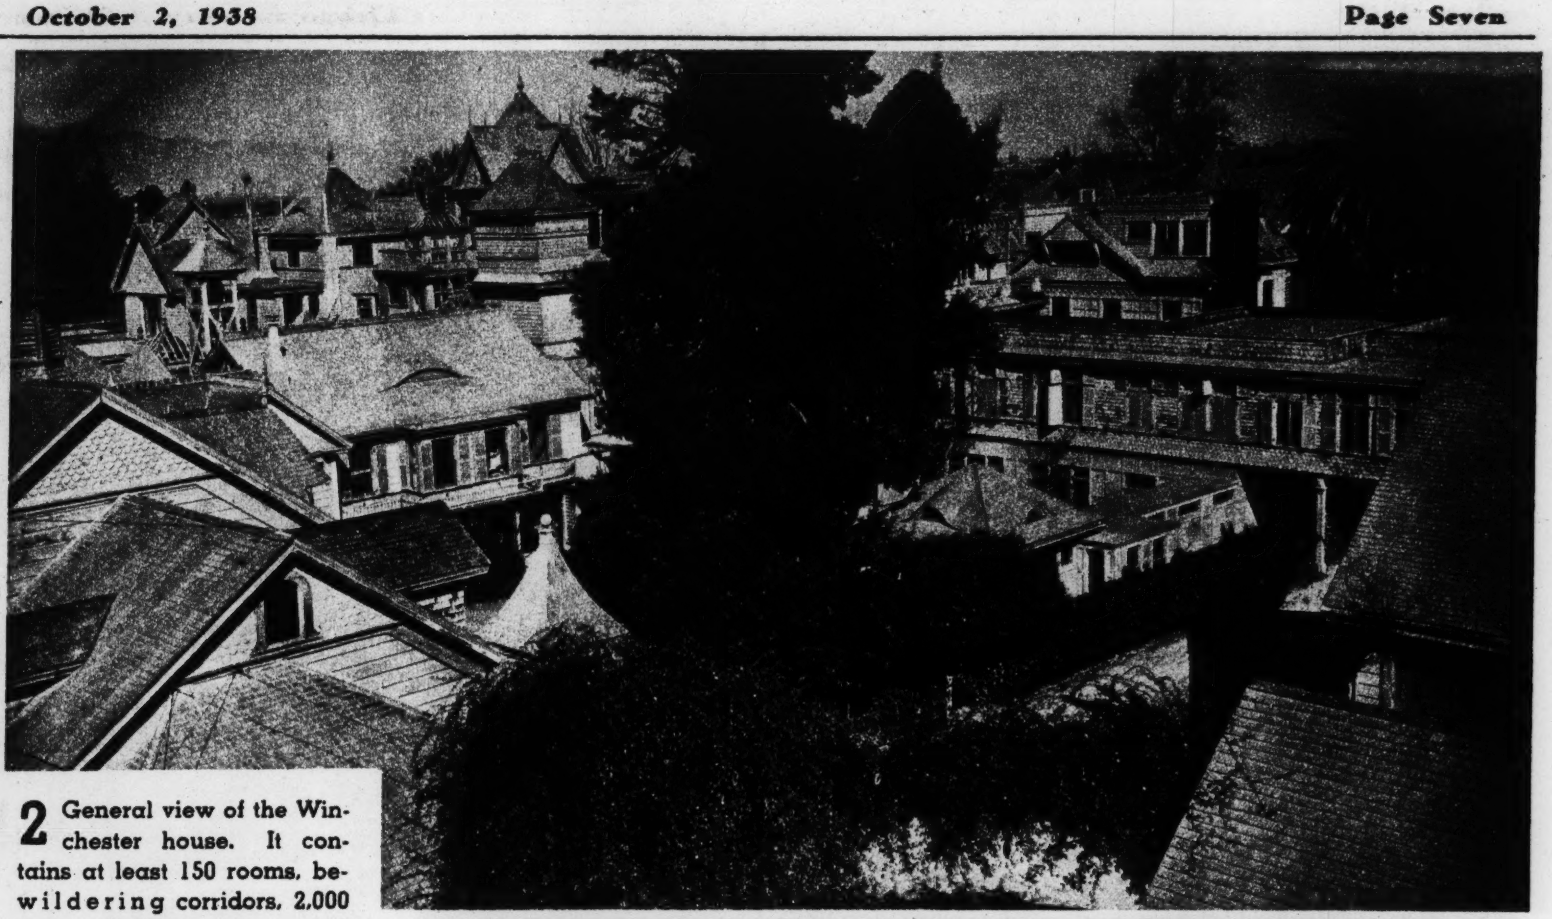
● She had face treatments to overcome a dry skin, reconditioning treatments to restore luster to her dull hair. A hairdress along the now fashionable high lines gave her round face a delicacy and demureness it needed and revealed her pretty ears. Makeup, beginning with an artistic and much-needed eyebrow grooming, was climaxed with the application of a powder shade that films the skin with a creamy pallor dramatized by lipstick and a touch of rouge in the glowing fuchsia shade.

● She's pretty, she's chic, and she's a picture of what the smart 1938 young woman looks like.

The Spirits Built It



1 Just before the turn of the century Mrs. Sarah L. Winchester, widow of the firearms manufacturer, fled New England's thunderstorms. At San Jose, Cal., she bought a seventeen-room house under construction and told the workmen to stay on. A medium brought a spirit message that she would never die so long as she kept building. By the time of her death she had spent $5,000,000 and created a mad house. Example: This balcony door, opening on to fresh air.



2 General view of the Winchester house. It contains at least 150 rooms, bewildering corridors, 2,000 doors, 10,000 windows, 140 gables, 40 stairways, 47 fireplaces, 3 elevators, a pipe organ, fireproof vaults, burglarproof safes.

3 Mrs. Winchester. The 1906 earthquake damaged part of her house. It was padlocked and never entered nor repaired.

A Japanese tug equipped with the Schneider propeller-rudder makes a complete turn in its own length. At the right, a closeup of the installation in the stern of a ship.

The Novel Propeller That Actually Steers a Ship

STEER A SHIP without a rudder? Many will say such an operation is impossible, but as long ago as 1926 Ernst Schneider, a Viennese engineer, set forth to prove to a skeptical world that it could be done.

Herr Schneider designed a propeller which combined the functions of propulsion and steering. Indeed, both operations are performed so well as to be without parallel in maritime history. As one of its unusual features Schneider's propeller fulfilled an old dream of mariners—athwartship or lateral motion without any directional movement ahead or astern.

Furthermore, although a vessel may be proceeding at full speed ahead, the direction of the propulsive force can be changed to full speed astern within a few seconds without reversing or varying the speed of the driving motors. Such a performance is impossible with any other fixed propulsive mechanism in use today,

Finally, the ability to turn a vessel on its axis without any forward or astern movement is a matter of common course operation with the new propeller.

In order to simplify the explanations and technical features of the Schneider propeller, photographs and drawings are referred to by number.

The assembled propeller mechanism is shown in Figure 1. Its bronze blades are 60 inches long and 18 inches wide at the base and taper to a 4-inch tip. They dip vertically into the water. All other parts of the mechanism are housed in the hull, as illustrated by the smaller photograph at the top of the page.

The blades have two motions —they revolve as a unit around the axis (O) of the rotor assembly, and they can be pivoted individually on their own axes. Thus in Figure 2 we find the four blades rotating as a unit around the general axis O. There is, of course, no directional motion at all, because the blades are all tangent to the circle of rotation and cancel each other's pull. The propeller in this position is merely stirring up the water.

In order to give the ship motion the propeller blades must "bite" into the water and in this way pull the ship ahead or back, as the case may be. The Schneider propeller achieves this by means of a second control, the steering center (N). Each blade is attached to it in such a manner that the blade always remains at right angles to a line connecting it to N. Therefore the blades never change their direction in relation to N, but any change in the position of N alters the blades' position in relation to O. This is illustrated in Figures 2 and 3. In Figure 2 N and O coincide, so the four blades are tangent to the circle of rotation around O. In Figure 3, however, N has been moved to the left of O. The effect is to rotate blades No. 1 and 3 on their own axes (keeping them perpendicular to the line connecting them with N). Blades 2 and 4, however, do not change. Therefore blade 1 bites into the water and pulls the ship forward. Blade 3 does the same, only with a pushing effect. Blades 2 and 4 merely slice through the water, offering no pull or drag.

As the four-blade rotor assembly rotates around in the direction indicated by the curved arrow at the left, blade No. 1 travels through all the positions indicated by Figure 4. (It must be remembered that the connections between N and the blades are so constructed as to permit the blade to come close to N or depart from it without losing the right-angle relationship described earlier.) As the blade describes the large circle around O it also has an eccentric movement around N. This results in a forward movement, indicated by the arrow S. In all the drawings S indicates direction of the ship's motion resulting from propeller action; the smaller arrows indicate the direction of push given by the entire propeller assembly.

The position of N, then, will be seen to be the determining factor in the direction of the boat. Figure 5 indicates the position of N necessary for a left turn; Figure 6 indicates the position necessary for a right turn; Figure 7 shows how a boat is turned in its own length, and Figure 8 pictures the athwartship motion possible with a twin propeller installation. In Figure 8 the direction of motion of the left propeller is to the right of center, forward; the right-hand propeller causes a motion to the right of center, backward. The combination of these two forces (indicated by the group of arrows amidships) results in a true direction to the right.

The advantages of the Schneider device are obvious. It simplifies the steering methods by eliminating the necessity of forward motion during a complete reversal of direction. Furthermore, nonreversing engines can be used, since the process of reversing takes place in the propeller alone by an alteration of the blade motion.

The advantage of a constant-speed engine is obvious during maneuvers in restricted space, especially for Diesel-driven vessels. Equally important is the fact that complete control is in the hands of one man alone who, independently of the engine room crew, alters the vessel's speed and direction by means of a speed lever and a steering wheel respectively, both being mounted on the same pedestal on the bridge (Figure 9).

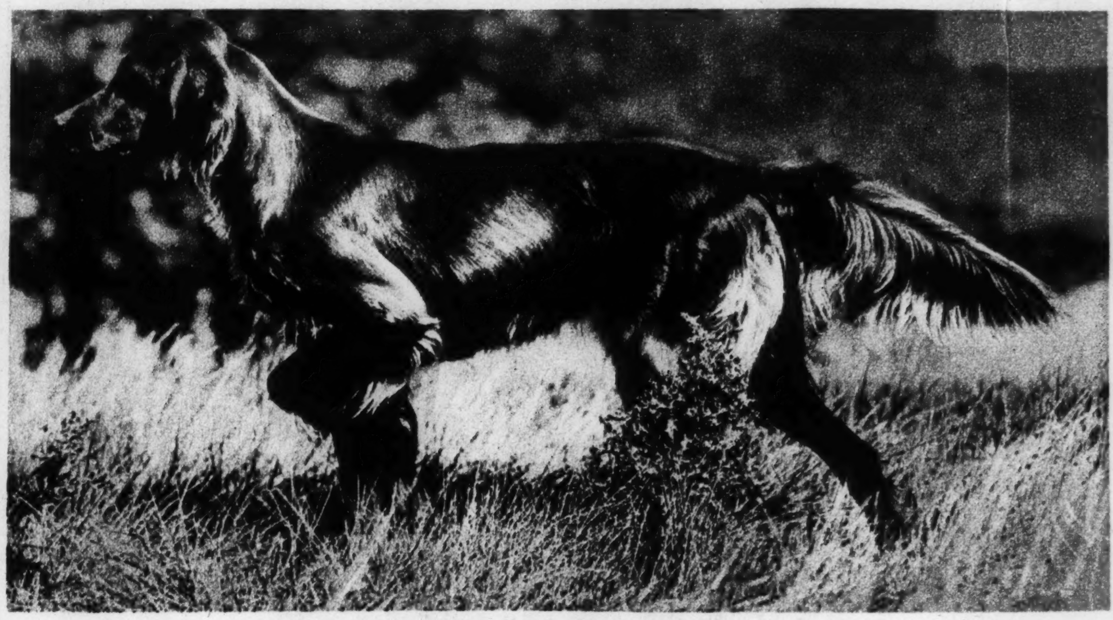
Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER



An Irish setter on a stylish point. Rickey has scented a pheasant.

Pointers and Setters in Limelight

OF ALL dog breeds that give pleasure to the sportsmen who like upland game shooting, probably none is as popular as the English setter, the pointer, and the Irish setter. Here are three stylish bird-finding, pointing breeds that enjoy going into the field to work on quail, pheasants, partridges, and other game birds. They're a pleasure to watch in field trials, attractive in the show ring, and they also make interesting companion dogs in the home. Fanciers of field trial and hunting setters and pointers annually spend much money to breed better dogs and run them in trials, so it's not surprising that there is sharp competition between the enthusiasts of the breeds.

We have had the good luck to walk up, gun in hand, to many a setter and pointer in the field when the dogs had just finished a stylish bit of work in finding game birds. On some of our hunts in Georgia we have put down both English setters and pointers to work quail at the same time. And we've also had the fun of shooting behind a smart Irish setter in the quail country.

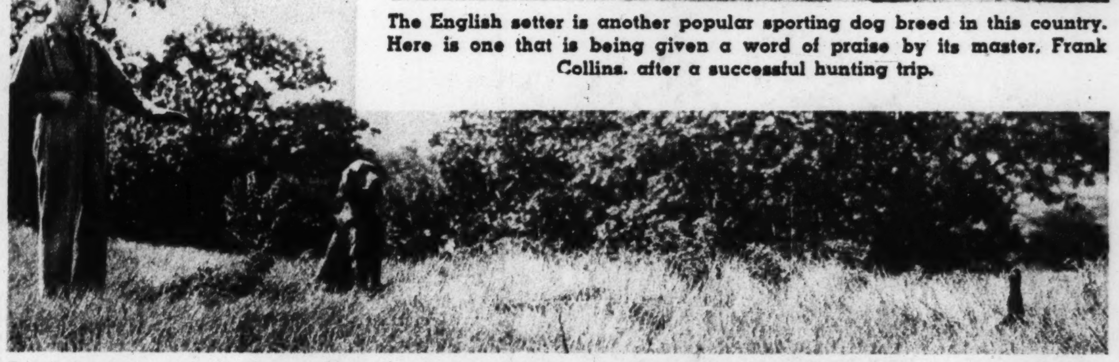
On one of our pheasant hunting expeditions German shorthaired pointers galloped ahead of us to locate and point ringneck pheasants. Both in the northwest and the middle west a well trained Gordon setter (rather an uncommon breed in hunting fields) has shown us its bird sense and game-finding ability. On all of these trips we were conscious of this fact: Each of these sporting breeds has qualities which make it attractive to certain sportsmen.

There is nothing new in the fact that setter and pointer fanciers are inclined to argue about the relative merits of their favorites. In looking at Youatt's work on dogs, written in 1846, we find this enlightening remark:

"The setter is used for the same purpose as the pointer, and there is great difference of opinion with regard to their relative merit as sporting dogs." Youatt's comments on setters and pointers are both amusing and educational in view of modern development of these breeds. For example, he reports that "setters are not so numerous [this was in 1846], and they cost more than pointers." And he mildly criticizes the Irish sportsmen about their Irish setters by saying that "Irish sportsmen are perhaps a little too much prejudiced with regard to particular colors." In those early days the Irish setters were either "very red, or red and white, lemon colored, or white patched with deep chestnut."

Today the setters and pointers developed by scientific breeding and well trained have such excellent noses, hunt so well, and are so companionable that it's a pleasure to hunt over either breed. And this is the season when these dogs that love to hunt naturally step into the spotlight. Their background is an autumn woods of many colors—brown fields where coveys of quail seek brushy coverts—and autumn days when yellow pumpkins pick up the mellow sunlight.

The English setter is another popular sporting dog breed in this country. Here is one that is being given a word of praise by its master, Frank Collins, after a successful hunting trip.



A training lesson in steadiness. Note the pheasant (tied to a small stake) at the left. The dog is being given the command "Steady" by Martin Hogan, the trainer. (Tribune photos.)

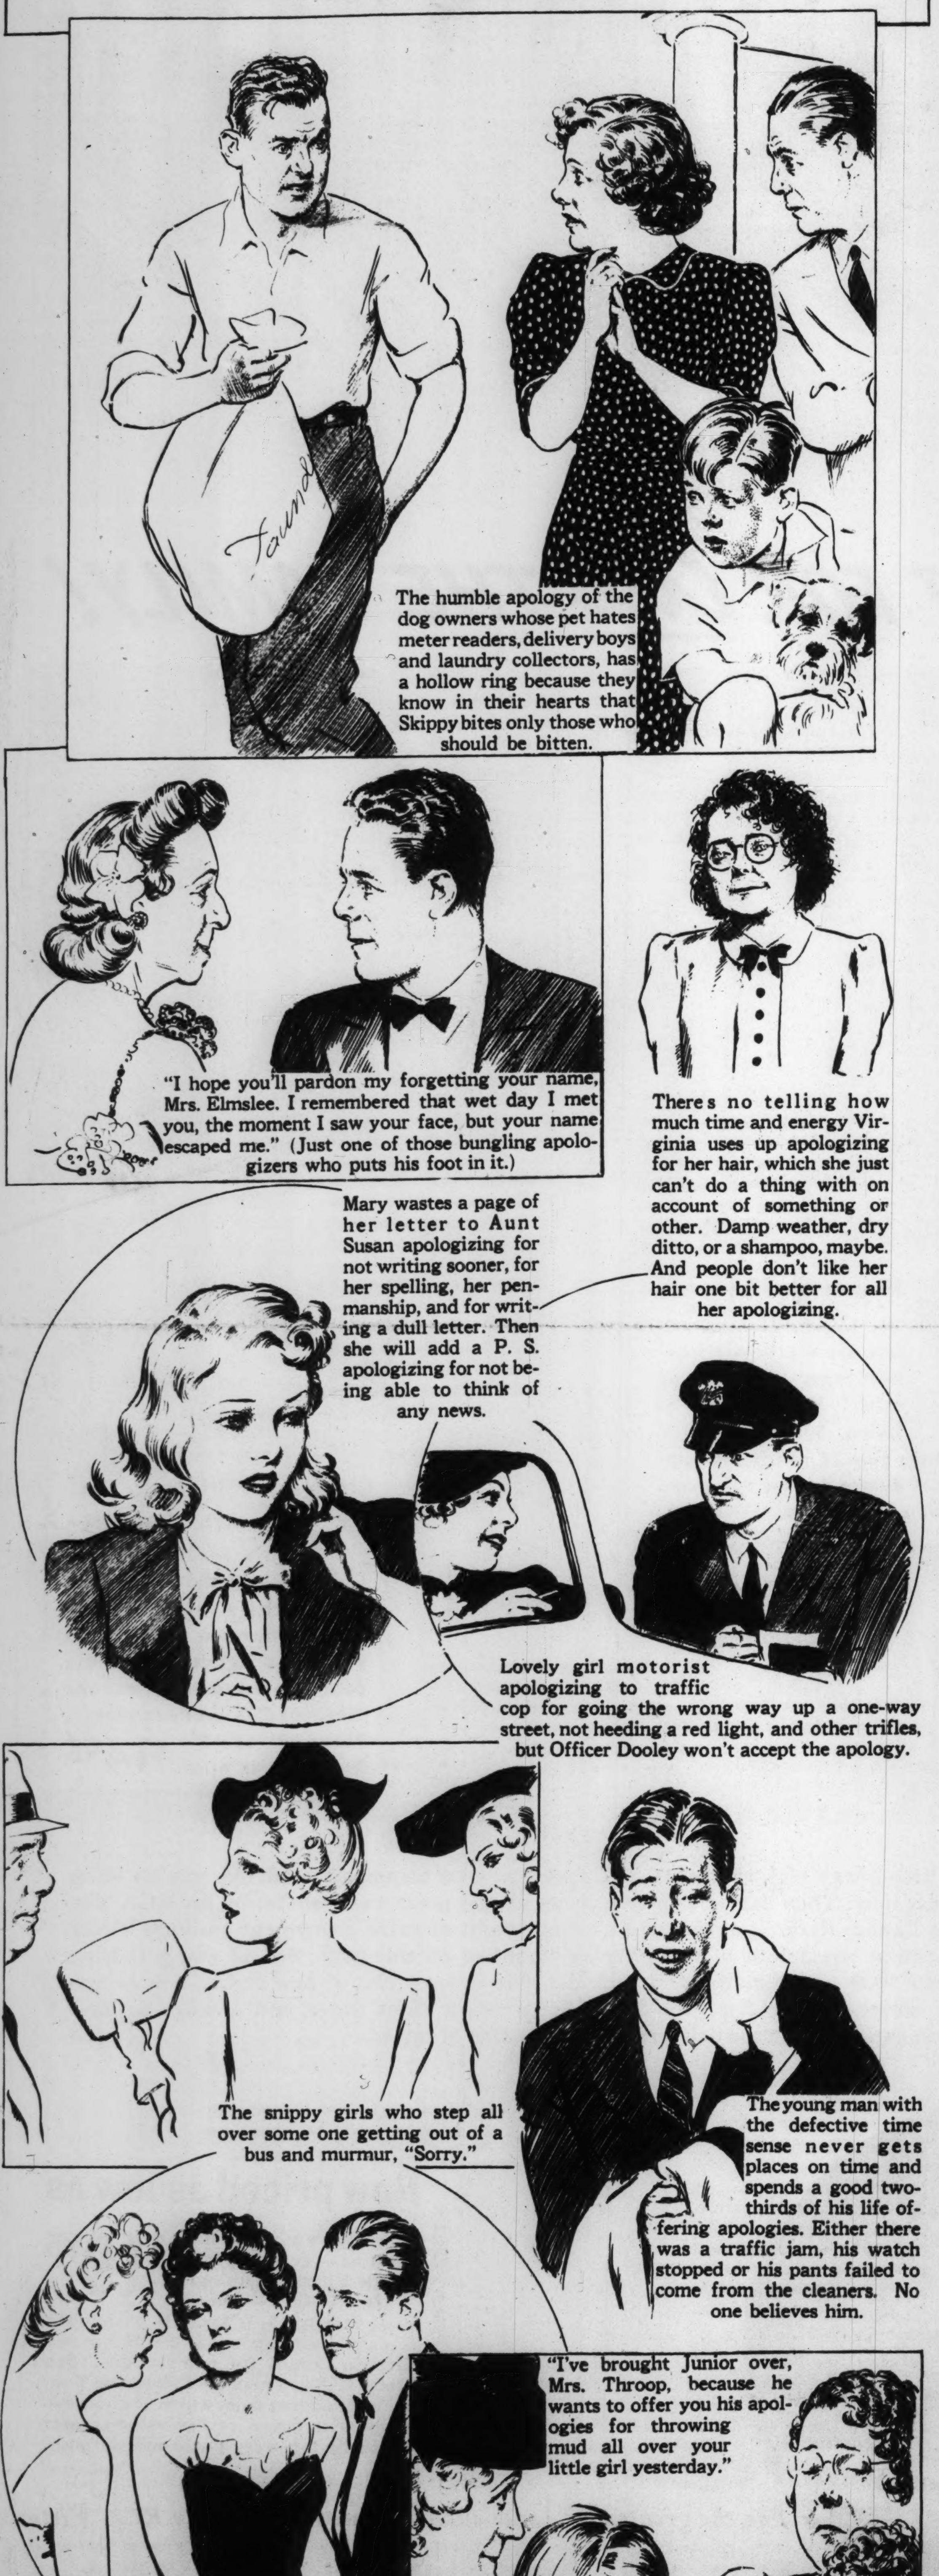
THE APOLOGIZERS

By W. E. Hill

Copyright, 1938, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.



The humble apology of the dog owners whose pet hates meter readers, delivery boys and laundry collectors, has a hollow ring because they know in their hearts that Skippy bites only those who should be bitten.

"I hope you'll pardon my forgetting your name, Mrs. Elmslee. I remembered that wet day I met you, the moment I saw your face, but your name escaped me." (Just one of those bungling apologizers who puts his foot in it.)

Theres no telling how much time and energy Virginia uses up apologizing for her hair, which she just can't do a thing with on account of something or other. Damp weather, dry ditto, or a shampoo, maybe. And people don't like her hair one bit better for all her apologizing.

Mary wastes a page of her letter to Aunt Susan apologizing for not writing sooner, for her spelling, her penmanship, and for writing a dull letter. Then she will add a P. S. apologizing for not being able to think of any news.

Lovely girl motorist apologizing to traffic cop for going the wrong way up a one-way street, not heeding a red light, and other trifles, but Officer Dooley won't accept the apology.

The snippy girls who step all over some one getting out of a bus and murmur, "Sorry."

The young man with the defective time sense never gets places on time and spends a good two-thirds of his life offering apologies. Either there was a traffic jam, his watch stopped or his pants failed to come from the cleaners. No one believes him.

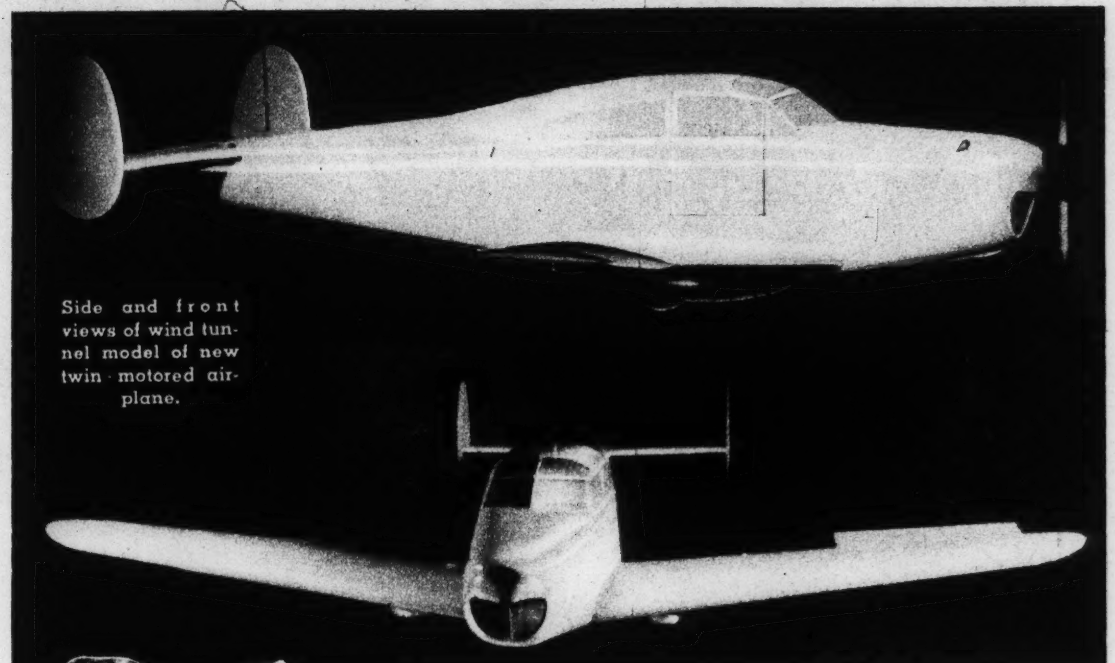
"I've brought Junior over, Mrs. Throop, because he wants to offer you his apologies for throwing mud all over your little girl yesterday."

Apologetic hostess. Hopes Mr. and Mrs. Hogan will pardon the looks of her dress, which is too horrible; the dinner, which was too awful, and the other guests, who were too dull for words!

"Siamese" Twin-Motor Plane

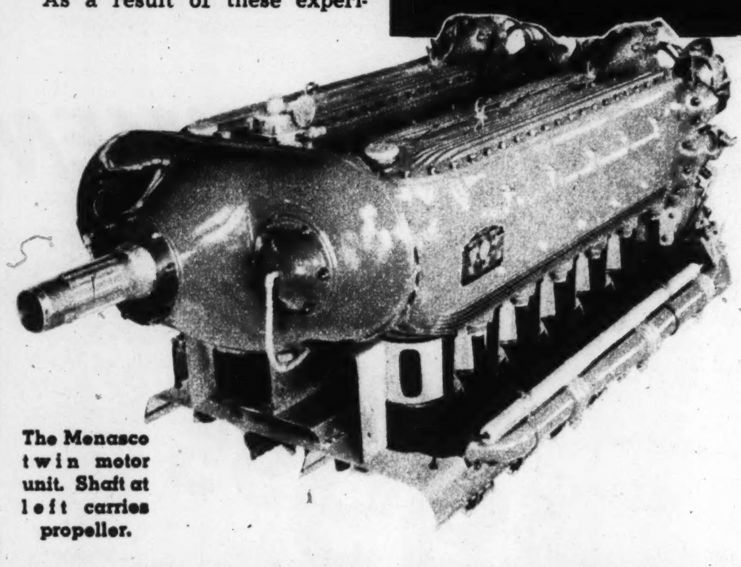
Two Engines Turn One Propeller

By WAYNE THOMIS



Side and front views of wind tunnel model of new twin-motored airplane.

EXPERIMENTS in gearing two engines to a single propeller have been conducted for years by various governmental and private groups here and abroad. And within recent months engineers of the Menasco Manufacturing company have been successful in building a twin motor that embodies a practical application of the principle that has passed exhaustive ground and flight tests.



The Menasco twin motor unit. Shaft at left carries propeller.

As a result of these experiments the Vega Airplane company has been formed at Burbank, Cal., as a subsidiary of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation. The new company already has under construction a new type of medium-sized airplane that may be used as a feeder airliner or an executive type private ship. This new plane is to be equipped with one of the Menasco twin engines turning a single tractor propeller.

The gearing of the engines is, of course, the heart of the matter. And more than three years of effort by Al Menasco, president of the engine company, and his associates were necessary before a satisfactory solution to the problems inherent in this installation was found.

For instance, it was necessary to design the gears so that the engines would not have to be perfectly synchronized. In other words, the gearing was designed so that one motor could be run at wide-open throttle and the other at only partial throttle, yet the power generated by each would be combined and transmitted to the propeller.

It also was essential that in case one engine failed the second engine would not have to turn against the inertia of the first. The Menasco engineers finally were successful by using a constant-speed propeller and embodying in their gearing certain overrunning clutches. The gearing unit operates on the same principle as the overdrive installation in modern automobiles.

"With this arrangement," says Menasco, who has developed his small in-line air-cooled engines until they are universally regarded as the best in small-power racing aero motors, "it is apparent that it is not necessary to synchronize the engines closely. They will continue to run at the same speed even though the power output of one may be exceeding that of the other."

Advantages of the coupling arrangement are many. One important point is that the parasite drag of engine nacelles in addition to the main fuselage is eliminated. The motors are housed in the nose of the plane, thus giving it twin-engine efficiency and safety with single-engine drag.

A second important point is that the extensive wiring, plumbing, extension of engine control lines and fuel, oil, and electric lines from the cockpit out to engine nacelles are eliminated. The lines are short and direct from the cockpit to the engines immediately ahead, as in single-motored airplanes.

The added weight of the gearing is more than offset by the reduction in weight of the accessories of these lines, the engineers say.

After hundreds of hours of testing on the blocks a special airplane was built by the Lockheed company for flight testing. A standard Lockheed Altair low-wing monoplane with retractile landing gear was redesigned. The engine compartment was arranged to hold two Menasco C6S engines — six-cylinder air-cooled in-line motors.

Each of these engines is rated to deliver a maximum of 260 horsepower in level flight and 285 horsepower for two minutes at takeoff.

C. P. Sander, chief engineer of the Menasco company, inspects the motor installation in test ship.

Test Pilot Harry Downes made the first flights in the new machine. He reported, after making a number of takeoffs and landings, that the two motors easily developed their full 570 horsepower without any apparent strain on the gearing device or clutch. The takeoff tests are the most severe that the unit can stand, for the two motors are delivering their maximum power under those conditions.

The new Vega airplane in which the twin-engine unit will be mounted is to be a low-wing monoplane with a span of 41 feet and over-all length of 31 feet 6 inches. It will be of metal construction throughout, with twin fins and rudders, as in all the modern Lockheed designs.

The landing gear will be of the tricycle type, as found on the DC-4 and on the Stearman-Hammond airplane. The nose wheel and the two rear wheels will retract. The cabin will be designed after the manner of the modern automobile, according to information from the Lockheed factory. It will be soundproofed, heated, and ventilated.

Although no definite performance data is available at this time, the machine is expected to be able to maintain a top speed of 210 miles an hour and cruise at 10,000 feet at 190 miles an hour. Its initial rate of climb will be 1,400 feet a minute.

On one engine it will maintain level flight at 11,000 feet with full load. It will take off from a standing start and climb to 11,000 feet on one engine alone and is expected to have a rate of climb on that single engine in excess of that required by the civil aeronautics authority for single-engined aircraft.

The Crimson Wizard

talked of 45,000-ton ships. But Eric Lambert had gone far beyond this. He had actually finished plans for 75,000-ton dreadnaughts!

Think of that! Battleships under the flag of the United States to be nearly twice greater than any afloat. Now do you wonder that Eric Lambert knew fear when he heard the first call from the secret service bureau that the naval archives building was afire and that the vaults had been looted?

You must have heard that broadcast. Eric Lambert had only just begun his radio talk on the new battleship program. It was natural that he would talk from the Washington studio of W-G-N. He was one of the three persons to grow up with W-G-N. Recall them to yourself: Peter Quill, Maida Travers, and Eric Lambert; and the fourth —strange Ivan Molokoff.

I say he had just begun to talk when Mr. Tyler's short-wave call for squad cars came on the air. Mr. Lambert stopped short. Maida Travers had started a song, stopped short; the studio staf in cold terror. You get that way with queer things running at you out of the air from nowhere. Then the call for the fire engines; the whole town in a discord of clamor as the secret service agents began blocking the roads and questioning motorists; the streets in a fury of screaming fire engines.

All this time, between each squad car report, that lugubrious, monotonous, hollow voice over the radio calling out that one name: "Peter Quill . . . Peter Quill . . . Peter Quill."

And Peter Quill heard it, too. Of course, he could not know that the archives building had been robbed and that the fire, put there as a blind to cover the robbery, was even now bringing most of the fire engines to the scene. But Peter Quill, in spite of his fear, drove his car like mad through the streets to reach the studio. He had almost no time to collect himself when three flying motors—his own, a squad car, and a fire truck—crashed. Peter Quill was taken out of the wreckage.

"Crippled for life," said the squad leader when he saw that grotesque form. And then, when he noticed signs of life, "Who are you?"

"I am Peter Quill." And then, with a look that made the secret agents recoil, "I heard my name called on the radio."

He did not say it was Molokoff who had been repeating the name of Peter Quill. But he knew it. And he knew, he must have known, that Ivan Molokoff was plotting to rob him of his invisible lightning and carry that dread secret to Red Circle headquarters.

VI.

All that night Mr. Tyler stayed at the short-wave microphone and the service telephones. One after another the squad cars reported no luck in their pursuit of the agents of the Red Circle. O, it was the Red Circle that planned and executed the fire and robbery. And only two scraps of evidence came to Mr. Tyler's hands. One of them was a phonograph record from the archives building. The secret service keeps record-making devices at all points of danger. We never know when we may catch a fragment of conversation or a sound that may lead to success.

The other scrap of information came from a newsboy. He reported that he saw three strolling musicians near the archives building.

Late in the morning this radiogram was thrust into Mr. Tyler's hands:

"Look out for the Firefly. She is a beautiful and dangerous agent of the Red Circle. She is in America. Shadow Peter Quill. If he does not disappear this week he is marked to go."

Mr. Tyler turned and snapped into the microphone: "All squads . . . all squads . . . Peter Quill . . . repeat . . . Peter Quill . . . a fantastic hunchback . . . has a laboratory at 13 Dizzard street . . . keep him shadowed . . . he is wanted as a witness in the inquiry which I am calling for next Friday evening . . . Peter Quill."

Called "Husband's Delight"... These Delicious Biscuits Served Hot with Lake Shore Honey

OH BOY... I SURE GO FOR THESE BISCUITS WITH HONEY!
THIS IS A SUPER GRADE OF SWEET CLOVER HONEY. THAT'S WHY IT'S SO GOOD

Thousands Turn to Honey to replace Artificial Sweets that rob the teeth of Calcium

How to feed a family to help keep tooth decay years away

All over America women are now giving their families plenty of pure Honey—Nature's Own Sweet—which satisfies our craving for sweets, yet does not rob the teeth of calcium as artificial sweets do. In fact Honey helps supply calcium—thus aids in maintaining strong teeth.

But be sure to give your family the pure honey that is guaranteed uniform. This Honey is called Lake Shore Honey. Four different kinds of pure honey are mixed to get a flavor 8 out of 10 people prefer. Produced in state certified hives, located in clover country, miles from buckwheat, sage and desert plants.

Go to your grocer and ask for Lake Shore Honey in the Honeycomb Jar with the patented NO-DRIP Pouring Spout. Then serve it to your family on pancakes, hot biscuits or bread—or made into candies and cakes—recipes in package. Everyone will love this uniformly mild, pure honey.
